Toronto, Aug. 10 — (CP) — Thorncliffe raceway will open its inaugural grand circuit harness racing season Monday, Aug. 13, instead of Saturday, the originally announced date.

The change was made at the annual meeting of the Racing Commission which said that a Saturday re-opening would interfere with the opening of the Hamilton Jockey Club.

Thorncliffe raceway's biggest stakes of the season still are to be contested in this meeting which will close Labor Day. The Maple Leaf Cup for trotters is scheduled for Aug. 17 and the Canadian Cup, pacers. Canada's richest harness-race, will be contested Aug. 31.

The telecast, from WBEN-TV, will start at 3:30 p.m. EDT. WBEN-TV in Buffalo is the only television station regularly received in Hamilton and Toronto.

(By The Associated Press)

Moving up, [illegible] at seven-out-of-nine clip, Rochester Red Wings soared into undisputed second place overnight in the International League race.

The Wings knocked Syracuse into the cellar last night with a doubleheader, 14-9 and 7-2.

Long Branch, Ont., Aug. 10 — Eight crack shots from Ontario will represent the province next week at the Dominion Rifle Association's matches in Ottawa.

They were named to the team yesterday at the conclusion of the four-day annual match sponsored by the Ontario Rifle Association. Sgt. F. H. Wallace headed the team with an aggregate score of 513 out of a possible 515.

Others on the team are: Sqdn. Ldr. D. Reynolds and F. L. Wakefield of Otawa and E. G. Stock of Toronto, all with a score of 509; and Maj.-D. T. Burka, CSM. N. J. McLeod and Capt. H. C. Hawes of Toronto and Maj. F. V. Shepherd of Ottawa.

Capt. Hawes won the Lieutenant-Governor's match with 73 of a possible 75.

A team of Hamilton Westdale secondary school cadets won the players match with a score of 176 of a possible 200. Members of the team were: R. Kay, D. Dorsey, B. Crossan and D. Smith. The London Garrison Rifle Association team took second prize with 172.

The A A team of the Queen's Own Rifles of Canada took first place in the first stage of the Lieutenant-Governor's match. Team members Lieut. R. Stoker, CSM. N. McLeod, CSM. E. Stock and Cpl. W. Durrance, all of Toronto, piled up a total score of 295 of 300.

'Arry, 'Arriet Quit Going To The Dogs

London, Aug. 10 (AP)—Greyhound racing is losing its hold on the British betting public.

The churches committee of gambling said today that the total amount bet on dog tracks in 1950—$127,143,945—was the only other substantial fall for the fourth successive year since the peak year of 1946."

The committee said the 10-per-cent cut on track wagering had tended to divert money to the bookmaker, especially since the the-course bookmaker who could offer better odds because he had no tax to pay.

Fabulous Pot For Golfdom

George S. May, Tam O'Shanter President, and the United States Professional Golf Association Thursday signed a contract providing for a $100,000 purse in the 1952 golf tournament.

The all-American section of the event, held 9-10, will carry $25,000. The "World" tourney, Aug. 14-17, will be for $75,000 with the winner getting a check for $17,500.

The current meet has a total award of $75,000 for the all-American and "World" sections. The top "World" prize is $15,500.

TO COACH GALT

Reg Hamilton, former Toronto Maple Leafs defenceman, will coach Galt Black Hawks in the Ontario Hockey Association next season. Hamilton was with the suspended United States Hockey League last winter.

Par Records Fall In Tam O'Shanter Golf Gold Rush

Chicago, Aug. 10—(AP)— Put $12,500 up for grabs and the inevitable happens—a klondike of gold, wild Mayhem against par.

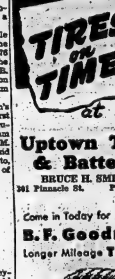
This is the scene at Tam O'Shanter, where top-graded pros are gambling shots for the sake of a low score to get rich quick.

They are in a hasting dash for the winner's $12,500 bonanza in George S. May's self-styled world championship, and $5,000 more if they crack the course record of 63.

Never in Tam's 11-year tournament history has there been such a par-wrecking frolic as in yesterday's first round.

In the field of 84 pros and 160 amateurs, 48 players were 71 or under. Par is 72.

"And we aren't going to make the course any harder by replacing the divots in the tough spots," said May, who knows the public likes to see birdies just as much as anybody else. "I've signed a contract with the P.G.A. for a $75,000 world championship tourney next year and $100,000 for the winner. And it will be more in 1953. Give 'em a chance to shoot their heats out—that's my motto."



As the gold rush enters today's second round, marvelous Ben Hogan is in an ideal spot. His steady 35-35—68 against the 36-36-72 standard yesterday left him one stroke off the pace. Seven others were grouped in the same bracket.

At 67 were Ben Jay Gafford of Dallas, Abie Ted Kroll of New Hartford, N.Y., veterans Al Brosch, Detroit, N.Y., and Jimmy Demaret.

Vancouver's Stan Leonard fired a 36-35-71.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 10—(AP)—"The movies of our men in Korea is terrific," reports Jack Benny, returning this week from entertaining troops in the front lines.

"They know what they're fighting for," added the comedian.

"Naturally they want peace. But they want the right kind of peace, and they're willing to continue fighting until they get it.

"The one thing that nearly every one of them asks is: 'Do the people back home know there's a war on?' I told them, 'You're darned right they do.'"

In his six-week absence from Hollywood, Benny figures he travelled between 25,000 and 30,000 miles with his entertainment troops. They played before troops and wounded veterans in Hawaii, Japan, Okinawa and throughout Korea.

Tough Trooping

"It was the toughest tour I ever made," said Benny, who made two world-wide journeys to entertain troops in the Second World War. "But it was also the most satisfying.

"The food was good wherever we went. But the living and travelling conditions were tougher than anywhere I had been."

Benny commented that his audiences were highly appreciative of the entertainment.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Saturday, August 11

March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—Planetary influences cooperate, on the good side for the worker, smart Arien. Be building for tomorrow as you attend to today's problems. Don't take things for granted.

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—Favorable to constructive, well-planned endeavors. Is asked for your opinion, give only what you really know and always discriminate honestly. Use your God-given mind to best advantage.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—Day is open, elastic. Whatever you undertake, be sure you understand its penalties as well as its gains. Good day to take stock of past results, also plan what you'd like in the future.

June 22 to July 23—(Cancer)—Certain manifestations, especially concerning investments, property and employment, should be watched carefully. They could have really great value if handled rightly, you can do it.

July 24 to August 23—(Leo)—Day may prove fine for getting all out in new (worth while) propositions, organization matters, chatties, personal affairs share in this favored outlook. Get busy; make progress while you may.

August 24 to September 23—(Virgo) — You may encounter changes you do not want or anticipate. They may be necessary for betterment. Be patient. Generally a "go ahead" sort of period. Keep logic in front.

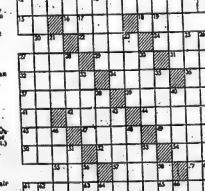
September 24 to October 23 — (Libra)— Fortunate aspects for wise financial and personal affairs. Segregate the worthy from the rest; get started early; give ample time for credits, where due. Romance favored in turn.

October 24 to November 22—(Scorpio)—A day to try out fresh, unusual ideas, new business, modern projects of merit. The hinderances should be few, giving you a well-rounded day. Heed good advice.

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius) — Prospects bright for you jovial, foresighted folks. Beware of any tendency to let things slip over till tomorrow. Work for harmony in home, office, throughout. And that means now.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Unexpected help may come from friends and relations; be on the lookout. Meet issues as they come; don't worry unnecessarily. The calm can see and act more clearly.

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius)—Seems possibly adverse situations in a.m. Mark time, plan, and get your house in order for better aspects later. Things will become easier, clearer, more pleasant for most affairs.



February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)—A two-sided day. Don't do only the things you want to do, and at your convenience, or trouble is in store. Be ready for your-other-moment decisions. Be your inborn gentle self.

YOU BORN TODAY: Jupiter and the Sun were dominant in the astrological heavens when you were born. Leo makes friends easily; is generally a favorite, can entertain, has buoyant personality and knows when to talk and when to listen. A true diplomat and a charming personality (when living on the higher plane). Ready to battle for a friend, loved one; you take as a personal injury any criticism of those dear to you. Dear of Penns; Carrie Jacobs Bond, sire attention and cradle, too. Don't encourage worry or hurt feelings.

Birthdate: Gifford Pinchot, Gov. America; composer.

Coast Teacher Helps Conquer 'Word Blindness' in Children

VANCOUVER — (CP) — Word blindness," or the inability to read intelligently, is being treated by a Vancouver high school teacher.

The strange affliction long has been a problem of education entirely distinct from the capacity to read and write. J. E. Sutherland's special courses in English at the McGee High School has given hundreds of pupils, mostly about 15 years old, the ability to read effectively for the first time in their lives.

Intelligence quotients have been known to leap 30 points after the course. With their new ability to learn, formerly "dumb" students often become class leaders.

"Word blindness", is such an incredible disorder that Mr. Sutherland has difficulty convincing many parents that it actually exists. They ask why the intelligent children who have gone to school 10 years cannot learn to read, and, if they can't read, how they ever got into high school.

Mr. Sutherland explains that the term "word-blindness" is a misnomer. About 30 percent of all children are "word-blinders." Their memory of the printed word is associated in their minds with the sound instead of the picture.

Memory Is Key

They cannot recognize words of any complicated structure and cannot learn the difference between words of similar structure. Thus the entire vocabulary of most sentences is lost to them.

Instruction is comparatively simple and usually gives startling results. Mr. Sutherland usually enlists aid of advanced pupils who sit with new class members and help them concentrate on breaking down difficult words into syllables.

Words are repeated with increasing speed until they form a sound picture in the pupils' minds. They take dictation with every difficult word carefully sounded.

Later they gather in small groups and read to each other or write sentences on the blackboard, explaining the meaning of sentences.

Once they can read properly, Mr. Sutherland crams them with a tightly-knit grammer course to help them catch up with the other pupils. He said individual attention to the children's problem is essential.

During the two [redacted] Lance Bradley, working [redacted] helper under the [redacted] of Bill Prentiss, [redacted] the Lucky Streak', as the mine was called, come into production. What's more, by that time he had a substantial financial interest in it. He saw a railway line take the place of the wagon road, and trains take the place of wagons and horses. He saw the camp village grow in population and he did his share, as a builder, to make it grow.

Lance Bradley soon lost the name of "sailor." He was simply Brad. And as he altered manhood, he changed in much that his crew mates on the old tramp steamer May Queen, would not have recognized him. The wild youth who had drunk with them, the youth whose ready fists had made him feared in many seaports, never dreamed of fighting or drinking any more. He was tempted, of course, when the young men of his age set out at night for a good time in places which the railway had brought conveniently close to them. But his world have none of it. And what he had been, the life he had led up to the time that he had been dragged and robbed, he never recalled boastfully. His past was buried in the past, they knew that he could fight, that if need be he could, and would, look after himself in the uncertain way, the men in the camp were willing to believe without putting him to the test. He was a strong, loose-jointed man with the easy stride of the fighter, friendly in the extreme, but not with a ragamuffinness that encouraged anyone to impose on him. When boxing gloves appeared for the first time in the sleep camp, it was only after much coaxing that he put them on as he proceeded without much effort to outbox any man who would face him, the wise ones said, "Didn't I tell you?" Of course all boxing was friendly and no one was hurt, but it gave the youngsters an opportunity to learn much about the manly art as it was explained by a person who had learned what he knew—the best way—faced with the necessity of surviving in a tough waterfront hood, plus the expert advice of an old fighter.

As Lance had anticipated from the moment that he had first laid eyes on him, Clark Harry Mooney became his close friend. And it seemed no time until he was to find the clerk's [redacted] a haven in which to spend many after-work hours. There, too, he came to know Boss McKay better. McKay, while rough and ready on duty, was an altogether different man when he dropped into the pay office to fill his pay envelope pipe, to let down his hair. As they sat and talked one night, Boss McKay asked Lance the names of his parents. For a moment hesitated. "They were John and Emily Bradley," he said. Boss McKay tapped his pipe on the arm of his chair, "Never heard of them," he said simply. And that was the end of that.

Another evening, Harry Mooney was outside talking to someone, when Boss McKay suddenly turned to Lance Bradley. "Brad, here's a tip for you. The company's superintendent is a mineralogist and he tells me there's more gold in The Lucky Streak than was ever imagined. A new vein of ore, richer than anything yet found, has been discovered within the past week." He stopped to let this important bit of information sink in, then he proceeded, "the company is planning to place a half million shares of common stock on the market at the small sum of fifteen cents a share very soon—the coming year. Now, I'm going in for that stock in a big way—and I'd like to see you do the same. I want you to put, borrow, or steal all the money you can get your hands on, grab up this stock, get it away, and then forget about it. And some day, Brad, you'll be a rich man, indeed you may have more money than you'll know what to do with."

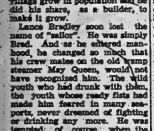
Boss McKay's tip—off on the Lucky Streak stock came shortly after Lance had drawn his first monthly pay, the greater part of which he had forwarded to Dad Roberts of Rose clothing with which they had provided him. This matter off his mind, he then asked Clark Mooney to keep his future wages for him, so that he could build up a fund to purchase Lucky Streak mining stock when it came onto the market. Mooney was to purchase the stock for him, was to place it in his name in a safety deposit box in the bank in Bay, in the area's banking centre.

In all, eighteen months had slipped by, since he had decided to save his money and buy all the stock of The Lucky Streak that he could pay for. And when the time for the stock to appear on the market approached, and he lacked a few dollars to make up an even two thousand, Boss McKay came to Lance's aid with some "back" pay, which was but the way of one man, who had plenty, of slipping a few extra dollars to one who was short.

And then came the eventful day when Lucky Streak was introduced to the public in the financial pages of the big city dailies, and Lance Bradley, through Harry Mooney, bought up over thirteen thousand shares at fifteen cents a share. For a few days the stock moved slowly then it started to climb. In a few weeks it was quoted seventy-five cents, asked one dollar. Harry Mooney, despite the protests of Boss McKay, unloaded his shares and made money, But Lance Bradley stood fast. It was his future, not his present, that he was thinking about. Boss McKay, in whom he confided so much, slapped him on the back.

"Good stuff, Brad!" he chortled, "hang on to it. Some day and it may not be too far away, you'll be able to sell Lucky Streak at a price that would sound silly to anyone investing in this stock now. The Lucky Streak is full of gold, it's probably the richest gold mine yet found on this continent."

But while his Lucky Streak stock was safe in the bank at The Bay, Lance was not forgetting about it. He became an avid reader of the daily market reports, even though the papers coming into the camp were always a day old. Lucky Streak would go up by leaps and bounds in a few days, then it would drop back, but always when share holders unloaded it in large quantities to make money on it. It was an interesting game the speculators were playing, and yet there was no sign that Lucky Streak would drop so low that he had not quadrupled his original investment, had moved his original two thousand dollars into a sum in five figures. And yet he didn't talk about it. He kept on with his work as though there was nothing in the air, nothing to look forward to but the money in his pay envelope. Only Boss McKay and Clark Mooney shared his secret with him and they didn't talk about it.



Meanwhile, Lance had written home to tell his foster parents—he would always think of them as his foster parents—and of what he had done, and while he didn't advise Dad Roberts to invest in The Lucky Streak, Dad Roberts assumed that he, Lance, had. For in a return letter the editor warned him to be careful—he knew men in Emerton who had been ruined, financially, by investing money in mining stock.

This letter from home reached him the afternoon of the day when there was trouble at the mine. The "dago boss", as they called the foreman in charge of the miners, complained to Boss McKay, that one, Tony Lazura, had been caught fomenting trouble among the men and he advised McKay to have a talk with him, while he did. But the hot-tempered son of Italy was not to be silenced by threats. Words followed words and Superintendent ordered Lazura to the office to get his time.

Now, Lance Bradley, thinking of his foster father's advice against investing money in mining stock, had nothing else on his mind at the moment. He had not heard that there had been trouble between his boss and one of the men. But late in the afternoon, he sensed that there was something in the wind. He was helping Bill Prentiss to shore the side of a building that eventually would be a small house, when he saw Boss McKay coming down the path from the mine. Behind him, but keeping at a respectful distance, was a small, dark man. Boss McKay stuck his head into the door of the office, said something, started towards the building where Lance and Prentiss worked, and stopped to talk to Prentiss who had stepped away from the building to meet him. Meanwhile the small, dark man, who had been following the boss, was in and out of the pay office and he, too, was moving toward the new building. Suddenly he stopped, looked about him. There was a small hand axe stuck in a log nearby. Lance Bradley saw him grab for the axe, instantly sensed what he was intending to do and then he yelled. Boss McKay ducked, as the heavy hammer left Lance's hand, and with an accuracy born of desperation, struck the would-be assassin in the chest, felling him as if he had been hit by a pole axe.

ELDORADO

Bride-to-Be Feted By Many Friends

Eldorado—On Wednesday last Mrs. G. Blackburn entertained 35 ladies, friends and relatives at the bride-to-be at lunch, Miss Joy Blackburn.

The early part of the evening was spent in the making of a bride's book, and in an interesting and entertaining reading by Mrs. H. Barker, after which a fitting address was read by Mrs. Beryl Carman, and a pink and white decorated table, laden with many gifts was wheeled in by Misses Beatrice Brady and Lorna Fair, and presented to the bride-elect.

As Joy opened the gifts, confetti-filled balloons were broken by the gifts showering her with confetti. Joy expressed her delight and pleasure, tendering appreciative thanks to each donor as the gift was unwrapped.

The serving of refreshments brought a happy evening to a close, with each departing guest wishing Joy many happy years of wedded life.

Port Hope, Aug. 10—(CP)—Police here are searching for a cache of 20 stolen guns and a man who is believed to be armed with two loaded .32 calibre revolvers. The guns, many of them collector's items, were taken from a gun house and claimed he was entitled to all movable objects—including the toilet.

NOT MOVABLE EFFECTS

Napanee, Aug. 10—(CP) — A man who considered a toilet and the attached water tank were movable effects had to pay a total of $135 in fines and court costs for theft in magistrate's court here today. Prosecutor, Grover Hedman, a former Napanee butcher, sold his home and claimed he was entitled to all movable objects—including the toilet.

CANADA IN MIDDLE OF DISAGREEMENT RESPECTING RIFLE

U.S. and U.K. So Far Fundamentally Split

Ottawa, Aug. 11 (CP)—Canada is caught in the middle of a battle between weight and whittop in the now-celebrated split over a common rifle for the Atlantic Pact powers.

She's not championing any rifle of her own but she's vitally interested in trying to get the U.S. and U.K. to agree on a common bullet if not a common rifle to fire it.

The U.S. believes—even more firmly since the end of fundamentally split.

Last week's four-power meeting of defence ministers in Washington launched the first major effort to bridge that gap by putting the available rifles to the test under the direction of the Standing group, the Anglo-American-French Committee of Generals which is the top full-time military body in the pact organization.

The hope is that within the next few months the standing group will be ready to report some success to another meeting of ministers.

This, briefly, is the nature of the split:

The U.S. believes—even more firmly because of the infantry-men's rifle will be that the rifle of the future must pack wallop and to have wallop you have to have weight. It is developing a new rifle but it won't be much lighter than the existing 300-calibre Garand which British authorities already consider too heavy and which is about one pound heavier than the .303 Lee-Enfield Canada and Britain now use.

Prudence Now Rifle

Britain has announced plans to produce a new .280 automatic rifle and Canada has agreed. The .280 is positively light. It sacrifices wallop—minimum power for lots of firepower of a type the British consider ample to kill three of the enemy.

Canada has announced she's stopped the U.S. Canada and that she won't ship any more .308s to Europe until she can get her way. It's a chart her future rifle course. Her delegation is in Washington now to highly praising the .280 and much of Canada's ammunition and capacity could be turned to making it. But she's willing to make the change only if the which there is agreement. If there is no agreement, she'll stick with the .308 or other, probably the American, or she may wait for a new rifle of a third calibre.

She's vitally interested in all this for several reasons. She was a big arms producer in the last war. She knows the rifle is the key weapon and that failure to standardize there would affect her ability to get arms from allies for western standardization.

A SMART THEFT

Toronto, Aug. 11—(CP)— A smooth-talking young man used a too-existant theft as a dupe yesterday to steal $403 from an office of Smartill Garment Company and here. The man entered the office and asked if he could use a telphone to report a theft. Then he asked a secretary to step in a washroom for a parcel he said had been stolen. While she was out, he took the $403 from the office and fled.

17-Year-Old Fonthill Girl Squares Match at 5th Hole With Former Canadian Champ

Laval-Sur-Le-Lac, Que., Aug. 11—(CP)— In ideal weather — bright sunshine and a cloudless sky with just enough breeze to temper the heat—the finalists in the Canadian Ladies Open Golf Championship teed off today.

The gallery was large for this opening 18 holes of today's 36-hole final round between 17-year-old Marlene Stewart of the Lookout Point Club at Fonthill, Ont. and Grace Lenczyk of Hartford, Conn. It was expected to be even larger for the afternoon 18-hole round.

At 23, Miss Lenczyk was gunning for her third Canadian Ladies' Open title. She won it in 1947 and again in 1948. And the 18-year-old girl from Fonthill was out to add the open title to the close championships she won in week-ago.

Both finalists appeared nervous as they moved to the first tee.

"Not a cloud in the sky," said Miss Lenczyk, with a smile. "Hope it doesn't rain before we reach the 36th hole."

If she was serious in the remark she was joking. The only rainy time of it against the Fonthill girl Marlene, just before tee-off time, bought a new pair of golf shoes at the pro shop and while she was there a workman, came to do a job on the shop, placed a ladder before the door.

Lavak's assistant pro, Marc Brien, hurried over to stop Miss Stewart from going under the ladder. She brushed him away laughing and then sidled out the door. She took good care and avoided walking under the ladder, even though she remarked, "those bad luck superstitions are all bunk."

Off the initial tee Miss Stewart had a hook. Miss Lenczyk was no better and sliced.

Two Down After Three Holes

After three holes Miss Stewart was two down, mostly because her wooden and drug iron were a trifle out of control. They were both trailing off into hooks and slices.

After both started shakily on their first hole pre-game favorite Lenczyk gathered together and got out of trouble with two threes. Miss Lenczyk, behind some trees with her drive, took three, Miss Lenczyk got down in par six while Marlene had an approximate medal seven.

They halved the second hole in par threes.

On the third Marlene's second shot sliced into the woods. This cost her an extra stroke to the green where she was outputted. The Hartford girl's third shot was close enough that she could drop a putt for a birdie four.

Marlene won the fourth hole to squared the match at the fifth. At the fourth Miss Lenczyk missed a five-foot putt and Marlene got down a three-footer. The Ontario girl took the fifth with a par five when Miss Lenczyk hooked her second shot into the deep rough and played outo the fairway with her third.

Barber Had Talk With Alexander While Cutting Hair

Vancouver, Aug. 11 —(CP) — Barber Tony Villa, in the tonsorial tradition, carried on a brisk conversation yesterday with Governor-Alexander while he clipped the Governor-General's hair.

He also gave the Governor-General's two sons, Shane and Brian, "a trim and a bit off the top."

The Governor-General, who arrived by private train, received later paneled Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Wallace's yacht Wallity, around up the British Columbia coast for a 10-day fishing trip.

Villa said:

"We talked of Italy where I had been visiting for a month ago. He asked me how things are there now. I told him they were rebuilding the bridges of Florence and the monastery at Cassino.

"We remarked on the fact that he had seen the destruction while I had seen the reconstruction.

"He knew more about the country than I do."

"I was talking to the boys about their fishing trip and they were very excited. I asked them if they were good fishermen and they answered with a laugh: 'We think we are.'"

Villa arrived here 20 years ago from his native Italy.

3 Charged With Murder Following Wave of Violent Crime in Britain

Bath, England, Aug. 11 (Reuters) — Three men were charged Friday following the wave of murders that has swept British Isles in recent weeks, while police continued to hunt the assailants of three other victims.

John Thomas Straffen, 21, an unemployed laborer, was remanded in custody on charges of murdering 9-year-old Cecily Batstone, whose strangled body was found in a field Thursday.

In Burton-on-Trent, John William Fenton, 20, an army deserter, was charged with battering to death Miss Winifred Mulley, 35, headmistress of a girls' school, with a can of sausages. A pearl-handled penknife was found stuck in her throat.

Fenton was remanded in custody until Friday.

Meanwhile, police in Nottingham were ordered to look out for a limping man seen Sunday evening in the company of Mrs. Muriel Tattershaw, 45, whose battered body was found in a park Monday.

The wave of four child murders began with the discovery of the body of Christine Buncher, 10, a 7-year-old Christine Butcher in a Windsor cowhouse, July 10. Then, July 15, Brenda Goddard, 8, was found strangled in Bath, and July 25 Mary Hilda Jones of the latest victim, Cecily Batstone.

The 30-year-old laborer has been charged with the murder of the third child, Sheila Harvey, 11, whose body was found in a garden near her home in Birmingham Aug. 2.

Parents all over the country have been impressing on their young children that they must not speak to strangers and many worried mothers have stayed at home to guard their children.

Says Members Of Junior Team Drank Beer

Rouyn, Que., Aug. 11 —(CP) — Ted Soucie, President of the Rouyn-Noranda Junior Baseball League, said Friday that some members of the Rouyn Junior team drank beer and started to fight Wednesday night after being beaten in a final game with the Beattie team at Duparquet, 31 miles northwest of here.

He said a meeting of the league executive will discuss punishment of the coach.

"The players are all juniors and therefore are under the age of 20," said Soucie. "Everybody knows they're a junior team, so they shouldn't be served beer. The law says no one under the age of 21 should be served beer."

Alberta Switches Almost Overnight From Cowboy To Oil Multi-Billionaire

Edmonton, Aug. 11. (CP)—Alberta has switched almost overnight from cowboy to oil multi-billionaire.

During the last fiscal year, almost $34,000,000 poured into government coffers from oil leases, fees, rentals and royalties, provincial auditor C. K. Huckvale reported yesterday.

It accounted for a major slice of Alberta's record operating surplus of $56,347,689 and record revenues of $118,186,426.

Oil let Premier Manning's Social Credit government cut the provincial funded debt to slightly more than $100,000,000 and still leave a nest-egg of $70,534,601 in cash and bonds—the largest sum so held by any province.

The oil bonanza began flowing into Alberta's coffers in earnest five years ago when fabulously-rich new fields were discovered in the Edmonton region.

But the hint of huge oil riches came early in the century.

In 1914, black crude and natural gas first gushed from Turner Valley, south of Calgary, Alberta wright, 100 miles southeast of Edmonton, produced in 1936.

For many years they were the big producers, pouring 30,000,000 barrels of crude into the province to report a theft. Then he asked a secretary to step in a washroom for a parcel he said had been stolen. While she was out, he took the $403 from the office and fled.

In 1939, oil was found at Lloydminster, on the Saskatchewan border. Conard, Vermilion, Princess and Tober, scattered through South Central Alberta, were found soon after.

Production jumped to 10,000,000 barrels annually in 1943, dropped to 7,000,000 when Turner Valley began to peter out in 1946.

Then came discovery of the Leduc field in February, 1947, and Redwater in September, 1948. These Edmonton-district fields became the richest producers ever found in Canada.

Alberta's oil future, the experts said, was assured for at least a quarter century.

Rich Golden Spike, also near Edmonton, pay extra insurance.

Production reached 10,000,000 barrels again by 1948. It doubled to 20,000,000 in 1949, jumper to 37,000,000 in 1950.

Value of oil production in Alberta zoomed from $18,000,000 in 1945 to a whopping $82,000,000 last year.

This year, 25,000,000 barrels will be produced to date. It netted producers $80,000,000.

Half of Alberta's 255,325 square miles are considered to be producing or potential oil land. The Provincial Petroleum Conservation Board estimates that more than 1,000,000,000 barrels of oil are recoverable by flushing, has lost the use of her radio.

The distressed freighter, the 7,285-ton Stanfirth, was rolling helplessly in rough seas and lashed by winds of almost hurricane force. On board are a crew of 43 Britons.

She was being carried at a speed of about two knots towards the barren coast off Victoria.

Battling to her aid was the British coal ship Heronspool. She read the message, flashed by lamp from the Stanfirth, reporting the ship's radio was out.

Drifting British Freighter Loses Use of Radio

Melbourne, Australia, Aug. 11 —(Reuters)— A blinker signal from 40 miles off Australia's southeast coast today told a rescue ship that a British freighter, drifting since Thursday, has lost the use of her radio.

The distressed freighter, the 7,285-ton Stanfirth, was rolling helplessly in rough seas and lashed by winds of almost hurricane force. On board are a crew of 43 Britons.

She was being carried at a speed of about two knots towards the barren coast off Victoria.

Battling to her aid was the British coal ship Heronspool. She read the message, flashed by lamp from the Stanfirth, reporting the ship's radio was out.

PREMIER PLEVEN FORMS CABINET FROM RIGHTISTS

Most Conservative Government Since War

Paris, Aug. 11 (AP) —Premier Rene Pleven and his new strong-ly-Conservative cabinet today won what amounted to a vote of confidence. The National Assembly balloted 396-223 to postpone indefinitely an opposition request to debate the make-up of the cabinet.

Pleven had presented his cabinet to President Vincent Auriol earlier after an all-night squabble over who would get what job.

France's worst cabinet crisis since the Second World War ended in a breakfast-time meeting at the Elysee Palace during which the President served coffee instead of the traditional champagne to the new cabinet officers.

Pleven formed a cabinet after seven other men had tried and failed in the last 30 days. How long it could stay in office was doubtful.

Observers were encouraged, however, because Robert Schuman—renamed foreign minister —will have governmental behind him when he attends meetings of the big three, the Atlantic Pact ministers and the signing of the Japanese peace treaty. All these events are scheduled for September.

Reflects Swing to Right

The new cabinet reflected the swing to the right shown in the June 17 elections. It is the most Conservative in more than a year there are no socialists in it. The cabinet also excludes communists and right-wing followers of Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

Although the socialists refused cabinet posts they are expected to give the new government their votes in the assembly.

Cabinet members were chosen from the Mouvement Republicain Populaire, a left-of-centre Catholic group and the Radical Socialist (Conservatives); Independents and Peasants and the Democratic and Socialist Union of the resistance to which Pleven also belongs.

The Independents and Peasants held up the announcement of the new cabinet while one of their men got his job changed. He was Louis Jacquinot, who had been chosen to be minister for the associated states handling Indo-China. He insisted on being Minister of Overseas France which controls the French colonies—instead. He got his way.

Joy Attacks Reds For Blocking All Truce Attempts

Nam Leaves Conference Room in Angry Mood

Munsan, Korea, Aug. 11—(AP) —Vice Admiral C. Turner Joy told communists in strong terms today they had "slammed the door on every attempt to make progress" in the Kaesong cease-fire talks.

The senior United Nations envoy aimed his words directly at Lt.-Gen. Nam Il, chief red delegate, for Nam's inflexible stand on the 38th Parallel as the only cease-fire line acceptable to the reds.

"You did not come here to stop the fighting," Joy declared.

"You did not come here to negotiate an armistice. You came here to state your price — your political price for which you are willing to sell the people of Korea a temporary respite from pain.

"You have engaged in these conferences only to present demands, not to negotiate a solution."

When Nam left the conference room at the end of the day's session observers said he was "apparently angry."

Vehement Attack

Brig.-Gen. William P. Nuckols, an official spokesman, said Joy departed from his "normally well-tempered, oddly logical terminology" in his most "vehement" attack yet on the communists.

Nuckols said the negotiators wrangled for two hours and 30 minutes and reached only one agreement. To meet again tomorrow at 11 a.m. (9 p.m. EDT Saturday).

Joy's blast apparently followed his failure to reach any sort of compromise agreement with the reds.

The communists—said the reds "seemingly rebuffed" Joys suggestion that they indicate on a map their concept of a buffer zone "based on the present battle line and the overall military situation."

Nam and his fellow reds refused pat on the 'single and inflexible' demand that the line be based on the 38th parallel, old political dividing line between North and South Korea.

Joy's blunt words came in the afternoon session. He spoke for 15 minutes. Then he proposed a recess until tomorrow.

In agreeing to meet again on Sunday, Nam said he wanted 24 hours to insist on the 38th parallel as the military demarkation line.

200 SHELLS EXPLODE

Haviland, Kas., Aug. 11—(AP) A truck load of 105 millimetre shells exploded in a field yesterday. More than 200 of the 500 shells exploded in a series of blasts that shook the area for miles around. No one was injured.

Part of British Brigade Including Canadians Isolated for Five Days

With Commonwealth Forces in Korea, Aug. 11 (Delayed)—(Reuters)—A large part of the new British Commonwealth Brigade in Korea has returned from its first action after being isolated for five days by floods from supplies and reinforcements.

The division, which includes Canada's 25th Brigade, had to play game of bluff to stop the enemy discovering the weakness of their position. The men patrolled aggressively in the flooded-country areas, getting without sleep for long periods to make their strength appear more formidable.

Planes dropped ammunition and supplies after the men had been reported "out on a limb."

The unit has gone out and appeared to be a routine maneuvre, but a torrential rainstorm broke and cut them off.

A large part of the new division, with trucks and equipment, found it impossible to get to the main allied positions barred by a swollen river.

American tanks which took part were also cut off.

The water had risen 15 feet since they crossed it on their way north.

When at last the rain stopped, some of the men managed to swim across the river in rubber rafts.

Troops on the southern bank saw the bearded, exhausted and mud-bespattered Britons clamber out of the raft-shouting excitedly the news of the new division's first successful action against the communists in Korea.

At the height of the deluge seven assault boats could not get through the flood.

Infantrymen missed two meals Sunday but sufficient food, medical supplies and ammunition were parachuted to them Sunday and Monday.

The river did not begin to subside until late Monday.

By yesterday, however, the first infantrymen were being ferried back. Steel rope was slung back and forth across the swollen river.

Engineers and sappers were joined to form a raft and pulled back and forth by a cable system across the 13-knot current.

Australian and Belgian infantry, an Indian field ambulance and gunners of New Zealand, Canadian and British artillery batteries were involved in the action.

It began before dawn last Saturday and was intended to be a "limited objective" attack to advance in order to "straighten out the front line." Lt.-Gen. Sir Lewis Lyne, commander of the British Commonwealth Corps, was in charge.

Lt.-Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, U.S. Far East Commander, was also present.

The Canadians, with Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry occupying two high ridges 8,000 yards out in no-man's-land, and a battalion of the Kings Shropshire Light Infantry occupied one of the objectives and a Belgian battalion the other.

They practically marched-to their positions, the Belgians meeting only sporadic rifle fire.

The Shropshires met no opposition.

Travel Minister Says Toronto Only to Blame

Toronto, Aug. 11—(CP)—Travel Minister Cecile said Thursday that, if Toronto is not getting its full share of tourist business this year, it has only itself to blame.

He made public a letter he had written to George Wilson, president of the Ontario Hotel Association, who was quoted a few days ago as saying that hotels throughout the province were feeling a slump and that tourist trade in Toronto was down 23 to 30 per cent from last year.

"The fact is that there is no 'slump' in the tourist business in Ontario," Mr. Cecile said. "The volume of the tourist business in Ontario is at an all-time peak."

If Toronto business is off, he said he can think of these reasons: the "Toronto traffic department head was widely quoted recently as saying Toronto police would pursue a 'get-tough' policy with tourists, some major hotels have apparently found it hard to honor confirmed reservations, some refusals to pay exchange on United States funds have been reported, food prices charged more for good accommodation than charged by hotels outside the city, traffic congestion discourages visitors from staying long.

Head and Back Injuries Suffered By Two in Crash

John Prazzie 38, Cordova Mines, and Michael Gallery, 41, Deloro, were admitted to Belleville General Hospital early this morning suffering with head and back injuries received in a trailer-car crash on Highway No. 7.

Bernard Stewart, Cordova, received hand lacerations, and was treated at the scene of the accident.

The crash occurred where highway No. 7 bisects the Marmora-Deloro road at 1.20 this morning.

According to police, a truck-trailer of an Ottawa transport company driven by Frank Ball, of Morewood, Ont., was proceeding east, when the car driven by Prazzie passed it.

Apparently the Prazzie car, intending to turn at the intersection overshot its mark. It stopped and started to turn. Ball swerved to pull out and as he did the Prazzie car shot out in front of the truck striking it broadside. The car was a total wreck.

Dr. H. C. Parkin, Marmora, attended the injured at the scene and ordered Prazzie and Gallery to hospital. They were brought here by Bush's Ambulance.

Provincial Police Constables T. W. Lummiis, and A. Boleyn, of the Madoc detachment investigated. Charges are pending against Prazzie.

Train Hits Car Stalled on Tracks, Trenton Nurse Has Minor Injuries

Trenton (Special) —It's quite a sensation to sit and watch a fast-moving train tear the front end off your automobile. Miss Ruth Dempsey can testify to that.

Miss Dempsey, relief supervisor at Trenton Memorial Hospital, stalled her car on the railroad tracks east of Cobourg Friday night about five o'clock. With a train bearing down on her, Miss Dempsey frantically tried to get the automobile started again. She pushed and pulled every knob in the car, but it was no soap. She was so intent on trying to start the car that she didn't have time to get out from behind the wheel.

Then there was a terrific crash and the front end of the auto was strewn all over the right-of-way. Miss Dempsey suffered a cut chin and an injured knee.

The Trenton woman was taken to Cobourg hospital by a passing doctor. Her late-model car was a wreck. Her comment, "I had a few stitches, that's all."

Miss Dempsey is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter C. Dempsey, Henry Street.

B.C.I. Students Set City Record Pass 92.8 Per Cent of Examinations

Following are the remarks of Mr. G. E. Currie, principal of the Belleville Collegiate Institute on the Upper School results released by the Department of Education yesterday.

"The Upper School results for the Belleville Collegiate for the year just past are outstanding. In a class of 56 students, 389 papers were written and 361 were successful. This represents 92.8 per cent pass which is an all-time high for this school.

"The nearest approach to these results were achieved one year ago when 90.3 per cent passed.

"Proficiency achievements was also unusually high this year. There were 94 papers with first class honors, 88 with seconds, 71 with thirds and 110 credits.

"The average accomplished in various subjects are as follows: English composition 72; English literature 87.2; modern history 100; algebra 88; geometry 88.8; trigonometry 89; botany 81; zoology 96.6; physics 92.3; chemistry 96.4; Latin authors 87; Latin composition 100; French authors 91.5; French composition 97.4; music 100.

"I especially want to compliment the students and teachers, as well as the Board of Education on these results."

JOY ATTACKS

This parting shot forecast another session of fruitless argument. He knew "exactly" where the U.N. wanted to change the cease-fire line. Allen Winnington of the London Daily Worker, said the northern edge would run from Soari, 31 air miles north of the 38th on the east coast, to a point 10 miles southeast of Haeju on the west coast. Haeju is two miles north of 38.

The allies have said they want the line to follow the present fighting front, mostly in North Korea.

The unyielding envoys held their 21st meeting in a charged atmosphere generated by Friday's long session of wasted words and stoney silences.

An American correspondent at Kaesong said Nam Il left the conference room "apparently angry."

Repeats Demands

"He was talking with some animation to one of his delegates, and it appeared to be angry animation," he said in a pooled dispatch.

Nam used the last part of today's session to repeat his demand that the buffer zone follow parallel 38.

This is the same position he took Friday when he refused to discuss any other possible line or to by-pass the problem and discuss the next point on the agenda.

His refusal took the form of 131 minutes of silence.

The United Nations team again flew to today's meeting. American jeeps, ferried across the flooded Imjin River last night, met them at the air strip and drove them to the conference site.

The helicopters touched down about 15 minutes before the meeting was to start at 11 a.m. after a one hour and 25 minute session the mediators adjourned for lunch. The afternoon session resumed at 2:30 and lasted nearly an hour.

Outside the conference room another verbal battle raged between the reds and U. N. Allies. This one was about a red claim that U. N. planes attacked a communist truce between Kaesong and Pyongyang last Tuesday.

Rejects Protest

The reds first protested Thursday, Admiral Joy rejected the protest as "without validity."

He told them it that no red vehicle would be immune from attack unless the U. N. Allies were first advised of the time and route of its journey, and unless the vehicle carried white markings.

Peiping radio today carried the text of Nam's reply to Joy. It quoted Nam as saying Joy's explanation was "entirely unsatisfactory" and asking for guarantee that such incidents would not happen again.

General headquarters in Tokyo was not impressed. It said the red had been informed "of the requirements for prior notification three times verbally—and once in writing."

The bickering may continue, but only as a skirmish to bigger argument in Kaesong.

BURNS TO DEATH

Minden, Ont., Aug. 11. (CP)— James Ball, 40-year-old part-time laborer, burned to death on Friday in his two-room frame cottage at Maple Lake, 10 miles north of here. Minden is about 85 miles northeast of Toronto.

Costly Punch

Boxing and wrestling, like whisky and gasoline, are not good mixers.

So a Bloomfield farmer wrestling fan discovered last night in Memorial Arena when his fire raised against one of the matmen, who decided to take a poke or two at the "villian".

It cost him two dollars a punch.

He paid a fine of two dollars and costs for "creating a disturbance."

EARLE'S CONDITION CRITICAL

Washington, Aug. 11 (AP) — The condition of Stephen T. Early, official, Dr. Paul Dudley, said Friday night. The former White House press secretary spent a restless day, the doctor added. Early suffered a heart attack Monday. He now is vice-president of the Pullman Standard Car Manufacturing Co.

Three Injured, Two Seriously In Transport-Car Crash

Three people were injured, two of them seriously, in a transport-automobile crash on Highway No. 2, one-half mile west of the city early today.

Taken to the hospital in an unconscious condition were Robert Brown, 74 South George Street, Belleville and Earl Clark, same address. Brown and Clark are said to be in their early twenties.

Wazyl Boyda, 199 Lippincott Street, Toronto, suffered slight injuries.

The collision occurred shortly before three o'clock, this morning near the Avondale Garage.

The trailer, loaded with steel and driven by Boyda, an employee of the Kingsway Transport Co., was proceeding west when the car in which Clark and Brown were riding was coming east when the crash occurred.

The transport swerved across the highway, plowed into the ditch and turned on its side. The car, which was completely demolished, remained on the highway. Police believe it was struck by the loaded trailer as it careened across the road.

Clark and Brown were rushed to hospital where they are said to be suffering from severe head and other injuries. They were still unconscious at ten o'clock today. There is a possibility, it is stated, of skull fracture.

Traffic was held up for nearly two hours. Provincial Police officers I. E. Tinkess and E. L. Smith investigated the accident. City police assisted in clearing the car in which Clark and Brown were riding.

The W.M.S. ladies served refreshments topped off with the Band's contribution of home-made candy and all enjoyed a pleasant afternoon.

Mrs. Carman Nix extended thanks to the W.M.S. for hospitality.

Malton, Ont., Aug. 11 (CP) — A stray bullet struck John Thomas, 36, of Hamilton, in the right arm Friday as he carried a pail of drinking water to workmen building a jet engine plant here. Thomas threw the pail to the ground and, with his fingers, dug the bullet out of his arm. He was taken to a doctor for treatment.

Stories of Famous Hymns

By HORACE B. POWELL

Guide Me, O Thou Great Jehovah

Guide me, O Thou great Jehovah,
Pilgrim thro' this barren land;
I am weak, but Thou art mighty,
Hold me with Thy powerful hand:
Bread of Heaven, Bread of Heaven,
Feed me now and evermore.

Open now the crystal fountain,
Whence the healing streams do flow;
Let the fiery, cloudy pillar
Lead me all my journey through:
Strong Deliv'rer, Strong Deliv'rer,
Be Thou still my strength and shield.

When I tread the verge of Jordan,
Bid my anxious fears subside;
Death of deaths and hell's destruction,
Land me safe on Canaan's side:
Songs of praises, Songs of praises,
I will ever give to Thee.

In eighteenth century Wales, there was a great gospel preacher by the name of William Williams.

Converted at an open air revival meeting through a sermon preached by Howel Harris, a Welsh evangelist, Williams devoted his life, in turn, to winning other men and women to the Master.

When he decided to study for the ministry, he was a member of the Church of England but later he became a Methodist and he was a member of this faith when he wrote his popular hymn, 'Guide Me,O Thou Great Jehovah.'

The hymn was written in Welsh and was translated into English in 1771 by another Welsh minister—the Rev. Peter Williams. Three years later it was given a place in song collections and bore the title: "Christ A Sure Guide."

Europe as I See It

By Raymond R. Canon

ARTICLE 23
Italy in Retrospect

St. Gallen, Switzerland—(Special to The Ontario Intelligence) —All during my stay in Italy there were several impressions of the people that have remained with me. Some things seem to stand out more than others. Perhaps they are the result of the last World War, perhaps the result of previous wars, and maybe just characteristics of the Italian people.

Outstanding, for sure, is the poverty in which many of the people live. Some of the districts in the larger Italian cities would make any Canadian slum district look respectable. People live in places that I hesitated to call a house, since the word but or shelter would be much better.

In the neighborhood of Rome, there are people still living in the aqueducts used by the Romans. These are still in use, so the inhabitants of these have become used to the sound of water running over their heads.

These holes in the wall, for that is all they are, are extremely damp and unhealthy, but young children are being raised in them. How well they will be when they grow up is not difficult to imagine.

Unhealthy Hovels

Not far from where I was staying in Siena, there lived a woman who had become quite mad. She had four children, who were looked after by the city, but she herself had no place to go. She lived with her husband in a small room formerly used as a storehouse. This room has to be seen for one to fully realize the condition it was in, but the poor woman spent most of her time out sweeping the street. It is not difficult to relate stories like this, but these will give you some idea of what is still to be seen in Italy. It is not that Italy is a land of poverty, but poverty does exist to a much greater degree than we know it.

Grounds for Communism

Many of the people, although they do not live in such conditions are still dissatisfied with their lot. They blame this on any number of reasons with government and the weather coming in for their share. The main point here is that many of these people are ready to support the Communist party, just because they are dissatisfied.

The Communists tell them the government is to blame for almost everything, and since it is just as easy to blame them as anything else, the people believe it. Quite a few I talked with openly admitted they would support the Communists in the coming election, and since this has now taken place, it is quite apparent that many did so, for in the popular vote the Communists scored heavily. It is not that these people are out-and-out followers of Moscow-inspired Communism; many of them hardly know anything of the Communist theories, and still fewer have any idea what Marx actually advocated.

Not realizing that they might be playing with fire, they are willing to let the Communists have a try. That there are some good men in the party is not denied. The mayor of Bologna is a bright shade of red, and has given his city a very efficient administration. So far the Christian Democrats have found no one who would stand a good chance against him in an election.

People Dress Well

To get away from poverty and dissatisfaction, let me say that these Italians who can, do dress well. Just about everyone appearing on the street, in fact, and it gave me the impression of a wealthier country than is the case. I imagine it just is that the Italians have more emphasis on dress.

In this respect—the women are especially to be commended. They do not wear loud or vivid colors, but they have an almost uncanny ability to match colors, so that they are striking in spite of their simplicity.

A woman can take a blouse, a skirt, add a scarf or two and the unpretentious in themselves, and come up with the most pleasing combination. Whenever a woman appears on the street with something really original, the other women stare at her more than the men, just so they can have a good look at the way she has matched the colors.

We usually think of the French as the masters of style, and they are excellent without a doubt, but I have to give credit where credit is due. The Italian women do not have to take a back seat in this regard.

Police in Plenty

I have never yet been in a police state, but I can imagine what it must be like, for every time I turned my back there was a policeman. It was not that they had any special interest in me in spite of the little confusion I had at the border. They watch everyone. I do not know how many different types I met, but there were enough of them. I saw city police, district police, state police, military police and some, whose names I never did discover. All of them were well armed with knives, carbines and revolvers.

Perhaps the most colorful are the carabinieri, or the state police, with their navy blue uniforms, their three-cornered hats and their dress uniforms right out of the Middle Ages. Two of them patrolled each large railway station, together with some city police, and even came through the trains from time to time.

I was able then to realize what it is being like, for every country must feel like. The next time I go to Italy I shall make very sure that my passport and identification papers are always in order. It is always best to be on the safe side.

Italians or Austrians?

Leaving last impressions to the very last, I came out of Italy by way of the Brenner Pass and Austria, and here I was able to talk to a few German-speaking Italians.

You will remember that, after the first World War, Italy gained some territory from Austria-Hungary, because it was, as they said, "Italia Irredenta." With this territory they got quite a few Italians but some who were more like Austrians. They are only a small group and one hardly hears of them. They feel that perhaps they are the forgotten people of Italy, but since they were allowed to stay in their own district, speak their own dialect, they have no great wish to leave, but there is certainly a closer relationship with Austria.

While I was able at times to understand their strange German dialect that I left Italy, at least for the present.

District High School Board Holds Meeting

Campbellford—Chairman N. N. Haggerty presided over the regular monthly meeting of the East Northumberland District High School Board at the Brighton High School on Monday evening. Principals of schools present at the meeting included Messrs. Turchin, Darling, Fulton and Ewing.

The principals present at the meeting reported on requests pertaining to their respective schools. Mr. W. O. Graham chairman of the Transportation Committee, reported on the meeting of that committee on Aug. 2nd., at which time tenders for certain bus routes were considered. The tender of R. K. Britnell to operated a bus route on route B-3 at $175 per school month was accepted.

Adhere to Contracted Routes

A move was made to have all bus drivers adhere to the contracted routes and that the last year's route to Rutherford's School be incorporated in the regular route from Castleton to Colborne.

A representative of the Remington Rand Company was on hand to demonstrate the company's typewriters. It was moved by D. H. Meyers and seconded by George Nicholls that the board authorize the purchase of 10 Underwood and 10 Remington Rand typewriters for the Campbellford High High School at a Campbellford High School at a price of $149.50 each. It was also decided to purchase 75 desks and chairs as requested by the Principal of the Campbellford High School.

Accounts totalling $536.83 were approved for payment on motion by D. H. Meyers, seconded by Wes. Down.

Permission was granted to the Campbellford Branch of the IODE to use the High School Auditorium on the evening of October 24, provided that all the usual provisions were complied with.

Individual members of the special committee appointed to consider the building of a new school reported on their finding. A motion by C. A. Kemp, seconded by Wes Down that the board undertake a building program which will for the erection of a new High School in the southern portion of the district, and the addition to the present High School in Campbellford, provide equal and adequate education for all pupils in the High School District was considered by the board, and details of this will be announced later.

The next meeting of the board will be in Colborne High School on September 7, or at the call of the chairman.

'Loans Quota

Mr. Allan Wood, of Oshawa, is up to his old tricks of showing the anglers in the vicinity of Percy Boom how to catch lunge. He took his fourth 40 lb. one in a week recently when he landed a 39-pounder only. He had previously taken an 8 1-2 pounder, a 13-pounder and a 17-pounder, all in the same week. These four fish dressed 53 pounds.

Mr. Wood is probably the only angler in the district to retain his legal limit of lunge this year. Although the bait he uses is not disclosed, Mr. Wood admitted he catches his lunge on a plug, casting into the weed beds.

About 75 members of the Northumberland Junior Farmers are looking forward to Tuesday August 14, the day they will take part in the judging competitions, banquet and grandstand performance at the Belleville Fair. Their visit is made possible by the Agricultural Society.

THE RACING PROBE

The sordid tale of another gambling ring is being unfolded. This time, Ontario's skirts are dragging on the ground in several of her race tracks, and evidence released to date in the racing probe would indicate that the finger of guilt is likely to point to faraway places. Several jockeys and apprentices have been barred from Ontario tracks for life for conduct not in keeping with the sport. Many are under surveillance, and criminal charges have been laid against at least two of them by Ontario provincial police. The young men are in the majority in the jockeys' ranks, and it appears that the lure of easy money, to be gained by allowing this or that horse to win or lose, has been too great for minds not yet fully mature.

The racing of horses is a strange sport. Its followers are never really half-way interested. They read form charts, which tell them what the horse has done in the past, and they study the records as no high school student ever studies his lessons. Many of them are completely absorbed by the sport. Yet none of them, outside of those who are employed in the stable or ownership end of the industry, ever make any great amount of money from it. There are no horsemen living year round in Ontario who can beat the races. It is an impossibility, unless certain strings are pulled.

It appears that the strings have been pulled on Ontario tracks in the past. Certain gambling types have found the pulling of the luck as they would like, and pressures have been exerted on jockeys to make sure of the result of the race before it is ever run. In that way, the gamblers obtain a "sure thing", and the public suffers.

Racing cannot properly be legalized at the tracks, and where illegal gambling provides employment for many, corruption is bound to enter at some time or another. When men with enough money and no scruples descend on the scene, the sport is doomed to defeat. The disconcerting part of the invasion by such men is that the ordinary person who lays his bets in the hope of gaining money cannot do so with any regularity even when everything is run in an honest fashion. The odds when honest races are aboveboard is bad enough; betting on races known by others to be "fixed" is worse. The bettor has no chance at all.

Now that the probe into the racing game in this province has been started, it should be carried through until it is a certainty that the public is getting a fair run for its money. Outside interests seeking to influence the result of contests in any sport are not desirable. In racing, because a great deal of money is handled every day in wagers, the dark element must be held in check to a greater extent.

TIME TO STEP IN

The direction of Ontario provincial police by Premier Frost to prevent any further senseless attempts at running the Niagara rapids or going over the falls is a sane move. The question is no longer one of letting those who believe in folly stand as the fool, but is rather one of protecting those who know no better. Mr. Frost's statement that such trips add nothing to human knowledge is certainly one of the sanest to come out of the hubbub which followed the death of William (Red) Hill, who tried to go over the falls in a flimsy rubber barrel.

The difficulties which will be found in the enforcement of the edict, however, are many. If a man wished to go over the falls in a barrel, who is to know but himself and his family? With a reasonable amount of care, the news need not leak out. Then, assuming that the police are not going to patrol the banks of the river twenty-four hours a day—which, we cannot do—any man [illegible] to attempt the stunt could slip into the river at almost any time, roll over the falls, and have done with the escapade in a hurry.

In that matter, anyone afflicted with the disease could get into the American side of the river and take his trip with no opposition at all. Whatever happens, it appears, is no concern of one New York daily paper, which proposed that a medal be given to daredevils. The theory expounded by the paper is that if men are foolish enough to risk their lives in that manner, then let them die. That, in a humanitarian age, is hardly the point. No one would hesitate to help any person bent on suicide who was attempting it by jumping off a cliff or a bridge, or by putting a revolver to the head. Human decency demands that an effort be made to stop those who try to take their own lives. Then why not protect those who do it in public, before hundreds of thousands of people?

Premier Frost has the right idea. Too many lives have already been lost in foolish jousts with the mighty Niagara River, and it is now time for the forces of law to step in and take over.

FREEDOM'S CREW

That we have quarrels now and then
Among ourselves is true.
We'll criticize our fellowmen
When that seems right to do.
Whatever we may think, we'll say.
That's one of freedom's rights.
We have our battles! Yes, but they Are merely family fights.

The tyrant rulers ought to know!
However we divide,
However our elections go,
We're all on freedom's side.

And, should some enemy draw on
With the first bugle call
He'll find us standing all for one
And every one for all.

Republican or Democrat,
Protestant, Catholic, Jew,
The worker humble or brass hat—
We're all in freedom's crew.
Still in our keeping is the bell
That rang for liberty.
One nation indivisible,
Forever that we'll be.

OUR TOWN

By JACK SCOTT

PEOPLE PASSING BY

As Mr. Shakespeare put it so very, very well: "All the world's a stage, and all the men and women merely players."

I can't think of any more fascinating set or any more reserved seats — than the lobby of a big hotel, alive with the swift and cushioned movement of total strangers.

Found myself sitting in one such lobby yesterday, enamped there with the fatalism of a man waiting for a train to be late. Settled back in one of those cool leather chairs that you seem to find only in hotels, lit a cigarette and gave myself up to the pleasant contemplation of the scene.

From such a vantage point the spectator gets the privacy of a box at the theatre. Funny thing about hotel lobbies. It you walk across a lobby a hundred eyes run over you, sizing up your general appearance and speculating on whence you came. But once you've found a seat you become almost a part of the decor, as the mobile fixture, something possibly planned for that very spot by the architect.

It was after the noon hour and traffic in the lobby was at high-domed place was at its height.

A herd of luncheon club members were coming out from their weekly session of gluttony, getting into their coats and taking antmatches. The revolving doors broke briefly across the plangent murmur of the lobby, sent in waves from a passing steamer, then receded, leaving the calm.

A solitude reigned behind the newsstand. Those of us facing that way followed his movements as he was interrupted by a pretty girl, flowered, and left in the same direction, and our glances went with her until the elevator doors swallowed her out of our lives.

Small Sounds

As in a crowd on a swarming beach one hears the individual breakers dance, the sound in a hotel lobby is a blending of many small sounds.

Voices mingle into an uneven drone, a hum with left-hand rhythm for the melody: a distant telephone bell, the far-off tinkle of dishes in the dining hall lightly down corridors, the stiff swish of the revolving doors, the feels on a strip of marble between carpets, the push of sound from the street trapped inside by a closing door.

There's an inescapable feeling that everyone is waiting for something. All these small groups in earnest conversation, the individuals fanning behind their newspapers or absorbed in their own thoughts, the bellhops passers-by, the uniformed staff on their brisk errands — all seem, you feel, to be waiting for a cue before they should someone speak a commanding word in a voice a mere decible above the accepted register.

Across the way a young man had been waiting impatiently, crossing and re-crossing his knees and lancing glances at the golden clock above the main entrance. Then I saw his face relax and become warm as before an open fire. As he began to get up I swung my eyes to the door to see how perfectly the girl would be. And saw that it was a very old lady.

More than once I saw men and woman clearly suffering from that gnawing disease of hotel loneliness, a pain I've felt in too many distant inns not to recognize the symptoms.

One middle-aged man walked from the elevators to the newsstand, glanced about the crowded lobby for the welcome sight of a familiar face, but without reward. He paused for a long time at the bright wall of magazine covers and finally made his selection. When it was paid for he stood a moment, then, with a sigh, tucked the book and glancing over it to scan the lobby hopefully. Then, with a look of utter despair, to walk slowly back to the elevator.

I saw that the fat magazine he carried was 'Holiday.'

All Types

Across this stage walks a company that would keep Vina Delmar busy for a few thousand years. Here are all the types for the 'hole novels ever written by women.

There are the newlyweds with the slight air of bewilderment settled on their shoulders, gluttoned in their eyes. The Great American Family, with each child two-toned, rope-soled shoes and Mother with the inevitable big color of maple fudge. There's an expensive camera slung around the neck, ready to record the Great Adventure.

Here is the permanent guest house, with the look of inherited wealth, threading her irritable way through the crowded lobby one afternoon scroll. The businessman sloping along behind a cigar that once was Connecticut. There the row of intent figures leaning over the house phones, as at a switchboard, each absorbed in his small destiny. A covey of smartly dressed matrons [illegible] in a rustle of summer clothes and a bright cackle of talk.

Surely in no other place is there such a mingling of personalities, such a variety of types.

Each comes here, swirls in the magnetic cone, scatters.

And now, suddenly, there's a fine looking woman coming in through the revolving doors, her eyes searching about for someone. I watch her, in a detached way, make her way to the desk, through the throng and then comes up to me.

"Well," I say, "it's about time!"

Diseases of Characters in Fiction Keep Fashionable With the Times

By W. G. ROGERS

New York—(AP)—People in books today are most likely to catch asthma, if they are going to have any disease.

Among novelists and dramatists there are fashions in diseases just as there are fashions in coats and pipes. The writer knows what the public is most delightfully suffering from or is afraid of, and if his characters must fall ill they are likely to be the currently most talked about illness.

A hundred years ago it was consumption. Then, not long ago, it was venereal disease. Today the sufferer whose misfits and gasp for breath, take their special inhalations or sprays, and reach for the adrenalin.

There is, of course, no general standard for which heart trouble and heroine must be extra watchful. They can die of as many different things as the non-bookish mortal. Tessa, of Margaret Kennedy's "The Constant Nymph," died of heart attack. Henry James' "Daisy Miller" succumbed to malaria.

The cripple has figured in a lot of stories: Tiny Tim, in Dickens' "A Christmas Carol," Heyward's "Porgy" whom you have probably seen in the opera, "Porgy and Bess," Laura in Tennessee Williams' "The Glass Menagerie," and the wife of Edith Wharton's "Ethan Frome."

Heroines die. Esther in Dickens' "Bleak House," used to have good reason to fear small-pox. Dumas, in "Camille," found better reason to fear leprosy, the affliction suffered by mother and sister of Lew Wallace's "Ben-Hur" and cured by a miracle. Dostoyevsky's "The Idiot" was epileptic. Ajax went mad. So did Walter Scott's Lucy, "The Bride of Lammermoor," when she was used cynically in fanciful coloratura operatics.

New It's Asthma

Novelists began to inflict asthma on their people when they began to read about allergies in the late 20's. And here it cheered up one who has rendered some service to another, especially to that one who needs it.

I have learned that the greater a person is the more appreciative he is for the commendation of others. Thomas Hardy, acknowledged his indebtedness to George Meredith for encouragement given him at the onset to his career as a literary man. He said that it was Meridith's praise that encouraged him to write on.

How many of us owe to a teacher, or intimate friend, more than we can ever hope to repay, for what they have given to us. But we can do the best we can and expect in payment. That means more to such people than money or worldly gratification is never for sale—you just have to give it, for however is it ever unwelcomed.

Every day we should silently give gratitude for many of His endless blessings. In nature alone He has scattered blessings in every direction—beauty of the animals, the birds, and for man. And these blessings and gifts are priceless, the clouds that float overhead, the colors in stones, and the designs of the snowflakes to say nothing of the beauty that is to be found in the countless wild wild flowers.

David, the poet, in his 23rd Psalm, enumerated his many blessings and then exclaimed: "My cup runneth over." That should be the experience of us all, as we return our gratitude to those who serve us, and to God, who is so observant, that He numbers even the sparrow's fall without his notice!

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed Letters, Not More Than One Page, or 100 Words long, Pertaining to Personal Health and Hygiene, Not to Disease, Diagnosis or Treatment, Will be Answered by Dr. Brady if a Stamped, Self-Addressed Envelope is Enclosed, Etc.

UNSANITARY HABIT

A report of the study of toothbrushes in use in American homes, published in the "Journal of the American Dental Association," showed that 8,000 were in use in 2,000 typical American families; and of the 8,000 toothbrushes, 6,500 were found to be "inadequate and unsatisfactory for a variety or reasons"—such as bent or broken bristles, matted bristles, caked dentifrices and food debris at the base of the bristles.

From this survey the dentists (or maybe it was the doctors) assigned a Yankee as anyone living in North America, and one with a lot out knowledge of elementary physiology and hygiene is ignorant, how few people will take seriously the commercial slogan, approved by nineteenth century dentists, that "a clean tooth never decays."

The funny part of it is that discovery of an American adult with all teeth intact is front page news. We Yankees are unquestionably the world's greatest toothbrush and dentifrice users and have the worst teeth in the world, with the exception of the British. The revolting condition of the teeth of the people in Great Britain must be attributed to their economic depression. This is not an offhand theory but a conclusion which is inevitable if one compares the nutritional condition of the British people with our own during the past half century. And the back of my hand to the small and who cares about the token payments we make or could make to our eternal debt to the few who did so much for us.

This "survey" of American toothbrushes should at least direct some attention to the habit along a toothbrush to be prepared to stay overnight.

Somehow the extremely unsanitary state of toothbrushes in Yankeeland seems insignificant to me. I do not believe the "caked dentifrices and food debris" at the base of the bristles of a used toothbrush will do any harm to your teeth or your health. That state of the 8,000 toothbrushes, or the 8,000 or more examined, does tend to show that I was right when I discarded toothbrushes and dentifrices from my own personal health care long ago. Mind you, I do not say that toothbrushing with whatever dentifrice you prefer, does any harm, but think it is a waste of time and money, and I believe rinsing mouth and teeth with soapy water whenever one thinks mouth or teeth need such cleaning, is wholly adequate and unobjectionable on any score.

Upon the suggestion of a routine inspection and rehabilitation of toothbrushes like that given to automobiles, I think of the recent the Journal of the American Dental Association, but from a typical editorial comment published in the Journal of the American Medical Association. It is not certain whether the dentists or the doctors (and please, children, no remarks about the insidious trade names) proposed such a plan, but both should be convicted the idee deserves at least a case. Toothbrushes are a symbol of glorified soap in trick containers as a testimonial of the gratitude of the tooth decayers.

Since I believe the rite of brushing the teeth is harmless, why inveigh against it?

You show your ignorance (of elementary physiology and hygiene) by asking such a question. Only that you are by nature—your ignorance was carefully preserved by the conspiracy of the dentists, the makers of toothbrush and dentifrice makers and the board of education.

Besides the constant expense for toothbrushes and dentifrices which should buy the services of dentists, the children of America that any amount of brushing with any brand or type of dentifrice will make one immune to the effects of decay unquestionably encourages parents to make or allow children to neglect the proper care of their teeth; that is, regular inspection of the teeth and treatment by the dentist.

More important I think care of the teeth is in everyone's health program is indicated by the fact that Listen Here, No. 1, in the Ways of Health is the booklet "Unbrushed secret," available on written request if you send 25c and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

GRATITUDE

There is no gift that may come to us that gives more heart-warmth and satisfaction than that of gratitude, in return for something rendered to another. It is so easy to accept favors, assistance, and acclaim without saying "Thank you" for a kindness, or some unexpected kindness, often from a stranger.

All of us owe so much to so many. We are constantly getting ideas, thoughts and suggestions from others and taking them as a matter of course. It costs nothing to be liberal with appreciation for their thoughtfulness and good will. And how it cheers up one who has rendered some service to another, especially to that one who needs it.

I have learned that the greater a person is the more appreciative he is for the commendation of others. Thomas Hardy, acknowledged his indebtedness to George Meredith for encouragement given him at the onset to his career as a literary man. THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It will be a sad day when the scientists have explained everything. Without a reasonable element of mystery and wonder in it, life would be about as amusing as an adding machine. In nature, science still has a thousand baffling mysteries facing it which we can hope will remain for some time to come. One of the most beautiful of these is the mystery of the migration of the birds. A plover, four months old, with the week or next leave the arctic island where it was hatched and, without the company or guidance of its parents, who have already left, will fly, along with random squadrons of its fellows four months old, thousands of miles, south, over land and sea, through storms and gales, down the full length of America, across the equator, and arrive exactly at the Argentine shores where its parents are already in residence, and where its ancestors have lived from time immemorial.

Millions of birds will, in their various schemes, perform this miracle of migration within the next few weeks. Warblers no bigger than your thumb that you see in the garden today will, by October be in Peru, in the same bushes they left in March there; and will be back in your garden next May. They follow, according to their kind, the same route every year, across those immense distances of sea, lake, prairie and mountain. What guides them, what strengthens them, science has as yet not the faintest idea. Biologists are dissecting and exploring the diminutive brains, histologists are conducting fantastic experiments with tissues, trying to determine what mystic element takes possession of these filmy little creatures and gives them the power and the sense to follow the unerring highroad of migration.

Most of us, who are attracted to wild nature prefer the mystery to any solution that can be offered.

Did you ever hear of these languages—Mansijan, Joral, Nylmang and Rlang Lang? These are four languages added in 1950 to the list in which the American Bible Society has published an entire Gospel.

The Bible remains to this day the world's best seller. There is no other book, even remotely competes with it. A lot of colleges have written off the Bible as a quaint, outmoded book full of fables. A lot of sophisticated modern folk let the Bible gather dust on their bookshelves until they encounter sorrow.

It is time we awaken to a few of the facts of life. A few such interesting facts are to be found in the Annual Report of the American Bible Society.

SOME OF THE FACTS OF LIFE

Up to the end of December, 1950, some part of the Bible has been published by the American Bible Society in 1,034 different languages and dialects. The whole Bible has been published in 191 languages. A complete Testament has been published in 344 additional languages, and at least a Gospel or more of the whole book has been published in 597 languages.

Last year the whole Bible was for the first time put into the Singapur Turki, a language spoken in Turkistan. Two New Testaments were published for the first time in Kikwango, a dialect spoken in the Belgian Congo, and in Kurukh, spoken in the central provinces of China.

WEDDINGS

BRENNAN—COURNEYEA

Before an altar banked with summer flowers, in St. Carthagh's Church, Tweed, on Saturday, July 28, at 10 a.m. a lovely wedding ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Father Shannon when Doris Elde Courneyea, of Tweed, became the bride of John Raymond Brennan, of Oshawa, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Brennan, of Read, and the late Mrs. Brennan.

Miss Thelma Dion rendered the wedding music and accompanied the soloists, Miss Margaret Marchen and Mr. John Marchen, who sang before the ceremony, "Ave Maria" and during the nuptial mass, "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother".

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Vincent Courneyea, was charming in her bridal gown of white Swiss lace and net over satin, fashioned with molded bodice buttoned down the front, Peter Pan collar and long, sheath-like sleeves of Swiss lace ending in points over the wrists. The flouffant skirt, which featured a centre front panel of matching lace and side puffed panlers, fell gracefully into a cathedral train with lace inset. Her full length veil of silk tulle illusion was enhanced at each corner with an appliqued lace butterfly, and fell from a hand-beaded tiara of seed pearls in lace motif pattern. She carried a semi-cascade bouquet of red roses and white anthurium fern tied with braided white satin ribbon.

Miss Mabel Courneyea, of Peterborough, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, attired in lilac nylon marquisette satin, fashioned with tight-fitting bodice, portrait neckline with off-the-shoulder yoke effect of nylon net edged with a pleated net ruffle. The sleeves were short and puffed. The bouffant skirt was ornamented with scattered rosettes of matching material. Matching mitts, a floral bandeau and hand-cascade bouquet of yellow roses and lavender sweet-peas completed her ensemble.

Miss Jean Bosley, of Tweed, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid, wearing a gown of cornflower yellow similar to that of the maid of honor. She wore matching mitts, a floral bandeau and carried a hand-cascade bouquet of yellow roses and lavender sweetpeas.

Mr. William Brennan, of Toronto, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman, and the ushers, Mr. Noel Brennan, of Tweed, brother of the bride, and Mr. Albert Brennan, of Read, brother of the bridegroom.

A wedding dinner was served at the Bridal Reception, where the bride's mother received the guests, wearing a gown of blue silk with black and white accessories and corsage of red Bettertime roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Michael Durkin, of Read, who wore a gown of printed black and white sheer with white accessories and corsage of red Bettertime roses. The bridal table was centred by a three-tier wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, and flanked with vases of lovely summer flowers.

For travelling to Quebec, St. Anne de Beaupre, the bride chose a dress of lilac sheer with wheat-colored accessories and corsage of lavender orchids. The young couple will make their home in Oshawa.

Guests were present from Toronto, Peterborough, Belleville, Read and Bogart.

"Womanish Knack"

Another Toronto man confesses to having a "womanish knack" when it comes to preparing desert He produces the following recipe, saying the method of preparation reminds him of brickmaking." For lack of a better title we'll call it "Bricklayer's Special."

Ingredients: One package of Jelly (lime); one tin crushed pineapple; one-half pint of whipping cream; one bottle of red maraschino cherries; three crushed walnuts.

Prepare jelly and allow it barely to set before whipping with egg-beater until creamy. Return to refrigerator until firm. Whip cream.

Comes the "bricklaying" part. Serve in tall desert dishes. Add two dessertspoons of the jelly to each glass. Add the same amount of pineapple. Continue and finish by cover with whipped cream. Sprinkle walnuts on top. Add cherry. Serves five.

Mere Male Adds New Note To Recipes

BY KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Did you think collecting recipes is strictly women's work, and mother is the only one in the family who can whip up a frilly desert?

Just ask Stirling.

Ever since we issued a call for dishes that men like to concoct, we have been flooded with recipes.

The Montreal newspaper man sends along a couple of new ideas for "those who get tired of eating eggs fried, scrambled or poached all the time."

He suggests "Ouefs a la Neige" (snow eggs). This takes two hard-cooked eggs to each person. Make a white sauce using corn starch and milk. Slice eggs in the sauce and serve either French-fried or mashed potatoes and green peas.

To make the sauce: one cup of milk per person; allow one tablespoon full heaping point; mix three teaspoonful of corn starch in water and add it to milk. Cook until thickens.

Ragout de Boulettes

This Montrealer, who describes himself as perhaps "a Canadian traitor for disliking pea soup" believes that not many persons know how to serve pigs' knuckles in any other way. "Ragout de Boulettes."

His recipe: Boil knuckles in flour and brown in frying pan before placing in cauldron. Brown two large onions, make sauce. Boil water in cauldron and add pigs' knuckles. Add meatballs to cauldron.

We're told this dish is tasty "when served with boiled potatoes and salad."

Escape From Behind Iron Curtain Arduous Trip for New Duchess

VANCOUVER (CP) —The story of an escape from behind the Iron Curtain which cost the lives of four men was told by pretty Irma Gosling in an article for the Vancouver Sun.

"The Iron Curtain is no figure of speech," she wrote. "It is a sickening reality, two parallel rows of barbed wire rigged with bombs and rocket flares that are successfully impregnating millions of fellow countrymen in eastern Europe.

"About 80 of my fellow Hungarians each month try to get through. Four or five make it. Those caught are shot or imprisoned for years. I was one of the lucky ones.

"Yet my escape cost my husband $5,000. And it cost the lives of four cunning and determined men."

One of those to escape in 1948 was her cousin who had married Ronald Gosling, a British citizen. They left their life savings behind and went to South America where he got a fresh start as manager of a British firm handling a colonization scheme.

"Meanwhile, I had not joined any communist underground groups and my family and I were classified as politically unreliable," she wrote.

Reduced to direst poverty, one day she received a letter from Ronald Gosling, and told his wife had died sometime ago and that he was bringing up their child Virginia. He asked her to come out and marry him. The letter came through an underground route which she said she would not disclose.

Hazardous Route

She accepted the proposal and Ronald moved to Austria where he got in touch with the guides who operate through the area and who are engaged in "the most un si seuqnoq snopuewy world."

He had to deposit $5,000 in a safe deposit box in the presence of "Tony," the guide. Then they took the car to a notary and made out a legal agreement, and the adventure began.

"Tony had made other deals with four other guides before he found Tony. Two of these men had been shot at the border. The others had been caught en route to Budapest."

Weeks later Irma, guided by Tony, travelled by train and bus toward the Austrian border, walking the last 23 miles. At the fence, "stretching as far as the eye could reach," Tony gingerly led her through the high fence. On the other side was 30 feet of mud and another barbed barrier which he also breached with his pliers, and she was free.

A few days later the young couple stepped from a train and took a room in the west end of the city.

"Today we are on the threshold of a new life. Ron has a job but he has talent and lots of energy. We have each other. And we have our freedom."

Carrier Girls Shine in West

Moose Jaw, Sask. (CP) —Boys in Moose Jaw are putting their sisters to work. The Moose Jaw Times-Herald now has several girls on its delivery routes.

Most of the gi.' are substituting for their brothers, who have either taken jobs paying better money for the summer or have gone on holidays.

Circulation manager Harold Woodall won't go so far as to say girls are better than boys in the paper delivery business. But he claims there are fewer complaints on routes serviced by girls.

Too Early Walking Bad for Infant

New York (CP) — It may warm grandma's heart to see the baby taking his first steps, but it may damage junior's legs and feet if he really isn't ready.

The average child will show signs of wanting to walk just as soon as he is ready—usually about the age of 13 or 14 months. But if he's still on all-fours at that stage it is no cause for worry, Henry children particularly frequently start walking too late, and they can suffer injury if forced into walking too soon.

The leather industry knows here, which is interested in selling the right shoes for baby, says that teaching the infant to walk correctly is more important than getting him to walk prematurely. He should be taught to walk correctly in a straight line without "toeing-out." Otherwise there is a danger of developing weak and flat feet.

For first walking shoes pliable leather soles are best, experts are recommended by this organization. It says good baby shoes should have roughened surfaces on the leather soles, to prevent slipping. Inner linings should be smooth, and there should be a half-inch or three-quarters of an inch of space between the largest toe and the tip of the shoe.

NAME CHANGES

Quite often these days a list appears in the newspaper giving the names of people who have officially changed their names. Many of us get hot under the collar to prevent against the fact that this sort of thing is permitted by law. Then somebody touches us on the shoulder and says: "But waint a minute, Sister, don't you know that many of the world's famous people go through life under names not actually their own."

Now it seems that if you take the real names of three 20th century international leaders — Spencer, Martensen and Dzhugashvili, you find they've been changed. The Churchill family became extinct as far as Poppy and Sherbrooke are concerned. The Martensen connections went through the female line to the Spencers who adopted Churchill as their name.

Dzhamels every time.

What's In A Name

Franklin D. Roosevelt's first American ancestor, Claes Martensen changed his common Dutch surname to the fancier Roosevelt shortly after arriving in New York in the 1870's. Roosevelt was the name of his native village in Holland. Dzhugashvili is really Stalin's name. He changed it to Stalin meaning "man of steel" when he entered revolutionary politics as a young man.

Three great English-speaking adventurers in geographical quests should actually be known as Dr. Livingstone, John Speke and Colonel Menason. Dr. Livingston's grandfather Anglicized his original Gaelic name MacLeay to the famous Livingstone. John Rowland Jones born in Wales, changed his name to that of his benefactor Sir Henry Stanley. Colonel Lindberg's father's name was Mandell but he had it changed to Lindberg before the trans-Atlantic flier was born.

A person could list many proceeds of famous people whose family names have been changed for various reasons. One of which makes us look rather silly when we criticize John Doe for what it today.

Little Letters

Small print is so often more important to us personally than the big type. It usually pays to call our attention to it by anything from an insurance clause, to an oil burner service pamphlet, to the number of fluid ounces on a marmalade jar. In fact, so important is small print these days, it is almost possible for us average people to live on it. They tell us the lawyers have been living off it for a long time.

Just this week we would certainly have missed the pleasure of a fine radio program if we hadn't been a fine-print-Flogzie, in the mail came a printed invitation to listen to a musical program over the Canadian Broadcasting station. The card gave the date, hour and place on the dial. The name of the tenor appeared in large letters, as did the name of the orchestra conductor. The name of the composer was, however, buried in very small light letters. The invitation was from the C.B.C.

Composer Slighted

It so happened this composer was an acquaintance of ours and we were interested in hearing his music. Strikes us though, that the chap responsible for producing this music in the first place, music worthy of 30 minutes hiring over a coast-to-coast network, should rate the same size type as the soloist and the conductor.

Anyway, little type or big type, the program turned out to be one of the many fine musical shows using Canada's talent which the C.B.C. deserves much credit for presenting.

The 12th of July in Belfast, Ireland

By Lavonia Stockelbach

Two years ago I enjoyed a St. Patrick's parade in New York, yesterday, the 12th of July parade in Belfast Ireland.

The day before, there was a drive from Belfast through the towns of Lisburn, Moira, Largan, Portadown. Every little town and village was decorated attractively with many flags and some with arches. The mottos interested me.

This we will maintain:
Serve God: honor the King;
Love the brotherhood;
Ardens vel virens
Love God, serve the King.

Always there seemed a touching personal loyalty to the King and Royal family.

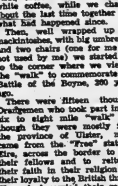
All along the way boys and girls were gathering fuel for the evening bonfires. They were indeed optimistic for there was a dismal chilly drizzle. And there were no bonfires for the drizzle turned to a heavy rain by evening.

Once again I succumbed the uncomfortable stony slope to the Church of Ireland, interesting in its intense simplicity, but locked and the rector not to be found. The graves are desirable for the most part, but one would like to learn more of the dates on some. One monument to soldiers read:

These also died in war
That we might live in Peace.

In this town Francis Dixon Lucas was born and in recognition of his services during the American Revolutionary war was created Baronet and quite naturally chose as his title the name of his birthplace, and so became Baron Moira. His mother was Elizabeth Hastings of the Huntingdon family. It is to be noted that this section was given to the family during the time of the "plantations" when the Scotch and English during the time of James 1st of England (6th of Mary, Queen of Scots) were given wide areas in Ireland and in Antrim. The dates and circumstances are still a matter of research.

On the way I stopped for a meal at Lisburn having asked the address of the best restaurant and a good meal it was; soup, shepherd's pie with fresh peas, new potatoes, apple tart and tea. That sounds simple but the outcome features that it was perfectly cooked and deftly served by an unusually pretty girl, not only pretty, but looking.



The next morning in Belfast I was met by friends to spend the day with them in their home near the place where the parade was to end and the speeches to begin and also end. The weather held, but looked discouraging. That, however, could not affect the warmth of Irish hospitality. First, there was the breakfast, while coffee, while we chatted about the last time together and what had happened since.

Then, well wrapped up in mackintoshes, with big umbrellas, and two chairs (one for me but not used by me) we started out to the corner where we viewed the "walk" to commemorate the Battle of the Boyne, 300 years ago.

There were fifteen thousand Orangemen who took part in the six to eight mile "walk" and though they were mostly from the province of Ulster, many came from the "Free" state of Eire, across the border to join their fellows and to reiterate their faith in their religion and their loyalty to the British throne. These had carried their regalia with them as naturally in Free Eire they could not openly wear any evidence of loyalty. There were also complete lodges and bands from Scotland.

All parades and pageants are interesting to the writer. This was of special interest because of its obvious sincerity of sentiment, its lack of quite apathetic the people of the South who have withdrawn themselves from the greatest unions of nations this world has ever seen — the British Empire or Commonwealth — and whose neutral conduct caused the loss of so many lives and so much property in this Island.

Apart from the men who walked all those miles and listened to all those speeches, there were two outstanding features, the music and the banners. The bands were incredibly well pained on pure silk and by the Brigiti family, the craft having been handed down from father to son.

In the centre of each was either an historical scene or the portrait of some well-known person. Some showed the open Bible, others a cup from which the Holy Grail with its little top could be lifted. The Arch Bishop of Armagh's banners meant more to me than perhaps they otherwise would. Those showing Patrick preaching the Bible to a very black potentate as the "secret of England's greatness" had a depth of meaning that one had carefully lost sight of.

The designs surrounding and framing these central scenes and portraits were adorable and the colors, both of the designs and of the silk they were painted on were superb. Only silk can capture the firm brightness of every shade — almost every shade — and hold it fast in nature.

I was a most astonished onlooker for what I had seen of that kind in America were so coarse and crude as to be almost hideous.

It was also borne in on me that this was a celebration of an hour in history, greater than it was suspected at the time when the Duke of Orange forded the river with his whole army, at one point with the water up to the riders' waders, and the enemy waiting on the other side. Here in this outof-the-way place was to be decided the issue as to whether or not the XIV of France would get back at his old foe William of Orange with James II as cat's paw. England was not in the first time a pawn of France.

But my reviewing of history was accidental to my admiration for the painting on those silken banners. After years of study in the capitals of art in the capitals of Europe, here was a new and unsuspected type of beauty, developed in one's soul a deep emotion.

The top corners of the banners were decorated with roses, chiefly the orange lily. I had supposed they had been gathered from the fields but not so. In Ireland it is a cultivated flower. Fuchsias seem to grow wild, but not the orange lily. There were also many roses, sweet William and other flowers, but the lily was the flower its own flower stuck in the caps of the bands, or in the buttonholes, one having chosen the delicate Tady-dew." No color was unrepresented, for the colors of the Brigiti family was of black silk in memory of the founder, and another band had a band of bit of black fastened to them to commemorate the loss of a member of the lodge during the year.

There were very many bands. The flute bands are costly; it takes $2,000 to equip a flute band but not the birds of the field, except crows, rooks and jackdaws, have more musical notes or more notes to complete the harmony.

There were Irish bagpipes and some Scotch bagpipes which are easier to get but were for the most part played by Irishmen. Some tutoring I was almost able to distinguish one from the other as they approached. It was explained to me that the Irish were built on the chromatic scale and we could play each tune as "Abide with Me, fast falls the eventide," impossible for a Scotch, or with considerable agony to the hearer.

One nice thing for me was to see two men playing one drum, the first man walking backwards. It was a marvel that it could be done. "But they're Scottish," said my friend, "they have not a proper regard for their drums." It was interesting to observe the precautions taken to preserve the drums from the rain. Some were covered with material that had been used for the barrage balloons, some Scots had drawn their plaid shawls over them.

There were none of the huge drums, for who could carry them more than a short distance.

On and on came the bands, bandsmen and members of the lodges, many of them Temperance Lodges. For over six miles they had walked, proud witnesses of the faith that was in them. So tired were some that they had no dance to keep up their courage. "Very undignified, they will be disciplined when they return," was my friend's comment, but it seemed to me that they should have been cheered, and "Derry's Walls" asked for dancing feet.

The thousands of onlookers ranged from three months to about eighty years. Instead of going to the field to hear the orations, including those from New Zealand, Canada and Scotland, they returned after three two and a half hours to a glowing five, a hearty, perfectly-cooked meal and an afternoon of talk, tea and an evening party with more people, more delicious food, more stories that the French are talenty think they can rival.

Talk was vitalizing. What clean' clear minds these Ulstermen have, and what wit and affection their showing! Some questions they had to ask me of Toronto and Algeria, of Canada and the States. And was I going to Aachen to view the relics as depicted in the News Chronicle of the 9th. "The robe worn by the Virgin Mary on the night of Christ's nativity," one thousand years ago, "the swadding clothes of the infant Christ," "the linen cloth worn by Christ on the cross" and the cloth in which the severed head of John the Baptist had been covered." These relics had been collected by the Emperor Charlemagne eight hundred years ater the event. But I decided against travelling with the six hundred thousand pilgrims to Aachen.

No Canadians and Americans who live so far from these scenes it is difficult to realize what an hour in history, greater than it was suspected at the time, meant to Orange forded the river with his whole army, at one point with the water up to the riders' waders, and the enemy waiting on the other side. Here in this outof-the-way place was to be decided the issue as to whether or not the XIV of France would get back at his old foe William of Orange with James II as cat's paw. Birth announcements when baby's father is in service

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My sister is going to have a baby soon, and I am planning to send out the birth announcements for her. Her husband is in the service, stationed in the Far East. Should I include his name on the announcements?

Elaine

Yes, indeed. Include his name on the announcements! As a matter of fact, if the announcements are of an informal type, as they probably will be, you might write on them (or at least on the ones going to relatives and close friends) some news note about the baby's father. For example, "Jon will be so happy and proud to hear of the birth of his son, a fine, sturdy boy to be named after his father. Jon is now in the——(service) in ——."

These "it's-a" side dishes" for serving vegetables

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am very much puzzled to know what to do when I'm confronted with the array of vegetables in the little side dishes. Should I eat the vegetables from the dishes just as they are served, or should I take the vegetables from the dishes to my dinner plate?

A. C.

When you are 'confronted' with this side-dish service in a restaurant . . . which is where one more often meets it . . . you properly take, or may take, the vegetables from the side dishes to your plate. This is not practically all vegetables are served directly on the plate (or luncheon) plate, you will probably not come across this side-dish service in a private house. It is a "still left to your cue as to the custom of the household by seeing what your hostess and host do.

Dangerous procedure . . . to give her fiance a ring as "surprise" present

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Next month, on my birthday, I'm to receive my diamond engagement ring. And at the time I'd like to surprise my fiance by giving him a ring too—(I think the man should have an engagement present as well as the girl. Do you approve of my doing this? (My mother and father don't approve.)

Sue N.

I never approve of a girl's giving a man a ring as an engagement present, or giving him a wedding ring . . . unless she is absolutely positive that he wants to wear a ring, and, what kind of ring he prefers! It's a mighty dangerous procedure for a girl to give her fiance (or her husband) a ring as a "surprise" . . . as I judge your mother and father have already warned you. The majority of men, particularly in this country, don't like to wear a ring . . . but a man who does want to wear one, wants to wear the kind he prefers. Also some men who wear a ring insist on wearing it on the small finger . . . never on any other finger. So you'd better ask him before you give your fiance some other kind of Crater Lake, Oregon, was formed when a mountain blew its top. In the huge basin that was left, water began to collect and eventually formed a lake 6,000 feet above sea level.

But there were no fish until the U.S. government stocked the pool with the sweetest and most prized of all fresh water fish—rainbow trout.

In restaurants rainbow trout ranks with pompano as fare fit for millionaires. It is expetsive because of the small commercial supply which comes mainly from the Rockies.

If there are fishermen in your family, this is the time of the year when they should bring back a dozen or so trout from a weekend in the country. Small sea trout or weakfish can be substituted if you buy your fish in a neighborhood market.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Give these parents a little time—then make your own decision

Dear Miss Fairfax:

For almost a year now, I have been going steady with a very attractive girl in her early twenties. I am two years older and have a college education, and a good job with a future. She goes to college during the school year and works in the summer, comes from a very nice family with a fine background and a comfortable income. We are not formally engaged, but have been planning on getting married next year.

There are two problems. One is that, while I'm am of the same faith as this girl and her mother, her father is not a church member and so is hesitant about having his daughter marry me. The second problem is that my girl's parents feel she should get some experience in the business world before she marries.

With these things in mind, what would you suggest? We love each other very much, but my girl is timid about making a decision, so I'm not going to push down with her parents.

B. P.

Dear B.P.:

Since you have a good job, and I assume the means of a wife, it seems to me it should be up to the girl herself whether she wants to get married before or after college, or not. I don't think her parents should make this decision for her.

As for the fact that her father is of a different faith than yours, I don't see what difference it makes, since the girl and also her mother are of your faith.

Why don't you do things ride along a bit, 'till your girl finishes school and, perhaps, by the time you are ready to go ahead with your plans they will be used to the idea. If they continue to oppose it, however, then I think you have a right to make your own decision, and the girl should have the strength of character to accept the responsibility of doing so.

You won't win a boy with tattletales

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm deeply in love with a boy who is on his way to Korea. He is 19 and I am 17.

He has a sweetheart here at home who has promised not to go with other boys while he is away. She is also being faithful to him and her promise. I love him very much and I have faith in him and believe that he will come back all right. I don't want to break his heart, so I have kept quiet about his girl dating other boys, but do you think I should tell him?

I'm just one of his old flames and he is writing to him as a pen pal while he is away.

B. S.

Dear B.S.:

Aren't you a little inconsistent? You say you don't want to break this boy's heart and then you suggest that you tell him anyway. Why would you tell him?

The way it is, I think, that either consciously or unconsciously, you want him to know about this girl's behavior in the hope that he'll get disgusted with her and turn to you. Think this over and see if it doesn't hit the nail on the head. No doubt, sooner or later, someone is going to write this chap the bad news, but why should you be the one? In this connection, you might add that you don't think it will raise your stock any with him, to be a tattletale.

BEAUTY

Step lightly; be graceful

Splendor of bearing is more a matter of correct carriage than of weight. There are women who tote more pounds than they should but who walk gracefully, dance lightly. The secret of their pleasing appearance and charm of movement lies in carrying the head on the level, keeping the chest lifted, the back bone extended, the shoulders in an easy pose.

Heavy-footed women usually stand and walk with the head thrust forward and the chest flattened. This habit throws the body out of balance, creates awkward lines. The small of the back curves outward instead of in, and the shoulders droop. Though one may have a figure that is well-night perfect, it has no charm if posture is not vibrant.

When the body is upright, the circumference of the figure is actually reduced. This improvement is particularly noticeable at the waistline and the abdomen, areas where fat cells are inclined to collect.

Walking should be a beautiful, rhythmic means of locomotion, not a wiggly progression from one place to another. There should be no knee action; the legs should be kept straight, the hip joint acting as the pivoting point. There should be an easy swing of the hips—but never from side to side, a practice that makes it unconscionable as if she were calling attention to her figure.

Too much stress cannot be placed on walking as a means toward health and good looks. It costs nothing but time. It is within the means of everyone. It requires no equipment, as is necessary for playing golf or tennis. It requires no special sports clothes. It necessitates only the inclination to get out and walk; and a pair of practical, well-fitting shoes with flexible leather soles. The high-heeler might better step indoors; she will suffer fatigue and no good will come of her out-door excursion.

There are many wrong ways of getting places, and we wish to remind you of a few of them. If you will stand on some buy-way and watch the passing crowds, you will see these different types.

There is the jerky walker. This practice usually comes from hurrying the toes outward and from bending the knee as the foot goes forward. Some jittery girls use this method of locomotion and it does not make for attractiveness.

FRANKFORD

ACCEPTS NEW POSITION

Frankford — Word has been received that Bill Berecht, popular Bank of Montreal employee, will be leaving shortly to take up a new position in Hamilton. Bill has been in Frankford approximately four years and has many friends during his stay. Bill has taken a keen interest in sports in the village, managing a juvenile team to the Eastern Ontario finals in 1948, piloting the Frankford intermediates to the Trent Valley baseball league in 1949 and the O.A.S.A. semi-finals for Eastern Ontario in 1950, midget hockey to the Eastern Ontario finals in 1950.

In 1951, he was elected president of the Trent Valley Softball League and has been active in both, especially with the many difficulties that have arisen in the league this season.

Both Bill and his charming wife, Audrey, participated in the Frankford Bowling League and were popular with all.

In June of this year, Bill was elected president of the Lions Club of Frankford, Inc., after having been secretary-treasurer for some time the club's formation. He was one of the charter members in organizing the club and has been active in practically every project the club has undertaken.

Bill and Audrey will be greatly missed by Frankford, and everyone will join in wishing them the very best in their new home.

Free T.B. Clinic

(The citizens of Frankford are urgently requested to read this item.)

On August 24 (Friday) a mobile T.B. Clinic will be visiting Frankford and will be located until somewhere in the Memorial Park near the Community Hall. Between now and that time a canvasser will be calling, and will be asking for the names of the family over 12 years of age, in order that each may have a free X-ray. The Ontario Department of Health is trying hard to improve the standard of health in the province, and only with co-operation can this be achieved. When the canvasser calls in the next few days, greet him or her cordially, and co-operate to the fullest. T.B. plays no favorites, and often the most healthy looking person in town may be a victim.

The clinic will be open 10 to 13 a.m., and 2 till 4 and 7 till 10 p.m. This worthy project is sponsored by the Lions Club of Frankford.

PICTON

Reference Board Under Judge Lane Re-instates Teacher

Picton—Acting upon the decision of a Board of Reference which was endorsed by the Ontario Municipal Board, Miss Ena Short has been reinstated as teacher of S.S. 12, Hallowell township, after being dismissed County, Judge W. S. Lane, chairman of the board, announced today.

The Board of Reference was called to hear the first such case in the county and the third in Ontario which involved a woman teacher. Should a teacher feel that she has been wrongly dismissed, she can appeal for such a hearing, Judge Lane pointed out.

10 Years at School

Mrs. Short has taught at this school for the past 10 years, the report to the department following the hearing stated. In April she was notified by the Board of Trustees that they were dissatisfied and desired to have a younger teacher, and therefore were dismissing her. Miss Short is a member of the Ontario Teachers' Federation which instituted the proceedings and provided her with counsel.

When the hearing was held in Judge's Chambers, Picton, the trustees and a number of parents and pupils gave evidence in the manner in which Mrs. Short disciplined the pupils. Judge Lane was named chairman of the board with F. L. Ward, K.C., Picton, representing the school section, and Miss Janet McArthur of Windsor, for the Teachers' Federation, being the teacher.

Acted for Trustees

R. E. Nourse, Picton acted as counsel for the school trustees. He contended that notice of the hearing had not been given in the required 10-day period as required by statute, and that the Board of Reference had no power to act because, he said, "it lacked the required seal."

The board, in its report, stated that it was satisfied that Mrs. Short had complied with the statute in the first instance, while a letter objecting was held by the board to be inconclusive because of over-riding provisions in the Public Schools Act and the Teachers' Reference Act, Hallowell Public School Inspector.

Considerable stress in the evidence was given to the questions and disciplinary measures by the teacher with her pupils. Two Belleville men, L. Holmes and J. Breen also paid $15 and costs or being intoxicated in a public place. Found guilty of driving while drunk, Ronald Parks received both a fine of $15 and costs and a sentence of seven days in the county jail in Belleville.

Three people paid fines for highway traffic cases. Speeding on Highway No. 62 cost Harold Workovitch, of St. Catharines, $10 and costs, Douglas Olmstead of Maple Leaf, paid $5 and costs for having improper lights, and Peter Pirie, of Bird's Creek, also paid $10 and costs for not having a driver's licence.

On an assault charge, M. E. Keluskey of Bancroft, was assessed costs of $26.60 and was bound over to keep the peace for one year.

Saundris, of Bancroft, paid the same fine for the same offence. Two Belleville men, L. Holmes and J. Breen also paid $15 and costs or being intoxicated in a public place. HAS 'RECORD OF ACCURACY

New York, Aug. 10 (AP)—A mechanical "bombardier," with a reported record of accuracy far superior to human aiming, or bombing by radar, has been developed in an air force base in Korea, a reliable source said yesterday. It was not disclosed whether it is operating in combat.

It was described as a computer, electronically operated, which records on the ground, but nevertheless guides the bombers, and the pilot, right up for the bombs, at the end of the bombing run.

The instrument said it guides the plane to the target, "following" it on a radar screen.

Reds Get Workout With All-Stars, Broda's Boys Biffed for 15-1 Loss

By MAURICE M. REID

Belleville Redmen and "Turk" Broda's National Hockey League All-Stars tangled in an exhibition baseball game at the Fairgrounds on Friday night with the All-Stars coming out on the long end of a 15-1 score.

And what an exhibition! The hockey all-stars proved to a capacity crowd that as baseball players they are without a doubt the world's best hockeyists.

The Reds took one run lead in the first inning, added a pair in the second and from that point on were never threatened. Tom Buchanan's single to centre drove in Vern Geyer who had singled previously for the initial counter. Reeves walked in the second, stole second and scored on Carson's hit. "Red" stole second, made third on an error and came home on a wild pitch.

Lose Run in Second

Hugh Bolton of the all-stars tripled to centre in the second, scoring on an error by Reeves on a fielder's choice and on the game.

Belleville added five more in the fourth, three in the fifth and another trio in the sixth frame. A lone counter in the bottom of the seventh concluded the batting splurge.

Willie Fordham started on the mound for the Redmen, allowing four hits in the five innings that he worked. He was replaced by "Cuffer" Noakes in the sixth who gave up no hits for the remainder of the game.

Hugh Bolton handled the hurling chore for the all-stars for the first five frames with Cal Gardiner behind the plate. At the start of the sixth inning the battery combination of Gardiner was able to clamp down on the Redmen, allowing but one hurt by some very loose fielding behind him. He showed a great assortment of mixed trick deliveries in his four inning stint.

"Turk" Broda took his swings in the ninth as a pinch-hitter for Ray Timgren but he fanned on three pitches.

Stars Get Four Hits

Hugh Bolton (Toronto Maple Leafs) led the visitors at the plate with a triple and single, Harry Watson (Maple Leafs) banged out a double and Max Quackenbush (Bruins) singled for the other hit.

Others on the team were Cal Gardiner (Maple Leafs), Al Dewsbury (Black Hawks), Ray Timgren (Maple Leafs), Jim Thomson (Maple Leafs), Ed Harrison (Rangers) and Johnny Mc-Cormick (Maple Leafs).

Fitzpatrick, Dean, Buchanan and Noakes each had a pair of base hits while Willie Fordham banged out a triple for his only safe hit.

At the end of the sixth inning a draw was made for a hockey stick autographed by all of the all-stars. Marty Halloran held the winning ticket.

Schwabs Lead the Wee Playoffs

Behind the brilliant two hit pitching of righthander Jack Elliott, Schwab's shut out Walker Hardware 6-0 in the first game of a best-in-three series for the Pee Wee Baseball League's city championship.

He fanned just 12 men in the five inning tilt, four of them in the first frame. In the fifth Walkers' centrefielder, Kvarda, smashed a triple to right field but was picked off base.

Schwab's counted once in the first on three walks and a single. They added two more in the second on two triples and a passed ball, and wound up the scoring in the third on a single, two walks, and two infield outs.

Joe Ryan did the chucking for Walkers. He walked nine and shut out eight while scattering five hits.

Walkers mustered one while claiming seven on strikes.

The two teams meet in the second game of the series this afternoon at 2.00 p.m. at the CNB Athletic Field.

Hamilton, Aug. 11—(CP)—The Hamilton Board of Health has officially recognized that the buying power of the present-day dollar is much less than it used to be. Formerly free dental services were available only to families with one child in which the parents earned no more than $37.50 a week. The minimum now has been raised to $50.

Glen Roy's Win Over Plumbers In Tenth 6-5

The only thing missing in Glen Roy's tenth inning 6-5 victory over Howe and Hagerman last evening was a swelling mile to revive the weak-hearted.

In the most nerve-wracking game-thrilling softball game seen here in years, Glen Roy Athletic Club stayed off a ninth inning rally by the Plumbers and then came through in sensational fashion in the 10th to win. There were home runs, desperation base running, squeeze bunts, spectacular outfield catches and hair-raising sliding at home plate.

The win gave Glen Roy a big edge in the best-in-five series to determine the Commercial League 'A' representative for the O.A.S.A. playdowns. The squads meet in the third game Tuesday night at the Alemite Field.

Glen Roy took the lead in the second frame when they pushed over three runs on two errors and two singles.

Score Two Runs

Howe and Hagerman, after going down in order in the first three frames, decided they had a good look at Don Boyle's assortment and consequently put together a trio of hits for a scratch infield single to score two runs. They took the lead for the first time in the series in the bottom of the sixth inning with Vern Geyer singling to centre field and Scotty McGregor's long hoist to centrefield, that was dropped by Fitzpatrick for three bases and Don Locke beat out a bouncing ball back of third base to plate McGregor as the Plumbers took a 4-3 lead.

Glen Roy responded with dramatic suddenness in the seventh as Doug Sword led off with a home run to the barrier in left field Lyle Wannamaker followed with a towering smash to left field that escaped Don Adams for four bases.

Doubles by Jack Wardhaugh and Doug Sword netted the tie count in the bottom of the seventh, with Wardhaugh sliding in safely on a passed ball.

Had Game In Bag

Howe and Hagerman appeared to have the game in the bag in the last of the ninth when they put Al Adams on third and Jack Wardhaugh on second with no one out. Putnouty to the infield squelched the rally and the winning runs withering away on base.

In the 10th Alf Rowbotham beat out a bunt but was called out for interference in running inside the first base line. With two out Bill Corbett singled, Keith Baldwin followed with a single to left field and Corbett whipped all the way into third. The relay, Corbett, and a cloud of dust appeared simultaneously at the plate and the ball squirted away from Jack Wardhaugh into the Plumber dugout with Corbett scoring in with the winning run.

The plumbers went down without any trouble in the 10th.

Don Boyle went all the way for the win walking one, striking out six, and giving up 10 hits for five runs. Al Adams toiled the route for Howe and Hagerman striking out Alf Rowbotham three times, striking out one, and surrendering just seven safeties.

Lineup: Glen Roy: Ronsky rf; Rowbotham c; Stafford ss; Corbett 1b; Baldwin 2b; J. Hunter lf; Sword 3b; Wannamaker cf; Boyle p.

Howe and Hagerman: J. Wardhaugh 3b; D. Adams 1f; Fitzpatrick 2b; V. Geyer c, cf; McGregor as; Locke 1b; H. Wardhaugh cf, rf; Williams rf, replaced by L. Geyer in 2nd; A. Adams p.

Demaret Leads In Third Round At Tam O'Shanter

Chicago, Aug. 11 (AP)—Jimmy Demaret, fashion plate of the fairways with just $4,300 earned this year, today had drawn a halfway head on golf's $14,000 loot, the $14,500 top prize in the tournament.

The 41-year-old Demaret, from Ojai, Calif., was a one-stroke leader at eight-under par 136 as the "world" shifted into its third 18-hole round at Tam O'Shanter course.

Two tough customers, U.S. Open champion Ben Hogan and big, bustling Clayton Heafner, were tied at 137.

Two strokes behind Demaret, with 138, were Johnny Palmer, Bob Hamilton, Lawson Little, Herman Barton, Ed Furgol and Al Brosch.

But the field of 64 pros and 10 amateurs may find Demaret long so much a laughing boy for this big one. For one thing, he doesn't want to let down his pert, 16-year-old daughter, Peggy, a starry-eyed follower of Jimmy on his three-under-par 69 yesterday. And another thing, Demaret hasn't done too well lately, his best 1951 effort being a fourth in the Canadian Open.

Three strokes behind Demaret was the lone 139 shooter, Glenn Ford of Knoxville, Tenn. The 140 bracket listed five pros and the pace-setter of the 10 "world" amateurs, Toledo's Frank Stranahan.

Vancouver's Stan Leonard had 143 and shared that figure with South Africa's Bobby Locke and Phil Scrivton of Britain, the amateur.

Leading the foreign contingent with 141 was Norman Von Nida of Australia.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT
(For Hugh Phillips, Jr.)

Montreal, Aug. 11 (AP)—Well, here we are in Canada, where the tennis ungulates do battle in two languages (French first) and where a bright young American collegian can make as high as $20,000 a year playing "amateur" football.

The only drawback to the latter deal is that he gets only three downs in which to make 10 yards instead of the four to which he has become accustomed and that he has to do his own blocking once he's past the scrimmage line.

It's unfair to ball carriers, obviously, but the Canadians love it.

As one who has known a long line of non-playing onlookers of American Davis Cup tennis teams this observer wouldn't be surprised if the United States finally has become smart in picking Frank Shields to master-mind the squad which will try to bring the big mug back from Australia next December.

It has been such a short time since Frank was playing championship tennis himself, that he is keenly aware of the little factors which can mean the difference between winning and losing a cup match.

Pressure Play

For instance, he says he is going to exert all the pressure he can on the Australian combination to see that there are at least three weeks between the singles runs final at Melbourne —doubles between the United States and Sweden and the challenge round against the Australian team at Sydney. Only a week's lapse has been customary.

In Montreal they seem to think it's a cinch that the U.S. will reclaim the cup. After watching Dick Savitt dust off Montreal's Brendan Macken with effortless ease in yesterday's opening matches, the Canadians figure it can't win fewer than two singles —the bag limit against the Aussies.

It isn't quite that simple. In the first place Savitt might well not lick both Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor on their home grounds when they will have that clever tennis tactician, Harry Hopman coaching them.

Secondly, there probably isn't a chance that Shields will be able to paste together a doubles combination capable of winning from Sedgman and McGregor. He is trying still another pairing— Tony Trabert and Budge Patty —in today's match against Canada.

Tony and Patty doubtless will be able to handle Macken and Henri Rochon, but the latter are a far cry from the Aussie pair.

Yanks, Tribe Maintain Torrid Pace In Neck-and-Neck Race For Flag

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO[illegible]ER, Sports Editor

REDS TACKLE MEMOS!

The Redmen are in Brockville this afternoon where they take on the fast-travelling Memos of that city, leaders of the COBL who have been setting a flaming pace for the past few weeks.

The Brocks have been turning back other teams of the league with almost monotonous regularity of late and the Redmen hope to mark a defeat on Joe Herschock's beauties.

Incidentally a strange name or so has been cropping up on the Memos line-up of late. What goes on? Has Barney Phelan's fountain pen developed a chronic sickness, or isn't there a dependable rule for signing of players. Maybe the estimable Barney has the old pitched stored away in the Memos refrigerator, or the cold pitched stored away in the Memos refrigerator, or the cold pitched stored away in the Memos refrigerator, or the smuggler! Let's hope he doesn't pop up with DiMaggio or a few lads of his ilk come playoff time.

In any event the Tribe is fully confident it can take the measure of the doughty down-easters and right in their own backyard. We couldn't reach Coach Pat Wilson today and do not know whom he will send out there to stifle the potent Memo bingoness. However the Brocks can be beaten and the Reds are likely to turn the trick.

SOFTBALL TONIGHT!

Two games are scheduled in the "AA" section of the Commercial Softball League tonight. Cleaners clash with the Bakeries, Hydro meet the Kingston Penitentiary while the Ajax Athletic Club entertains the Ajax Athletic Club. Ajax Athletic Club entertains the Ajax Athletic Club. "Cuffer" the 12 inch baseball .... A brief but beneficial interlude in the "Cuffer's" baseball career .... For our money "Huck" Reeves is a top-flight candidate for the most-improved-player on the Redmen line-up .... The husky ex-catcher has come a long path from the start and has been playing consistently good baseball since .... His work at the shortstop spot has been sensational at times, and his clouting hickory has sent many a poe outfielder scampering fencewards ....

Second game of the intermediate "A" series will be staged here Saturday, Aug. 18th .... Ned Vitarelli, dynamic Peterborough ex-player and coach is back in the old hunting grounds and likely will be heard from in hockey circles this season ....

Larry Murphy, should be the central figure of his company's "Men of Distinction" platform .... A little belated, but congrats to the tall pivot-top .... It was a girl .... For team loyalty you can't beat these gals of the Glan Roys ....

The spouses and sweethearts of the players follow the team consistently and are wholeheartedly behind the squad .... It won't be their fault if Don McGovern's baddies don't come home with a pennant title .... Bet they should remember an old pal when they pick that ticket in the for-better-or-worse draws at each game .... The free publicity received by the New York Yankees in one year from newspaper coverage in the N. Y. Times would cost $900,000 at advertising rates, says a St. Louis sports columnist .... The actual advertising bought in the Times cost $4,000 .... Fan wags have dubbed Harold Rawden "Ben" because of that white puffon cap he wears while umpiring baseball games .... No doubt the "Ben" is in reference to Ben Hogan who favors a similar chapeau .... Let's hope "Bawdy" doesn't get a yen for an army beret or some sculpsor will ish him "Monty" or "Ike" ....

A tip to some of these minor league baseball players who congregate in hosts at the Redmen home games and verbally castigate "Red" Carson .... It is not funny, fellows .... You've got a lot to learn yourselves in baseball from what we have seen .... Besides, if you can't root for the home team, don't advertise your ignorance by parroting some adults who should know better ....

Lacrosse

By The Canadian Press

Mimico Monitties, who have gone down before Peterborough Timbermen in five successive Ontario Lacrosse Association Senior encounters, pulled a surprise last night. Second-place Mounties trimmed the league-leading Peterborough club 13-10 in Mimico.

On the other hand, Toronto West Yorks' slim hope of making the playoffs faded in Hamilton, where the Tigers wound up their home schedule by drubbing the West Yorks 15-7. The Tigers, tied for second place with Mimico, have two out-of-town games to play before the schedule ends.

In last night's other game St. Catharines Athletics came from behind in the final period to beat Fergus Thistles 13-12 in Fergus. However, the victory was not sufficient to move the Athletics up from fourth place.

Four-Baggers by Rosen, Mize Pace Loop-Leaders' Victories; Garver Claws Tigers for 14th

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Pennants are won by clutch hitters like Cleveland's Al Rosen and New York's Johnny Mize. Because these two long-ball hitters came through under pressure the Indians and Yanks are tied for the American League lead.

Rosen smashed a two-run homer with the score tied to give Cleveland a 6-4 share over the stubborn Chicago White Sox. Mize hit a homer and drove in two runs for the Yanks' 3-1 margin over Philadelphia.

Boston, a 6-4 winner over Washington, now is 4 1-2 lengths back and Chicago has dropped eight games behind.

Red Garver of St. Louis won his 14th with a neat 4-2 job on Detroit. Just to make it sure, Garver came up with four hits, including a double.

Rain washed out most of the first division action on the National last night, postponing the Boston-Brooklyn and Philadelphia-New York games. St. Louis nipped Cincinnati 4-3 in 10 innings on Harry Slaton's single with the bases loaded and two out. In the afternoon Mel Queen of Pittsburgh shut out Chicago 3-0 for his first victory since May 13.

Doesn't Work Any

Rosen of the Indians doesn't work many homers. Fourteen of his 18 came in winning games. Three were wasted in losses. The other helped the Tribe to a tie.

Chicago, which has been rough on Cleveland all season, piled up an early 4-0 lead off Bob Lemon, but Manager Lopez couldn't hold it. Lemon went the route for his 13th victory.

Mize, batting for Bobby Brown's slump, single produced the first run in the third. After Mize homered in the sixth, the A's came back with one. The Yanks added their insurance in the 8th on clutch singles by Yogi Berra and Joe DiMaggio and Mize's run-scoring liner to Al Zarilla.

Charley Maxwell's two-run pinch single helped Boston come from behind with a three-run spurt in the sixth inning to top Washington. Clyde Vollmer's 20th homer off Connie Marrero in the eighth nailed down the decision.

Garver was the whole story at Detroit. Cliff Mapes homered off loser Virgil Trucks to break a 1-1 tie in the sixth. Pat Mullin's fifth-inning homer gave the Tigers their first run.

Staley won his own game for the Cardinals. With two out in the 10th, St. Louis loaded the bases on Ken Raffensberger with a walk to Nippy Jones, Wally Westlake's double and an intentional pass to Hal Rice. Staley singled home the winning run for his 12th victory.

Queen settled down after yielding four hits in the first three innings to blank the Cubs while the Pirates made five hits off Cal McLish good for three runs.

Sport in Brief

(By The Canadian Press)

Owner Coley Hall of the Vancouver Canucks in the Pacific Coast Hockey League plans a wholesale renovation of his club, it was reported today.

He said he has offered last year's coach, Murph Chamberlain, a new contract at a "much reduced figure" from his 1950 salary, which was reported to have been $10,000.

If Chamberlain refuses the terms, Hall will "consider seriously" hiring Walter (Babe) Pratt, who last week won his unconditional release as manager of New Westminster Royals. If Pratt fails to land a job on the coast, he will likely go to Saskatoon, Hall said.

George Robbins of Thamesford, Ont., left Hartford Friday with the singles championship of the American Lawn Bowling Association.

Competing late Thursday night, defeated Thos. Sirrat of the Hyde Park Club of Chicago Falls, N.Y., 21 to 8, in the final.

Robbins, 28, was awarded the Brunswick trophy and a plaque from the American Lawn Bowling Association.

Two former professional golfers Friday were reinstated by the Royal Canadian Golf Association as amateurs.

Charles H. Douglas of Deep River, Ont., a member of the Pembroke Golf Club, retired from professional golf competition in 1944. Walter A. McAlpine of Vancouver, B.C., a member of the Vancouver Golf Club, was an instructor with the Y.M.C.A.

Seven stakes totalling $110,000 were announced Friday by Pimlico during the 15-day meeting starting Oct. 27 at Baltimore the dates have not been fixed.

The stakes program will consist of the $15,000 Pimlico Special, $25,000 Pimlico Futurity, $25,000 Pimlico Cup, $15,000 Marguerite, $15,000 Esterbrook, $10,000 Manly Steeplechase, and $5,000 Pimlico Breeders Stakes.

The United States Golf Association said Friday it appeared as if a record field might tee off for the U.S. Amateur championship Sept. 10-15 at Saucon Valley Country Club, Bethlehem, Pa.

Entries close Monday and more than 1,000 entries have been received. The record number to compete was 1,250 at Memphis, Tenn., in 1948.

Charley Gehringer took over Friday as general manager of Detroit Tigers—seven weeks earlier than he had anticipated—so that he can start building for next year.

A surprise announcement from Tiger owner Walter Briggs said Gehringer, an all-time great would assume his duties "immediately," replacing Billy Evans.

Briggs said the move was made to enable Gehringer "to start the talks of strengthening the Detroit baseball club for the 1952 season." Briggs said the 67-year-old Evans ended his duties with the. American League club "as of this date."

Motor Car In Second Place, Beat Alemite 14-4

Belleville Motor Car moved into a second place tie with Avons Jewellers in the Commercial Softball League's AA division last evening with a 14-4 victory over Stewart Warner in nine innings.

The Motormen and Jewellers are now tied with eight wins and nine while Bakelite are in front with nine victories.

The Motormen after taking a 4-3 lead in the first three innings came through with three runs in each of the final three frames to wrap up the game.

A shaky Stewart Warner defence and nine walks did nothing to ease the situation.

Motor Car took a three run lead in the first frame on an error by the right fielder who dropped Semark's holst for three bases with two men out. Hatfield and Rose romped home and then Semark scored on an error to the baseman on Callaghan's roller.

Shorty Miller pulled off an unassisted double play in the bottom of the first to cut off a forward Warner rally. Then Alemite got one run in the second on Duesbury's triple and Barmon's double.

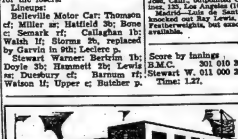
Motor Car used a double, a walk, and two infield outs to score once in the third. Doyle's double and Hammett's single counted for Alemite in their half of the third. A double play, Berrin-to-Doyle cut off the Motor Car rally in the fourth with no runs scoring.

Semark's double and two outfield putouts gave the Motor Car a single tally in the fifth. They used two walks and Jack Callaghan's triple in the seventh to score two more, and Rose's fly, a single, and Bob Hatfield's four bagger to right field for three more in the eighth. They wrapped it up with three in the ninth on a walk, an error, and four singles.

Alemite counted their final two runs in the seventh on two errors and a single.

Lefty Ted Jeffrey toiled the route for the losers. He kept himself in hot water with nine walks while striking out one, but was not accorded sound support by his mates who committed six costly errors, as well as seven runs on one omission.

Leclerc went all the way for the winners walking one, striking out nine, and giving up seven hits for four runs.



Best man at the plate was Motor Car centrefielder Thomson with three hits in five trips. Schiller, Hatfield, Rose and Callaghan each had two. Doyle and Hammett had two-for-four for the losers.

Lineup:

Belleville Motor Car: Thomson cf; Miller ss; Hatfield 3b; Rose 2b; Callaghan lb; Semark rf; Walsh lf; Storms 2b, replaced by Garvin in 9th; Leclerc p.

Stewart Warner: Berrin 1b; Doyle 3b; Hammett 2b; Lewis c; Duesbury cf; Barmon rf; Watson lf; Upper c; Butcher p.

To Swim Channel For Canada, U.S.

Folkestone, Kent, England, Aug. 11 — (Reuters) — Winnie Francis Luezsler of Toronto, North America's only representative in next Monday's international channel swim, said Friday she plans to represent the United States as well as Canada.

Entered under her maiden name, —Ederle— the 25-year-old mother of three children is one of 20 crack swimmers from 11 countries who will compete Monday over the 21 miles of water from Cap Gris Nez, France, to the English coast.

"The truth is I don't think the United States or Canada has the channel swimming seriously.

"So I am going to show the world that North America can at least produce a girl who is willing to swim the channel."

Miss Roach is married to LAC Morris Luezsler of the R.C.A.F. stationed at Calgary.

The prizes are £1,000 and a Festival of Britain cup for the first man and woman across, £500 for the second man and woman, and £2550 to all other swimmers finishing the course.

Errors Factor In Galt Win

(By The Canadian Press)

St. Thomas Legion demonstrated last night why they are hopelessly in last place in the Intercounty Senior Baseball League.

The Legion, playing before a surprisingly good hometown crowd of more than 1,000 fans, committed nine errors as they bowed 9-7 to Galt Terriers.

The wholesale miscues, combined with a wild pitch, gave the Terriers their victory on only one earned run. Second baseman Casanova committed four of the errors.

In other Intercounty games the home team was the winner. Kitchener Legionaires moved to within half a game of third place Guelph by defeating third-place Guelph Leafs 6-5.

London Majors defeated Waterloo Tigers 10-5 in a game behind Kitchener.

Atkins, Henning Irk Faithful, Maddened Fans Rush 'Villains' After Draw With Sharp Bros.

By GEO. H. CARVELL
(Sports Editor)

The handsome National Wrestling Association gold trophy emblematic of the amateur all-star championship to lissom wrestling still remains in the hands of the Sharp brothers, Mike and Sam.

But it came very close to transferring to the possession of the clutching paws of those wrecking-ball Fred Atkins and Lee (the Leech) Cantelon.

Not for years has the wrestling faithful worked itself into a frenzy such as that last night in Memorial Arena. To make the story shorter both teams were a fall and the time limit ran out to make the score all even.

But, that said all, brother.

Worked into a high state of excitement by the rough-house methods of the Atkins-Henning duo, infuriated spectators attacked Sharps as they left the dressing room after the match.

Attack Wrestlers

The crowd milled around in a melee in a closely-packed mass. Police rushed in to break it up and one officer met a some bottle-half-empty-and-half-full behind-the-scenes, brave in numbers rushed in for a crack at their pet hates, but it was a few minutes before police quelled the outburst and restored order in the arena.

Nearly 1,200 of the faithful saw Atkins and Henning in their match trick at their disgust. They took advantage of being handed the Referee Cliff Bell who dashed about the ring like a room-trapped bird trying to find an exit in it, in his efforts to keep the Sharp brothers under control.

The Canada Athletic and Henning had secret equipment such as kicking, tripping and elbowing etc., and were not aysres to using the tag rope as a means of some secret signal between them.

As a matter of fact the villainous pair gave brother Mike Sharp a real going-over in the first fall. They pounded, punched, gouged and kicked him at will until his tongue protruded. Finally he gave Brother Mike the sign.

Mike Cleaned House

Hearty berserk, the golden lad from Hamilton, smote the enemy savagely. He threw punches from the hip, knees, toes and floors and always on the end of them was an Atkins or Henning or both of the miscreants both. Michael swept the ring clear of the pair with such ferocity that, they dashed half way to the dressing room and remained there until he coaxed them.

Three times the big fella cleaned house, but he hadn't reckoned with the crafty foe, Henning manipulated Ben into position and after fifteen minutes body-slammed him into submission.

It was the other way in the second fall. Referee Fox nearly went cross-eyed trying to watch all four wrestlers at once and the smooth Henning clearly outgeneraled him on several occasions. The sharps applied the scientific leg-hold on Atkins and had a lot of fun over in their corner, taking turns at the hairy leg appendages of the Aussie for minutes at a time.

Henning got in on the deal and had the leg pulled on him finally the Sharps manoeuvred the lads into position and loosing a simultaneous kick to the seat of "uncle" and the match was all squared.

Maybe He Was Tired

Henning was late in appearing for the third fall and Referee Fox cursed the foe of stalling for time. He followed Atkins to the dressing room to get Henning but was tossed out by His Nibs.

Henning finally did and a bit of added spice was injected into the skylarks when all four lads entered the Dope and did a mess of tag-playing in the ring. The Sharps looped the loop of fortune out of the ring on a couple of occasions, then the gong rang to end the party.

The four went at one another in a good-natured melee that drew the crowd in flocks to the ringside. Finally it was cleared up and then Bedlam broke loose as Atkins and Henning returned to the dressing-room.

Pat Flanagan and Tommy O'Toole were counted out when they battled outside the ring and failed to get back in time. Tom Collins and Billy Stack wrestled heavy with Henning after 18 minutes of fast milling.

Three Veterans In Millar Cup Semi-Finals

Islington Golf Club, Toronto, Aug. 11 — (CP) — Three veteran golfers and a comparative youngster sat out today in the semi-finals of the Willie Millar trophy professional match play championship. They are the survivors of a field of 70 that started Tuesday in the 72-hole meeting.

Gordon Brydson of Toronto Mississauga, winner of the tournament in 1937, 1938 and Clair Chinery of Hamilton Chedoke, while Willie Lamb of Toronto Islington, 1930 title winner, met Normie Himes of Kitchener Westmount, former New York American ice hockey player.

All but Chinery are old-timers of this tournament for professionals and assistants, Chinery won the Canadian PGA title in 1949 failing to qualify for the match play.

Final Today

The final was scheduled for this afternoon.

In yesterday's quarter-final, Brydson defeated Stan Horne of Montreal Islands, one up. Chinery set back Gordon Harrison of Toronto Oriole Park Pike Lamb of Toronto Islington 4-3, Himes stopped Rudolphe Rost of the Royal Quebec Golf Club 4-3 and Lamb Archie Grimaldini of Toronto New Uplands 3 and 1.

Today's matches pitched the Brydson-Horne match as the feature. Brydson was five under par for the first 15 holes but never was a difference of more than one hole. The two battled all the way to the 18th when Horne's second shot caught the bank and he played over with a third.

Prize-winners in the consolation 18-hole match competition yesterday qualified were, 1, Ben Norris, Timmins, 33-38—71; 2, George Harrison, Sudbury 141-work, 34-38—72; 3, Duke Adams, Brampton, 34-40—74; 4, George Clifton, Sault Ste-Lake, 32-43—75; Gill Gardiner, Sault Ste. Marie, 38-36—75; Archie Bloor, Toronto, 36-38—79; Bill Thompson, Toronto York Downs, 37-39—76, and Carl Banks Toronto Islington, 33-41—75.

Corner Shots

One of the best Eastern Ontario League games played this season will be played at Batawa Wednesday between the Shoetowners and the league-leading Peterborough U. E. W. The visitors won 3-0. The games was brought forward in order that Peterborough could play off their Dominion Cup game against the winners of the Toronto Maple Leaf-Toronto C. G. E. tilt. This game is now scheduled for today but as the previous round match between two Toronto squads was drawn necessitating a replay the game was postponed for one week.

Today Batawa will be in Kingston to take on the United. Both these outfits are fighting for second place in the loop as a close finish should result. In the only other game called for today Oshawa entertains Brockville in Peterborough. Wednesday evening Belleville and Batawa meet in an Eastern League tilt at Batawa.

One game is scheduled in the Bay of Quinte League, with S R. D. meeting the Picton Gunners. Incidentally, the local armen flew to Camp Borden to take on the cream of that district in an exhibition game and thus their league game with Trenton Merchants was postponed.

Playground coaching for the youngsters is under way in preparation for the forming of teams for 13 year old boys. Jack Jones is in charge of coaching at the King George School grounds; Fred Jones and Jack Johnstone are at the West Hill playgrounds; Jim Ritchie and Les Daley, have East Hill playgrounds while Boyd Finley is coaching the Foster Ward youngsters at the Belleville soccer grounds in Sesaver Park. Any youngsters wishing to play should note the times of coaching at the notice boards at their playgrounds.

A Belleville team under 18 years of age is being formed to play out of town teams.

Japanese Swimmer Sets World Record

Osaka, Japan, Aug. 10—(AP)—Hironoshin Furuhashi, Japan's flying fish, today broke his own best, winner of the women's and Australian titles. The lanky American sipped service aces past the Canadian, three of them consecutively in the fifth game of the second set.

A victory for the U.S. today will move them into the interzone final against Sweden. The winner will meet Australia in the challenge round next December.

Bass-Bug Fishing

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman, author, and creator of Solunar Tables)

Each year seems to show a definite increase in bass-bug fishing for both largemouth and smallmouth bass. Time was when I had no trouble finding short lines which remained undisturbed day after day. Now I find that I have competition. And I am not learning that bass are wonderful fly-rod fish.

Bass anglers are also learning something else about their favorite sport as soon as they start bass-bug fishing. It is this,—no form of fly casting requires as much knowledge of fly-rod technique as does bass-bug fishing.

As I write this, I know that many will disagree with me, so perhaps I had best elaborate that statement somewhat.

In the first place a bass bug is a heavy lure when compared with a trout fly or a streamer. In this it requires a heavy line to pull it through the air. With the heavier lure the caster cannot lose his timing and feel for control as he can, say, in dry-fly fishing. Distance lends itself to accuracy.

In addition, a bass bug, to be fished effectively should be handled at distances ranging from 30 to 75 or 80 feet. This does not mean that bass cannot be caught at short ranges. They can. The fact remains, however, that large bass will not stand for too much crowding. You will raise more large fish at 70 feet than you will at 50 feet.

Casting a bass bug 40 or 50 feet is easy. Anybody who has any fly-rod experience can certainly throw a bass bug that far. But when the ranges are stepped up to 75 or 80 feet, complications arise. It is all too easy to lose your timing with the longer line and once lost it is difficult to regain it without shortening the line and starting over.

In my line of work it is inevitable that I meet a great many fishermen. Also, I see thousands of them in action each year. I know many anglers who can handle a trout-rod very well but in all my acquaintance I know only five men who can be considered finished performers with the big bug rod.

Practice Makes Perfect

I think that the reason lies in the fact that very few men will practise fly casting. About one-tenth of one percent of them will take time out to learn how to cast. The rest get their practice while they are fishing.

Time was when I used to take bellyaching bass-bug fishing who had never done any of the casting sport. The story was always the same—a good share of the day would be spent giving them casting lessons.

At last I learned — the hard way — to make sure that a man knew how to cast before I took him fishing. If he could cast, all well and good; if not, there was no use to risk wasting a good fishing day in the same boat with him.

Bug fishing, as you know, is a teamwork deal. One man handles the boat while the other handles the rod. To be a good bug-fishing companion a man must be able to do both jobs well. If he can't, then let him learn on his own time, not yours.

Tackle Inadequate

One thing I can't understand about bug fishing is the inadequate part of the bass-bug tackle that is available in the stores. Too much of it is badly designed, entirely unsuitable for that sport.

Several of these columns in the past have been devoted to the condemnation of the "bass action" rods that many of the companies turn out—stiff, fast, nine-foot affairs that will wreck almost casting hand in an hour's time. Nearly all of the stores have these rods in stock and it is quite difficult to find good bug rods.

We use rods that are nine and one-half feet, nine feet, nine inches and ten feet long. The action of these rods is uniformally slow, coming clear down to the rod grip. With such rods you can bring hand will stand up all day long and your days on lake or streams are pleasant ones.

The lines, most of them are quite satisfactory. We use the three-diameter lines made of nylon. My own preference is a line with a fairly hard finish as these will shoot well through the rod guides. They will raise more large fish at 70 feet than you will at 50 feet.

Nylon Leaders Good

Nylon leaders are excellent for bass-bug fishing. Instead of buying leaders that are already made up, we carry coils of nylon filament in various sizes. This enables us to tie up tapered leaders in any weights we want.

For some reason, finding good bass bugs in the stores is almost as difficult as finding good rods. I honestly believe that most of the companies which turn out these bugs do so without having the designs tested under fishing conditions.

Take, for instance, the deer-hair lures. The great majority of them are so bulky that they have too much air resistance,

Tennis Notes

This week they're the Bay of Quinte junior tennis tournament get under way. Tomorrow, commencing at two o'clock, the semi-finals and finals of all events will be played off at the Quinte Tennis Club, corner of Queen and Dufferin in Belleville.

This is the first junior tournament to be held in the district at least in recent years, and comprises singles and doubles for boys and girls under 18 years. Results so far indicate that the youngsters of this district can play a fair brand of tennis.

Two up and coming youngsters are Bobby Burns of Trenton and Mary Jane McNally of Belleville. Bobby has reached the under 15 semi-finals in a walk and is favored to take this event. Mary Jane has reached the under 15 semi-finals singles and under 18 singles and doubles—a really good record.

Owing to the junior tennis tournament having interfered, no games were played in the Intermediate loop this week. Three games are scheduled for the coming week. On Monday evening, Quinte visits Trenton to play a match that was rained out earlier in the season. Batawa will visit Quinte on Wednesday evening and Trenton play host to the league leading Holloway Dixie on Thursday evening.

Next week is the last week in the Bay of Quinte senior league schedule after which the Corby Cup playoffs will commence. The outstanding games are Batawa against Quinte scheduled for tomorrow afternoon as well as Batawa at Trenton and Point Anne at Quinte on Wednesday night.

Trenton lead the loop having garnered 22 points in 11 games played, Quinte have 20 from 10 games, Point Anne have 18 from 10 games and Batawa trail the top three with 16 points from 10 games played.

On Sunday, Aug. 19th, the Bay of Quinte senior knockout tournament will be run off at the Quinte Tennis Club. This will be an all-day affair and will be comprised of men's doubles and mixed doubles. Competitions should get their entry in as soon as possible to their club representative or to any member of the league executive. Every fee is 75 cents for one event and $1.25 for two events. Last year this was one of the outstanding events.

The exhibition game between the Bay of Quinte Tennis League and the Kingston Tennis Club was won by Kingston. They captured nine events to three by the locals. The local racquet wielders were beaten, however, by no means disgraced. After the match the visitors were entertained at the Point Anne clubrooms.

Remember When

Toronto Argonauts, Giants of the Canadian gridiron, became what was casually pine years ago today when they withdrew from the eastern football union for the duration of the war. The withdrawal left the famous scullers without a senior grid team for the first time in 22 years. Reconstituted, Argos came back to win the Grey Cup three times running — in 1945, 1946 and 1947—and they won again last year.

Some 10 Canadian women, including Lieut. Mary MacLennan, o Summerside, P.E.I., school teacher who this year became the first woman ever to go to Bisley from the Canadian team, will compete on an equal footing with the men.

Wins Senior Golf Title

Toronto, Aug. 11 — (CP) — Col. John H. Chipman of the host club won the Ontario senior's golf championship at the Toronto golf club Friday, carding a 72 for the 18-hole test.

He beat a field of 170 players, all over 50 years of age.

His score was just one over the record for the championship —a 71 at Toronto Rosedale last year. He was tied one stroke behind the record for the championship champion, Jack Armitage of Dundas Valley Club.

Ontario Teen-Aged Golf Champion Meets American for Open Title

By W. R. WHEATLEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer

Laval-Sur-Le-Lac, Que., Aug. 11—(CP)—What happens when a 17-year-old golfing sensation meets a calm, unruffled 23-year-old ex-champion was left today to the wildest sort of conjecture.

The Canadian junior golf championship has never seen such goings-on as happened over the Laval links yesterday.

Little Marlene Stewart of Fonthill, Ont., pulled the greatest upset of the tournament when she eliminated Mae Murray of Rutland, Vt., one up on the 19th green.

It was the second time since the war that a Canadian has come through to the semi-final. In 1947, Grace Lenczyk of Hartford, Conn., draped a smothering 13 and 11 defeat over Mrs. F. J. Mulqueen of Toronto.

Now the 22-year-old Connecticut girl, winner as an All-American final in 1948, is in the final once more.

Yesterday she was never behind her opponent in eliminating Mrs. Peter Patch, Montreal girl now resident of Berkeley, Calif., four and two.

Courageous Spirit

Today Miss Lenczyk met the determined Ontario girl whose courageous fighting spirit has sparked this tournament into a blaze of excitement.

By the time six holes were played yesterday Marlene found herself three holes down. But the match was squared at the 12th where the Vermont girl drove into trees.

The match moved on to its climax on the par five 18th. Both were short with their second shots but Mae had a 30-yard advantage. Marlene got her third 15 feet past the cup. Mae misguaged her distance and was 30 feet short of the pin.

Marlene's putt rolled off to the left six inches from the cup. Mae's putt stopped four feet short and she conceded the hole and match when her next putt missed the cup.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

BATTING—Al Rosen, Indians, hit a two-run homer in the 10th to beat with timing for Cleveland's 6-4 edge over Detroit.

PITCHING—Virgil Trucks, Tigers, shut out the Cubs with six hits 3-0 for his first win since May 13.

Canuck Players Prove Easy For Yank Netters

By VIC MORRIS, JR.
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Montreal, Aug. 11 — (CP)

The United States Davis Cup squad was one match away from victory in the North American zone finel tie as Canada's outclassed team hoped to eke out a doubles win today.

Little Richard Rochon and Brendan Macken of Montreal have the almost hopeless task of trying to overpower the American combination of Tony Trabert and Budge Patty.

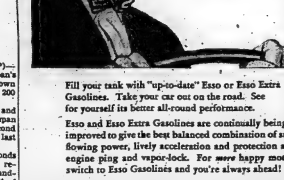
The U.S. pair are 7-to-5 favorites to win the match without loss of a set.

Yesterday the Americans showed their power with two singles victories in straight sets. They gave up only 11 games to the Canadians.

Make It Snappy

Trabert, a 20-year-old wizard from Cincinatti, clipped Lorne Main 6-1, 6-2, 6-3, in a 49-minute first match and Dick Savitt sailed past Macken, 6-3, 6-1, 6-1 in 51 minutes.

It was a disppointing performance for 4,000 spectators at the Mount Royal club as Canada's sole resistance to the overwhelming visitors was limited to a stubborn, losing play.



Main, 21-year-old two-handed player, was erratic and unable to cope with the husky Cincinatti youngster whose service and forehand drives were too hot to handle.

He worried Main into seven double faults and 57 net and out faults.

Macken fared about the same. He couldn't keep pace with Trabert, winner of the Wimbledon and Australian titles. The lanky American sipped service aces past the Canadian, three of them consecutively in the fifth game of the second set.

A victory for the U.S. today will move them into the interzone final against Sweden. The winner will meet Australia in the challenge round next December.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Sunday, August 13

March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—Some warning signals, particularly regarding carelessness, working on unnecessary money or business deals that could wait till a week day. Church first, family, charities next, where possible.

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—Your Venus and other planets advise taking things calmly. However, military, air and naval needs can and should be rushed. Pray for those in service. Enjoy rest in free time.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—Extra care stressed if dealing in contracts and agreements, or making your will analyses. A friendly day for Sunday interests, religious services, healthy recreation, rest.

June 22 to July 23—(Cancer)—Today is one of several now that require particular attention to important details to all matters pertaining to the government and the armed forces. Do your share and pray at church.

July 24 to August 22—(Leo)—Your stars advise calmness and fairness in all dealings with others — with your family, especially. Attend your church; pray for God's blessings on mankind; pray for our leaders. Enjoy some rest.

August 23 to September 22—(Virgo)—The more serene you are the more pleasant and profitable will be your efforts. Do not do unnecessary work or carry on business that should wait. Pray; recreate in ture.

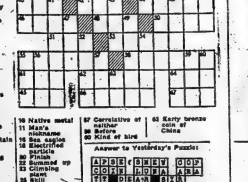
September 24 to October 23—(Libra)— Advice to Taurus obtains in your sector now. Be mindful of religious duties, family needs. Attend urgent tasks; then, in free time, indulge a hobby or just rest. Aid our fighting men.

October 24 to November 22—(Scorpio)—Adlib warnings, nevertheless they do stress proper action, proper activities for Sunday. Do not neglect essential, urgent duties but do think first of your soul. Enjoy fun.

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius)—How you plan and handle day's schedule is up to you. Perhaps little help from outside, but you won't need any if you heed God's laws and your own fine capability. Rest.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn)— Saturn today says to avoid unnecessary changes in weighty matters, things already running smoothly. Do not do now that should wait for a weekday. Tend to soul's needs; enjoy good fun.

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius)—Today's and tomorrow's aspects advise extra cautions in matters of import. Avoid unnecessary errors. Extravagance, and associating with wrong type of people (also). Pray; think!



February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)—Neptune and Pluto, only planets favorably aspected today, tell of give you an edge on most of us, but other influences carry restrictions; best to be soundly conservative. Go to your church.

YOU BORN TODAY are not of a contradictory nature; you have decisive characteristics and, for the most part, are very admirable. You love honor, goodness. You are not without faults, but can easily correct them if you firmly try. Tendency to egotism, arrogance, impatience. You don't like taking advice. Your innate common sense and good breeding will enable you to correct these faults—but now! You are interesting, entertaining, very capable when doing your best. Can succeed in profession or trade.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

by WINIFRED E. WILSON

Tails are very important in birdland. There are vast differences in length, even among our own Canadian species, from the extremely long one of the brown thrasher to the bunty little stub of the winter wren. Although normally all are alike in having an even number of feathers, some have square ends, some forked, and some come to a point in the middle. We consider them ornaments, but they are really useful, and certain species could not manage without tails.

Young birds are unable to travel any great distance until their tails have grown sufficiently and in mid-summer moult adults have difficulty in getting about, partly because for this time they are without their full supply of wing feathers, but also for lack of tail feathers. Watch a large hawk circling overhead and see the way its tail is used as a rudder. An excellent exhibition is given by a gannet, not only steering from left to right when in flight, but in starting, stopping mounting or losing altitude.

A Tale About Tails

Chimney swifts, woodpeckers, and brown creepers need their tails as supports. With weak feet swifts cling to perpendicular, indoor walls of chimneys down which they live, and keep their balance by jabbing the needle like ends of their tails into the bricks. Woodpeckers and creepers act similarly on tree trunks while gathering insects which form their diet.

A tail is often a good distinguishing mark. The redstart's fan shaped tail with flame color on either side and black across the end, the deeply forked one of the purple finch, the white shafts of the junco are a great aid to us in identifying their owners.

Two species which, to the amateur bird watcher, appear very much alike, can often be definitely differentiated by their tails. Many people are confused between whip-poor-wills and nighthawks until they obtain a view of the tails, which are very unlike in shape and in the position of the white feathers.

What's in a Name

When looking at swallows flying above you remember that it was the barn swallow which suggested the name for the swallowtail coat, while the tree swallow's tail is cut straight across. Grackles have splendid, large tails, starlings' are short. Decidedly reddish-brown tails of hermit thrushes separate them at once from the cinnamon brown, evenly colored veerys. Hawks are generally seen silhouetted against the sky, and so to know them apart makes a careful study of the shape of their tails.

Little Benny's Nate Book

After supper I was reeding my new lyberry book called Up the Amazon in a Canoe, and all of a sudden ma remembered something she needed from the drugstore, and I said, Aw G, ma, I'm just at the most exciting part of this swell adventure book.

Benny, you heard your mother, pop said. Besides, exercise is where you find it, and with a little imagination you can find plenty on the way to the drugstore, he said, and I said, Aw, here we go.

Well, first you can pretend you're fleeing from a pack of hungry wolves, pop said. That will take you down to the corner before you're out of sight, and while you're getting your breth you can carefully walk on the curbstone and pretend it's a narrow ledge on the extreme edge of a steep cliff, and you can see the rushing torrent a thousand feet below, and you know that your first false step will be your last step of any kind. And every time you have to cross a street you can imagine you're swimming a river bristling with crocodiles and sharks, but you streek across in 10 seconds flat with your chanpeen Australian crawl, and you climb up on the opposite bank leaving the fearful shark panting 5 inches behind you, pop said.

G, I know a still sweller adventure, I said. I'll pretend I've got secret papers, and there's a lot of forrin spies behind me with orders to get me alive or ded, I said, and pop said, Good, that ought to get you there in a hurry.

No sir, just the opposite, because I'll have to walk b. k-wards the whole way to keep them from jumping out at me unawares, I said, and ma said, Oh is that so? You'll walk frunwards both ways or you'll walk strate to bed the moment you get back, she said.

The result being I just went the errand in the ordnery way.

THIS MR. ICARUS

By Harry Meldrum Moore

"What the hell!" Boss [illegible] yelled, and spun on his heel.

By now Bradley had [illegible] wielder on his feet. The [illegible] was recovering from the blow but he was quite conscious.

"He meant to axe you," Bill Prentiss said.

"For a moment Boss McKay looked at the man with open-mouthed rage. "Anything special you want done to him?" he snapped.

"No," Boss McKay said, "let the pint-sized runt of hell go."

He turned to the man. "Get the hell out of here!" he stormed. "Get out, before I break every bone in your rotten carcass." Then as a parting shot, "I'll find you in this camp in the morning. I'll have you locked up on an attempted murder charge."

The three drinkers and watched the man stagger away, they heard him mutter something, and then Boss McKay said, "Get me Bradley's hand."

"Thanks, Brad," he said, "That was mighty fine of you. Hereafter you get anything you ask for around here."

"Aw, skip it boss," Lance said awkwardly, "That was nothing. After all, us Lumenburgers must stick together remember?"

Boss McKay looked on his best look a few steps and turned.

"Yes, Brad," he said, "I'll remember. I'll remember the other for a long, long time to come."

But Lance is to be more to it then that. When Lance Bradley left Harry Mooney's office late that night, he attached eyes behind, and stalked evenly in the back. His cool brought the clerk, emptied the sleep camp, but the assailant had made his escape. A long, long time dropped in the struggle was found, was turned over to the police when he was found.

A few hours afterwards a special train arrived, carrying only two men who were to remain in The Bay for some time—Lance Bradley, the other Harry Mooney. Lance to jail to stand trial for stabbing.

For the better part of four long weeks, Bradley occupied a hospital bed was still [illegible] enough for him, but the evenings brought the boys from camp, Boss McKay was a regular visitor, to give him the latest news on the Lucky Streak mine, and more particularly as to their stock movement on the market.

"Some days it's up, some days it's down," McKay said, "manipulation are doing this. But what do we care! It's not what our stock is bringing on the market today that counts, but what it will be worth to us, five to ten years from now."

The day Lance Bradley was released from hospital he appeared in court. Lance was found guilty of the charge of wounding, and he was given a term in the penitentiary. Lance's counsel was asked to appear on a boxing card in The Bay during the coming winter. His mail brought him a letter from the Roberts' asking him to go back to Emerton and recuperate, for he had written and told them that he had met with an "accident".

But Lance Bradley did not go home. He returned to the camp, recovered his health and pretty soon was back at work again. And then, the Mad Kaiser of Germany set out to make some changes in the map of Europe, to change the way of freedom loving son of several peace-nations, and Lance Bradley was among the first to decide that no one must be permitted to do such things as that and get away with it.

CHAPTER VI

Thirteen days after the declaration of the World War One in Europe, Lance Bradley was in army uniform.

The news that war had been declared in Europe reached The Lucky Streak mining camp in the early hours of Wednesday, August 5, 1914. There was great excitement, particularly among the younger element in the camp, for they were easily fired by the thoughts of adventure in faraway places. The older men, however, to the men who had homes and families and other responsibilities, it was a serious thing, for among them were men who knew that the Kaiser's ambitions were the best in the world, and that their number was legion. Defending such a vast horde of trained men would take a long, long time.

To Boss McKay this was a time for cool-headed thought and action, lest he should be left with insufficient men to carry out the work of the mining company.

So when the men filled the benches around the dining table that noon he was on his feet. He would not stand in the way of any man who wished to enlist, but he asked every man present to remain on the job at least until after pay-day, August 15.

"In the meantime help me to get as much of the unfinished work around here cleaned up. I might remind you that there will be lots of time for you to get into this war. It's going to be a long, hard, cruel struggle, make no mistake about that."

Boss McKay's brief talk to his men did not prevent individuals from breaking away to enlist, but there was no mass exodus to the recruiting station at The Bay until Monday, the 17th, when with their bags packed, their pay in their pockets, the men boarded the train. But only a small number of the many who made the trip to The Bay that day passed the medical tests. Those who did were promptly outfitted and prepared to leave for an eastern training station; those who didn't pass remained in The Bay for a few days to drown their sorrow.

Lance Bradley passed the physical test with little difficulty. He was asked about the scar wounds in his back, wound that healed, he was asked about the tattooing on his arms and if he wouldn't prefer going into the navy. He explained that for the time being, at least, he would prefer to be with the boys of his camp. Finally he was passed on to an officer who asked for detailed information on his place of birth and several other personal matters for the records. All went well until he was asked for the name of his next of kin.

He thought that one over for a few minutes and then his eyes lighted.

"Mrs. Mary Roberts, Emerton, sir," he said.

"Relationship?"

"Mother, sir."

"But you gave Mrs. Emily Bradley as your mother—you one has two mothers, soldier."

"So Mrs. Emily Bradley was, sir," Lance insisted. "But—but Mrs. Mary Roberts is also my mother."

"To whom do you assign your pay?"

"To Mrs. Mary Roberts, sir."

"You say your name is Bradley, your foster mother's name is Roberts—your natural name is Roberts, doesn't make sense to me, soldier, but you should know."

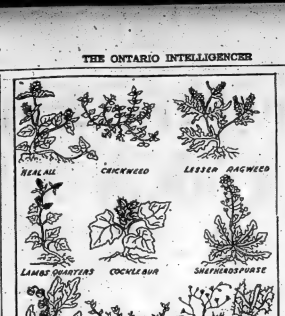
That night Lance Bradley and the redhead Spike Rooney, among others, boarded a troop train which pulled in from the west, with an eastern training camp as the ultimate destination. Harry Mooney had been all for going with them, but Boss McKay insisted that he remain at the camp until a suitable successor could be secured. Boss McKay, Bill Prentiss and most of the camp crew which had failed the physical test, was on the platform to see them off. Lance promised Boss McKay that he would tell him how he was getting on.

"But, remember, sir," he concluded, "you must not let me down in handling this mining proposition—"

"I'll look after that for you," Boss McKay chuckled. "And whatever you do, don't lose your shirt in a game of poker."

The long transcontinental trip by rail stopped at numberless places along its route, to take on more men, coaches were added to the extent of the heavy locomotive's drawing power. A few days later Lance Bradley was a small part of a great army in the making, and was writing home to tell the folks what he had done. He also wrote Boss McKay and Harry Mooney. And pretty soon he was receiving mail, letters from home saying that all was well there and how proud the writers were that he was putting country before self. A postscript reminded him that his story of his recent "accident" didn't jibe with the published reports of the affair.

For a few days weeks, letters connecting him with home and the mining camp continued, then then there was no more mail for him. Toward the end of September, a year on board ship, a ship that was part of a convoyed fleet, heading out on the Atlantic that had not received parcels, and nothing else.



During the next three years, Lance Bradley found himself a small cog in a rapidly-growing machine of attrition, a machine that was being built for one purpose—the complete annihilation of the enemy unless it soon reckoned the cost and willingly capitulated.

During the greater part of his service on the continent, Lance Bradley enjoyed unusually good health, considering what was demanded of him. He earned leave to visit London, and Edinburgh and Paris. During his years of service there were times when he was inordinately lucky and all his experiences two were to stand out, were ever to remain on his mind. There was the day when he and his captain crawled across no man's land to wipe out a German machine gun nest, he to come back alone to be awarded the Cross and promoted, the captain, the officer to win the Victoria Cross posthumously. Then there was that other time, in a woods it was, when four divisions of his army turned back a German army four times their size in numbers. A terrific barrage, followed by an advance of the infantry and Lance found himself face to face with a line of gigantic proportions. In short, brief struggle and he was turning away when a wounded German stabbed him in the back with his bayonet. An officer despatched the Hun, applied a tourniquet to the wounded leg, and Lance lapsed into unconsciousness.

When he returned to consciousness he realized two important facts, that he was going to be dear old 'Blighty' and that from then on, his army would have to get on as best it could without him.

He was rapidly recovering in an English hospital when the Hun armies cracked, the cowardly Kaiser and his retinue raced for place of safety in Holland and the armistice was signed. And he was not the only soldier to think that as a war to prevent wars, the bloody affair had been worthwhile but a sham, Germany as a country had remained untouched, practically unharmed, the Kaiser who had started the trouble was thumbing his nose instead of being taken out and shot. Sergt. Lance Bradley, DCM, realized then that all he had been through, all he had suffered, that all the good men who had not given their lives or who had come out of this war maimed for life, had been let down. They had played a part in an unfinished job, and that the sons of the survivors and many others would probably have to do it all over again.

On Routine Operational Mission in Alaska

Kodiak, Alaska, Aug. 13— (AP) — A four-engined United States Navy patrol bomber with 12 crewmembers was reported missing today in Alaska. It was the fourth plane to vanish along the Alaska and British Columbia coasts since July 21. They carried 60 persons.

The Kodiak-based Privateer was on a routine operational mission when it vanished.

Three officers and nine other ranks were aboard.

The big plane's gasoline supply would have been exhausted at 8:30 p.m. last night, 9 hours after it took off from Kodiak.

The navy declined to give the location of the bomber when it was last heard from.

Fog and rain hampered the search, which was started as soon as the Privateer was presumed lost.

The PBM-Y-2 is the third plane for which search has been made in the Alaskan region, a Canadian Eastern airliner DC-4 with 36 aboard disappeared July 21 over the Alaska panhandle between Cape Spencer and Yakutat. Six days later a private, single-engined Norseman vanished in the same vicinity, leaving no trace of the pilot and the wife and daughter of a wealthy New Jersey scientist, Walter Wood.

Kodiak Island is off the base of the Alaskan Peninsula, approximately 900 air miles west of the Cape Spencer-Yakutat area.

PYONGYANG RADIO CALLS ON UN TO CHANGE ATTITUDE

No Progress Made In Today's Session

Munsan, Korea, Aug. 13 (AP)— The chief Communist armistice negotiator said today Korean truce talks "will not make any progress" unless the United Nations changes its demands on where to create a buffer zone.

The statement from North Korean Lt.-Gen. Nam Il was broadcast by the red Pyongyang radio 10 hours after he had again refused to change his own demands

The red position is so firmly fixed that in Monday's negotiation session Nam Il rejected a United Nations statement as "not satisfactory" as soon as it was delivered.

And, a U. N. communique said, Nam Il made the rejection while "speaking from a previously prepared and translated paper."

In the Pyongyang broadcast Nam Il called on the U. N. delegation "to change its attitude" and "to take into consideration our demands" for a buffer zone along the 38th parallel.

He said if the Kaesong truce negotiations are to "secure any progress at all" the delegates must "change their distorted demands" they have made in the past.

U. N. spokesmen have emphasized the Allies will not consider a demarcation line on the 38th parallel. They say the reds must change their stand if negotiations are to progress.

No progress was made in 9 days' 30 negotiations when the 13th devoted to the same question.

Opposing representatives could not even agree on the date of an armistice.

Their next session, scheduled for 11 a. m. Tuesday 9 p. m. Monday EDT) will find them right back where they started.

Fright of Red Might 'Ridiculous' Says Eisenhower

General Gives His Views After Speech

Washington, Aug. 13 (AP) — Senators generally were considerably perked up today by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's reported assertion that it is "ridiculous" to be overly frightened by Russia's military strength.

But Senator Lester Hunt (Dem., Wyo.), a member of the Armed Services Committee, told a reporter he hopes the North Atlantic defence commander's estimate of a comparable free world and iron curtain strength doesn't "lull Congress to sleep."

Eisenhower's views were in a subcommittee report prepared for the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees. These groups are meeting jointly to consider the administration's $8,500,000,000 foreign bill.

The subcommittee, including nine members who visited Europe in July, reported that Eisenhower had told them:

The material, intellectual, spiritual, technical and professional resources available to the free world are so overwhelming as compared with what the Iron Curtain and satellite countries have that it is almost ridiculous for us to be talking in terms of fright and hysteria, which we often do."

The report said Eisenhower acknowledged the Soviet bloc has a unity lacked by the North Atlantic Treaty members but said it was brought about "by a push and a sword held forever behind a man's back ready to chop off his head."

To gain real unity, the Senators said, Eisenhower told them the job is to convince every country and man participating in western Europe's defence that "we are approaching this thing from the standpoint of enlightened self-interest."

Hunt said that one of the reasons Europe hasn't been more enthusiastic about NATO is because American arms had not "yet been made available to equip them."

Iranians Express Pessimism On Outcome of Talks

Tehran, Aug. 13. (CP)—Iranian officials today expressed pessimism about the outcome of their oil nationalization talks with the British.

A new hitch in the negotiations developed last night when the Britons postponed submission of their proposal for a settlement of the dispute over the nationalization talks with the British.

The British proposal was scheduled to be presented tonight by Richard Stokes, chief of the British delegation. Stokes saw the Shah for a half hour this morning, and is believed to have outlined his proposal and appealed to the Shah for support.

Kazem Hasabi, undersecretary of finance and adviser to the Iranian negotiating team, told reporters: "In view of our talks in the first four meetings with the British, it is very difficult to be optimistic that their proposals will meet a satisfactory response from the Iranian government."

Today's postponement of the draft agreement makes the second in the last two days.

The British and Iranian delegations were to have met last night. The talks were postponed until today however, because Stokes was believed to have wanted time for last-minute consultations with the foreign office before presenting the draft agreement.

There was unusual optimism here yesterday among both Iranian and British officials of agreement.

Tehran late last night quoted the Iranian Oil Nationalization Board's chairman, Allayar Saleh, as saying he thought agreement could be reached today.

In promising a draft agreement Wednesday night, Stokes said the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, which the British government is the major stockholder, would disappear as such.

But the Shah must rule out the possibility that a new company would be a subsidiary of Anglo-Iranian, he said.

Informed Iranian sources said Stokes's new proposals would be made by the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company last June to set up a new company with both Iranian and British directors.

Ousting of Christian Churches Policy of Chinese Reds

Hong Kong, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Missionaries being ejected from communist China said today the communists appear bent on eliminating all Christian churches except their own "reform church."

The Roman Catholic church is bearing the brunt of red activities now.

Travellers from Peiping said every foreign missionary in the red capital is either in jail or under house arrest. The report said Chinese Christians are under pressure to join the "reform church."

One Canadian known to have been jailed is Msgr. Cuthbert O'Gara of Ottawa, Bishop of Yuanling. He was reported arrested along with two of his priests July 12. Five Canadian nuns have been reported arrested.

19 Missionaries Jailed

Rev. Harold Rigney of Chicago and 18 other Catholic missionaries are reported jailed in Peiping.

Rigney, only remaining American missionary in China and former rector of Catholic Fujen University, was bound when taken to jail.

Simultaneously with the arrests, the reds took over 12 of Peiping's 17 Catholic parishes.

Catholics are the only large body of foreign Christians left in China. There are about 3,000 foreign Catholic missionaries still in red China. The all-time high was 5,000 in 1946.

Only 100 or so Protestant missionaries remain, including hospital workers and doctors. The reds took over administration of all mission hospitals and schools several months ago.

In the open struggle between the Catholic church and the Peiping government, most high foreign officials of the church have been jailed or placed under house arrest.

Archbishop Anthony Ribeiro of Monaco, Italy, Papal Internuncio under house arrest in Nanking, Archbishop Riberdi.

Bishop Francis Ford of Kaying diocese in Kwantung province has been deported from China. He was paraded through a score of villages and then apparently jailed in Canton.

Jockey, Alleged Payoff Man, Released on Bail

Welland, Aug. 13 (CP) — Jockey R. Wankmueller, of Newark, N.J., the alleged pay-off man among jockeys on fixed races at Ontario race tracks, was freed from jail here Saturday night on $5,000 bail.

Wankmueller was arrested last week on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the public after he testified before the Ontario Racing Commission. His bail is reported to have been raised by a group of friends headed by his sweetheart's father.

Wankmueller is one of the six jockeys whom the commission has ruled off Ontario tracks for life. George Thompson, of Hamilton, is one of the six, was also arrested and charged with perjury.

The commission's investigation has also resulted in the arrest of two Buffalo men and one Toronto resident, indefinite suspensions against a newspaper-man and two other jockeys and the fining of 14 more riders for failing to report before offers promptly.

The Buffalo and Toronto men were arrested while trying to raise mutual tickets on fixed races at the track in Fort Erie, Ont.

Section Hand Sent to Trial On Murder Count

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Aug. 13 (CP) —Waxyl Krawiec, 22-year-old railway section hand, was committed for trial on a charge of murder in the fatal stabbing of a fellow section worker, after a day-long preliminary hearing that ended at midnight Saturday.

Four interpreters were required to translate testimony of witnesses who spoke Ukrainian, Lithuanian, Polish and French.

Witnesses said the two men quarrelled at a party on the night of July 28, and that Krawiec then drove Krawiec bodily out of the house. When Krawiec tried to get back inside, Norkus struck him in the face.

"I finally saw Norkus come out of the back door holding onto his chest with both hands. He fell down," said Krawiec, who was sprawled on the back steps and died a few moments later.

The witness said he saw Krawiec with blood on his face, hands and chest.

DEATH TOLL NOW 18

Simmesport, La., Aug. 13—(AP) —Four more bodies were found Saturday in the crumpled wreckage left by a troop-passenger train collision Friday, bringing the total dead to 13.

Salvage crews found the four charred bodies in a passenger car of the Southern Belle.

Thirty-two more bodies might still be in the smashed cars.

Meanwhile, plans were made for an official investigation into the cause of the crash.

Go-Betweens Involved In Recent 'Fixing' of Horse Races 'Double-Crossed' Says Paper

Toronto, Aug. 13 (CP) — The Globe and Mail says today in a newspaper story that go-betweens involved in the recent "fixing" of horse races on Ontario tracks "double-crossed their bosses" and made money from two sources on the deal—their "racketeer bosses" and other gamblers.

The racing scandal is being investigated by the Ontario Racing Commission. Six jockeys have been suspended from tracks in this province for life and two of them have been convicted on criminal charges so-far in the wide-ranging probe.

The Globe and Mail story says:

"The men who carried on the thieves' work between jockeys, bookeys and Toronto racketeers were padding their pockets from two directions — their racketeer bosses and other gamblers who were willing to pay for the name of a sure thing.

"Most of the bets on the fixed races were placed with bookmakers in Toronto and Buffalo, but some of the lay-off bets the bookies couldn't cover were passed along to gamblers in Seaford.

"The double shuffle on names of chosen horses in phony races was discovered by the racketeers when they found bookies loaded with money on the sure-thing winners when they went to place their bets. In an attempt to clean up their books they removed one rider engineering crooked races and a strong-arm man paid a visit to Fort Erie to let the riders know what would happen if there were further leaks. He got them about the time the lid was blown off the whole affair, and had a number of them arrested, according to reliable sources.

"Members of the Toronto gang resulted in more than $3,000 being dumped into mutual machines at Fort Erie for a coup on Saucer and North Drive. But approximately $8,000 in American funds from the $1,500 Americas Cup board bet by the lady in black on North Drive has reached no one but the R.C.M.P.

(A woman referred to as "the lady in black" has been mentioned frequently during the current investigation as one who made heavy bets on two fixed races.)

"The lady is black," reportedly a Canadian, disappeared after the race and the expose of the fixing system. Later when two men presented tickets for rumored lucky they were arrested and the money was seized. Approximately $1,500 was turned over to the Foreign Exchange Control Board for further investigation, along with the winning tickets."

Drunk Driver Made Wrong Turn to Home

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 13—(AP) Joseph Hinson's drunkenness was bumpy and there was a big white light behind him, but otherwise Hinson's trip home was by normal to Charles D. Bowersox.

He'd been out doing a little drinking, as police explained it, and was on his way home when he turned on what he thought was the road home.

But that big bright light got closer, and looking back he could see it was a railroad locomotive. Bowersox hailed his car, the train stopped and the crew set out and rescued Bowersox and his car off the railroad tracks.

He was sitting in a ditch sleeping soundly when police found him. Bowersox was charged with reckless driving, driving under an expired license and driving while drunk. The fines imposed totalled $110.75.

CRUISER TOWED ASHORE

Algonquin Park, Ont. — (CP) — A cabin cruiser owned by Gordon Wood of Ottawa ran out of gas Saturday night two miles south from Cobourg.

Korean Peasants Have Personal Stake in Talks

Munsan, Korea, Aug. 13—(Reuters)—Korean peasants working in the lush ricefields around the truce town, Kaesong, have a big personal stake in the success or the peace talks — or at least their continuation.

Crops are growing green and rich after the summer's rainfall, and it will be their best harvest for years—if they can reap it.

It is still another month till harvest, and the truce talks break down the Kaesong countryside will again become a battleground, as on four previous occasions.

If the war begins in earnest again, the peasants and their families know that the destruction may be far more devastating than before.

Channel Swim Postponed Until Wednesday

Dover, England, Aug. 13 (Reuters)—The mass channel-swimming race from France to Britain today was postponed for a second time—to 8:30 a.m. (11.30 a.m. EDT) Wednesday.

Weather experts said channel seas, rough all weekend, were still stormy today.

The race to begin at Cap Gris Nez, France, and officials said the prospects for the start Wednesday morning were "not considered to be "very favorable."

Weather conditions Saturday forced the postponement.

At Wissant, near Cap Gris Nez, 20 swimmers from 10 countries wait to tackle the channel. Among them is Hinnie Roach Leunzler, 25-year-old Toronto housewife.

Two Drowned When Power Cruiser Sinks

Vancouver, Aug. 13 — (CP) — Two persons were drowned today when an 18-foot power cruiser suddenly filled with water and sank.

Dead are Mrs. Lillian C. O'Neill, 33, of Hillside, B. C., and a 24-year-old youth whose name was withheld pending notification of next-of-kin living in Newfoundland.

Four other occupants of the boat were able to swim to shore.

The boat sank in 150 feet of water opposite Hillside in Howe Sound, 30 miles northwest of here.

.280 Calibre Rifle Will be Used By Australia

Brisbane, Australia, Aug. 13—(Reuters) — The new British .280-calibre rifle will be adopted as recent Atlantic Pact standardization tasks — will be used by the Australian army, army minister Josiah Francis announced today.

Francis told trainees at a camp near here that the Australian government was co-operating with Britain — the development of the rifle.

The United States and Canada, who are seeking to standardize Atlantic Pact weapons, have approved a .300-calibre rifle.

The American, British, Canadian and French defence ministers met in Washington for a three-month to try and end the "battle of the rifles." They failed to make any decision.

Defence Minister Emanuel Shinwell of Britain said later Britain will go ahead with "pre-production" plans for the new rifle. The British government feels that the .280 is the most suitable weapon to meet its requirements, he said.

General Ridgway Has Little Faith In Communists

Washington, Aug. 13—(AP) — Gen. Matthew B. Ridway, United Nations commander in Korea, apparently hasn't much confidence in the cease-fire talks now going on at Kaesong.

But he's banking heavily on the fighting spirit of his men, if the talks fail.

In an interview published today by the magazine U.S. News and World Report, Ridgway said:

"The ceaseless flow of false, deceiving, perverting and slanted statements which continue to emanate from communist-controlled publicity, deceit and faithlessness in contractual obligations have dissolved all doubts in the minds of members of this command as to communist objectives.

"The members of the United Nations Command will now judge communist intentions not by words, but by performance. . ."

Drunk Loses Clothing, Sleeps in Parked Car, Gets Implicated in Jewel Job

New York, Aug. 13 — (AP) — Cornelius Hinson, 33, a bit under the weather after a big Saturday night, awoke early today in a garage car, minus all clothing but his underwear.

His embarrassment led to solution of a $4,500 jewel robbery.

Brooklyn police told the story this way:

Hinson said he had been drinking and went to sleep in a parked car. When he awoke, he find his clothing gone he garbed himself in a raincoat he found in the auto.

In the coat he found half-a-dozen pieces of jewelry. He turned the jewels over to police after first going back to the car.

Police identified the car owner as Frederick Lebsch, 40, who stated, through his wife, that the jewels in a burglary at a Brooklyn home last week. And the housebolder identified the jewelry, including a diamond ring on Hinson's finger.

Hinson was booked on a charge of receiving stolen property.

What happened to his clothes still is unexplained.

Lebsch was charged with Burglary.

Football as Played by Russians Disrupts Peace of Youth Festival

Berlin, Aug. 13—(AP)—Football—soccer as played and won by the Russian with the aid of Berlin's communist press—disrupted the peace of the communist World Youth Peace Festival yesterday.

Fist fights between rival teams severely scolded German sports fans for taking beastly views Russians and touching booing Moscow Dynamo team and the referee who was officiating.

Neue Deutschland said some spectators proved they had not learned the Nazis' evil and unsportsmanlike arrogance and had not proved "worthy of the great confidence of the youth of the world and, above all, of the friendship with the great Soviet people."

The Muscovites, brought here as the star sports attraction of the youth festival, have played two matches against east German all-star elevens, winning the first 5-2 and the second 2-0. It was at the second game, played Friday night, that the booing occurred.

The communists tried to hush up the scandal, but the Berlin Christian Democratic newspaper, Neue Zeit, which sometimes breaks from anti-Soviet facts even though it is printed in the east sector, revealed the discord.

It seems that some German fans thought their team would have been beaten Dynamo—and would have if Moscow hadn't played dirty and if Russian referee hadn't called half the fouls committed by Dynamo.

Neue Zeit said the German held the Muscovites in a scoreless tie in the first half, but in the second half the Moscow referee "turned into the goalkeeper of the Dynamo family." The newspaper said the fans loosed a chorus of boos that turned into an angry concert lasting for minutes."

Graham Skippers 'Windrift 11' To First Win

George Graham and his standing keel yacht the "Windrift II" twice a bridesmaid in the W. C. Mitkel Challenge Trophy series became a bride yesterday when he came down in front of a six-boat field to win over a shortened course in two hours.

A light breeze necessitated the shortening of the course and so both standing keel craft and the international dinghy sailed twice around the short course from the government dock to Cow Island, in the bay bridge and back to the dock.

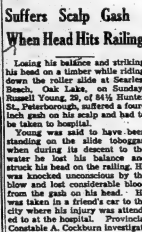
A large, enthusiastic crowd watched the races from the government dock while many motorists stopped on the bay bridge road to watch the races from their cars.

The standing keel yachts got under way at 3:10 pm with Freeman Kinsey in the "Virginia" leading the field across the starting line. He was followed by Bob Boyce in the "Swallow" and Sills in "Windrift I" Harold Seldon in "Sailcyer," George Graham in "Windrift II", and defending champion Group Captain Harry Adams in the "Atair". Adams' yacht trepped behind the dock at the start and in the light air became becalmed before it crossed the starting line six minutes behind the field.

At the first turn at Cow Island "Windrift II" was in front and Sills in "Windrift I" was in the remainder of the race to win in an elapsed time of two hours. Mr. Graham's son, Bernard Graham, was second and were reported recovering.

The accident in which the two were injured occurred on the west side of the city on No. 2 Highway when their old model car was in collision with the transport. The car was completely demolished and the men thrown into the ditch.

Condition of Men Injured in Crash Much Improved



The condition of Robert Brown, 28, and Eric Clark, 74 South George Street, who were injured early Saturday morning when their car was in collision with a highway transport west of Belleville, is much improved, it was learned from hospital and police officials. Both men spent a good night and were reported recovering.

The accident in which the two were injured occurred on the west side of the city on No. 2 Highway when their old model car was in collision with the transport. The car was completely demolished and the men thrown into the ditch.

Losing his balance and striking his head on a timber while riding down the roller slide at Sandy Beach, Oak Lake, on Sunday, Russell Young, 29, of 84½ Hunter St., Peterborough, suffered a fourinch gash on his scalp and had to be taken to hospital.

Young was said to have been standing on the slide toboggan when during its descent to the water he lost his balance and struck his head on the railing. He was knocked unconscious by the blow and lost considerable blood from the gash on his head. He was taken in a friend's car to the city where his injury was attended to at the hospital. Provincial Constable A. Cockburn investigated.

News of Trenton Sister and Three Brothers Meet After Forty Years

Trenton—(Special) — A sister and three brothers who had not seen each other for 40 years met again Saturday for the first time since 1911.

In 1911 Mrs. Alex Campbell said goodbye to her three brothers Donald, Willie and John Grant and with her husband moved to Saskatchewan to settle. A few years ago Mr. Campbell died and his wife moved farther west to Vancouver, B.C.

A daughter, however, married an R.C.A.F. Flight Sergeant and with him moved to Trenton. That twist of fate gave Mrs. Campbell, now 75, a life-long opportunity to come east and rejoin her brothers.

The Alex Campbell's became resident of Belleville in 1908 as homingants to Canada from Glasgow, Scotland.

The reunion Saturday took place at Flight Sergeant and Mrs. C. M. Laroche's home in Middleton Park, where Mrs. Campbell is visiting.

Reports Men Fired Gun When Disturbed

Trenton—(Special)—Police are investigating a report by ex-councillor George LaBrash that a man in a movie car fired upon him in front of his house late Saturday.

According to Mr. LaBrash he watched two men from his front lawn alight from a late model coupe in suburban Sidney and carrying a pail and a hose. "They walked over to my son's car," he related after his arrival here, "and started loosening the gas tank cap."

Mr. LaBrash moved in closer and apparently was heard for one of the men darted across the road, ran and jumped behind the wheel of their car. The other man ran up behind his accomplice's car and started running down the road after it cutting off the vision from the rear license plate.

Mr. LaBrash stepped out into the roadway as the car passed and remembers hearing a gunshot report and seeing a muzzle flash.

Mr. LaBrash reported to police that he saw the car turn and speed away down Front tStreet toward the heart of the town.

All monies contributed to St. Paul's, will be placed in a trust fund with only the interest being used.

Three Arrested After Wild Ride Through Streets

Trenton. (Special.)—Anthony Magarilis, of Toronto, has been released on bail and the two passengers in his taxi have been charged with intoxication after a wild ride on Sunday morning which ended in the arrest of the three at the east end of the town bridge by the Trenton Police department.

Tire burns on the highway and on the sidewalk on the north side of the bridge indicated the path of the machine as it careened down Farley's hill and along the main street out of control. Two parking meters were knocked off and the car missed by only inches crashing into the lobby of the theatre.

With three wheels damaged the car continued through the centre of the town and across the bridge where the police cruiser caught up. The occupants of the car were taken back to the station and later released.

Driver Megarilis faces a charge of leaving the scene of an accident and careless driving.

Damage to the car, a Toronto taxi owned by Daniel DeMarco, one of the occupants, amounted to several hundred dollars.

Fine Weather Greets Fair Goers On First Day

Fine weather greeted Belleville and district fair goers today for the opening day of the four-day Belleville Fair which will run until Thursday night. Early morning prospects were for a large opening day crowd at the fair.

Official opening of the fair is scheduled for this evening at eight o'clock in front of the grandstand with Hastings county Warden Harry Coulter, and Warden J. A. Clemmons of Prince Edward county officiating.

Most of the exhibits in the various fair buildings were in by noon today and horses and cattle were expected to be all on the grounds by middle afternoon. Despite the fact that district farmers are busy with their harvest a large entry of cattle and horses is expected. Many fine horses were brought in on Sunday.

Three Days of Racing

Three days of horse racing will feature the fair program, the 2.18 and 2.17 classes to start on Tuesday. The race track is in fine shape for the racing.

Much work has also been done on the grounds by the parks board superintendent with roadways all being graded and the infield west of the ball diamond being graded and leveled in preparation for parking space for autos.

Today's fair program includes the ladies' horse show held for the afternoon. Lucky Lott's Hell Drivers will perform on the race track in both afternoon and evening performances. The grandstand performance will be by Norman Harris Productions of Toronto and a fine show is promised.

The midway will be a fair within out a midway and Conklin's Midway is already set up and ready to go. The midway will be up over the weekend and will be in operation for all four days of the fair.

Former Mayor Home After Visit to Britain

Ex-Mayor Jack Aillin returned over the weekend from a three-weeks overseas business trip and vacation to the British Isles where he visited in both England and Scotland with relatives. While there he renewed acquaintances with Belleville industrialists who are interested in establishing branch plants in Canada.

Mr. Aillin left the trip both ways by air, flying from Montreal to Prestwick, Scotland in 9½ hours. He spent 17 hours for the return trip on account of his plane being forced to take a northern route because of a storm over the Atlantic.

The midnight sun at Iceland was reported by Mr. Aillin to be an impressive sight, while the daylight trip over the Greenland coast was also interesting. Here the birth of the North Atlantic icebergs was witnessed as they broke away from their parent glaciers on the Canadian coast.

University Men Believe They Heard Corn Grow

Madison, Wis., Aug. 13. (AP)—Seven men, including three University of Wisconsin experts, said today they believe they've heard corn grow.

A tape recording of corn growth sounds was available to substantiate the claim of a newspaper man that there was basis to support an old saying that "it's so hot you can almost hear the corn growing".

"If that wasn't corn growing that we heard I'd like to know what it was," Robert S. Beeler, assistant professor of Agricultural Journalism and editor of the College of Agriculture's Farm Science reports, declared after he witnessed and heard a recording of the stunt.

"When background noises subsided, you could hear that corn growing," Verner S. Suomi, associate professor of Meteorology said.

The project originated with Herbert Jacobs, telegraph editor and farm news editor of the Capital Times. On a quiet country road during the night near a corn field, he swore he heard mapping, crackling noises.

Jacobs enlisted expert help and recording services to experiment.

Plane Guided To Landing Place By Police Officers

Bracebridge, Ont., Aug. 13 — (CP)—Norbert Behnke of Milwaukee, Wis., brought his light plane down safely on the Trans-Canada Air Lines emergency field near this Muskoka district town last night 1 1-2 hours after his compass failed and left him circling aimlessly in unfamiliar territory.

There was enough fuel in the tank of his Ercoupe for 15 minutes' flying when provincial police guided the 31-year-old pilot to his landing place.

Behnke was flying a passenger, Tillie Pluk of Toronto, from Port Huron, Mich., to her hometown when the compass went hay-wire. He signalled traffic control officials at Toronto's Malton Airport that he was circling a town but didn't know where he was.

Shortly afterward, provincial police spotted the Ercoupe over Orillia, 82 miles north of Toronto. They called Malton and Behnke was directed to the nearest airport at Gravenhurst.

But the compass let Behnke down again. He wandered off course and had to be redirected to Bracebridge, 28 miles north of Orillia.

This time provincial police cruisers with blinking lights guided the errant Ercoupe to its destination. Behnke made a perfect landing tinkered with his compass and said he'd finish his flight in the morning.

His passenger? Miss Pluk said she hadn't been a bit worried.

GRANTED POLITICAL REFUGE

The Swedish government Saturday rejected a request of the Communist government of Poland to arrest the 12 men, a step which would have been preliminary to extradition them.

Wealthy New York Sportsman Suffers Abdomen Wounds

St. Jovite, Que., Aug. 13 (CP) —Rupert T. Zickle, critically wounded in a gun accident, was described as "in reasonably good condition" today after being brought to hospital here from a remote fishing lodge by stretcher and ambulance.

The wealthy New York sportsman suffered hand and abdomen wounds early yesterday when a gun discharged.

At first it was planned to bring the wounded man out by R.C.A.F. helicopter but when it arrived it was too dark to make use of it.

Meanwhile, two doctors had been flown in by Wheeler Airlines from St. Jovite to a lake about four miles from Zickle's cabin. There they slogged their way through the dense underbrush to treat him.

Zickle was on vacation with his son Randy who, some three hours after the accident, made his way to a camp to report his father's condition. Two guides remained with the injured man.

After Dr. Ray Lawson of Montreal and Mont Rembland and Dr. S. Dupre of St. Jovite attended to Zickle they made a make-shift stretcher and organized guides to carry him to an abandoned lumber camp, several miles through the woods. The guides spelled each other at carrying the stretcher through the mountain trails and the marshy overgrown places in the valleys.

A guide pushed on to Labelle to summon help and arrange for the lumber camp from where the wounded man was taken to St. Jovite.

The doctors had first feared Zickle might bleed to death before help could reach him but found on arrival that his condition was better than expected.

The camp where Zickle was vacationing is about 35 miles west of St. Jovite, remote and out of touch with the few towns and settlements of the Laurentian hills.

Randy Zickle said he and his father were loading their gear into a canoe, when the gun went off.

Says Tipping Rates Should Be Increased

New York, Aug. 13 (AP) —An average tip of 15 to 20 percent is more in keeping with the times than the traditional 10 percent gratuity, now an inflation casualty, Gilbert D. Phillips, chief department manager of the New York Automobile Club said yesterday.

His suggestions also included 25 cents for the bellboy at a city hotel, more if he carries several bags; 25 cents a person for the chambermaid in the hotel stop is two cents or more, nothing for one-night stays; and 15 to 20 percent of the check in better restaurants, more at a night club.

Million Red Youths Stage Praise Parade

Berlin, Aug. 13 (AP)—More than 1,000,000 hoarse and footsore communist youths were sent home today after a 24-hour praise parade for Russia's Stalin that far outdid anything the Nazis ever whipped up for Hitler.

In parting, they received instructions from Walter Ulbricht, East German communist boss, to sabotage western defence by "all manner of strikes in West Germany." He threatened "ultimate ruin" if Western Germany re-arms. Most of the youths were from East Germany with only a few westerners who might be in a position to carry out these orders.

Organizers of the communists' "World Peace Festival" immediately began moving hordes of replacements for the departing boys and girls into the city as the second week of the "hate America" jamboree got under way.

They will have a hard time, however, matching the pitch of mass hysteria reached in yesterday's demonstrations when seemingly endless lines of blue-shirted kids shouting "long live Stalin" and "smi (Americans) go home" marched past the reviewing stand.

Once past the reviewing stand, where East Germany's communist President Wilhelm Pieck, Premier Otto Grotewohl, the bright and their Russian guests took the "friendship salute," observers noted that the kid's enthusiasm collapsed.

They literally dropped out of line and fell asleep on the ground. Some of the marchers were only six years old. Thousands had been brought in overnight — without sleep — to swell the ranks of the marchers.

At least 300,000 of the youths visited the democratic western sectors. There they saw an abundance of material things and a freedom that astonished many who spoke with reporters.

Transportation facilities to the west were cut off yesterday to keep the youths in their own sector for the parade.

Bulldozer Bares Old Cache of TNT

Morgan, N.J., Aug. 13. (AP)— A small area of this community was roped off today awaiting arrival of army demolition experts to remove a cache of TNT found at the scene of the 1918 munitions plant disaster.

Seven or eight boxes of the explosive were uncovered by a bulldozer Saturday in a vacant lot. Police said there may be more underneath the visible ones.

The cache was on the site where the T. A. Gillespie Shell Loading plant exploded October 4, 1918. The exact death toll never was determined, but the figure was set at between 60 and 90. Property damage was set at $21,000,000.

French Cabinet Minister Shot, Killed by Wife

Orleans, France, Aug. 13. (AP) —Authorities today ordered a sanity test for pretty Yvonne Chevallier who shot and killed her war-hero husband barely 24 hours after he took his first Cabinet post.

Police said the black-haired beauty confessed firing five shots into 42-year-old Pierre Chevallier yesterday when he told her he wanted a divorce.

Chevallier, Second World War resistance leader, had just been named secretary of state for technical education, youth and sports. He was close to the former premier, Rene Pleven, and seemed to have a bright political future.

Chevallier returned to Orleans yesterday after a week in Paris during the final stages of the Cabinet crisis. Mrs. Chevallier told investigators that after a heated quarrel at his absence her husband said he wanted a divorce.

Police said she drew a revolver she had bought a few days earlier and shot him five times.

Rob-Royals Win Over Drive-Ins 9-0

Rob-Royals defeated the hard-fighting Drive-In's team by a 9-0 score in a bantam baseball league game in the Alemite Field on Saturday.

Day led the winners with a pair of singles while Moran connecting for a home run.

Under coach Randy Longhurst, the Drive-Ins have shown plenty of sportsmanlike spirit. They have yet to win a game but come back fighting. Five of them have another year in bantam baseball and will likely stick together.

Rob-Royals defaulted to the Houston squad in the second game of the double-header.

LEAVE THE ITINERARY ALONE

The inevitable dissatisfaction has arisen in some centres with regard to the itinerary released for the Royal tour in Canada. Already, at least one mayor has protested that his city is being made subservient to less than a "whistle stop" on the trip, and has wired Ottawa to ask that a change be made in schedules, in order that Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh may take a tour of his city's streets. This city, whose population at the last count was almost 32,000, and whose inhabitants now undoubtedly number a great deal more than that, is definitely miffed.

Cities and citizens who are protesting the itinerary are forgetting one thing. The Royal couple will be in Canada ostensibly for a holiday, and to see Canada as a nation. That being the case, it can be easily seen that all cities are not to get the same treatment. Even the tour tasks only slightly more than a month, much sightseeing will have to be cramped into little time. For that reason, the Royal tour through many parts of the country will of necessity be curtailed.

The Canadian tour provides for two holidays for the Royal couple. Even at that, they will face a rigorous schedule between their days of rest in the Laurentians and in British Columbia. Their itinerary, as released from Ottawa, sounds like the kind of a trip that is not diplomatic, and will exert untold pressures on them. Because of that, any appeals by centres for consideration other than that already provided should be ignored. By the time that the tour is over, the Prince and Princess will have seen so many cities and so many streets, that all but the exceptional will seem a common blur. That is the strongest reason for disregarding the requests of any cities for further consideration—it is unlikely that Prince Philip's successor would remember this or that community as having this or that to show them, with the exception of cities such as Niagara Falls, or Banff, or Toronto, or Trenton.

The itinerary for the trip, if it pleases Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, should please everyone. It requires no changing.

THE BELLEVILLE FAIR

The fall fair has been an institution in good standing in Canada for hundreds of years. Even the first agricultural fair recorded in history at Windsor, Nova Scotia, in 1765, communities have looked forward each year to the time when a display of farm implements and products could be made. Not only that, the fair was a convenient place for friends to meet, for families to have reunions, and for everyone to have a good time.

In most centres, the fair remains just that after all these years. Whole families descend on the fair grounds from surrounding districts. Displays of agricultural implements, new and old, are a big feature. Farm animals and products are still judged by men of experience who find great satisfaction in seeing wholesome, healthy examples of farm life on display.

So it will be at the Belleville Fair, which opens today. From Shannonville, Tweed, Napanee, Deseronto, Madoc, Marmora, from Prince Edward County the people will come. Each year, more than the first exhibition was held in Belleville in 1842. Daily journals of that time report that the streets were "lined with oxen and horses", and that great crowds attended the opening. For that matter, the 1842 fair may not have been the first in the city. It is, however, the first on record.

And while it has not been established that the fair has been held every year since 1842, it is safe to assume that this year will mark the 110th show under the auspices of the Belleville Fair Board. Behind it today is the tradition of centuries and the hard work of years. It has performed a service to Belleville and the surrounding district for a long time, and barring any unforseen circumstances, it will continue to do so far many years.

MR. NORMAN IS CLEARED

Canada, due to her location, alternately basks in the sun of the good deeds of the U.S. and is blackened by the shadow of shameful acts. Last week, the shadow was cast on E. H. Norman, head of the Canadian delegation to the United Nations. In one of the famous probes the United States has been making into the activities of communists in that country, Mr. Norman was charged as being a former communist.

The accusation against Mr. Norman has been linked with a campaign designed to discredit General Douglas MacArthur. In the probe of MacArthur's former military intelligence chief, a witness stated that Mr. Norman was a member of the red cell located at Cape Cod, Massachusetts.

This accusation is one more in a line of wild statements made in U.S. witch hunts. In several probes, men have been discredited without being asked to give their side of the story. The most notorious man in the field in the past has been Senator Joseph McCarthy, whose political ambition has often overcome his better sense.

Mr. Norman has been cleared by his government. That should be enough to silence any criticism of his actions in the past.

PORTRAIT

An artist friend of mine long dead and gone
Painted my portrait, pleasing to himself, I'm sure—or possibly to two.
The other me; to no one else I knew.

"That isn't you!" devoted friends exclaimed.
"Not you at all, although 'tis nicely framed."
They fled to artists, each one to insist,
On what he saw in me the painter missed.

All had opinions different; eyes and nose,
One even said: "Like that you never pose."
"Perhaps," I said, "the gentle artist drew
A picture of the man he thought he knew."

I wondered do I know myself at all?
Am I that man in canvas on the wall?
Since no two on my portrait can agree,
How many individuals must I be?

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE FALLING GIANT

"Timber!" We hear the cry in beautiful technicolour sensational showing the rugged life of the logging camp. As the great tree starts to fall, there is the resounding snap as the last fibers of the trunk break and the tree starts its downward course. As it hits the ground, there is a noise like the crashing of a dozen thunderbolts. A giant of the forest has fallen.

But in its fall the giant has taken down many other trees. It has crushed all the shrubbery over a wide area. Little trees that a short time before were hopefully pushing their tiny crowns up toward the sun are now broken and will be utterly decayed within a few months.

Every time we do evil we not only hurt ourselves but others also. When a great man, the incumbent of some high position, plunges down from his pinnacle of influence, he crushes many others in his fall. The father who brings disgrace upon his children is a case in point. The son who dashes his parents' pride in him and trample upon it is so pathetic as he sits amid the ashes of his disgrace that the whole world weeps at the sorry sight of him.

We should remember these things as we confront temptation. We should remember that no man falls into disgrace without dragging others with him. The falling tree spreads devastation in its downward plunge.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Physically small men may have a greater incentive to make good in this world than big men. But after something more than half a century of experience of the problem, I have reluctantly come to the conclusion that it is a great advantage to be on the big side rather than the small. We who command the hulk of nine or while-fet build are buoyed up with memories of Napoleon: and we comfort ourselves with the adage that precious goods come in small parcels. But so, of course, does poison.

If a man arrives at young manhood knowing that he is destined to be a peewee, very often a psychological force takes possession of him and drives him to tireless effort. Jealous, perhaps, of the big boys who pushed him around in youth, vengeful, and shoved juvenile past him in line-ups, a small man can develop flashions that result in him rising to considerable wealth and power in the world, by the same token, big men should be encouraging and self-complacent characters who spend their lives dancing attendance on little men who have been driven to eminence by psychology.

But alas, it isn't so. A great many of our most successful men are whoppers. You can confirm this in any circle. Visit a club of business men, whether a service club or an exclusive social club, take a look at the House of Commons, note the lads in the football games, or hockey. The quitters are not found on the field will be noticed. So eat up your spinach, boys, while your growth is still on you.

40 to 50 North Koreans in One Tent of U.N. Hospital and All Suffer From Typhus, Smallpox

By BILL ROSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Seoul, Korea, Aug. 13—(CP)—"Typhus", said a Korean doctor standing in the middle of the tent and its 40 or so wretched patients —North Koreans all.

Conducting a tour of the hospital improvised in the gigantic evacuee camp at Koncbon-Myong, five miles east of Seoul, he showed the "reception room," the hospital "office" and the "operating theatre", various applications of the ordinary packing case draped with sulfid white cotton—and then gone smack into the "wards."

The more than 800 patients in the hospital were but a fraction of the camp's 61,356 occupants. A further 500 were treated the same morning — until medicines and bandages ran out — at the clinic in another part of the centre.

The doctor had said earlier that almost 300 of the cases were infectious diseases, but that they were in "isolation."

They were. They were in separate tents, slam-bang up against the others.

"Typhus", he said, having led the way into the middle of one tent, pointing to a man on the first tent, after the barn housing the surgical patients had been visited.

With decent haste the visitor led the way outside.

The typhus was at the far end of the next tent before the doctor turned to explain:

"Smallpox."

Given Same Answer

The interpreter was asked at the next tent's entrance what its patients had.

"Typhoid."

There was a smile, a nod, the visit ended.

Since the beginning of June more than 23,000 patients have been treated in this hospital, 8,000 of them with communicable diseases. Amazingly, only 360 have died.

During the same period 330,000 evacuees have passed through the camp — turned out of their homes in the areas adjacent to Seoul, both north and south of the parallel, and told to make their way in to South Korea.

As many as 8,000 a day have been dusted with DDT.

As far as can be ascertained not one of the hospitals organized on the camp by the United Nations civil assistance command has yet been visited by a single medical officer attached to it by either the army or the world health organization.

The medicos sit in their offices at headquarters and "advise". Experienced civilian workers merely say the Koreans must first be examined, then treated.

Only one, a Norwegian surgeon named Meyers, concerned himself with his patients. He is known for the point of going out and doing things himself rather than by hand. He performed as many as five operations a day in Seoul city relief hospital before taking his present work, finally working himself into nervous exhaustion.

Of the examinations the five Korean doctors and 11 Korean nurses attached to the hospital give a brief pressed into service — do the best they can.

Better than 90 per cent of the evacuees are malnutrition cases to varying degrees.

Says the colonel commanding the U. N. C. A. C. team in Seoul province:

"They are really starved and in bad shape. These evacuees are in the worst physical state I have seen. Either they were terribly treated by the Chinese or else they were too scared to go out and look for food. They even ate poisonous grasses and roots between heat and flies they suffer badly from dysentery."

There are 11 permanent-type camps like Kunchon throughout Seoul province, each with an estimated 19,000 inhabitants.

Expert Surgeons Flown to Remote Camp to Assist

St. Jovite, Que., Aug. 13—(CP)—Two expert surgeons late Sunday were flown to a remote lake outside here to assist the wife of wealthy New York sportman lies gravely wounded in a hunting camp.

Drs. Raymond Lawson of Montreal and Raymond Dupre of St. Jovite were set down at one of the tiny lakes that dot this Laurentian mountain region by a Beaver aircraft flown by Wheeler Air Lines pilot Alf Cockle. With them were nurses and medical supplies.

The party will try to reach the Saskigan Hunting and Fishing Club where Mrs. Lillian Boyer, of New York lies wounded in the hand and abdomen from an accidental discharge of his rifle.

Dr. Lawson, son of Ontario's Lieutenant-Governor Ray Lawson, intended to operate on Mr. Zickle Sunday night if guides at the Saskigan Club got there by Mr. Zickle's bedside in time. A log road runs part way from the hunting camp but the medical party landed in the heart of the Laurentian bushland.

HIT BY PELLET

Toronto, Aug. 13— (CP) — A pellet from a pellet-powered air gun, fired from a moving car, hit Carolyn Brannen, above the left temple and sent her to hospital yesterday. She and a friend had been driving and were resting by the roadside on Queen Elizabeth way when the incident occured.

BUMPY FLIGHT

Makfton, England — (CP) — Lorne Welch said he felt as though he had been riding a bucking bronco when he brought his glider down here, completing eight hours in the air battling strong cross winds. He flew 190 miles from Derbyshire and reached a maximum height of 6,800 feet.

WANT DAM ACTION

Saskatoon—(CP)— About 600 farmers from Outlook have demanded that the federal government take immediate construction of the South Saskatchewan River dam. The project would irrigate 1,500,000 acres of land and develop 150,000 horsepower of electricity.

21 Fatalities In Canada During Weekend

With the holiday-season still in full swing and hot weather sending thousands swimming in search of coolness at beaches and resorts, 21 fatalities were recorded in Eastern Canada during the week-end.

Personal Health Talks

BEWARE THE X-RAY SKILL GAME

The poor geek.
That's what I think when queries like this turn up in the mail:

The doctors around here never seemed to understand my case. And the (Blank) Specialists (or maybe the Blank Clinic) examined me with the X-ray and found I have fallen stomach. What can be done for fallen stomach?

The poor geek who falls for the X-ray shell game is, alas, enough, a pigeon of fair or even superior intelligence and business acumen.

And it is not always the perpetrating quack or "clinic" that exploits popular X-ray credulity. Many a near-doctor or half-trained technician in a "diagnostic laboratory" take X-ray pictures on the side and tells customers what the pictures show.

This fallen stomach thing, for instance. It would be an unusual if the sagging, falling or ptosis of the stomach, only the size it sometimes would have to stand on their heads or at least remain in a knee-chest position for a while after each meal, so the partly digested food (chyme) might get along into the upper finger breadth (duodenum) portion of the small bowel where the pancreatic juice and bile can work on it. But how many times would you have heard anything yet.

If you are so dignified that you can't stand on your head or even hold the knee-chest position for a few minutes several times a day—that is, get down on all fours, then let your head sag to floor while keeping thighs vertical—then perhaps you can still go for a walk after meals and the Sims posture. Both knee-chest and Sims postures are illustrated in pamphlet on Displacements, available on written request (no clipping, please) if you send stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Whether sagging dropped, fallen stomach is really a factor of whatever ails you or not, proper posture exercises help gravity to lift the stomach, bowel in place, floating, dropped, fallen or prolapsed organ or structure back to normal position.

Trick specialists and clinic racketeers have an assortment of $25 words for loose or wandering organs, melancholic, morbid words which are calculated to keep the poor geeks coming. For fallen stomach the word is ptosis, ptosia, for sagging colon coloptosis, for floating kidney nephroptosia, or for drooping of the upper eyelid just ptosis.

Lest the casual reader draw a wrong inference from this inside information, let me say here that if I were the patient I wouldn't give a wooden nickel for an X-ray "diagnosis" of fallen stomach or any other displacement, one more X-ray waste any time messing around with a "doctor" who might try to work the X-ray shell game on me.

You see, my dear hicks, I mean I'm telling you, for every poor geek who plays the X-ray shell game and wins a fallen stomach or some other dubious prize there are probably a thousand less gullible persons whose internal organs are no more firmly anchored but the dare fools remain as well as could be expected because they have never had their X-ray picture taken.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Glycerin Mouth Wash

Please give a formula for a glycerin mouth wash to relieve dry mouth, one that can be prepared at home. Some proprietary mouth washes contain glycerin but in too small amounts. (M. L.)

Answer—Dissolve, in a cupful, one part lemon juice, five to ten parts water. Rinse mouth with the mixture two or three times a day.

Rupture of Plantaris Tendon

What causes a ruptured plantaris muscle in leg. This may not be spelled correctly. (F. C.)

Answer—The plantaris muscle is in the back of the lower leg, and its tendon joining the Achilles tendon where it is attached to the heel bone. Sudden, stinging pain in calf when running or jumping, followed by swelling, lameness, soreness and black-and-blue discoloration at the ankle are symptoms. These are signs of ruptured plantaris. The usual treatment includes crutches, light splint or strapping three or four weeks of disability. Recovery is slow because the use of the leg in the foot is not resumed too soon. Common muscle pain, or neglect treatment in the belief that the injury is just a "charleyhorse."

Gratifying to read in your column your opinion that use of mineral oil sometimes is not harmful. (C. P. P.)

Answer—The authority approves of vinegar as condiment and in cooked salad dressing, of Arabella Davis, whose cook book, Let's Cok It Right, is justly famous.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

AS YOU THINKETH

There is no doubt that each of us is influenced by the thoughts of others as far back in history as it is possible to go. We are not plague us, however. We are born to think for ourselves, no matter who we are. It is our free privilege. There may be instances where our thoughts are forbidden or censured, but not thought. You can take action on what you can't think, or see!

It is not a the crowd thinks but as you think that is the important thing for you in life. You may be wrong in that thinking but it makes you feel good that it is free and that its process belongs to you, and to you alone. Of course the fact that your thought is also free—that is, the exercise of your thought.

It is to the free expression of the thinkers of the world that we owe what liberty and progress we have. Throttle thought and you put the brakes upon human progress and happiness. We owe a great debt of gratitude to our philosophers, scientists, inventors, discoverers, explorers, teachers and statesmen. These are the inspirers of our faith. They give to us our cue to independent thought.

As you and I thinketh, so do we live, plan, build, and healthful thoughts are the ones that progress and reasoning and intelligent thought that we do function healthily. Not matter what we realize the power that thought exercises. Rightly directed it could be the world Darwin's book on the "Origin of Species" influenced the thought of the entire world.

Tom Paine was so imbued with the thought of freedom and liberty that he cried it aloud in many countries, and wherever it thrived that was his country. He had great faith in the power of thought, so much so that he early joined the side of George Washington, who urged him to inspire thought.

Few people read the written thoughts of Thoreau during his lifetime, but since his death he has become a universal thinker and philosopher, known in many country, the essence of his entire life thought having centred around within the realm of nature. Nature was his Heaven and his Earth.

WEDDINGS

CORRIGAN—O'CONNOR

On August 4, in St. John The Evangelist Church, Whitby, Rev. D. V. Hickey united in marriage Mary Elizabeth O'Connor, daughter of Mrs. Charles O'Connor, Whitby, and Joseph Dennis Corrigan, son of Mr. D. J. Corrigan of Frankford, and the late Mrs. D. J. Corrigan.

The soloist, Miss Marcella Rousseau, was accompanied at the organ by Miss. P. M. Spratt.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Joseph O'Connor, of South Bend, Indiana, wore a gown of white point-de-esprit over taffeta with mid-calf bodice, Peter Pan collar and full skirt. Her fingertip veil fell from a Mary Queen of Scots headdress. She carried a corsage of red roses and mother-of-pearl prayer book. Miss white streamers caught with red rosebuds.

Miss Margaret Corrigan, sister of the groom, gowned in pale mauve nylon marquisette over taffeta with matching heart-shaped headdress attended the bride.

Mr. Robert Corrigan of Detroit, Michigan, was groomsman, with Mr. Vincent Corrigan and Mr. Robert Armstrong, both of Frankford, as ushers.

Immediately following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at Spruce Villa Hotel. Receiving, the bride's mother wore a navy dress with pale mauve accessories and corsage. She was assisted by the groom's sister, Miss Nora Corrigan, of Detroit, Michigan, who wore a beige dress, black velvet accessories and a corsage of red carnations.

For a wedding trip to Montreal, Quebec City and Ottawa, the bride changed to a dusty rose bengaline suit with matching hat and purse and white accessories. Her corsage was of white gardenias. After their return, the happy couple will reside in Whitby.

She told the children two stories, illustrating the value of small children's pennies early in the year. Jesus and learning to give their pennies to help other boys and girls less fortunate than themselves. She also complimented the Auxiliary on their splendid Baby Band's fine leadership.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her helpers.

MOUNT PLEASANT-RAWDON W.M.S.

Rawdon—The August meeting of Mount Pleasant Woman's Missionary Society was held in the church on Wednesday last with 12 members, four visitors and three children in attendance.

Mrs. Burton Sharp presided at the piano and played quiet music and Mrs. Ross Hoard gave the call to worship "God's Way for Life's Always Best", and all sang "Jesus Calls Us".

"The Prayer for Peace," written by L. S. Albright, was read from the July Monthly. The September meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Burton Sharp with Mrs. John Holmes and Mrs. Frank Jeffs to arrange program.

Plans were made for a quilting at the home of the president, also a bake-sale in town in aid of Supply Work. Funds are greatly needed for this department.

The treasurer reported almost $91 for six months.

The new Home Mission packet which includes "From Lakes to Northern Lights," by Rev. Malcolm C. MacDonald D.D., and "Home Missions Digest," by Frances Bonwich, will be ordered for the autumn and winter study.

The president read part of the 12th chapter of Romans and then she and Mrs. John Holmes gave the worship service as written for this service in the Monthly, on the theme "Working Together". This worship closed with a story entitled "The Palace Made by Music," as written by Raymond Alden in his collection, "Why the Chimes Rang."

Serving Trinidad

Mrs. Percy MacMullen read an article from the June Monthly, entitled "Men and Women Serving Trinidad," written by Harold E. Swann. Many East Indian people have been educated in Canadian Mission Schools in Trinidad, and today new buildings and major repairs receive $2 from public funds for every dollar the Mission invests. Sixty-seven Canadian schools are staffed with teachers who were trained in the church "Training College." Is not Trinidad unique in this partnership between a missionary organization and government?

The civil service and the oil fields have taken large numbers of young men from Naparina college. There are also doctors, dentists, lawyers and nurses and it is hoped that these young people will be a Christian influence wherever they work.

Mrs. Ruth Linn contributed a reading, and Mrs. Roy Thrasher gave the closing chapter of the Study Book, Japan. Today's challenge to western Christendom is to make democratic ideals live in Japan. Only Christ can make democracy work, and it is hoped that these qualified to show how spiritual forces may work similarly miracles in the life of the Charles Wesley

Mrs. Frank Jeffs read a history of the author Rev. Charles Wesley who wrote "Jesus Lover of My Soul." He was born in 1707 and died 1788 and was a true poet and hymn writer. Many of his hymns are published in the United Church Hymnal. Mrs. Jeffs read the story of the Wesley brothers and then the origin of this special hymn. Each of the five verses were sung with a commentary read after each verse and this made the words more real to all. The original third verse is not in the Hymnary so copies of this were passed around.

Mrs. John Mulheron closed the meeting.

Dress Not Made To Sit Down In

Los Angeles, Aug. 13. (AP)—A top California fashion authority has issued a decree down to Paris' decree of hems down.

The word from Paris is longer skirts especially since Christian Dior came out endorsing the trend. That makes it official in Paris.

But G. Peter Rosenfeld, president of the California Fashion Creators, said his association will resist the trend.

American women have the most beautiful legs in the world. Why hide them?" asked Rosenfeld.

In an interview, a Rosenfeld spokesman told his wife bought a dress from a Paris designer only to find she couldn't sit down in it. When she returned it, she was told that the dress was not made to sit down with.

"That tells the whole story," commented Rosenfeld.

Fashion Flashes

THERE'S PLENTY of life still in the gray flannel suit which, this season, is taking on civilized airs. We cite one group of flannel suits that are in for velvet trimming and cut-steel beading, the trim appearing on the collar, the cuffs and the pocket flaps.

THE FLATTERY of the veil continues to be recognized, and more than one designer is doing wonders with the veiling's saucy trimming but that of novelty veiling, which is smartly manipulated to give each hat an original touch.

MID-SUMMER finds black perhaps the most important color worn by city children, which presages added importance to the black dress, suit and coat for Fall. A tweeny-weather dress of great promise is made of sheer black wool with black velvet collar and self-peaked revers outlining the deep V neckline. Skirt falls back to disclose a wide fan inset of pleated taffeta.

RETURNING TO favor from all accounts, is the dressy bag of black antelope so made, framed with jeweled touches, newly handled zipper closings, and original shapes, add interest to this favorite accessory.

MARIO ... in his distinctive feature about FOOD ... What's Cooking?

You were important in ancient France if you sat above the pastry.

Social caste system decreed that the upper strata be seated at the top of the table. A platter of pastry was the dividing line. You just didn't have any rank if you were on the wrong side of the eclaire.

One of the democratic things about pie is that it goes out equally in all directions. A nine inch pie in the centre of the family table is the embodiment of the best American traditions.

Red currants and red raspberries are a luscious pie filling. Both fruits are now in season. To keep the juice from overflowing use granulated (minute) tapioca in the filling. Let the pie stand 3 or 4 hours after it is baked, so that the juice in the filling can thicken slightly.

Currant and Raspberry Pie

2 cups all-purpose flour
2-3 cup shortening, room temperature
1 teaspoon salt
4 to 7 tablespoons cold water
4 cups red currants off stems
2 cups red raspberries
1-3 cups sugar
3 tablespoons minute tapioca
1-4 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Sift together the flour and salt. Cut in the shortening until mixture resembles coarse meal. Cut in the balance of the shortening until pieces of shortening are the size of peas.

Gradually sprinkle the cold water over the mixture, mixing and tossing lightly until the dough holds together in one mass.

Divide the dough in half. Roll out to make the top and bottom crusts of a 9-inch pie. Fit the bottom crust into the pie plate.

Wash and pick over (remove the currants, raspberries, sugar, tapioca and salt.

Turn the fruit mixture into the pie plate. Cut a hole about 1 inch wide in the centre of the top crust. Place top crust on pie. Flute edges of pie.

Preheat oven at 450 degrees. Bake pie 10 minutes at 450 degrees. Then lower heat to 375 degrees and bake 30 to 40 minutes more until crust is medium brown.

COMING OF AGE

Princess Margaret will be 21 Aug. 21. There is some speculation that a marriage announcement may be made at the same time. This United Kingdom Information Office photo, taken by photographer Baron at Buckingham Palace, shows the Princess in a white satin gown decorated with white and pink roses.—(CP Photo).

R.R. 2, became the bride of Harvey Raymond Hannon, of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hannon, of Dundalk, Ontario. The Rev. A. C. McCallum, pastor of White's Church, officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was becomingly attired in a white gabardine suit, with white accessories. It was trimmed with streamers and band of narrow red velvet ribbon. A tiny pearl choker with matching earrings and corsage of red roses completed her ensemble.

Miss Eileen Hannon, of Toronto, sister of the bridegroom, was her only attendant, wearing a suit of pink gabardine with matching accessories and corsage of Lestra Hibbard roses.

Mr. Thomas Rush, of Trenton, R.R. 5, brother of the bride, attended the bridegroom.

Following the reception, which was held at Golden Acres Inn, Kingston Road, where the bride's mother, wearing a navy figured silk on a white background, with natural straw hat and corsage of red Bellarmine roses, received the guests, the young couple left for Muskoka, Northern and Eastern Ontario, the bride travelling in a suit of apricot gabardine, matching hat with multi-colored French feather and corsage of white carnations. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Hannon will reside at 64 Oakmount Road, Toronto.

DOYLE—SHANNON

Sacred Heart Church, Marmora, decorated with gladioli, dahlias and phlox, was the setting for a pretty wedding on Saturday morning at nine o'clock, when Nora Bernice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Shannon, of Marmora Township, became the bride of Gordon Wesley Doyle, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Doyle, or Marmora Township. The ceremony was performed and the Nuptial Mass celebrated by the Rev. J. A. O'Neill.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. Joseph Murray and Mrs. Hugh Hurley, who played quiet music and Mrs. Ross Hoard gave the call to worship "God's Way for Life's Always Best", and all sang "Jesus Calls Us".

FOOD SHORTAGE

These emaciated Korean children are evidence of the shortage of food behind the battle lines. About 350,000 North and South Koreans were evacuated from the battle area by U. N. forces and their arrival further south exhausted rice supplies. Although Korea normally exports rice in quantity, the staple had to be imported for the evacuees. Supplies are one-half to three-quarters of normal rations. These children squat on the bare floor of an emergency orphanage in Seoul Province. If they are lucky their rice is supplemented with "Kimchi" — a traditional Korean pickled salad.—(CP from National Defence).

Although Rice Tragically Short in Korea, Troops Forced To Burn It in Forward Area

By BILL BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Suwon, Korea, Aug. 13 (CP)—There isn't enough rice in South Korea for everbody. There hasn't been for months.

And in a South Korean population already under a meagre ration, the United Nations army has just added more than 120,000 North Koreans whom it pulled from their homesteads north of the 38th parallel. Ninety percent of the refugees were malnutrition cases.

They were considered a danger to military operations in the area.

Says Jack Purves of Cranbrook B.C., Canadian Red Cross worker who now is welfare officer for the United Nations Civil Assistance Command team in Seoul Province:

"We just never get enough rice for them.

"In our one province alone we are 54,000 metric tons short of our allocations for the last five months.

"There's been a general tightening of belts—and a good many thousands who've just had to do without."

Yet with the shortage confronting the province now, and extreme misery looming for the country next winter, the troops carrying out the evacuations at the front have been actually burning rice.

The Korean refugee is the easiest in the world to handle. His family packs his essentials— a few blankets, rice and some cooking utensils— and goes its way. No great kitchens are needed usually, no food lines. The family draws its rice and cooks its meals itself.

But in the case of the unfortunate North Koreans, the troops jammed them into trucks, 80 and 85 at a time, forced them to leave their bundles behind—then burned the abandoned gear.

Rice which the families could have carried with them, rice the troops' own battalions could have used for their Korean porters and left that much more for U.N.C.A.C., went up in smoke.

Korean rice is famous throughout the Orient. Its production was South Korea's major industry. Its annual exportable surplus used to be in great demand.

When it gave out U.N.C.A.C. had to import rice, which the Koreans pronounced of inferior quality.

Soon that polished rice gave out.

Loses Its Value

The next supplies were unhulled and unpolished rice —and barley.

Rice loses half its food value in the husking operation, Barley a quarter.

But polished or unhulled, the Koreans were given the same ration of three bops a day. A bop when cooked boils up to the size of a tin.

That meant that the family drawing unhulled rice was getting only half as much as it did before, and if it drew barley, only three-quarters.

"Even so," said Purves, "the refugee who found himself a shelter in a village generally could pound and hull his own rice and prepare his meal — though less of it—in the traditional way.

"But the transient refugee in the rice line, weak, hungry, suffering from dysentery— he has nothing to hull it with and is too weak to do it if he had. So he boils the rice as it comes into a mush, does what he can with it and eats something like the food we give horses back home."

Further, transportation has been a bottleneck. Deliveries are irregular, besides being inadequate.

Not Slowing Down
DeMille Plans to Spend More Millions to Make Millions

By JACK QUIGG

Hollywood, Aug. 13. (AP)—Mr. Hollywood is 70 years old today, but hustling Cecil Blount DeMille has no intention of slowing down.

As he has for 37 years, "C.B." plans to keep on showing Hollywood how to spend millions to make more millions.

"I would like to start on page one of American history and go right down to the latest dispatch from Korea," he says.

Of his 69 major pictures, only two have lost money.

His films have earned —up to December, 1949—$562,000,000 and have been seen by 3,214,000,000 persons.

From 1915, when he produced his first spectacle film, "Carmen", he has been considered's acknowledged master of the epic.

Many years ago he expressed belief the average fan "wants to see wealth, things colorful, interesting and exotic."

DeMille is the descendant of Dutch immigrants who settled in the United States in 1658.

C.B.'s first stage experience was as an actor. Later he turned to writing.

He wasn't enthusiastic when a friend brought him together with Samuel Goldwyn, a glove salesman, and Jesse L. Lasky, a cornet player to discuss entering the infant motion picture industry. He soon warmed to the idea and the trio formed the Jesse L. Lasky Play Company, capitalized at $20,000.

The firm acquired rights to the play "The Squaw Man" and sent Cecil west to film it. His destination was Flagstaff, Ariz., but it was raining when the train arrived and DeMille rode to the end of the line—Los Angeles.

In a sketch called Hollywood he rented half a barn in a lemon grove and went to work. "The Squaw Man", cost $15,450 and earned $225,000.

"I took to shooting every scene twice," he said. "I'd sneak one negative home and put it in the attic.

"Because the trust (a group by major studios which was trying to force independents out of business) decided our full-length picture was dangerous, we were sabotaged in every possible manner. When the film was done less than half the footage was usable."

But the Trust didn't know about the second takes. DeMille spirited them out of his house and went to Philadelphia. He cut and edited it while riding east.

In 1916, his second year in Hollywood, DeMille produced and directed 13 pictures. The Lasky Company expanded, combined with the Adolph Zukor Company and moved to the present site of Paramount Studio.

He did as much as anyone to create the impression that Hollywood is a fabulous place full of fabulous people.

Three Fewer Hangers-on On Carnival Circuit

Sutton, Aug. 13 (CP) — The carnival circuit has three fewer hangers-on as of Saturday night.

One—Paul Morand, alias Camille Maraway, alias Paul White, alias George Moran — is in jail at Brampton, charged with theft of a $1,000 public address system.

The other two — Chief Joseph Nelson and Sgt. Edward Boshnert of the Port Credit, Ont., police force—have spent most of the last two months travelling around with the show, looking for Morand — Maraway - White - Moran.

The cops joined the carnival when the P.A. system vanished from a sound truck at the Credit Valley Lions Club Carnival last June. They recovered the booty at a small town in Quebec and got a good description of their man. In plain clothes, they stuck with the show during a swing through Northern Ontario.

They finally spotted their suspect at this town on the south shore of Lake Simcoe. He denied his identity but the officers said a scar on his thumb gave him away.

Bloodless Reign of Terror Conducted By Communists of Middle Europe

Washington, Aug. 13.—(AP)— The communists of middle Europe are carrying on a bloodless reign of terror against "unessential" persons.

Tens of thousands have been herded on the countryside to die without food, shelter or a chance to work.

The program began quietly in Bulgaria a year ago and now is spreading through Poland and Czechoslovakia.

From refugee stories flooding into Washington it appears that communists are trying to get rid of three types of persons:

1. The middle class.

2. Those who live near the western borders of the Soviet bloc.

3. Those over 35 years of age, too old the "make the great change" to communist thinking.

The purge is said to have partially emptied big cities such as Warsaw and Cracow in Poland, Prague and Brno in Czechoslovakia and Budapest in Hungary. Previously Sofia in Bulgaria suffered. In Budapest a Jewish old people's home was cleared out.

Communist police tell people that in 24 hours they must be at such-and-such a railroad station with only 20 to 60 pounds of belongings, depending on the size of the family.

They are loaded aboard cattle cars and dumped in some rural area. In Hungary and Czechoslovakia, significantly, they are dumped near railroads that go into the Soviet Union.

The communists claim they need city apartments and homes for "essential workers." They fill the emptied homes with young communists who have some technical skills.

There are plenty of reports of housing shortages in middle Europe.

But news reaching the headquarters of the International Peasant Union and of the Christian Democratic Union tells another story. Both groups represent large middle-of-the-road political parties of middle Europe.

Here are the reports of what has happened:

Poland:

So far about 40,000 have been tossed out of their homes in Warsaw and 5,000 in Cracow.

The poles have merely been thrown out on the streets penniless and told to find their way to some small town in east Poland.

At the peak a year ago 5,000 families were being thrown out of their homes each week in the larger cities.

Hungary:

By the end of June 15,000 persons had been dispossessed. At the peak 2,000 a week were being thrown out of their homes in Budapest alone.

Czechoslovakia:

Unknown thousands have been thrown out of Prague, Brno and Bratislava. Arms production is being increased and young communists are being conscripted in the arms production centres.

Among the runners-up were Charles Dyer, 52, of Fergus, and Tom Sanders, 83, of Guelph. But Martin McHardy, the 31-year-old Scotsman who settled at Moco Road two weeks ago, made the finals, too.

Indians Look Down At Yanks; Bosox Narrow Margin; Brooks Coasting

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BL...

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Ed...

HEARTBREAKER NO. TWO!

You can tab young Johnny Mowat as the hard-luck hurler of the Belleville Redmen if not the Central Ontario Baseball League. Young "Thumper" hurled himself a nerd four - hitter against the Brockville Monees Saturday night and lost a 1-0 verdict. He was up against a crafty mound veteran, however, one Deverde "Smoky" Smith and apparently the policeman pitcher has lost little of his former cunning.

It was one of the best diamond battles staged in Fulford Park this season. Monees struck for their lone run in the second and from there in it was a spine-tingling thriller. Both Mowat and Smith got fine support afield although the latter whiffed nine of our side.

The Reds, like the Monees, played heads-up baseball all through and a hitting break might have switched Dame Fortune's smile to the other side. As it was, the Redmen had a fine chance to tie the count, or win the game in the ninth when Fitzpatrick singled and was sacrificed to second with none out. But Ole Smoky "bored down", as Dizzy Dean would say, and struck out Gilhooley and Buchanan.

It was the second heartbreaker for Mowat to lose and the youngster deserved a better fate. He was steady all through and had his mates breezing with a clutch clout or two—who knows. But then again, there was "Smoky".

The Redmen go to Baiawa on Wednesday where they tackle the Shoemen in a league fixture so it says in the schedule.

HEAP HOT, EH?

That big lump in his cheek may not have been tobacco the other day when Manager Al Lopez of the Cleveland Indians told a sports writer that he did not think Bobby Avila were "that good". That was when the Tribe clambered into first place in the American League.

He could have added that the thought the Yankees, Red Sox and perhaps Tigers would be better than they have been. But whatever the secret the Tribe's manager is behind this latest move and who can blame him? If his Tribe wins the pennant Al will be named the manager of the year, going away.

The Indians extended their first place lead over the Yankees to 1½ games over the weekend to hold first slot without argument for the second time since April 28th. They defeated the White Sox for double-header victories and the Yanks were victims perhaps of poetic justice when the curfew pinch-hit for their foemen, giving the Bronx Bombers a double loss.

Tonight the Indians seek their eleventh straight victory and Robert Feller will be after his 19th victory. Rapid Robert is the leading pitcher in the major league with 19 victories and four defeats while his fast ball was still hopping, he might have won 20 games a year, even in this rivalry ball era.

With the Tribe out front and the Brooklyn Fusiliers making the National League race a runaway (winning parade), fans are thinking about a world's series replay of the 1920 classic between the Indians and Brooks clubs of another generation. On that distant date the Indians won 5-2. They had to win five in those days.

All is say these days on the banks of the Gowanns. The Frenzied Fandom of the Flatbush Fusiliers are watching with something akin to give as their idols "the Bums" coast in to the National League bunting. Today they were 13½ games out in front, the fattest margin of the year, thus far, as likely the Brooks will stretch even that important lead.

All the horses in the National League are not wearing Dodger uniforms. There is little Murry Dickson of the Pirates, cellar-dwellers of the loop who are but plenty of games behind the Dodgers. Dickson, a courageous right-hander on the small side as big leaguers go won his 19th victory yesterday. With just a fair amount of breaks he will reach the 20 mark and perhaps go beyond. Such pitching with a bottom-place club is not often seen.

SHOULD BE A SIZZLER!

It could be a rugged experience at Alemite Field tomorrow night for those with a queasy feeling in the cardiac region; and to give the mother-in-law a break and cash in on insurance policies. For if this third tilt between the Sweeping Glen Roys and Howe and Hagerman squads has any of the spine-thrilling characteristics of the previous clashes, brother it ain't no place for a broke whose ticker is breaking step every mile or so.

Thus far the Glens have been "up and at 'em" for two straight wins. Tomorrow's clash is the third in the three-of-five series with elimination staring the Howe-Hags square in the face. It has been a strenuous series so far with Glens winning on the tilts the hard way in games that have produced the best softball seen here this season. Friday night's game could have easily gone to the plumbers, but one of those things that crop up in sport quite frequently decided the issue.

The series is not in the "bag" yet for the Glens. Howe-and-Hagerman have their collective backs to the wall and you can bet your mother-in-law's last nickel they'll be out there with everything they've got to snatch a win and narrow the gap. By the same token the McNevin-Halloran ladies will be striving for a three-straight series and the right to go into the "A" playdowns.

Tribe Leads Bombers 1½ Games Senators Bow Twice to Red Sox; Brooks Even Dozen In Front

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

Cleveland's Indians stood alone atop the American League today enjoying a 1 1-2 game lead over New York Yankees and all along the circuit they were whispering "poetic justice."

That's not what manager Casey Stengel of the Yankees believes, though.

"We were the victims of rotten luck," he said.

Stengel was referring to Sunday's second game 7-4 loss to the Athletics in Philadelphia. The A's also won the opener 9-5 to sweep the doubleheader. The double loss, coupled with Cleveland's 7-1 triumph over Chicago White Sox, snapped the Yankees-Indians first-place tie.

Stengel had a point too. His Yankees led 9-7 following a five run rally in the top of the eighth when play was halted and the score reverted back to the seventh inning. Rain had fallen for a 7 p.m. Sunday curfew law. Play started at 7:41 but since the Athletics did not bat in their half of the eighth, the Yankees' five runs were wiped off the records. That made the A's the winners 7-4.

The New Yorkers' plight brought to mind a game played between the Yankees and Chicago in New York July 27. The Yankees led 3-1 as the White Sox went to bat in the top of the ninth. Chicago tallied three times to go ahead 4-3. But rain interfered and after an hour's wait the umpires called the game.

Poetic Justice

The score reverted to the end of the eighth. That made the Yankees the winners 3-1.

Poetic justice. Perhaps.

Boston's third-place Red Sox took two from Washington by the (twinight) 6-2 margins. Ellis Evers hit a bases loaded single in the ninth inning to break a tie and give Detroit Tigers a 2-1 victory over St. Louis Browns.

Don Newcombe shutout Brooklyn in a 7-2 victory over Boston Braves, but the Dodgers' first-place lead in the National was reduced to 12 1-2 games as the runner-up New York Giants swept a twin bill from Philadelphia's Phils 3-2 and 2-1.

St. Louis Cardinals overcame a 3-0 Cincinnati lead to win 4-3 and Pittsburgh and Chicago swapped shutouts, Murry Dickson hurled the Pirates to a 1-0 triumph over Joe Hatten in the opener. It was Dickson's 19th victory. The Cubs retaliated when Paul Minner blanked Pittsburgh 6-0 in the nightcap.

Garcia Gets 16th

Mike Garcia chalked up his 16th victory for the Indians, who raked four White Sox pitchers for 14 hits including home runs by Larry Doby, Bobby Avila and Ray Boone. Dale Mitchell got three Cleveland hits to stretch his consecutive hitting streak through 20 games.

Roy Sievers homered and Will Wight, principals in the Red Sox-White Sox winter trade, teamed up for the first time this season to give Boston a double win. Each permitted eight hits. Scarborough win his ninth and Wight his fifth. The Red Sox trail Cleveland by five games.

Roy Campanella helped Brooklyn's Newcombe register his 16th triumph, blasting a pair of homers to drive in five runs. They were homers Nos. 23 and 24 for the slugging catcher.

Monte Irvin and Bobby Thomson drove in all New York's runs in the Giant's double win over the Phils. Irvin homered with two on in the first game to offset a 2-0 deficit. Thomson doubled in two runs in the nightcap after Philadelphia had taken a 1-0 lead. Sal Maglie won his 16th in the opener.

Herm Wehmeier walked Bob Scheffing with the bases loaded in the last of the ninth to give the Cards their win over Cincinnati.

Weather, Phooey, C.R.U. Buys Tarp; WhatNow, Critics?

By WILFRED GRUSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Aug. 13 —(CP) — The Canadian Rugby Union stands ready to battle the weather for any future Grey Cup games.

The C.R.U., mindful of the outcry over the sorry condition of the Varsity Stadium gridiron after a snow and rain storm on the eve of last year's East-West football final, has taken steps to ward off future criticism on that score.

It has ordered a tarpaulin costing $11,500 to cover the field and it hopes now that this action and the plan they are working on to improve the sale of its 30 percent share of Grey Cup tickets will result in kinder words in the future.

The C.R.U., maligned from one end of the country to the other over these two matters, announced after a closed executive meeting Saturday that a three-man committee of its top members has been appointed to go into the ticket problem and that the tarpaulin will be used exclusively for the Grey Cup game.

Will Rent Tarp

Later T. H. C. Allison, past president of the C.R.U. and acting secretary since the death of Percy Molson, clarified the announcement about the tarpaulin. He said the senior leagues — the Big Four, Western Canada, intercollegiate and Ontario Union — would be able to obtain use of the tarpaulin providing they were willing to pay a rental fee and any other expenses.

The committee named to iron out the past ticket difficulties will meet in Toronto Oct. 15 and also arrange final details of the Grey Cup game Nov. 24. The committee will also be given the finding some method, although they realize that's a near hopeless task, to prevent persons who have not supported football during the season from getting Grey Cup tickets.

The committee expressed dissatisfaction with the mail order policy which the C.R.U. adopted last year to sell its share of tickets.

Besides the C.R.U. the leagues whose team competed in the East-West final each got 30 per cent of the tickets. The other 10 per cent went to the team whose team lost out in the eastern Canada semi-final.

Toronto Argonauts came out on top in its dispute with Hamilton Tiger-Cats who had the player rights to middle wing Oatten Fisher. The executive ruled that the Big Import from the province of Argonauts. He played last year with Toronto Balmy Beach, Argos' farm club in the Ontario union, after being cut adrift by the Tiger-Cats.

Officials of the Hamilton club claimed that the player was released to beaches on the understanding he would be returned to Tiger-Cats at end of last season. They said a letter to that effect from Teddy Morris, then coach of the Beaches, agreeing to this arrangement.

Ontario Bowlers Edge Americans

London, Ont., Aug. 13—(CP)—A team of Ontario bowlers scored a 114-106 victory over an American team in the annual international lawn bowling tournament here Saturday.

Three of the six matches were won by the Americans and a fourth resulted in a draw. However, the Ontario bowlers piled up the greater total score.

American wins were scored by rinks skipped by E. Hering, Hartford, Conn., S. Dargie, Bridgeport, Conn., and W. H. Hoxie of Boston.

Ontario winners were rinks led by J. H. Davis of Toronto and Dr. Weston Krupp of Woodstock. Dr. Krupp won by the largest margin in the tournament, defeating D. Dakers of Boston 26-15. Davis defeated R. Bowie of Bloomfield, N.J 23-15.

Royals Take Two From Springfield, Leafs Lose 6-5

(By The Associated Press)

Montreal Royals, breezing along 14 games ahead of the field, probably would be even farther ahead in the International League pennant race if George (shot gun) Shuba had been available all season.

Shuba, out for a spell with a leg injury is smashing the ball at a terrific pace lately. In his last six games he has belted six home runs to increase his output to 15.

Shuba led the Royals to a doubleheader triumph over Springfield Cubs yesterday. The Royal outfielder drove home four runs on a pair of homers and two singles in the 10-3 opening-game triumph and scored a single and double in the 6-0 second game victory.

Chris Van Cuyk limited the Cubs to give hits and fanned eight to post his ninth victory against one defeat in the opener. Tom Lasorda blanked the Cubs on three hits in the nightcap. The Cubs have dropped 20 straight to the Royals in Montreal in the last two seasons.

Wings Win Twice

The runner-up Rochester Red Wings took a twin bill from Syracuse Chiefs 6-5 and 4-3 to sweep a six-game series. Eight-inning homers by Lou Ortiz and Jay Van Noy decided the opener. Johnny Blatnik drove home two runs on three singles to lead the Wings to victory in the second game.

Howie Moss belted a two-run homer in the eighth inning to spark Baltimore Orioles to a 6-3 triumph over Toronto Maple Leafs. Les Fleming and rookie Charley White homered for the Leafs.

Buffalo Bisons and Ottawa Giants split a doubleheader. The Giants took the opener 14-6, scoring nine runs after two were out in the eighth inning. Dutch Mele's three-run pinch-hit double was the big blow. Moe Savransky turned back the Giants 5-1 on 5 hits in the second game.

Later British challengers were the Endeavour, beaten in 1934, and the Endeavour II, beaten in 1937.

Sensational Young Golf Star Wins Canadian Ladies Open Title

17 Year-Old Marlene Stewart Defeats American Girl 1 Up In Thrilling 36-Hole Finish

By W. R. WREATLEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Laval-Sur-Le-Lac, Que., Aug. 13 —(CP)— A sturdy little Ontario girl who strokes defiantly about the course with arms semi-akimbo and a dead-pan face, is Canada's newest ladies' open golf champion.

Marlene Stewart, 17-year-old youngster from Fonthill, Ont., upset pre-tournament calculations Saturday with a thrilling one-hole victory over Grace Lenczyk of Hartford, Conn.

Grace, twice winner of the title was the last of Six American girls left in the championship, Her gallant fight in the last few holes of the 36-hole medal-play final fell short.

Little Marlene, who won the Canadian ladies' close title a week ago, withstood the 23-year-old Connecticut girl's withering onslaught in the final nips like a real champion.

Marlene was tense and keyed up. She twisted and squirmed and kicked one leg over the other in a demonstrative effort to get her putts down. But in her play there was no sign of nervousness or jitters.

"Lucky to Win"

When it was all over she said: "I was lucky to win. Worried? Sure I was, when Grace sank that eagle at the 32rd. And me with a birdie!"

Marlene's 10-foot putt on the 36th green, matching Grace's birdie there, was a masterpiece of accuracy and calmness. It meant a halved hole, and Marlene was still one up.

At the 422-yard par-five 36th both girls drove to get on the green. Marlene was 15 feet from the cup and Grace 10. Marlene putted up confidently, but she half stopped less than a foot away.

Grace had her big chance to send the match to extra holes. She putt was dead on the line, The gallery of more than 1,000 groaned in sympathy when the ball stopped an inch from the cup. Then Marlene sank her ball and tossed her hands into the air. The crowd let out a great yell.

Marlene is the first Canadian girl to hold the open championship since the war. Dorothy Kielty of Los Angeles, last year's winner, did not defend her title. Miss Lenczyk was champion in 1947 and 1948.

First Twin Win Since 1933

Marlene's feat in winning both the close and open championships marked the first double since Ada Mackenzie of Toronto carried off both titles back in 1933.

She led at the end of every nine but it was a see-saw match all the way. She came from behind to lead one up at the turn in the morning. She stepped up the lead to three holes on the second nine but lost two later and was still one up at the luncheon adjournment.

Grace moved a hole ahead early in the afternoon play, then dropped back again and Marlene was one up going into the final nine.

The Ontario girl took two of the next five holes, with three halved, to build up a three-hole lead with four holes to go.

Here Grace came through with her most sensational golf of the round. She reached the green at the 408-yard 33rd in two and sank a 10-foot putt for an eagle, duplicating Marlene's morning eagle at the same hole.

At the 34th Grace matched Marlene's morning birdie, placing her second shot a foot from the pin and easily getting down her putt.

With only a one-hole lead then, Marlene hung on courageously. She ran down her 15-footer for a birdie to halve the 34th and ended the match when the 36th was halved in par fives.

'Smoky' Smith Squeezes Mowat In Thrilling Hurling Battle, As Brockville Nips Reds 1-0

Brockville Memos tightened their grip on first place in the Central Ontario Baseball League standing on Saturday afternoon when they repulsed the invading Belleville Redmen by a 1-0 score.

Veteran righthander "Smoky" Smith hurled all the way for the homesters and allowed only five scattered singles to hand the Redmen their first shutout of the current season.

The outcome of the game left the league standing unchanged as the locals remained in third place behind the Memos and Smiths Falls Royals.

Belleville started the game with only nine men in uniform as one of the cars carrying players was late in arriving. However, it is doubtful if the absentees could have made any difference against the masterful hurling of "Old Smoky."

Only Run in Second

The lone run of the game came in the second frame when Art Pierce, rightfielder of the Memos led off with a single to centre. The hit was a drive over second base that Fitzpatrick made a leaping try for and just managed to get the end of his glove on but couldn't knock down. Woalck followed with a base on balls, the only offe given up by Johnny Mowat. With Ashley at the plate, Johnny Dean let a ball get away from him and Pierce took third on the passed ball. Ashley then drove a high fly to centre scoring Pierce after the out.

Although the Redmen outhit the homesters, they could not dent the defences when most needed. Three sizzling double plays by the defenders cut down the Redmen threats before they could get started.

Near Perfect Ball

Both teams played near perfect ball coming up with only one error each, neither figuring in the scoring. Steimach erred on Dean's ground ball in the first and Fitzpatrick threw wide to first on Ashley's grounder in the fifth after making a sensational stop.

Youthful Johnny Mowat, the hard-luck hurler of the Redmen deserved a better fate. He passed only one over the route-going performance while whiffing three. He gave up four scattered hits, one each in the second, fourth, sixth and eighth. In only one inning saide from the fateful second did he allow a runner to reach second.

JOHNNY MOWAT

"Old Smoky" allowed five hits in the nine innings but only two of the Redmen reached second and none beyond. It was a near perfect effort as he pitched to only 31 batters.

Dick Fitzpatrick and "Red" Carson bagged a pair of hits with Tom Buchanan getting the other for the visitors. Big Bill Kaszpchuk netted a pair of singles for Brockville with Pierce and Steimach getting the others. There were no extra-base hits in the game.

Brockville left five men on base compared with four for the Redmen.

Bakelite Bows To Cleaners By 11-2 Score

Exploding with 16 hits off Bakelite's ace southpaw Bobby Green, Cleaner Combines romped the "A.A." section-leaders by an 11-3 count at Alemlite Field Saturday night.

Cleaners clutch-hitting with some loose-base-running and costly errors on the part of Bakelite spelled defeat for the planters. A five-bit outburst in the fourth that was good for three runs paved the way for the Cleaner victory. After that the score steadily mounted with the winner scoring a pair in every innings but the sixth.

Green was no puzzle for the Cleaner bats. They accounted for 16 hits although were two of the scratch and bunt variety, and the Cleaners drove up five in a row in the fateful fourth, allowed two in the fifth, three each in the seventh and eighth and singles in the sixth and ninth. He walked seven and whiffed five.

Holmes Goes Route

Holmes for the Cleaners went the route scattering seven hits over the nine-inning pastime. He hurled steady ball, claiming five strikeouts and whiffing three. He was in danger but once and that in the seventh when Bobby Green went out trying to stretch a triple into a homer, Lawn and Powers walked and Cook singled for a lone run. The latter was nailed off third on Burley's infiel dout.

Bakelite's other run scored when Cousins high left field fly was dropped when two fielders attempted to make the catch and he romped all the way round to score.

It was scoreless-one-hit softball for three innings. Then Cleaners got to Green's delivery and Jones, DaBushe, Young, Mulvihill and Lucciolo singled in succession. Three runs scored on two infield outs, and Yorke filed to end the outburst. The game was over there and then as the Cleaners pounded the ball consistently scoring eight runs in the next five innings.

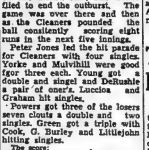
Peter Jones led the hit parade for Cleaners with four singles. Yorke and Mulvihill were good for three each. Young got a double and single and DaBushe a pair of oner's. Lucciou and Graham hit singles.

Powers got three of the losers seven clouts a double and two singles. Green got a triple with Cook, G. Burley and Littlejohn hitting singles.

The score:

Bakelite	000 101 000—	2	7	2
Cleaners	000 320 22x—11	16	3

The teams:



Cleaners—James, c; Yorke, cf; Graham, rf; Jones, 1b; DaBushe, 2b; Young, ss; Mulvihill, 3b; Lucciolo, lf; Holmes, p.

Bakelite—Littlejohn, 3b; Graham, as; Fewster, c; Lucas, rf (3); Cousins, cf; Green, p; Lawn, rf; Powers, 1b; Cook, 2; Burley, ss.

Yank Courtmen Sweep Series With Canada

By VIC MORRIS, JR.
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, Aug. 13 (CP)—The United States Davis Cuppers Sunday put the finishing touches of their straight-set victory over Canada as tennis aces Art Larsen and Budge Patty zipped past the outclassed Canadians.

The American's complete conquest of the North American zone final tie followed the same familiar pattern that saw Japan and Mexico vanquished.

Larsen, the U. S. National champ, ridiculed reports that he was off his game when he dumped Montreal's little Henri Rochon, 6-2, 6-1, 6-3 in the best singles match of the three-day competition.

Patty, who was called off the bench as a substitute for Dick Savitt, brushed past Vancouver's Norme Mair, 6-4, 6-3 in the nightcap match before 2,500 fans at the Mount Royal Club.

Clean Sweep

Tony Trabert, the 20-year-old Cincinnati newcomer, and Patty combined Saturday to trounce husky Brendan Macken and Rochon, 6-4, 6-2, 6-2 in the deciding doubles match.

There was no doubt about the American supremacy at any time as the gallery limited its hopes to a set win for the undefeated Canadians. Savitt's complete mastery of Macken and Trabert's decisive win over 21-year-old Main in Friday's opening singles told the story of what was to come.

Larsen, who claims that he can lick any of his teammates, didn't have much trouble in disposing of the game little French Canadian despite a painful callous on the palm of his racket hand. Rochon was worked to the limit as he raced hopelessly after the American's pin-point placements.

Two World Marks For Slo-Mo-Shun

Driver Lou Fageol manhandled the speedboat Slo-Mo-Shun IV to two world speed records on Lake Washington at Seattle Sunday but was whipped by the Slo-Mo-Shun V, driven by Ted Jones for the Seafair trophy. Both boats are owned by Stan Sayers of Seattle.

Fageol logged 112.330 miles an hour in the second leg of the second heat and averaged 111.742 for the two-lap heat. The IV thus wiped out two records formerly held by Miss Pepsi of Detroit. These were 107.854 for a lap of five nautical miles and 107.394 for a 10-mile heat in competition.

Galt Wins Two To Clinch Playoff Berth

(By The Canadian Press)

A long, uphill fight has ended happily for Guelph Maple Leafs.

The Intercounty Baseball League entry was a doubtful starter almost up to the opening of the season. After the first few weeks of scheduled play, it looked as if they had taken a long-term lease on the intercounty cellar.

Club officials did a bit of hasty rebuilding, and on Saturday it paid off. The Leafs whipped London Majors 6-3 in the afternoon, shaded Waterloo Tigers 6-5 in the evening and clinched a play-off berth.

The Majors' defeat didn't hurt them. They're home-free in second place, along with the league-leading Brantford Red Sox who closed out an unbeaten home season by whipping St. Thomas Legionnaires 9-3.

But Waterloo's loss ended the defending-champion Tigers' hopes of repeating. Coupled with Kitchener Legion's 8-4 victory over Galt Terriers, it left the Tigers 1 1-2 games out of fourth place with only one game left to play.

In the Viadnct League, a double defeat for the league-leading Peterborough Petes, coupled with a double victory by Oshawa Merchants kept alive the second-place Oshawan's chances of overtaking the pace-setters.

Oshawa Drubs Petes

Oshawa drubbed the Petes 9-1 Saturday night and the leaders absorbed a 4-1 setback from Toronto Stafforda Sunday. Meanwhile, both Oshawa and Stafforda made hay at the expense of the understaffed Toronto Kingsway Club which lost to Oshawa 10-1 Saturday and took an astronomical 30-5 lacing from Stafforda the same night.

Bill Weir led Stafforda in their record-smashing performance against Kingsway, hitting two grand-slam homers and driving in ten runs.

St. Catharines Stags shaded Welland Stokes 6-5 Saturday to slip past the losers into second place in the Niagara District League.

Scott Smart, right, plays the title role in the Universal-International's new suspense thriller, "The Fat Man," adapted for the screen from the popular radio series of the same name. The portly private eye places as much emphasis on good food as he does on tracking down murderers in this scene from the film with Julie London and Clinton Sundberg. The second feature co-stars Alexis Smith and Scott Brady in "The Sleeping City."

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 13—(AP)—When Arlene Dahl announced she wanted to end her MGM contract some time ago, most film observers thought she was out of her pretty, red head.

She passed up a $1,250 a week and the security of a studio at a time when quite a few actors are living on breakfast food and cherished hopes. So I consulted her for an explanation.

It was partly due to her recent marriage to Lex Barker, the ape man of the Tarzan series, she declared.

"It's risky enough for an actress to marry an actor," she explained. "I think many such marriages are wrecked because of conflicting schedules with one party away on location while the other is at home, and vice versa. Those long absences are murder; a person can change completely in six months.

"I feel it is up to the wife to manage her life so she can be with her husband as much of the time as possible. As a freelancer, I could arrange my schedule so I'm making a picture when Lex is."

Three Strikers

Arlene's other reasons for leaving the studio stemmed from its refusal to loan her to play Roxanne in "Cyrano de Bergerac."

"They told me they would compensate for it with a big role at MGM," she recalled. "But it never came. Instead, they put me in three stinkers ('No Questions Asked,' 'Watch the Birdie,' 'Inside Straight.') So I got mad."

One other reason for her departure was the variety of her outside activities. She has almost as many enterprises as Bing Crosby's relatives.

She produces a thrice-weekly beauty column, which runs in about 30 papers. She is bringing out a line of negligees and matching sets; she also designed hers self. She is also going to market cosmetics under her name.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

A redouble is often used as a request for an obligatory pass alternative. This sounds like a mouthful of jumble. But it is not mumbo-jumbo. There is plenty of meaning to it.

When a player redoubles he tells partner he can help make the bid that has been doubled by an opponent. Even though the opponent double was only for a takeout signal to his partner.

In some spots the redouble has an additional meaning. It also promises help enough for a game contract of some kind. In other words it can help make the doubled contract or go to a game in something.

This combination of meanings develops a third proposition. It tells partner: "I opponents crawl out of this redouble trap with another bid, you must not bid if you cannot double."

It goes on to say: "We have them just where we want them. If you are unable to double their most bid, do not clog the traffic. Pass and see what I can do to them. Leave it to me."

South opened one spade with this hand:

♠ A Q J 9 7
♥ K 8 6

West doubled for takeout. North redoubled. East bid two clubs. South was not sure he could beat two clubs. So he does not double.

The temptation is for south to bid his spades again, knowing from north's redouble they have a game. But he should refrain from making a bid in this spot. He should pass.

At north's signal, south is obliged to pass as alternative. If he does not double, that is. Thus, it is an obligatory pass alternative which will not be passed by north.

In other words, in case of an obligatory pass by south, north has promised not to let the bidding die. If he does not double two clubs, he must bid something and give south another chance.

It's a promise.

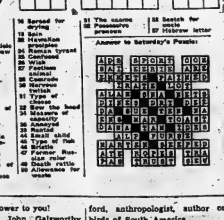
December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn)— Don't overplan or be careless because things are going along smoothly. If you will avail yourself of good opportunities, you can gain in favored fields. Be cautious with money.



January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius)—Be not too concerned about personal disappointments, little setbacks; they are often the thing to awaken one to seriousness, needs of situations. Show your ability and be rewarded.

February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)— Can be mildly fruitful, personally pleasant day if you are with good behavior, right disposition. Occupation work can progress well. Skill, accuracy should be high.

YOU BORN TODAY are active full of ideas, could be top salesmen. Abundance of humor; good company. A cheerful friend; a natural leader in any field you take seriously. Don't be hasty or leap before you look. Many Leaders become noted speakers, business managers, versatile actors. You like the comfortable things in life, dislike taking orders. Must curb your world on stable foundation, think wisely of future as of the present. Seldom is Leo disheartened: More power to you!

Birthdate: John Galsworthy, famed author; Sir Walter Besant, Eng. author; Edw. Winslow Gifford, anthropologist, author on birds of South America.

Buffalo Likes Canuck Football Tigers Defeat Argos Before 18,000

Buffalo, [illegible] (CP)—Football-hungry Buffalo got its first look at the Canadian brand yesterday. Their reactions prompted promoters of the venture to make plans for a return engagement.

A crowd of 18,146 fans flocked to Civic Stadium to see Hamilton Tiger-Cats join the Dominion champion Toronto Argonauts 11-11 in a pre-season exhibition game, the first ever to be played under purely Canadian rules on United States soil.

After the game, a spokesman for Buffalo Enterprises said he would try to line up Hamilton and Montreal Alouettes for another pre-season tilt and added that the Buffalo group will make a bid for a franchise in the Interprovincial Football Union—Canada's elite eastern circuit.

Hortness had convincing arguments. His 18,000 crowd for the warmup game exceeded the average attendance at league games in three of the four interprovincial cities. And he estimated that only 3,000 of the total was made up of border-crossing Canadians. They Like It

The Buffalo fans, who haven't seen big-time football since the professional Buffalo Bills called it a day at the end of the 1949 season, appeared to like the speedy pace of the Canadian game.

They watched an alert Hamilton team capitalize on Argonaut errors to run up three touchdowns in the first half. Argos rallied after the break but Tiger-Cats' defensive held at the crucial moments.

Veteran end Vince Mazza and newcomers Joe Shinn and Hal Waggoner went over for Hamilton's majors, Shinn, a speedy outside from Miami University, caught five passes for a total gain of 81 yards.

Al Tabor converted one of the touchdowns and kicked a single for the winners.

Rod Smylie and Billy Rae crossed the line for Argos with but a single postponed game to play.

Stewart Warner opened the scoring with a single run in the first inning. Keith Bertrim led off and went all the way to second on an error to the first baseman. He moved to third on Doyle's infield put out and after Hammett walked, scored on Gerry Lewis' long fly to left field.

Motor Car came up with two runs in the last half of the first loading the bases on walks, and then scoring on an overthrow by the catcher and a single by Jack Callaghan. Both squads scored twice in the third inning with errors influencing the play.

Stewart Warner knotted the count at 4-4 in the fifth when George Hammett unloaded a tremendous home run to right centrefield. Cliff Doyle had doubled in front of him but was caught off second when he overran the base.

Stewart Warner clinched the game in the seventh with two runs. Jim Watson slashed a double to centrefield with one out and no one on. He came around to score on Keith Bertrim's triple to centrefield. Doyle then hammered a long fly to right field with Austin Murray after the catch.

Jack Callaghan's triple to right field, two walks, and an error gave the Motormen a single run in the bottom of the seventh.

Both teams had men on third base in the eighth but could not score.

The game was called at the end of the eighth inning because of darkness.

Dracup Gets Win

Harold Dracup went all the way on the hill for the winners. He was in trouble constantly due to 10 walks, but he got himself out of most of the tight spots with seven strikeouts. He gave up eight hits.

Bill Stone did the firing for Motor Car and over the route walked six, struck out none and surrendered nine hits for six runs.

Lineups:

Stewart Warner: Bertrim cf; Doyle 2b; Hammett 3b; Lewis ss; Tebworth 1b; Dunsbury rf; Upper c; Dracup p; Watson lf.

Stewart Warner Upsets Motors With 6-5 Victory

Belleville Motor's Car's hopes for the commercial softball League's AA pennant received a serious jolt Saturday night when they were handed a 6-5 setback by Stewart Warner in an eight inning contest played at the C.N.R.A.A. Grounds on Station Street.

The loss, despite Bakelite's 11-2 loss to Cleaners Combines, leaves the Motormen two points behind the league leaders with but a single postponed game to play.

Stewart Warner opened the scoring with a single run in the first inning. Keith Bertrim led off and went all the way to second on an error to the first baseman. He moved to third on Doyle's infield put out and after Hammett walked, scored on Gerry Lewis' long fly to left field.

Channel Swim Is Postponed

A brisk cold wind and heavy seas Sunday forced postponement of a mass international swimming race across the English channel.

Twenty swimmers—13 men and seven women—from 10 countries were due to wade in from the French side early this morning. Among them was Winnie Frances Leuzler of Toronto.

The organizers, the London newspaper Daily Mail, claim they will wait all week if necessary until the weather is right.

Tam O'Shanter Golf Gold Goes To Ben Hogan

By JERRY LISKA

Chicago, Aug. 13. (AP)—Little Ben Hogan, the man who dodged a rendezvous with death two years ago, today celebrated his 39th birthday with a $12,500 present as "World" Gold tourney champion and recognition as the game's greatest stretch-drive player.

Hogan yesterday virtually duplicated his heroic victory finish in the United States open as he erased a five-stroke deficit on the final round to win by three taps at 15-under-par 273 in the $50,000 "World" at Tam O'Shanter.

Ben's six-under-par 66 demolished his good fairways friend, Jimmy Demaret— the stout 54-hole leader—who bounced to a closing 74 for second-place 276 and a $7,500 prize.

Not Bad, Benny

Hogan has played in only six major tourneys this year, winning the Masters, the U.S. Open and the World.

Deadlocked for third at 277 were Pete Cooper and the top finisher among ten foreign delegates, South Africa's Bobby Locke, who each pocketed $3,750.

At stroke behind at 278 and finishing $2,125 were Lloyd Mangrum, Lew Worsham, Cary Middlecoff and Clayton Heafner, the latter slowing to a closing 73 after trailing Demaret by only three strokes at the three-quarter mark.

Sammy Snead, who has done little since winning the National P.G.A. tourney this year, was deadlocked with Lloyd Mangrum at 280, worth $1,650 to each.

Stan Leonard, Vancouver pro, Tx finished three strokes over par with a fourth-round 75 for a 72-hole total of 291.

Top amateur among the 10 entered who played along with 64 pros was Toledo's Frank Stranahan with 283.

In the concurrent women's "World" Babe Zaharias successful her usual title monopoly by winning with a 296, six strokes ahead of Patty Berg.

Twenty Swimmers Leave for France To Try Channel

Dover, England, Aug. 11. (CP) —Twenty swimmers who plan a mass attempt to swim the English Channel Monday sailed for Daily French coast starting point today.

The hopefuls—seven are women—will compete for £1,000 prizes put up by Lord Rothermere's Daily Mail. In last year's mass swim, 34 started from the French coast and nine reached England under their own power.

North America's only representative in the swim, Winnie Frances Leuzler, of Toronto, said yesterday she plans to represent both Canada and the United States.

Mrs. Leuzler, 25-year-old mother of three, placed second in the women's two-mile swim at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto in 1947, she was third in 1948 and second in 1949.

The swimmers left Dover pier this morning aboard the yacht Ginaal in unpromising weather.

They will start from Cap Gris Nez Monday morning, if the weather is favorable.

Lacrosse

(By The Canadian Press)

The final drive for play-off spots is on in the Senior Ontario Lacrosse Association race. None of the teams has more than three games to play.

Nobody can catch Peterborough Petes. With only one game to go they have 44 points, eight ahead of second place Minico Minicoreers who have three more to play, and 10 ahead of Hamilton, in third place with two games still on the schedule.

Diamond Dust From the Minors

By V. F.

Our experience with the Pee Wees at the beginning of the b. ball season was unfortunately disappointing, due to our inability, to secure coaches for all teams. Apparently our ambitions exceeded our ability to satisfy everyone concerned. We would like to extend our special thanks to Johnny Dean and Willy Fordham of the Redmen baseball team who have come to our assistance and generously given their time and effort on behalf of the Pee Wees. The picture in this division is now much improved as evidenced by the playoff games held during the past week. Last year's were eliminated by Schwab's and Schwab's went on to beat Walker Hardware their first defeat of the season. Walker's reversed the decision on Saturday and the series now stands one apiece. The final game is being played this afternoon at the C.N.R. grounds, the winner going on to O.B.A. playdowns.

Rob-Royals will represent the Bantam group in O.B.A. competition, and our congratulations go to Earl Vandervoort and Bill Folkett for the fine job they have done with their team. This division was very keenly contested and provided the best baseball in the minor group this season. We hope the other Bantam teams will now support the Rob-Royals and spur them on to win the Ontario championship for the city. In the meantime the league has ended and the series now will be continued on condition that O.B.A. playoffs do not interfere. The standing at present is as follows:

	Won	Lost
Rob-Royals	7	2
Houston Lumber	6	3
Legion	3	4
Drive-In Theatre	0	9

Canadian Legion Midgets now lead Sidney Inn two games to one in their playoff for the "Mac" McCrimmon trophy. These teams meet at Point Anne on Thursday at 6:30 for the fourth game, and at the same field on Thursday if a fifth game is necessary. Both these teams are full of "fight", but we would like to see a little more concentration on good clean baseball. More team spirit and good sportsmanship by the players would boost the morale of these two teams and no doubt result in better baseball.

It would appear that Cliff Howie, manager of the Canadian Tire Juveniles has been doing a great job. On the Aug. 6th holiday the team visited Trenton and very soundly trounced Dick Bridgman's team in a doubleheader. These fellows are no doubt finding trying hard on every play, and hitting just as well as they field. It looks as though we may have some senior prospects in this group. At any rate, we believe they will go far in the playdowns on the brand of ball they have shown to date.

Toronto Loses Cricket Match

By E. H. Hitchman

Toronto, Aug. 13.—(CP)— Britain's touring Marylebone Cricket Club defeated a Toronto and district team by eleven by 158 runs Tuesday. The M.C.C. scored 291 for eight wickets declared to Toronto's 93.

The veteran R. W. V. Robins, captain of the visitors, ran up an effortless century, scoring 116. His innings included nine six and 14 fours.

B. Christen was the outstanding Toronto bowler, capturing six wickets, five of them clean-bowled, for 97 runs.

Toronto fielded strongly before the lunch interval but fell off during the afternoon, following the illness of captain Alf Pope and an injury to Trevor Thom's hand. Pope was forced to retire and did not take his turn at bat.

The Toronto innings opened disastrously when three of the first four men to bat resching double figures, topped by W. Wight's 30. Mason, with 15 not out, also batted well.

THIS MR. ICARUS

By Harry Meldrum Moore

With thoughts of the [illegible] of the whole sorry [illegible] mind, yet never [illegible] his thoughts with others, Lance Bradley reached his native landand what! Leg wounds might prove a handicap when he sought work as a carpenter, He had not thought of going back to The Lucky Streak mine for two good reasons, all the work requiring extra carpenters had been completed, Boss McKay was no longer there. In the last letter he had received from the foreman, Boss McKay said he was going back to his home in Glengarry for a while. His reference to "the Lucky Streak mine and its common shack" were vague and it might indeed indicate that Editor Roberts was quite right when he said that investing money in mining stock was a mighty risky business, might indeed leave him a pauper.

The first thing he did when he landed at an eastern Canadian port was to wire his foster parents the time of his arrival at home, the possible time of his arrival at Emerton.

It was late February. The war was far away by then, and in Mother Roberts' garden the tulips and the daffodils and the crocuses would soon be in bloom. There was no band to meet him, there was no crowd. There were just two elderly people who dared the darkness of night to be there when he stepped off the train with his packs, to shake his hand and kiss him and make him welcome. And he laughingly reminded them that it was after night, those many years ago, when he had first met them, and to be the object of their kindness and hospitality as a result of A No. 1's speaking for him.

"A No. 1," he laughed, "a member of the Ancient and Honorable Calling of Gentlemen who preferred leisure and freedom to the shackles of wedlock, the fetters of toil, yes, that's what he said he was."

They helped him with his luggage to a waiting taxi, rode home with him, showed him to his room.

"Boy, am I ever glad to get home!" he said, and they knew he meant it. For although he was yet in his twenties, he now had the appearance of a man ten to fifteen years older. He was stouter, if anything, there were traces of grey in his reddish hair, his face was drawn, heavily lined; there was a look in his eyes that was hard to explain. Perhaps it was a look born of terrifying experiences—with close brushes with death—or the look of a man who had a feeling that his days on this earth were to be all too few.

"You'll be all right soon, son," Mother Roberts comforted him, "you must rest, you mustn't do a lick of work until you're well again."

"Thanks, mother," he said, "I'll do anything you say," but he winked at dad, "What say, dad?"

"If you know mother like I know mother dad chuckled, "you'll do what she tells you and like it."

Next morning Lance Bradley made an early start toward his goal of complete rehabilitation. Back in civvies, he accompanied the editor to his office to get acquainted with the printing staff and to sit down to catch up on his reading.

For a few minutes he rustled through news-paper pages, then he was reading the stock market report. And pretty soon, his eyes widened. There must be some mistake, he thought, why, it was impossible—!

"Dad," he said suddenly, "is there a good lawyer in this town?"

"Sure—sure," Dad said without looking up from his desk, "as a matter of fact there are several, but in my opinion, the best is Johnston Parker. You'll find him up over Westbrook's on Main Street. You remember Westbrook's. But what do you want with a lawyer? You're not in trouble already are you?"

"Well, that's pretty hard to say," Lance laughed. "Maybe I am, but I'm not sure—"

"Then Parker's your man, son," Dad said. "He can get you into jail, then he can turn around and get you out again. And that's nice work if you can get it. But honestly, son, Parker is more than a good lawyer, he's a most honorable man, a first class citizen, and you can bank on anything he tells you. He's more likely to be in his office now, than at any other time of day."

"Mr. Johnston Parker, over Westbrook's, Main Street, here I come," Lance Bradley laughed, going out of the Ensign door with a newspaper in his hand. But Dad Roberts shook his head. "Now, I wonder what he saw in that paper that has set him afire!" he worried.

Lance Bradley found a tall, scholarly man with greying hair standing at a front window looking on the Main Street scene below. He told him that he had some work for him to do—to ascertain if the Lucky Streak mentioned in the market reports was the same Lucky Streak mine that he had been working for, if the quotation on the stock at the present time was correct, to get in touch with the bank in The Bay and have his stock certificates forwarded to the lawyer for safe keeping.

Mr. Parker told him that he would be pleased to look after these matters for him, and that as soon as he had anything to report he would call him either at the Ensign office or the home of Mr. Roberts.

A week passed and then one day Lawyer Parker phoned him at The Ensign office to tell him that he was now ready for him.

Yugoslavia Has Welcome Mat Out for Western Visitors

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

Dubrovnik, Yugoslavia, Aug. 13 (AP)— Yugoslavia has flung open its doors to visitors from the west to build up goodwill and bring in some spending money.

Marshal Josip Broz Tito's proud and independent communist government desperately needs both to safeguard its freedom from the Russian-led Cominform.

Yugoslavia has much to offer in return. From the emerald blues of its snow-capped mountains in northern Slovenia, to the cobalt blues of the sunny Adriatic, there's hardly a land the world over that can match its sheer natural beauty.

Hard-pressed for money and material after the Second World War, Yugoslavia has just begun to capitalize upon the assets endowed by nature and history.

It has been tough going. Travelling in Yugoslavia is no picnic. Its roads are gutted, rutted and rusty, and crowded with wandering sheep and geese.

Soon, tourists roads would make a goat gasp. In Montenegro they tell the legend of how God, in creating the earth, girdled the globe with a sackful of pebbles. Here and there He would drop a pebble or two for a hill or a mountain.

The sack split over Montenegro.

The post-war regime has done much to improve travel conditions.

To woo western tourist trade, the government has spruced up such famous Adriatic resorts at Dubrovnik, Split and Abbazia, and Winter sports rendezvous such as Plancia.

It has begun to pay off. Milan Apih, general director of tourism, estimates between 15,000 and 20,000 foreigners will visi Yugoslavia this year, compared with 2,000 last year.

"We want to make them welcome," Apih said. "We have flung our doors wide open for those who come for a holiday, for those who come to study the country's social and political problems. They have free access to all information.

"In return we ask nothing more than understanding of our problems."

Tito and his aides price that "understanding" as high as—perhaps higher than—the dollars lured here by scenic beauty.

CAPSIZED BY WAVES

Minden, Aug. 13—(CP) — A honeymoon almost became a grim occasion yesterday when a 14-foot outboard motorboat was capsized by waves in Lake Ontario. Mr. and Mrs. David Vieno, from Nova Scotia, were thrown into the water and Mrs. Vieno was held underneath the boat. Her husband pulled her free and the couple clung to the overturned boat until rescued.

BUY BILLS FOR $2

Hamilton, Aug. 13—(CP)—Two dollars can get you $10 and also a stretch in prison here. Police said last night that bogus United States $10 bills are being sold for $2 in genuine currency. The counterfeit bills have been turning up at intervals for about a year. They are believed to be from a cache hidden by a counterfeiter now in prison.

Two Young Boys Die of Burns In Gasoline Blast at Aylmer

St. Thomas, Aug. 14 — (CP)— Two boys are dead as a result of a gasoline explosion Monday in an unused shed at Aylmer.

Robert Harvey, 8, terribly burned in the blast, died in Memorial Hospital here today, a few hours after the death of David Wright, 7.

The lads are believed to have lighted a fire in a shed in which gasoline was stored for a school bus operated by Robert Harvey's father.

Police believe the two boys lit a fire in the shed with gasoline from a can — and then set the can too close to the blaze. The gasoline exploded and sprayed over the two.

Lawrence Harvey, Robert's grandfather, said the youngsters ran screaming from the shed right after the explosion. The Harvey boy raced for his home, 20 feet from the shed, and the Wright boy escaped.

Harvey picked up the Wright boy — his body was wrapped in flames — and carried him to the Harvey home where the fire was extinguished with a blanket.

The Wright boy was burned all over the body while the Harvey boy was burned about the face, arms and legs.

British Election In Early Autumn Almost Certainty

London, Aug. 14 (CP)—Before parliament adjourned earlier this month for the summer recess political observers insisted that an autumn general election was almost a certainty. Now they are speculating the date may be deferred until some time between February and June next year.

Several factors have influenced this change of mind, but majority a statement by A. Chuter Ede, leader of the House of Commons, that parliament will definitely meet again to prorogue before dissolution.

"But don't take that as a prophecy," he told members. He added it was the intention of the government to reconvene the House Oct. 16 and to ask the King to open a new session, the third of the present session, Oct. 23.

The opposition accepted the statement with undisguised scepticism and their representatives, at least, are gearing their election machinery for any eventuality.

The Tories are convinced the Labor Party hierarchy has been quietly laying the groundwork for an early appeal to the country by offering pre-election "sops" and encouraging whipper ing campaigns.

In support of this view they point to recent measures introduced by the government to tighten price controls, increase certain rationed commodities, such as meat, and to curb strikes on industrial strikes and the proposed three-year "freeze" of investment dividends.

THE WEATHER

OFFICIALS EXPECT SOVIETS TO STAGE SHOW AT PARLEY

Jap Treaty to be Signed Despite Red Opposition

Washington, Aug. 14. (AP)—American officials expect Russian delegates to walk out of the 50-country Japanese peace conference after staging a spectacular propaganda show to emphasize Moscow's opposition.

These officials expressed confidence to a reporter that Russia's denunciations would not succeed in blocking the signing of a peace treaty by an overwhelming majority of the participants.

State Secretary Dean Acheson, they hinted, may have a trick or two up his sleeve to curb the anticipated Russian propaganda filibuster.

Moscow's delegates, headed by acting foreign minister, Andrei Gromyko, have promised to show up in San Francisco Sept. 4 for the conference.

Assisting him will be three other of Russia's deputy foreign reference orators—Alexander S. Panyushkin, ambassador to the United States; Georgi N. Zarubin, Ambassador to London; and S. A. Golunsky, Russia's top official legal chief and former judge at the Tokyo war crimes trials.

Expect Others to Follow

Department officials look for communist delegations from Red Poland, the other Russian satellites invited, to follow Moscow's lead shortly and announce they will attend the conference.

An American plan for thwarting Russia's designs at San Francisco is reported to call for:

1. Limiting speeches by the subject of Japanese peace treaty drafts.

2. A majority-vote rule which can be used to declare violators "out of order."

Russia's delegates to the meeting are expected to press vigorously Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky's contention that the United States is seeking to revive Japanese militarism.

No limit to Japanese rearmament are contained in the American draft treaty, which has been backed by the U.S. and Britain. This stems from a U.S. government belief that Japan should be permitted to disarmed at a time when it thinks communist China and Russia both have an eye on Japan's industrial facilities.

Cross-Channel Swim Postponed For Third Time

Cap Gris Nez, France, Aug. 14 (Reuters) — The international cross-channel swimming race from Cap Gris Nez to Dover, England, today was again postponed for 24 hours following a conference of weather experts.

The swimmers, 13 men and seven women from 10 countries, received the decision with glum faces. Among them was Mrs. Winnie Roach Lemaire of Toronto.

All were keyed for a start early tomorrow and had been practising hard. This was the postponement in favor of better weather.

"We are hoping for better reports tomorrow," said Jeffery Truby, chief organizer for the sponsors of the contest, the London Daily Mail.

Squeeze on Steel Likely To Get Rough Within Next Few Months Says Harris

Ottawa, Aug. 14—(CP)— The squeeze on steel likely will get rough within the next few months, Defence Minister Harris said today.

Kenneth Harris, harried steel administrator, says in an interview that the United States is planning to take action to clamp down on exports of "free market" steel.

This will virtually close the door to sources of supply for many Canadian manufacturers of non-essential goods.

Mr. Harris said Canada is getting "fairly good" supplies of steel from the United States, but most of it is earmarked for defence. There's some left over for civilian production, but allocations are made on the basis of "urgency".

Mr. Harris said the American action to place 100-per-cent control over U.S. steel production, probably starting Oct. 1, is a development of the U.S. Controlled Materials Plan.

This plan, covering strategic metals, went into operation in July to give defence projects top priority over supplies. As a partner to western defence, Canada got a C.M.P. steel quota, on a quarterly basis.

But the plan did not immediately cover all the U.S. steel production. Canadian manufacturers, who could not qualify for permits as producers of essential goods, could still bid for that part of U.S. steel production that was not controlled.

That won't be possible after Oct. 1. The U.S. "free market" in steel will virtually disappear. Canadian manufacturers or other steel users affected will likely try for supplies in Europe or Japan, or they may try Ottawa.

Mr. Harris said all new applications will be considered "on their merits" but not all will be granted. There may be enough for defence projects, hospitals, household durable goods but there may be enough for say, business homes and apartments with steel frames.

Currently, Canada is getting steel from the U.S. at the rate of more than 1,000,000 ingot tons a year. She normally imported about 1,000,000 tons a year in peacetime. Her own production is being stepped up and is expected to top last year's record 3,800,000 tons.

Mr. Harris said he could give no estimate on the shortage.

Prisoners Riot at Utah State Prison, Plea for Help Sent

Salt Lake City, Aug. 14—(AP)—The Utah state prison at Provo, 50 miles south of Salt Lake City said he had a report from the state highway patrol said it "smells like riot."

The highway patrol said cars had been dispatched to the prison, 45 miles south of here.

The Salt Lake county sheriff's office also dispatched all available officers. The dispatcher said he understood "some guards had been captured by the prisoners." Immediate rebellion of the new, multi-million dollar prison May 20 and held control for several hours.

Details on the present riot were not immediately available.

Police chief L. C. Crowther of Salt Lake City said he had a report that prisoners seized three hostages, including two guards. The cause of the trouble was not immediately known.

A prison source, declining to be quoted, said trouble broke out in cell block where the half-dozen death row convicts are kept. He said the disturbance was limited to one block but that there was a possibility it might spread.

Plans to Make Parachute Jump Over the Falls

New York, Aug. 14. (AP)—Bernarr MacFadden, 82-year-old physical culturist, plans to make a parachute jump over Niagara Falls within the next few days, a spokesman said Monday.

The spokesman added that MacFadden plans to end his leap into the water below the falls.

MacFadden had planned to make the parachute leap over the falls August 18, two days after his 83rd birthday, but that depends on the weather, the spokesman said. Monday should be right within the next ten days."

He said a special life-preserver water jacket has been ordered for MacFadden, under which he'll wear a suit of woollen underwear.

MacFadden returned here Sunday from Danville, N.Y., where he operates a health resort.

MacFadden's office announced release of a telegram Monday from the Niagara Falls Chamber of Commerce, says that the Chamber will not sponsor the parachute leap but that MacFadden, as a licensed pilot, may undertake the stunt without opposition from the civic group.

Hope Expressed Russia Would Make Contribution

London, Aug. 14 (CP) — Britain expressed hope today that Russia would make a "constructive contribution" towards the conclusion of a Japanese peace treaty.

A foreign office spokesman told reporters Britain at the moment thinks it a pity the Soviets intend coming forth with counter-proposals to the Anglo-American draft treaty "at so late a date."

Without expressly saying so, British officials appear to believe Russia's decision to join the peace parley will make it difficult to stick to the intended timetable. Anglo American-French talks probably will begin at once to map a joint strategy for meeting any Russian filibuster.

In many quarters Russia's decision was seen as an effort to prevent Japan from recovering her sovereignty and strong position in the Far East.

Heat Wave Hits Texas

Dallas, Aug. 14 (AP) — About 1,500 Dallas telephone operators who quit work today because of the heat began struggling back a few hours later.

But the heat was on in Texas again. The weather bureau said a high temperature of 105 was expected in Dallas before sundown. The maximum yesterday was 104.

BOMBER CRASHES INTO BUILDING KILLING ELEVEN

Apartment is Charred Mess of Rubble

Seattle, Aug. 14 — (AP) — A four-engined air force bomber plowed into an apartment house here yesterday killing the crew of six and at least five residents of the structure.

A raging fire which reduced the wreckage and most of the three-storey building to a charred mass of rubble may have killed others. Hours after the blaze, firemen played streams of water on the smouldering heap, attempting to cool it enough to permit further search.

The bodies of the 11 known dead were recovered by nightfall. More may be found today.

What caused the big B-50 bomber to crash is not known. Witnesses said all of four motors appeared to be working perfectly after taking off from Boeing Field. But at about 1,000 feet, it started losing altitude early and turned into a sharp right bank.

A leading edge of the plane grazed a wall or a brewery building and then plunged into a nearby bulkhead behind it. The plane's nose struck a line of automobiles parked in front of the apartment house and the huge craft flipped over as it ripped into the Lester apartments.

Only about one-third the 64 persons normally living or working in the building were home. Twelve were burned severely or injured in the impact, at least five others died.

Three Test Personnel

Three of the crew aboard the plane were Boeing Airplane Company test personnel. The others were air force men.

Nearly 4,000 gallons of gasoline and oil in the plane touched off the fire almost immediately after the impact, searing some persons and hindering rescue work. Water poured on the flaming mass served in part to spread the flames as gasoline ran through the structure on the surface of the water.

It was nearly five hours after the crash at 2.18 p. m., PDT (5.18 p.m. EDT) before the blaze was under control.

Meanwhile, firemen and police combed the debris of the building, carefully removing the scorched bodies one at a time until it was certain no one remained in the six crew members.

The apartment house records were destroyed, but Kengo Kadoyama, the manager, said he knew most of the residents had been accounted for.

U.S. House Wants Trade Ties With Czech Govt. Broken

Retaliation for Jailing Of Correspondent Oatis

Washington, Aug. 14—(AP)—The House of Representatives today unanimously advocated immediate severance of United States commercial relations with Czechoslovakia until William N. Oatis is freed from a Prague jail.

The chamber passed and sent to the senate a resolution expressing the sense of congress that such action should be taken. Deleted from the resolution was an earlier provision advocating eventual severance of diplomatic ties with Czechoslovakia if Oatis isn't freed in 90 days.

Representative O. K. Armstrong (Rep. Mo.), who sponsored the proposal aimed at breaking off both commercial and diplomatic relations, told reporters he had to modify it because "I couldn't get support for the entire proposal."

19-Year Sentence

Some members,s Armstrong said, feared that the original proposal might further jeopardize Oatis and other Americans still in Czechoslovakia.

Oatis, an Associated Press correspondent, was sentenced to 10 years imprisonment recently on an espionage charge.

The resolution refers to the "sham trial and unjust conviction" of Oatis and urges the United States government to "take all possible action to bring about his release."

Armstrong, urging the house yesterday to "get tough" with the Reds, said the newspaper man will die "within a few weeks' unless released. ?

The U. S. has labelled the charges against Oatis baseless.

Resolution Not Binding

A copy of the resolution would be sent to the Czech government and to the United Nations after senate action.

Te resolution is not binding. It merely expresses the sense of congress, and the "profound indignation" of congress over the Oatis case.

Armstrong said he is convinced that Oatis is free "in a few days, "few weeks," he will die in prison for life." He said he has reliable information that the imprisoned reporter is being mistreated and abused.

9,500 Employees Of G.M. Plant Return to Work

Oshawa, Ont., Aug. 14 (CP)— Some 9,500 employees of the General Motors of Canada plant here went back to work Monday after their two-week holiday. Two hundred temporary employees did not return to work. Company officials said the employment picture, as far as Canada is concerned, is better than at this time last year. In the company's Windsor plant, all employees have returned to work.

The Ford Motor Company of Canada resumed production yesterday at Windsor after a holiday period. Eight hundred hourly-rated employees were laid off and the company gave several reasons for this layoff, one of them being reduced production occasioned by sales drop.

Grand Old Lady at 110 Years of Age Attends Mass, Takes Trips by Car

Jacquet River, N.B., Aug. 14 (CP) — Her own teeth at the age of 110 years—that's the proud boast of Mrs. Annie Firlotte, Jacquet River, Known as Grandmother Gouche County's grand old lady, Mrs. Firlotte recently celebrated the 110th birthday.

Spry as anyone half her age, Mrs. Firlotte pays daily visits to the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. John Loubert, attends mass regularly, and takes occasional trips by car.

Living in the house with her are five generations of her family—a daughter, Mrs. Jane Firlotte; her granddaughter, Mrs. John Loubert, 50; her great-granddaughter, Mrs. Ruby Murphy and two great-great grandchildren, Clare and Gwen. Her husband, James F. Firlotte, died 26 years ago at the age of 80.

Mrs. Firlotte's chief interest in life now is her knitting. She listens to news reports and radio broadcasts but is not anxious to move about and visit her neighbors.

In winter, when the leaves bone to go to the store she must get down over high banks of snow. At her age this could be dangerous. But Mrs. Firlotte overcomes that without trouble. She perches on top of the bank and slides down to the road, gets up and starts off again without a hitch.

Union Will Ask Men to Remove Tons of Explosives

Timmins, Aug. 14 —(CP) — Striking Mollinger gold mines employees will be asked by their union to remove 22 tons of explosives stored underground if the company will insure each man on the job for $50,000 and pay him $25 a day.

The offer from the union, United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) came to light when a letter from V. G. Emard, chairman of its strategy committee, to W. Tuvey, chief mine inspector for Ontario was made public Monday.

The 900 cases of blasting powder and fuses were ordered removed by W. B. Weir, a provincial mine inspector, who said they would become dangerous if left for long in the dampness underground.

May Lay Case Before Economic, Social Council

Geneva, Aug. 14 (AP) — The United States indicated today that it may lay the case of Associated Press correspondent William N. Oatis, now imprisoned in Czechoslovakia, before the UN, economic and social council, in session here.

Walter Kotschnig, U.S. delegate, told the social committee of the council during a discussion of a proposed convention on freedom of information that he reserved the right "to make certain specific proposals" about the Oatis case.

"This world of ours at this time and period stands in great need of internationally agreed standards to govern the treatment of its citizens everywhere and their copy," Kotschnig said.

"We never dreamed when he drafted the convention on the international transmission of news and right of correction that international standards could sink as low as they have sunk in some countries."

Stranded Tanker Pulled Off Shoal

Alexandria Bay, N.Y., Aug. 14 — (AP) — A 245-foot Canadian gasoline tanker was pulled free of a shoal in the St. Lawrence river in record time.

A tug hauled the A. C. Dodge into deep water after part of her cargo of 1,000,000 gallons of gasoline had been transferred to another fuel carrier.

There was no report immediately on the vessel's condition.

The Dodge went on the rocks off Schooner Island opposite this northern New York village. Gasoline leaked from the cargo tanks and spread over the river's surface for hundreds of yards.

The Coast Guard had warned shipping to give the stranded tanker a wide berth.

The Dodge, operated by the British American Line of Toronto, was bound from Montreal to Clarkson, Ont. Her 19-member crew remained aboard.

Requiem High Mass Celebrated On Anniversary

Solemn Requiem High Mass on the first anniversary of the burial of Right Reverend Monsignor J. F. Nagleson was sung this morning at 9:00 a.m. by Very Rev. Dean L. B. Garvin, pastor of St. Michael's, assisted by Reverend G. O'Hearn, Stirling, as deacon, and Reverend J. J. Buckley, Belleville, as sub-deacon.

Priests from the district attending the Mass were: Very Reverend J. Shannon, Tweed; Reverend Father Clancey, Picton; Reverend A. O'Neil, Marmora; Reverend C. E. Baker, Stoco; Reverend J. Donoghue, Marysville; Reverend E. Bricelend, Read, and Reverend A. L. O'Donnell, Trenton.

Poultry Show One of the Best In Fair's History

"Bigger and better than ever is the way Poultry Superintendent described the poultry show at the Belleville Fair.

There was no denying the show is bigger with more than 700 birds entered—300 more than last year. And there was no doubt about the quality as many of the birds on display had won blue ribbons at the C.N.E. and at the Royal Winter Fair.

One of the reasons for the bigger entry of fowl in the poultry show is the fact that larger prizes have been offered this year. Another gesture on the part of fair board members the poultry committee of Jack Holley, Percy Day and R. J. Messervey, today expressed their appreciation.

"If things keep on this way we will soon have to have larger accommodation, for the poultry show," commented Mr. Messervey this morning.

With practically every pen in the show filled and much work being done by the committee on decorations, the poultry building this year is especially attractive. All day yesterday swarms of people passed through the building admiring the strings of birds.

Judge R. J. Messervey said birds entered by many of the exhibitors were of outstanding quality.

Among the exhibitors of fowl at the fair are R. M. Brown of Peterborough; Frank Andrews, Norwood; A. Ayres or Oshawa; W. Mark of London and L. R. McLaughlin, Oshawa.

Local exhibitors include Chas. Saunders, Jack Holley, R. J. Messervey; Mr. Post of Campbellford, Earl Hall of Wellington with Bantams and Mr. Reid.

Crowd of 10,000 Attends Belleville Fair Opening

Said to be the "best opening day in years", nearly 10,000 people poured in the 1951 gates of the Belleville Fair at the opening of its four-day exhibition yesterday.

Despite the fact that rain fell in the early hours of the afternoon, ensuring cancellation of the matinee performance of the day's outstanding entertainment feature "Lucky Lady", and the fact that fairs, clearing weather brought out the huge throng for the evening attractions.

It was "Children's Day" and youngsters, accompanied by parents from the city and all parts of the district, thronged the grounds from early in early hour. The fair was unofficially opened at 9 a.m., when the first tickle of spectators increased into the thousands that milled along the midway, inspected the stalls and other exhibits during the later hours.

Officials Open Program

Official opening ceremonies were conducted from the judges' stand in front of a packed grandstand prior to the presentation of "Lucky Lady" and his Hell Drivers.

President Harry Rollins, of the Belleville Agricultural Society, with secretary Miss Dorothy Dempsey, treasurer, Ben Bleecker and members of the directorate made a brief appearance on the stage prior to the introduction of Warden Charles Coulter, Hastings County who officially opened the fair and Warden James Clemmison, warden of Prince Edward County, who assisted in the ceremonies.

Warden Coulter, after welcoming the patrons, expressed his regret at the absence of a new Lieutenant-Governor. He recalled the fact that a year ago he had promised that a new Governor would be available this season, but defence demands causing lack of steel had prevented its erection.

"However," he went on, "next year I sincerely hope our understandard will provide accommodation for all".

Lauds Directors

He paid tribute to his hardworking directors who had endeavored "to give you the best show in years. When you their exposition, the fair would have been a failure."

President Rollins introduced the fair board officials and Frank Fellwell, M.P., Elmer Jackson, M.L.A., and the guests of honor.

Warden Clemmison said that the board of directors drawn from the two counties and the city had succeeded to the extent where the Belleville Fair was one of the finest all exhibitions of its kind in Ontario. It served three purposes, he said, as an exhibition, recreation and a place where all can have a good time.

Its location is strongly in its favor, Warden Clemmison said while the natural resources of the district make for excellent exhibits. He lauded the exhibitions of its kind in Ontario. It serves three purposes, he said, as an exhibition, recreation and a place where all can have a good time.

Warden Harry Coulter who inadvertently called the sister counties Prince Edward Island then smiled as he realized his mistake, also paid tribute to the efforts of the directorate for the "splendid exhibition which is now under way. "I know," he said, what can be done with the whole-hearted co-operation of all concerned."

Warden Coulter drew attention to the fact that Hastings County will hold seven other fairs this year; all of them topnotch exhibitions. He was particularly proud of the work being done by and for junior farmers of the county through its agricultural representative.

He then declared the Belleville Fair of 1951 to be officially open.

Its illuminated corridors with their shrill calls of barkers, mechanical music, and typical attractions saw the large crowd mill around the Conklin Midway.

It is colorful with its glittering lights, and exudes a real fair atmosphere. Its whirling rides, tented attractions, concessions of chance where multicolored prizes are offered, the patrolls food stands where raucous-voiced white-hatted concessionaires announce to all and sundry the succulence of their wares.

Plenty of Rides

There are plenty of rides, especially for the youngsters. The "ulla-whirl" proved quite popular while the ubiquitous merry-go-round in various forms of attractions drew crowds of the younger element. There's the popular ferris wheel, aero-plane rides, and several that come in the form of a miniature roller-coaster.

Racing cars speed around a circular track manned by daring four and five-year-old drivers. A chair-o-plane proved popular.

Tented shows include monkey suto-race attraction, "tent exclusives" on all types of modern crime; a mystery dubbed "The Thing", from which exudes roars of mechanical laughter and cries.

You can have your weight guessed while chewing floss candy. You can try your luck at a shooting gallery or on the unpredictable antics of a pair of white mice. Bingo is there as is crown-and-anchor, roulette wheels and other games of chance.

Lots of Fair Food

You can satiate your appetite practically everything from the lowly peanut to a glorified hamburger garnished with potato chips. Candy apples, hot dogs, sandwiches wide-eyed while mop-like clouds of candy floss—all-for a price. Then of course is the popular mystery in tights, the hot-dog "With or without" "Mustard" of all descriptions.

It is a typical midway of a typical fair. There is lots to see and do. It lasts for two more days and directors anticipate good weather permitting, a record attendance.

POLICE REMOVE BODY

Chatham, Aug. 14 (CP) —Police Monday removed the body of William James Fisher, 60, Harwich from McGregor's Creek. They said the man had been in the water since early Friday, and that death was probably accidental.

MAY SAVE EYE

Owen Sound, Aug. 14 (CP) — Doctors held hope today that they could save the right eye of Mrs. Robert Swarts, 31, of Kilchener.

A flyhook was embedded in her eye last Friday when her husband made a cast with the couple were fishing. Hospital authorities today described her condition as "fine."

Large Exhibit Farm Machinery At Local Fair

Re-emphasizing the fact that modern farming means mechanization, the farm machinery exhibit at the Belleville Fair offers almost every type of farming equipment which the agriculturist might require.

The farm machinery exhibit this year is possibly the most complete of any year since the end of the last war. Definitely new dealers are offering a higher range of farming equipment than ever before. With the machinery offered the farmer can milk his cows, cool his milk and transport it to market. On the other end of the scale there is machinery to till the soil and to harvest and store the crop.

It is labor saving machinery designed to speed up operations, do the job quicker and more efficiently. With today's rising price sale, we won't venture a guess as to whether the job would be done cheaper.

Among the local dealers exhibiting farm machinery is Truck and Farm Supply offering International equipment including trucks to refrigeration and deep freezers, while the same firm has McCormick harvesting tillage and harvesting equipment, including tractors plows and harvesters.

Another firm having a large display of machinery is Hudson Motors, who have one of the largest displays at the Fair. The Belleville firm is offering Allis-Chalmers tractors and implement. Included are harvesters, plows and other tillage equipment, and combines and binders. Studeak's are also offering Fargo trucks and Plymouth and Chrysler cars.

Full Line of Cars

West End Motors are on hand with a full line of Studebaker cars, while John Mellow have on display Austin, and, Rex trucks. Bateman Motors have Dodge and DeSoto products.

Riggs Motors and Belleville Motor Car Company, the two local Ford product dealers are offering both autos and farm equipment. Riggs have a display of the Ford tractors and the Dearborn farm tillage equipment as well as Ford implements. Belleville Motor Company offer the Meteor, Mercury and Lincoln cars as well as the English built Ford, the Prefect and the Consul.

Other farm machinery equipment are John Deere, represented by Ivan May, their local dealer, with almost every conceivable type of machinery; the Cockshutt, represented by Pringle and Cooper, Case Oliver, represented by H. J. Ward and Sons, the Ferguson tractor and equipment, represented by Morton Garage of Thomasburg.

Foley Founder and Machine Company is demonstrating just what can be done by way of re-sales to farm equipment by phasizing repairs to springs for all types of vehicles. They are also offering portable welding equipment.

Rather off the farm machinery beat is the Chapman Kool-Vent aluminum awning display, showing the various style of awning available in materials that will deteriorate with the weather.

Another display that is attracting the attention of farmers is that of the Super Prentice Sons of Chain Saw. Various types of chain saws, all of them decided labor savers, are offered.

News of Trenton

Trenton— (Special) — Mayor Ken J. Couch favored preventing carnival shows from playing Trenton in the future at the monthly meeting of council last night. Mr. Couch figured, however that other recreation should be provided to take the place of the roadshow. He suggested sitting down and draughting a plan for the betterment of recreation in the town.

Mr. Couch's stand came after a discussion fostered by councillor Vic Ryan who wholeheartedly favored donating a set sum of money to the Legion or any other service club applying for a permit to sponsor a show for the purpose of raising funds. Mr. Ryan claimed that carnivals were no asset to the town.

Councillor Burtt argued in the opposition. He contended that councillors should watch how the kiddies enjoyed themselves at a show before taking action.

Mayor Couch pointed out that carnivals paid sponsors only 10 per cent of the gate price, a show paying a service club $400 leaves town with $4,000 of the locals money gone.

Council's representative on the Recreation Commission, Councillor Norm Banfield was of the opinion that if the town supplied children with adequate recreation facilities they would not seek amusement at carnivals.

Delves Into Past

Mayor Couch delved into the past yesterday when he said that only the Legion was allowed to sponsor one carnival show in town each year and there had to set up on the Cronk farm outside the limits.

Council dealt with a letter from O. Alyea Lee-treas. of the Parks Board asking for clarification of the Parks Board's position relative to the action of the Parks Board in the post office and an apology from persons making statements that the action of the Parks Board in ordering a carnival off the ball diamond properly two weeks ago.

Reading of by-laws 802-G and 814-G established that all town properties on the waterfront in the area behind post office were under the jurisdiction of the Parks Board and therefore the Parks Board was responsible for the baseball diamond property.

It was brought out however that the Parks Board had turned over the ball grounds to the Recreation Commission under a verbal agreement and that the commission was paying the upkeep was entitled to the revenue derived from baseball games and other sport activities.

In Good Faith

The Mayor and Council agreed that they were in good faith when they gave the Kinsmen permission to hold a carnival on the ball park without referring them first to the Parks Board. Councillor Ryan pointed out that the Parks Board had the same authority, according to the statutes, as the Board of Education and it was not policy for council to question their decisions.

Mayor Couch said he had no knowledge of a verbal agreement existing between the Parks Board and the Recreation Commission. He had been under the impression, that the ball diamond had been properly handed over to the Recreation Commission by the Parks Board. He asked that the matter be draughted whereby council would not honor any letters or requests unless it was in black and white.

Council will wait to answer a copy of the letter from the chairman of the Recreation Commission Dr. J. V. Byrne seeking acquisition of the ball diamond for the Commission. Dr. Byrne felt that the Commission should have complete say in the matters of the ball park if they continued to pay all the expenses.

Reply to Letter

Council was advised that the secretary-treasurer of the Parks Board had replied to Dr. Byrne's letter. It was decided to withhold an answer until the Parks Board's reply was made public.

A letter from the Department of Planning and Development approved of Trenton's request to build 26 houses under the government low-rental plan. The letter suggested that the owner of land being purchased for the project pay part of the local improvements.

Attention was drawn to the price proposed to be paid for the project. The Planning and Development department thought that $15,000 was too much.

The letter pointed out that rental of $55 and $60 per month would be expected from tenants in the low-rental area.

Council agreed to deal with a request presented by a delegation from the Trenton Legion that the sewer in the cellar of the Legion Hall was backing up when refuse backing up was causing a stench.

An invitation extended by councillor James F. Day to inspect a house similar to the type proposed for the low-rental area he is building on Dundas Street east, was accepted personally by the Mayor Day felt that it council looked over the house before any construction some good suggestions and criticism would be forthcoming for the benefit of the project.

Flowers, Fruit, Vegetables Art and Painted China Bring Many Visitors to Building

Again the horticulture building was the 'mecca' for flower lovers where flowers of rainbow hue potted plants, delicate ferns, and strange cacti were on exhibit. On entering, the attention was immediately drawn to the unusual cacti display. Here, one could almost visualize the desert scene, as the tall cleisto strousi met the eye, and nearby the hairy and hoary cephalocereus similis (old man) stood in dignified pose surrounded by the euphorbia grandi cornis, of Africa; the golden hued mamillaria pringlei zorevis with its short spines, and the ascensionis somewhat similar to the well-known hen and chickens variety, of the Canary Islands; the soft green of the aloes, though not a cactus in the true sense, somewhat resembles them.

Other outstanding cacti were those of the shrub-like variety, the Victoria Regina Agave, dahlia type, with their pointed leaves, and the echinocactos grusoni, or better known as the 'golden barrel' cactus,

A YEAR OF ACHIEVEMENT

Principal G. E. Currie, teachers and students of the Belleville Collegiate Institute must feel a great degree of satisfaction over the Upper School results as published in Friday's edition of this paper. An all-time record of 92.8 per cent. was set when, in a class of 58 students, 389 papers were written and 361 were successful.

It will be surprising if this is not the high record for the province or very close to it. The achievement speaks particularly well of the teaching staff for were it not for their proficiency, no students, however brilliant, could finish the year of difficult study in such dazzling fashion.

The Board of Education, too, is deserving of praise for having assembled such a capable staff in the Collegiate as is now employed. Top-grade teachers are actually an economy because the ever-present failures which prevent the piling up in lower grades. With accommodation lacking in the present building a considerable number of "repeaters" could lead to much inconvenience and added expense.

Sometimes we forget that the young people of this generation for their lack of ambition and determination to prepare themselves for business and professional careers. We think it is unfair to apply that label so generally. The noisy ones who get in difficulty are but a small minority of the young people of Canada. Those who are diligent, as in the class noted above, receive too little of this world's acclaim. For that reason there is much satisfaction in lauding all those who had a hand such a year of achievement of that 92.8 per cent.

FAROUK'S FOLLY

"Easy come, easy go" as an adage could very well be applied to Egypt's King Farouk. News reports say that he lost $175,000 in two days' play at the gaming tables of Cannes, France. The King claimed he had developed his own system for winning at the gaming table.

The King must be a singularly stubborn fellow if it cost him that much money to find out whether he had a good sure-fire system. There are not too many people in the world today who could afford to learn anything so unessential as gambling systems. Many others have tried their "systems" but like Farouk learned the hard way that gambling is a sucker's game.

If the news is broadcast to the people of Egypt it will provide much fuel in the streets and bazaars. It is this sort of thing that breeds communism for there is no question, but that they will capitalize on it in good fashion. The throngs of kings are not too secure in these days of change and the folly of squandering money away in handfuls lessens the security of royalty in other lands.

Egypt is a poor country greatly in need of modern improvements. The living standard is exceptionally low and a big majority of the people is ridden with all the diseases common to the Orient, but if their king is so little concerned about the example he sets to others in power in his land then there can be little hope for an early improvement in the lot of the common people. If the King wastes $175,000 in a short gambling session how much other money is he throwing away in pleasurable pursuits? And most of it, we presume, comes from the taxes paid him by his people. The day of accounting may not be too far away.

RABBITS IN AUSTRALIA

For many years the rabbit has been an unconquerable pest in Australia and also a serious economic problem. Signs now point to the eventual elimination of this rodent, of which there are believed to be countless millions in the country.

Economic compulsions entered into this situation, comments the Hamilton Spectator, when Australia reached a pass where its authorities had to decide between rabbits and livestock. It was estimated that rabbits were consuming the grasses and pasture land which were capable of feeding forty million additional sheep. Livestock was therefore given the first consideration.

When wool prices were soaring to unprecedented levels last year the Great Britain was endeavouring to increase its purchases of mutton, the Australian government instructed its agricultural scientists to employ a killing agent known as myxomatosis. This is a microscopic virus which is said to spread swiftly among rabbits, inducing high fever, paralysis and death. A few rabbits were injected with the bacteria and then released in the Murray Valley, at the border of Victoria and New South Wales, to spread havoc among their kind.

The scientists waited patiently to learn what the answer to their experiment would be. Now the information they wanted is beginning to reach them. Sheep men state that a plague is sweeping among the rabbits in many areas and the results are spectacular.

Should the rabbits not become immune to this myxomatosis, then hopes are held that Australia will succeed at last in getting rid of these costly creatures whose numbers have multiplied enormously since 1850 when but a few of the breed were first brought into the country by a settler from Great Britain.

TESTER

I've tested all the cigarettes
As radio men suggest,
For I am one who never lets
A chance go by to test.
I've rubbed my scalp with anti-itch,
Shampoos for men I've tried—
But still of everything just which Is best, I can't decide.

I've cuts on every finger tip
From testing razor blades,
And that, I'll say, a golfer's grip
Disturbs far more than aids.

I've tested gold balls, as they say,
For distance and for roll,
But still a losing game I play,
Three-putting many a hole.

Today I have a tester's throat,
A tester's nose and eyes.
The taste of foods I'm quick to note,
Especially cakes and pies.
I know the things that ought to be
On every pantry shelf,
But you will get no "tests" from me.
You test them for yourself.

Given Life Term Nine Years After Wife's Death

Auckland, N.Z., Aug. 14. (Reuters)—Edgar Cecil Horry, the "Bridegroom of Death", was sentenced to hard labor for life today for murdering his wife, Mary, the day after their wedding nine years ago.

Police have searched unsuccessfully for Mary's body ever since and to the end of the trial Horry, 44, maintained he was innocent. He told the court after sentence today: "She went to America and to the best of my knowledge she is still there."

But Supreme Court Judge Adams had asked the jury in his summing up: "Is it in the realm of possibility that a woman would leave behind so much of her wardrobe as has been produced in court?"

Yesterday, Horry's defence lawyer said he could not find any jury in the British Empire which had not pondered a person of murder in the absence of a body, except where direct evidence—such as a confession—proved the victim dead.

The judge declared that if the jury were convinced that Mary was dead and were equally certain that Horry killed her, then they were entitled to act on that view.

The prosecutor said Horry swept Mary off her feet and "having no money of his own got her to marry him so he could get hold of her money and then destroy her."

One witness testified during the week-long trial that Horry withdrew money from a bank account just before the wedding.

Bullying Storm Trooper Outlawed In West Germany

Bonn, Germany, Aug. 14 (AP) —West Germany has outlawed the bullying storm trooper.

Wide new measures against political extremists prohibit party uniforms, advocacy of armed revolt and possession of weapons without government authority.

The measures are directed at the communist and new Nazi strong-arm squads who have made an alarming appearance recently.

The new Nazis had a force of jack-booted whitesheirts, called the Reichsfront in bold imitation of the storm troopers who clubbed and murdered to give Hitler power.

The communists organized their youth movement, the Free German Youth, into militant groups that wear blue shirts. These young toughs fought pitched battles in the street with German police.

Both organizations were banned as "unconstitutional" now the German penal code gives police full power to prevent their activities.

The new regulations cover treason, betrayal of state secrets, industrial sabotage and political slander.

Communists and extreme rights fought the measure bitterly in parliament. They called it a "police state" move to muzzle any opposition.

The maximum punishment in the "treason law," as it was christened, is life imprisonment. There is no capital punishment in the federal republic.

High treason is defined as attempts to change the constitutional order of the republic by force, violence or threat of domination. An attack on the president or his constitutional rights also is treated as treason.

The violation or disfiguring of national emblems of foreign nations and insult to their diplomatic or consular agents is also punishable if the national concerned asks for court action.

Reminded of Ontario Premier Frost's edict against river stunts he said:

"I only know that I intend to go as planned."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

GOD'S GREAT PARLOR

I have problems just like anyone else. I could do a great deal of worrying, but I won't! I am out in God's great parlor without out-of-doors. I walk over mossy paths of every shade of green imaginable. I look up to every footfall as though the paths through which I walk were softly carpeted. I look up to the sky and say Nature does. It keeps surprising you, and revealing new discoveries.

If I lived to be a thousand years old, I would still look upon every created thing in nature as one of wonder. There is so much hidden wisdom there. Beauty, exactness and carelessness that you feel so happy and pleasant in the very arms of nature. All my life I have marvelled at her perfections. Just hear in mind those endless designs in the snowflakes. Why so beautiful, why so perfect, when they fall to the earth only to melt and die? And why such perfection in the design of every flower, every leaf upon tree or shrub, and such blending of colors in the feathered kingdom!

No etcher's needle ever traced such beauty as is displayed in God's parlor in cloud formations and colorful sunsets. And that natural fragrance fills the air, especially during the mid-summer months, when so many people go out into this greatest of all parlors for rest, relaxation, change, and the arrangement to ward a richer and more useful life.

I love to watch a bird at its work. Recently I stood silently in a hidden corner where I could watch a pair swallowing fly continuously into a barn, where they had a nest. Such speed! No sooner was one bird fly in than another would follow, and this kept up, each bird, flying in that little nest of open mouths. Where else can you look upon such contentment?

How varied the furnishings in God's great parlor! And it only takes love and appreciation to own the entire realm! You can add nothing to it—but you can take it all and what you need desire. And what a choice we all have!

Strength for the Day

WHOSE FAULT IS IT?

The recent crime investigation conducted by the Senate Committee has been very revealing. Most decent Americans have been startled and shocked to learn on what a large scale organized crime is operating.

One of the most alarming features of the situation has been the astute and very arrogant air some of the well-known criminals. Confident in the possession of great wealth and counseled by expensive lawyers, they have refused to answer questions, left the courtroom, and otherwise defied the investigators.

Part of their assurance, the testimony has made quite clear, comes from their close connections with some of our leading politicians and public office holders. We are once more beginning to see that has so often been revealed in the past, that we have in office some men who are not only willing to shut their eyes to crime but eager to profit from it.

Why are such people in office? Because, of course, we, the people, put them there. Behind the crime that dishonest politicians have committed lies our own criminal negligence. We ourselves have not been honest and God-fearing enough to demand that our leaders be honest and God-fearing too. Our failure to insist on a high moral standard has permitted them to adopt a low one.

The Senate committee has made only too clear the need for a reform. By all means, let us have it. But let us make it a real reform, starting where all real reforms start, at home, in our own hearts.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Not many towns and cities in the world have thought of putting their names in lights that can be seen from the air. Or on gigantic billboards, facing the sky, that could be read from above.

The bigger cities do not require it, because their location is familiar to everybody who travels by air. But the smaller cities and large towns—which look astonishingly alike from the air—are decidedly anonymous to the thousands of people now travelling by aircraft. In flying between two major cities, you may follow a route with which you are thoroughly familiar from the level of the highway or railway train. But it is a puzzle to the air traveller to distinguish one town from the other.

From the business promotional standpoint, the identification of towns and small cities could be an extremely useful thing. Seen vertically, a town reveals aspects of it you could not possibly see on a horizontal visit—the extent of the factory areas, the character of the railway facilities, or waterfront. On the outskirts, you see big industrial plants you never realized were part of the town, no matter how often you had visited it by car or train. In other towns you cannot help but be impressed by the vast expanses of fine cultivated farm lands extending for miles around it, and you can only suppose it is a thriving centre.

Especially in more remote areas of mountain and lake where tourists are a necessary part of the economy, some of the central towns should declare their names, so that as you look down upon the lovely scene, even in the night, when the lakes and rivers and dark forests loom, you would say—"I'm going to visit this district some day."

HOW TO RETIRE

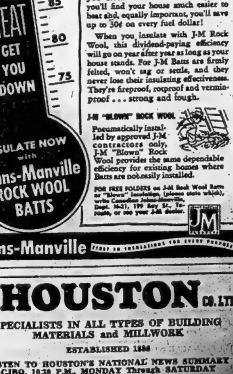
I was impressed by the fervent thanks expressed by the wife of a retired business man for the game of bowls — lawn bowling, I'm-gins—into which, her husband had been drawn. As the lady said, it not only takes him out of the house and (as she didn't really say but nevertheless implied) out of her hair for several hours several days in the week, but it seemed to make the old crab so, much easier to live with. This is all I shall say about the ancient and honorable game at this time. I could talk about the health benefits of the game for a week-end, there's an idea for a book titled The Wicked Woods—you see, the bowls, though made of a rubber composition today, were formerly made of lignum vitae and hence called "woods"—a wicked wood being the sort described by the poet whose name I am too modest to mention.

When a man (or woman) contiously retires from business or profession he goes through a crisis often tragic. The poor fellow soon finds time a dreadful thing to kill and his shrivelled and bored living and general crabbedness makes life less enjoyable for every one around him.

Even if your position, calling an racket is such that you must drop everything slap-bang and withdraw entirely with the day on which you say, don't you do it. A good while before you approach that age you should have cultivated one or more hobbies or avocations, no matter what, provided it be one to pursuit of it in your leisure time.

There is no more vile writ rather than by physical labor, your avocation should afford considerable physical activity. On the other hand, if you earn your living by brain work, you find low art, music, collecting, sport (as a fan, that is) or any other sedentary pastime you like to go on.

The man or woman who has failed to provide or succeed in finding until he or she can devote more time to it will retire without hazard to physical or mental health. And unnoticeably—that is, his or her friends and relatives will scarcely realize that the old party is in process of withdrawing or has entirely withdrawn from lifetime occupation.



The ideal way to retire is by gentle steps, assigning first this and then that part of one's duties or responsibilities to successor, junior or new assistant, and giving the time thus saved to more thorough cultivation of his/her hobby.

Our last six presidents died at the average age of 63 years.

'Excessive Legality' in Law Says Speaker at Rotary

"The public is becoming too legal-minded and this is excessive legality," declared Kenneth G. M. Ross of the firm of Ross and Case, in an address entitled "The Law and the Layman," delivered to the weekly luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club held Monday noon in Hotel Quinte.

"At one time a man's word was his bond. Today everybody wants to get his business notarized. The letter is replacing the spirit of the law," he continued.

There is too much law. Legislation is not the answer to high prices; what is needed is a dollar's work for a dollar's wages. Legislation is not the answer to treason. Rather let us clean up the poverty and the slums that breed discontent."

Mr. Ross went on to state that hypocrisy and dishonesty in public life will not, and can not be cured by legislation.

"You can not legislate prosperity or character," he stated. "When people stop going to church, the jails, penitentiaries, and mental hospitals fill up. There is no answer in the law books for divorce, separation and the broken homes. The pitiful parade of broken lives that marches through the law offices day after day contains the victims and the symptoms of our moral degeneration."

Divorce Laws Inadequate

In speaking of divorce, Mr. Ross remarked that "divorce is the surest and fearless point in the courts today. I believe that the divorce laws, as they are constituted now, are completely inadequate. They were designed to prevent unholy alliances but instead have only fostered them."

"At present the only ground for divorce is adultery. There are other serious causes of matrimonial discord. In England the laws have been changed to include insanity, imprisonment for years or desertion for years as justifiable grounds for divorce."

Mr. Ross continued, "but rather than make it easier to get a divorce I would like to suggest that it be made harder to marry. I would like to see a longer waiting period before marriage, a blood test, physical tests, and mental tests for both parties. It is astounding how inadequate many people are mentally fit to undertake marriage. I should also like to see some sort of marriage counselling service, where people could obtain advice. Of course there are many arguments for and against these ideas but I do not propose to debate the whole question now."

Mr. Ross included in his address many interesting but little known facts about the law as it affects the motorist, the person making his will, the inheritance of property and the legal interpretation of much of the daily business of mankind.

He concluded his remarks by stating that he felt there was too much reliance placed on the law by the general public.

"Law is coherent in enforcement but essentially the courts can affect only your physical being. They can put you in jail or they can take away your money, or both, but they cannot legislate racial tolerance, harmony between labor and management, unselfishness or prohibition. In truth the law cannot legislate any of the vital aspects of society."

Mr. Ross was introduced by Crown Attorney Gordon Robertson, and the thanks of the club were expressed by Archie Cameron.

Harry Gourley was introduced as a new member by Carl Crosby but his formal induction into the club will be held at later date.

It was announced that CBC commentator, John Fisher, would address a combined meeting of the service clubs of Belleville Friday, September 7th., at the Masonic Temple.

BOYAY—DAY

A lovely double-ring wedding ceremony was solemnized on Saturday, August 4, at 2:00 p.m. in Holloway Street United Church before a background of multi-colored gladioli and white shasta daisies by Rev. R. E. Day, uncle, pastor of the church, when Shirley Gwendolyn Day, of Belleville, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Watt, became the bride of John Evan Boyay, of Belleville, son of Mrs. M. J. Boyay and the late Mr. Boyay.

Mr. H. McNish, church organist, rendered the traditional wedding music and Master Jack Calnan, nephew of the bridegroom, was soloist, singing before the ceremony, "Because" and "Always" during the signing of the register.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her stepfather, Mr. Thomas Watt, was radiant in her bridal gown of white satin and chantilly lace, with nylon yoke, fitted bodice buttoned down the back, long fitted sleeves also ending in lily-points over the wrists. The bouffant skirt of satin featured a chapel length train ending in a chapel train. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was embroidered on the edges with wedding bells, and was held in place by a pearl and rhinestone tiara, seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried a shower bouquet of pink roses, baby's breath tied with satin streamers.

Miss Margaret Wallace, of Toronto, Miss Frances Thompson, of Belleville, and Miss Carol Bartlett, also of Belleville, attended the bride, wearing taffeta gowns of lime green, yellow, and mauve, respectively, fashioned on princess lines with long sleeves pointed over the hand. Matching pill-box caps and baskets of yellow gladioli and white Shasta daisies completed their ensembles.

Mr. Jack Dalnton, of Toronto, was groomsman, and the ushers, Mr. Ronald Day, of Belleville, brother of the bride and Mr. Wayne Bovay, nephew of bridegroom.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Arnold Gardiet. The bride's mother, gowned in powder blue crepe with lace and pearl accessories, and corsage of red roses, received, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a gown of navy blue sheer and lace with white accessories and corsage of pink Sweetheart roses.

The bride's table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake topped with sweetpeas, and flanked by crystal swans of baby's breath and sweetpeas.

Following the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Bovay left for White Pine Lodge, Paudash Lake, the bride travelling in a blue gabardine suit with navy accessories and corsage of white gardenias. Upon their return, they will reside in Belleville.

As they left the church, a guard of honor was formed by the Northern Electric girls, the bride's softball team of which she is the captain.

Out-of-town guests were present from Whitby, Toronto, Oshawa, New York and Windsor.

County Cherubs Top Town Tots in Excellent Baby Show

Yesterday afternoon in the big tent, the steady hum of many voices was punctured by the wails of Belleville's future citizens voicing their indignation at such a public demonstration of their pulchritude, not to mention the strength, but kind gentle arms, which bore them to the bluff white table, where little limbs, that fain would go on kicking, were straightened out meticulously measured, and then the next, green weigh-scale basket which added insult to injury, bringing on more wails and weeping for their "Rachels" and "would not be comforted."

Such was the baby show where 86 bonnie wee lads and lassies passed through their first trying ordeal on life's highway. Special Attention Required For This Type of Complexion

Special care for special skin. Nourished tissues needs a

An oily complexion with underheavy creaming comes bedtime

By HELEN FOLLETT

There is one type of complexion that requires special attention, a little extra care that differs from the general rules suitable for treatment of oily dry, or normal skins. It is the oily with under-nourished tissues. Usually the "oilies" shun creams but in such a case, a soothing emollient is necessary.

Treatment consists of the application of a heavy massage cream at bedtime, together with brisk massage. The patting and molding must be continued until the flesh glows. That will show the suppleant for more loveliness that the blood streams are rushing forth with good groceries for cells that have become more or less depleted. No rotary movements that may stretch the skin, but a brisk slapping and tapping. Some women fear massage and well they might; heavy-handedness can make weak tissues weaker, while quick brisk strokes will make them stronger, the flesh more solid.

The cream should remain on overnight. In the morning dash on cold water; nothing like it to revitalize facial fibers that have lost tone. After a gentle drying an astringent or tonic lotion should be applied. Have it iced, put it on with pledgets of cotton; let it dry.

The daily use of a nourishing cream and an astringent will not only correct oiliness eventually, but will tone relaxed fibers, keep the skin in condition, have an excellent effect upon texture and coloring.

Many women use cosmetics that are not suitable for their needs. A good way to solve that problem is to have a facial treatment at a reliable beauty shop. Operators who do this line of work go through long training. They learn about tissues, muscles and nerves of the facial areas. They are ready with advice and suggestions. Then, too, the treatment is well worth the money. The skin has a rousing cleansing and the manipulations of experienced fingers recondition the complexion.

Women of The Moose

On Thursday evening last the Women of the Moose, Belleville Chapter 433, held their regular meeting in the Loyal Hall with Senior Regent, Ruth Mintz, presiding. Recorder Gladys Ritch read the minutes of the previous meeting and communications. A letter was received from Supreme Lodge auditor, Stewart Slatter, concerning the international conference which will be held at Buffalo, N.Y., next week. It was stated that preparations were being made for Canadian visitors, with headquarters situated at the Hotel Buffalo, where a banquet will be held for all.

Recorder Gladys Ritch gave the auditor's report for the month.

Gwendolyn Bellis, Irene MacMurter and Ina Kleinsmiter were balloted on, favorably.

Travelling aprons which were handed out in July were drawn on as follows: for Belleville, by Sentinel Lena Connell and won by Allie Ballez; for Frankford, drawn and won by Peg Benedict; for Trenton, by co-worker Lillian Dixon and won by Pat Price. Each winner was also presented with a beautiful apron. Another apron is being started in Belleville with co-worker Lillie Bowers as chairman.

Co-worker Florence Carufel, presented by guide Margaret Mallette, received a gift from Senior Regent, Ruth Mintz, for her untiring work making the aprons. Co-workers Nell Haslip, chaplain, Mabel Bailey and co-worker Pat Price also received gifts from the senior regent. Since she was chairman of one apron, co-worker, Pat Price donated her gift to the Mooseheart chairman, who will raffle it off at a later date. Co-workers, Mae Haslip, Mabel Moon, Lean Connell, Pete Haslip, Florence Carufel and Flora Kiser also received lovely gifts from the senior regent for their work on the committee during the past month.

Co-workers, Mary Peoples, Maz Mallette, Luella Downes, Marion Watt, and Mary VanDusen were named by the Senior Regent, Ruth Mintz, to work on the social evenings for the next month. Plans were made for a home-baking sale to be held on the market at a later date this month. A demonstration will be held in Septembes with Mrs. Marguerite Rodgers as demonstrator.

A lovely pair of earrings was donated by the chapter, the winning ticket being drawn by co-worker Laura Woodacre and won by the co-worker, Micheline Calbury. The Sunshine prize was drawn by Senior Regent, Ruth Mintz and won by co-worker Micheline Calbury.

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about FOOD . . . What's Cooking?

Beef and salt are all that you need for hamburgers. But the quality of beef, the way you chop it and the proportion of spice it provide so many variations that two hamburgers are seldom alike.

The best cuts of the beef for hamburger is the chuck because of its good distribution of fat and lean. If the meat is finely ground, it will bind more easily and hold its shape well. If the meat is coarsely ground, it will shrink more and the hamburger will tend to break apart but there will be a better beef flavor.

If you roll, kneed, pound and pat the meat just so to get a well shaped hamburger, you will cause the meat to be "tight" and even tough. Handle the meat only enough to shape it into a fairly symmetrical patty.

After the hamburgers have been shaped, they should be chilled in the refrigerator before broiling or frying. This helps to keep them from breaking apart during cooking.

While the hamburger may be plain meat and seasoning, an interesting garnish like French fried onions makes the dish distinctive.

Hamburger Steak, French Fried Onions and Cabbage Salad
Serves 4.

1 lb. chopped beef chuck
Salt—pepper
Salad oil
1 large Spanish onion
1 cup milk
Flour
Vegetable fat
1 tablespoons softened butter
1 tablespoon catsup
1-2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1-2 teaspoon lemon juice

Broil the onion and cut crosswise in thin slices. Separate each slice to make rings. Put the onion rings in the milk for 1-3 hour.

Mix the meat with 1 teaspoon salt and 1-8 teaspoon pepper. Mix very lightly. Do not handle too much. Shape into 4 hamburgers. Chill the meat in the refrigerator.

Brush the hamburgers, with salad oil. Broil under a moderate flame until medium brown. Sprinkle with salt and pepper.

Drain the onions. Dip the onions in flour. Shake the excess flour off the onions.

Heat vegetable fat to 370 degrees or hot enough to brown a piece of day old bread in 60 seconds. Fry the onion rings in hot fat until brown.

Mix the softened—not melted—butter with the catsup, worcestershire sauce and lemon juice. Brush the hamburgers generously with the butter mixture. Put the onions alongside the hamburgers on serving plate.

Women's Institute

UNIONDALE W.I.

The August meeting of Uniondale Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Milton Grills, 4th concession of Sidney, with a large attendance present.

Roll call was answered by the exhibition of antiques, which proved quite interesting as there were old charcoal irons, candleholders, bowls and spoons, some of which were over 50 years old.

Plans were made for the third day of Belleville Fair as the Uniondale Institute provide serve hot meals and lunches.

Mrs. Ross Defoe was in charge of the program which consisted of "Historical Research" dealing with the lives of England's queens, both past and present, beginning with Queen Victoria, which was given by Mrs. H. Frost, telling of the queen's young life, her marriage, and the passing of her husband; of the difficult years through which she had passed, buoyed up by her strong faith. She was zealous in keeping the Sabbath with attendance at church. Mrs. Alton Sine also read a paper dealing with this latter part of the queen's life, followed by the passing around of pictures showing the queen and her family.

Mrs. George Burkitt dealt with the life of Queen Alexandra, with sketches through the years. This was followed by a paper on "Queen Mary" by Mrs. Fred Farmer, telling of her many works through the years, dealing especially with the needlepoint carpet which took eight years to complete. Queen Mary is now starting another carpet for use in the palace.

The story of the present Queen Elizabeth was given by Mrs. Morley Sine from her young days up to the present time.

Mrs. Bert Bush gave a sketch of the life so far of Princess Elizabeth, which was quite interesting. This emphasized the amount of study with which future queens must be acquainted. At ten years of age, the Princess was studying nine different languages, as well as several other subjects including history. The story carried on through the birth of her two children, and the proposed tour of the Dominion, bringing to a close an interesting program which was planned by Mrs. R. Defoe.

Musical numbers were given by Mrs. Grills and Helen Burkitt.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. K. Fox, 5th in concession and the roll call to be "How I Can Improve and Beautify My Home".

Refreshments were served by the August luncheon committee.

BEAUTY

PLASTIC SURGERY

Many women who have acquired wrinkles flirt with the idea of getting a face-lift. This is not surprising. It is no fun to observe that ever-present lady in the looking glass and realize that the once-smooth complexion has gone into a decline. The philosophical one may try to assure herself that they are only "character lines," that they make her countenance more interesting. Such she'll know that she is telling lies to herself, that she hates them, that she would mortgage the old homestead to be rid of them.

There was a time when facial remodelling was a menace. Charlatans flourished on gullible customers, making promises they could not fulfill. Skin-peeling left a sort of french effect often resulting in infections and a frantic call for the doctor. The medical profession got busy; it put unreliable operators out of business and hospitals refused them the use of their operating rooms. At that time surgeons of good standing felt that their time was too valuable to devote it to the relief of wrinkle-worriers.

There are competent surgeons who correct these defects but they are few and far between. Some stage and movie stars, who have advanced in years and to whom good appearence is of importance, have sought their services and received satisfactory results.

Pouches under the eyes can be deleted, but the treatment requires delicate skill. Large noses are bobbed with no scars resulting. Double chins are made into one, as nature designed them.

The face-lift, of course, is the most common project. The hair at the temples is shaved. Incisions are made there, and the skin and underlying fibers are drawn upward. A piece of flesh is removed and the wound stitched. When healing has taken place, the hair to the board at the next meeting. It might read something like this, if you approve:

Dear Mr. Clark,

With very deep and sincere appreciation I thank you and the other members of the Board of Education for the commemorative resolution passed by the board in honor of my husband. I was deeply touched by this wonderful gesture to my husband's memory, the very beautiful expression of the tribute to him personally and to his devoted work on the board's work in which he was abidingly interested. It was the kind of a tribute he would have particularly welcomed, would have proudly cherished. And thank you too for the handsome and most artistic design of the leather book containing the resolution.

Will you please, Mr. Clarke, pass on to the other of the board my deep appreciation? Thank you, if you will.

Very sincerely yours,
Beatrice Smith Thompson.
(Mrs. Edward Thompson)

Housewarming Present Not Necessary . . . But Pleasant Now

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Several of our friends are about to move into new houses they have either built or bought already-built. And they are speaking about giving housewarmings. When my husband and I are invited to a "housewarming," should we take a present? If so, what kind?

Frances and Francis

A housewarming present isn't necessary, and in most cases not customary. But of course it's a pleasant gesture to make to the hosts and their new house. An appropriate present is something which is either decorative or useful (or both!) for the new house, and which you can afford. It usually isn't at all an expensive present, and very often it's a gadget that the new housekeepers will welcome.

Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on good manners submitted by readers.)

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Widow Thanks Board of Education For Memorial Tribute To Husband

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband died several months ago. For quite a few years he had been a member of the Board of Education of our large city, working most earnestly and unlikingly for it. Yesterday I received a most artistically printed brochure (if that's the correct word) beautifully bound in leather and enclosed in a large specially-made leather envelope. It was a wonderful tribute to my husband's devoted and important service on the Board of Education for so many years, and his contribution of fine ideals and a special richness of experience. Of course I was deeply affected by this resolution passed by the board as a tribute to my husband. But how should I acknowledge it—by telephoning to the head of the board, whom I know but not very well, or must I write a note? If a note, would you please help me word it?

B. T.

Please don't consider telephoning . . . that wouldn't be graceful or fitting. It must be a note of acknowledgement, so that it can be shown to all the members of the board who passed this commemorative resolution, or that can be read by the chairman grows over the scars—if there are any, and nobody is the wiser.

Sometimes a slight operation will give a fairly smooth facial surface that lasts for a long time; it depends upon the state of the tissues, whether or not they still have tone.

But for average, run-of-the-mill beauty-seekers the face-lift is too much of an adventure. It is naturally, very expensive. And there is difficulty in finding a man in good standing in the medical profession who does this work. Even then, unless the wrinkles are disfiguring and cause much unhappiness, he may refuse to undertake the job. After all, wrinkles are only as terrible as you think they are.

Women's Institute

PLAINFIELD W.I.

The monthly meeting of the Plainfield W.I. was held on Aug. 2, at the home of Mrs. Frank Hodges, with 30 adults and six children present.

The meeting was opened in the usual manner by the president, Mrs. Kerr.

At the beginning of the meeting, corsages, that were made by the president and Mrs. Harry Harrison, were presented to the grandmothers.

After the community singing of old-fashioned songs, the roll call was answered by each lady telling her grandmother's hobby. Some of these were gardening, knitting and weaving.

Thank-you cards received from Mrs. Hazard, Mrs. Garnet Denyes, Mrs. Earle Parks, and Mrs. Garfield Hall.

It was decided to charter a bus to take members of the Girls' Club and the ladies to Peterborough Fair.

After the business part of the meeting was finished, Mrs. Sherman Parks took charge of the program. She welcomed all the grandmothers and read a reading, entitled, "Getting Older".

Prizes were given—to the oldest grandmother, Mrs. N. Wilder; the youngest grandmother, Mrs. Fred Prindle, and the one having the most grandchildren, Mrs. Fred Reminiscence

Mrs. Fred Hall was called upon to give some of her earlier recollections. She told of driving to Plainfield on the 12th of July in a democrat. How they started at 5 a.m. and never reached home until 12 p.m. They arrived in Lonsdale very tired.

Mrs. Mabel Hubble told of her early schooldays. She told of the great number of students who attended Plainfield school and about the square dances they had on the sly out in the lobby of the school. Then came to an end when some old lady, informed the teacher. She also said that in those days a person had to attend church early in order to get a seat. Very different in the present day.

Beverley Gow favored with a piano solo; Shirley and Joan Kerr sang a duet and Mrs. Harry Harrison sang "When You and I Were Young Maggie". Mrs. Bertrand gave a reading and Mrs. E. Emerson in a reading told how in grandmother's time people went for miles to church in buggies and democrats and the Sabbath was considered a day of peace and rest.

Mrs. Parks then conducted a contest "Conveniences our Grandmothers Missed".

Refreshments were served and an interesting meeting was brought to a close.

The Home that's HERS FOR KEEPS!

"I dropped in on Jack Macy's widow today — in the home they were both so proud of. Thanks to life insurance, it's hers now for keeps . . . paid up . . . the way Jack intended.

"What a blessing it can prove to be — Mortgage Cancellation insurance. It costs so little but if, like Jack, a man dies suddenly, his mortgage is cancelled . . . finished with! No crippling payments for the widow to make out of her slender resources.

"On the other hand, if he lives he can use the cash values to clear the mortgage early. Or he can pay it off in the usual way and use the insurance to increase his retirement income. There couldn't be a sounder plan for any home owner".

NEED THAT VICTORY!

The Redmen need that win over the Batawa team tomorrow night if they are to hold undisputed possession of second place in the Central Ontario Baseball League. Last night the Kingston Disney Lee's drew up on even terms with the Redskins by virtue of their 7-0 victory over the Napanee Athletics, while Batawa was beating the second-slot Smiths Falls Reynolds 8-2 setback. The Fallsers appear to be stopping and with the past two weeks have dropped decisions to the tail-end clubs of the league.

The Shoemen hold a .424 percentage just .100 behind the third-place Leafs and Redmen. Picton is a game or two in the rear of the Shoemen and the way the "Schnarks" are getting they can pull up to within striking distance of a playoff berth if they maintain their present calibre of baseball.

THIS YOU SHOULD SEE!

Weather permitting, the third and could be last game of the rod-and-Commercial "A" series between Howe and Raper-mon and Glenn Rorp gets under way tonight at the Alemite field starting 6:30. It is do or die for the Plumbers with the Glens rarin' to make it three-in-a-row. A bat will be sure event. A defeat for the Howe-Haper teams elimination from ORA representation while a win for the McNevin staff will make them the city color-bearers in the forthcoming playdowns.

Other softball games this week see Stewart Warner and Bakelite tangle at the Alemite Field tomorrow night and on Friday Belleville Motors and Cleaners settle an old argument.

THE BOYS ARE BACK!

"There will not be" quoth handsome Mike Sharpe, "any such high diddles going on in Memorial Arena Friday night as occurred last week when Henning and Atkins pulled every trick known to the wrestling fraternity, with a few new ones thrown in, against Ben and me."

"This time" went on the determined larger edition of the Sharpe wrestling duo, "there will be no time limit so Messrs. Atkins and Henning can call all they want. Ben and I can stay for the full night Monday morning if they want it that way."

The foursome tangle in a return team match on Friday after last week's draw contest which saw each team win a fall and the time limit stop the bout with no decision in the third fall. Fan interest is running at an extraordinary high since the pest-beat melee of last week and it's likely one of the most exciting bouts of the season will be there for the seeing.

Pat Flanagan is back again in the semi-final bout with Steve Stanley (Mr. Atomic) while in the opener Sonny Kurgis meets Billy Black.

CONTROL THAT URGE!

A word to the wise. Just in case a few of the more hot-tempered fans got any ideas of running amok against the wrestlers next Friday night as was the case a week ago, they are reminded that they are outside the law when they vent their spleen on the "villains" of the piece through the medium of meat assault. The wrestling fraternity is as much entitled to police protection as are the fans, and the law will not tolerate any such exhibitions as was staged last Friday.

Unorthodox methods on the part of a participant in a wrestling match is not any excuse for assault by a spectator. A fan paid Saturday a fine of $4.50 in fine and costs for an attack on a wrestler, and paid for his fun at the rate of two bucks a pound. Now that kind of money puts his value up in the professional boxing class, except he is his own promoter and pays-to-collect. Expensive fun, we calls it. So if you feel like tossing a rigb hook or two when you are "hot-an" over what is going on in the ring, do a little shadow boxing with the bird who sits in front of you and insists on managing to his bird who sits in front of you and insists on managing to his feet, blocking your view and using cute little comewords that would make a thirty-year navy veteran blush with embarrassment.

But be careful one of your snappy uppercuts doesn't land on any part of his anatomy. He might be bigger than you and swing just as mean a bunch of knuckles. In any event you'll probably fall afoul of the law and no matter how many punches you throw you're still going to get socked anyhow more if by some chance you are stronger than you know and your love-tap dislodges a few molars or perchance spoils a pair of spectacles or lays the foundation for a cauliflower ear. It ain't worth the trouble, so just swallow your pride, count to twenty then go home, lock yourself in the bathroom and take it out on an imaginary mother-in-law.

The Redmen are all set for that tilt with Batawa Shoemen tomorrow night and are not in a very amiable mood since losing that heartbreaker to Brockville Memorial Saturday night. Coach Pat Wilson said today the Reds stayed one of the best exhibitions of the season, and but for one of those things that frequently occur in sport with no regard for individuals or team, the Reds might have pulled out with the win. But that's water under the bridge. Tomorrow's a new battle-is another game.

MORE POWER TO 'EM!

Columnar pats on the back go to the soccer lads who are endeavoring to get minor activities in their favorite sport started in playground circles. Soccer-minded youngsters are requested to note the times of coaching on grounds bulletin boards. A team under 18 years is being formed which will play out-of-town squads.

Indians Win Eleven In Row; Increase Lead to 2½ Games; Hodges 33rd Gives Brooks Win

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Cleveland's onrushing Indians continue to whiz by all opposition as the "Lopez Limited" speeds steadily towards its destination—Pennantville.

No wonder the Indians, led by manager Al Lopez, are talking pennant today.

The tribe won last night, defeating Detroit 2-1. The victory increased their first-place margin over New York Yankees to 2½ games as Philadelphia shellacked the Yanks for the third straight time, 15-8.

It stretched the tribe's winning streak to 11 games, just one short of the club's all-time record of 12 accomplished in 1942.

It marked the 19th triumph for Bob Feller, who celebrated a "night" in his honor by limiting the Tigers to seven hits.

It was the eighth consecutive complete job by a 19-game hurler and it was the 12th straight game the Indians held their opposition to four runs or less.

Reese Hits Win Homer

A homer by Al Rosen—his 20th—proved the difference last night. It came in the fourth inning and snapped a scoreless duel between Feller and Hal Martin. Stuart. A Detroit run, Feller's first-hop single, a sacrifice and Bob Avila's fly gave Cleveland an unearned run in the fifth. Singles by Jerry Priddy and Dick Kryhoski and George Kell's fumbled grounder set the Tiger's run in the eighth.

Cleveland broke the game open in the third inning after New York chuckers for 18 hits—its season high—and scored in all but the first and fifth innings. Starter Joe Tipton got four hits and drove in three runs. Elmer Valo also made four hits and drove in two. Morrie Martin won his seventh game.

Hodges Gets 33rd

A three-run homer by Gil Hodges in the eighth inning gave the Brooklyn Dodgers a 7-6 victory over Boston Braves last night their 12½-game first-place margin intact. The runner-up New York Giants also won their third straight from Philadelphia Phils 5-2.

Cincinnati swept a doubleheader from Pittsburgh, 2-0 and 7-1, while Chicago Cubs split St. Louis Cardinals 6-3.

Hodges' homer was his 33rd of the season and 5th in 10 of his big-league career. Carl Erskine was credited with the 11th victory.

Whitey Lockman cracked a three-run homer in the first inning off Ben Wade for the Giant's last as all Larry Jansen needed to record his 15th triumph for the Giants.

The Cubs blasted Dick Bokelmann for four runs in the second inning to ruin the rookie's first big-league start. Ransom Jackson collected three hits for four and scored twice. Stan Musial's 200th big-league homer went to waste for the Cards.

Howie Fox blanked the Bucs on five hits for his opener and helped his cause with a homer. Ewell Blackwell had a one-hitter until the ninth of the nightcap. It was Blackie's 12th triumph.

Boston, Washington, St. Louis and Chicago in the American League were not scheduled.

Crack Pacers Renew Feud At Yonkers

New York, Aug. 14 (AP) — Bill Cane's flashy little pacer Good time and the speedy Scottish Pence from the Castleton Farm will renew their feud Thursday night in the $25,000 Yonkers Trotting Pacing Derby at Yonkers Raceway.

Nine fleet pacers will start in the mile and one-half event, with Good Time the probable favorite at 2 to 1 and Pence next, 3-1.

Yonkers opens a 12-night summer session tomorrow night.

Others in the pacing derby are Hayes Hanover, Fernando Hanover, Lana Direct, Dr. Stanton, Rudiger, White Mountain Boy, and Jerry the First.

Roosevelt Raceway, the other major harness track in the Metropolitan area, announced that four horses had accepted invitations to the $25,000 American Trotting Championship Aug. 23. They are Demon Hanover, winner of the 1948 Hambletonian, Darn Flashy, Hadley Hanover and Tryhussy.

Invitations also have been extended to Star's Pride, Prenta Don, Bangaway, Peter Abbey, Aimee Scott, Silver Riddle, Jenka Hanover, Lord Steward and Mainliner, winner of the recent Hambletonian.

Five-Run Rally Gives Cleaners Win Over Avons

A five run rally in the bottom of the eighth broke a deadlocked score and gave the Cleaner Combines a 7-2 victory over Avon Jewellers at the Alemite field on Monday night.

The win kept the Cleaners' hopes alive for a first-place tie as they moved into a second duel knot with Avon Jewellers with a game in hand. They are but two points behind Bakelite and hold a game edge on the leaders.

Until the eighth, the game had been very even, each team having a pair of runs and four hits to their credit. Then Jones opened the frame with a base on balls and held fast while Deruhle filled out first, second, scoring on Young's drive single to left field. Graham went down on strikes but Gord Hall also received a life when Hull dropped his fly ball. Hull came all the way in from centre field to take a ball just over second but couldn't quite hang on to it.

Holmes, James and Mulvihill singled in succession driving in four more runs and insuring victory.

Score in First

Avons had broken fast from the wire getting their pair of runs in the initial frame. Donovan scored on Ken Jones' error. Murray followed with a walk and Hull tripled to right driving in both runners ahead of him. He was stranded on third however as Doran fanned and McTaggart grounded out.

Cleaner Combines did not get the scoring started until the fifth when Deruhle reached first on a ground ball that was fielded properly. He stole second and came all the way home when Henry Ford erred the throw from the plate to second base. Their other tally was the result of four singles in the eighth with three men being left on base.

Holmes hurried steady ball to earn the win, giving up six hits, walks and struck out four. Baldwin, on the mound for Avons was reached for an even dozen base hits including walking and whiffing a pair each. The only earned run of the contest was the Cleaners' tally in the eighth.

Holmes was the outstanding figure at the plate as he pounded the ball for four solid base knocks in four appearances. Mulvihill got three while James, Young, Baldwin and Hull each secured a pair. Hull had a triple and double and James and Young each hit a two-bagger.

Avon Jewellers' lineup: Donovan lf, Murray 3b, Hull cf, Doran 3b, McTaggart rf, McBride 1b, Ford ss, Baldwin p.

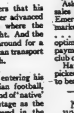
O'Keefe's CANADIAN SPORTS PARADE

MIXING business with pleasure is one of the things we do best . . . and we're spending pleasant hours above the clouds in T.C.A. Viscounts en route to Ottawa and Montreal was our idea of breaking the summer doldrums recently. We didn't miss the opportunity of talking to the Rough-riders' practice with stopping over in the capital, and from where we stood it's apparent that Bob Morau of Argonauts could be right when he called the 'Riders the best to beat in the Big Four! Also, we accidentally discovered a vital link in the saga of the great Ned Hanlan which can be put to better purpose—but first, let's look at the Roughriders.

Passing Scene



Since practice started on July 16th Ottawa's new coach Clem Crowe has shaken his team down to a strong combination of speed, kicking and passing. New quarterback import, Tom O'Malley, possesses the smoothest passing talent we've so far spotted this season. The Irishman seems to pitch with an effortless accuracy and hits his receivers like targets on a midway. If any criticism can be levelled at his style, that O'Malley hits them too hard and almost too fast. However, the results will be up to the passreceivers.

Clem Crowe considers that his half-line is much further advanced than the 'Rider line where the problem is lack of weight. And the new coach is casting around for a few heavyweights so that he can transport their bulk with dispatch.

With Howie Turner entering his fifth season in Canadian football, Ottawa's particular brand of native talent shows to advantage as the tension is slowly relieved in the import department. And John Waggoner is now starting his fourth year in Big-4 competition so that he, too, will be considered a Canadian soon, thus making room for another legitimate import on the roster.

Bruce Cummings remains the Roughriders number one kicker, closely followed in both distance and power by O'Malley and Turner. This could be Cummings' big year.

Montreal-Number One

'Rider President Eddie Emerson surprised us slightly by picking Montreal Alouettes as the team to beat in this year's Big Four competition.

"With Trawick and Wagner of the import list and Ratterman and company we have a strong Canadian side, Hayman has fitin so well that we have no worry about no matter how much he pretends to fume and fret over your eyes," stated sceptic Emerson.

"Here, in Ottawa, we have painfully short of good native talent of Edgar Colbert, our Lindy Ruff type, our geographical location costs us many of the best Canadian college players and we are forced to depend too much on our imports," maintained Emerson.

Asked about the season's ticket sales in the Capital, President Emerson brightened up and remarked that business was booming . . . thanks to the city's general optimism. Even the easy payment terms which the Ottawa club offers is showing.

Mervley listened for an hour, we picked Eddie Emerson as the man to beat in the Big Four.

Ned Hanlan's Boat

While visiting Ottawa we were surprised to learn from Mr. Keith Ferguson of the Ottawa Rowing Club that Ned Hanlan's rowing shell is resting in comparative obscurity, along to the rear of the L.R.C.C. boathouse. Apparently the Ottawa Club would be more than pleased to present the sweepy-year old shell to any collector considered to the Queen City, as a gift.

There we only one Ned Hanlan, and his rowing shell deserves a place of honour in his home town.

Four-Team Playoff Race In Int. League

(By The Associated Press)

It appears that [illegible] Red Wings, Buffalo-Toronto Maple Leafs will battle right down to the wire for the three remaining international league playoff berths.

Montreal Royals are out in front by 13 games but only six games separate the fourth-place Syracuse Chiefs from the runner-up Red Wings today. The third-place Bisons are three games back of the Wings while the fifth-place Leafs are four games behind the Chiefs.

Rochester chalked up its seventh straight last night, beating the Bisons 11-4. Bob Habenicht limited Buffalo to six hits. The Wings pounded Buffalo ace Rudy Minarcin and three relief pitchers for 14 hits.

The Chiefs snapped a six-game losing streak as lefty Bill Miller turned back the Baltimore Orioles 5-1. Howie Goss accounted for the only Orioles run with a homer in the second inning. The chiefs scored both of their runs in the last of the second on two walks, a fielder's choice and Ben Zientara's infield single and an error.

Springfield's tail-end Cubs defeated Montreal 3-1. The victory ended a 20-game losing streak in the Royals' park for the Cubs' Vern Fear, with help from Tony Jacobs, gained credit for the victory. Carmen Mauro homered for the first Cub run in the opening inning. Nick Burbrink and Ed McDade drove home the others in the sixth.

Harness Racing Resumes In Toronto

Toronto, Aug. 14—(CP)—The harness racing season resumed in Toronto Monday night after an eight day layoff, and Doubting Cy, owned by R. Leaders of Orangeville and driven by Joe Marks, won the featured trotting race of the afternoon.

She was beaten a short head by Flora Lee—another Orangeville horse—in the first heat and then came back to win the final event from Peter B. Harvester, Flora Lee and four other rivals.

Sue Elworthy, a three-year-old filly owned and driven by D. A. McLaren, of Pomeroy, Man., took the first race and paid $30 for a $2 ticket.

The longest price of the day was the place bet on John Storm. He paid $52.20 for a $2 ticket.

This week's racing will be featured on Friday by the $3,000 Maple Leaf Cup Pace and the extra race—a betless feature—will be run Saturday afternoon before the opening of the regular program. This is the Goodwill Cup for trotters.

"In the old days you could snatch signals by watching how the pitcher gripped the ball, by keeping your eyes on the catcher's mitt," the peppery Dodger says. "It's tough now with so many games at night." . . . the Brooklyn manager always felt that much of Babe Ruth's home run success was due to the Bambino's ability to swipe signals. . . CAPTURING CANADIAN OPEN TITLE, 17-YEAR-OLD MARLENE STEWART MADE CLEAN SWEEP OF GOLF'S TRIPLE EVENT

After an absence of eight years, the trophy emblematic of the Canadian ladies' open golf championship, seen at right, was brought back to Canada by Marlene Stewart, Canada's little golfing sensation of the year, who bested former champion Grace Lenarcyk of Hartford, Conn., with a hair-raising one-up victory at Laval-sur-le-Lac, Que. Under terrific pressure all the way and faced with a last-stand comeback of her opponent, the divot-digger from Fonthill, Ont., seen at left shaking hands with U. S. runner-up, played almost perfect golf to make clean sweep of the major ladies' tournaments this year—Ontario ladies' open, Canadian close tournament, and Canadian open. Upsetting pre-tournament calculations, Marlene is the first to hold both titles since 1933 and the first Canadian to take the open championship since the war.—Central Press Canadian.

Fair or Foul? In Any Event It Won Game

(By The Canadian Press)

Umpire Frank Elliott is an unlikely choice if anyone is running a popularity contest in Galt lodge.

To hear some eyewitnesses tell it, the man in blue knocked the Terriers out of the Intermediate baseball League playoffs all by himself last night as the Galt entry lost a 2-1 decision to the tail-end St. Thomas Legion natives.

Elliott lost whatever friends he may have had in town when centrefielder Tex Kaiser poled a drive over the right-field fence with a Galt teammate aboard. The umpire said it was a foul ball. Long after the game ended, Galt fans kept on insisting that Kaiser's drive was a good two feet inside the foul line.

What made the incident doubly annoying to Terrier supporters was that fourth-place Kitchener Legion, needing only one victory to clinch the last playoff spot, dropped a 10-9 decision to the league-leading Brantford Red Sox. A Galt victory would have given the Terriers a chance to tie the leaders in their final game.

London Majors shaded Guelph Maple Leafs 5-1 in a game that had no effect on the playoff picture. Both clubs are safely within the post-season limit.

Bill Slack fanned seven Leafs in racking up his ninth victory of the season. His strikeout total of 95 is the league's highest. Riverboomdangers, Marty Philip allowed six hits, one more than Slack.

Sport in Brief

Orestes Minoso of Chicago, continued to lead American League hitters last week.

The White Sox outfielder batted at a .342 clip through games of Sunday to edge Yartis Fain of Philadelphia by eight points.

With seven weeks to go, St. Louis' Stan Musial has opened up a 19-point lead on the Phils' Richie Ashburn in the National League batting race.

Musial's average through Sunday was .366. Ashburn tumbled eight points during the week to .349, only five points ahead of Brooklyn's Jackie Robinson at .344.

Frank Piscatelli of Vancouver, caught an 82-pound Tyee salmon on a 20-pound test nylon line, with an eight-ounce rod and a Lucky Louie plug.

Local fishermen believe it is the largest Tyee ever taken on regulation sports tackle.

It has a girth of 37 inches and is four feet, two inches long.

A 60-year-old British racing veteran arrived in New York Monday by plane en route to Utah for an attempt to break three international and 20 United States speed records for light stock automobiles.

Lt.-Col. A. T. Goldie Gardner reputedly already holds 23 international records. He will attempt to attain a speed of 140 miles an hour for a full hour from a standing start.

Gardner will make his speed-record-making effort next Monday on a 13-mile circular track on the Bonneville Salt Flats, Wendover, Utah.

Dodger Fans 'Say It With Music'

By MARTIN FANS

Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, Aug. 14 (AP) — Music makers stormed Ebbets Field last night and music lovers held their ears.

The Dodgers called it "music depreciation night". Some of the cultured called it blasphemy.

Twenty-five hundred fans got in free to the Dodgers-Boston Braves baseball game for ringing a musical instrument.

They deafened the 25,000 paying customers with the wildest tooting and hammering ever to rend the peace of Flatbush.

Evan Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri joined in the discord, puffing on a harmonica from a home-plate box seat.

Musical instruments of every variety showed up. There were drums and trombones galore, glockenspiels and mandolins, bugles, zithers and a washboard.

The "musicians" played individually, in trios, in quartets and in full-size bands, like the 50-piece marching band from the Ramsey, N.J., high school.

There were 2,500-piece ensemble was labeled the "augmented Dodger sym-phony."

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Milkman

When your newly friends confecture you are going to a lecture, all the neighborhood with rumor has been rife. They have heard that you are headed for the bridge game you have been playing with the partner you must play with in your wife.

At a mixed bridge party, someone writes me, south opened with a bid of four diamonds and west doubled. When north passed, east came forth, with a bid of four hearts when holding this hand:

♠ Q 8 2
♥ J 7 5 4 X
♣ 8 6 4 3

South promptly doubled and what they did to that four hearts bid was something awful. This carried east off on one of those lectures so dear to the heart of every misguided jabberbrap.

After learning about the ancestors on his side of the family, the rules were read from memory. And so, naturally, was misplaced. Only half truths were quoted and misquoted.

Among other things, west was told that a double forced partner to bid. Furthermore, a double that forced partner to bid promised protection in case partner had a weak hand.

That east misunderstood the rule was not so bad. What made it bad was that the argument did not stop with this hand. It was carried long into the night after they got home without being settled.

The correct rule is: If partner has not yet bid, a double of a suit bid is not meant to be doubled. It is not meant to be three in a suit. If the bid is four or more the double is for penalty.

Where east was mistaken is in not considering the size of the doubled suit. If it is not even a bid of three or less the double would have been for takeout, asking partner to bid.

Thus, the west double of four diamonds was to tell partner the opponents could be defeated at their bid. If west partner to leave it alone, east should have passed. Or passed out.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 14 (AP) Howard Philbrick, who ordinarily does not spot a movie trend a mile away, got caught with his cynics down the week.

Philbrick is the chief contract casting the outfit which supplies extra players for Hollywood studios. He can tell what kinds of pictures are being made by scanning the order lists for extra talents.

"But I got caught out on a limb," admitted Philbrick. "I guess I should have seen the trend to musicals a month ago. But it sneaked up on me and I found we were too low on dancers.

"And so I did something that was a complete reversal of our usual policy. For years, we have done everything we can to discourage people from seeking to enter extra work. But this time I issued publicity that we needed young dancers. I'm beginning to regret it now, because we have been flooded with applicants.

"Actually, we don't need too many dancers, except when there is a musical cycle such as we're in now. But the kind of dancers we need are rather specialized. They have to be that rare combination—girls who are good looking and shapely, plus better than average dancers."

Upcoming Outlook

Aside from beautiful talented dancers, the employment outlook for extras is not promising, Philbrick indicated. At one time Central casting had as many as 30,000 persons on its rolls. Now the list numbers 2,500. It would seem that those who are left could expect steady work, but it doesn't work out that way.

"Ten years ago, we averaged from 1,000 to 1,200 extra jobs a day," Philbrick said. "Today the average is 400."

Some extras can earn as much as $4,000 a year. These are mostly dress extras, the gorgeous dames and elegant males who decorate night club scenes, etc.

But others earn as little as $300 annually. The average is about $1,400.

Set Playoffs For T.V. League

Frankford—A meeting of the Trent Valley Soft Ball League executive was held at the R. C. A. [illegible]on in Trenton this week with four teams, Trenton, Belleville, R. C. A. F. and Frankford represented.

President Bill Barrett officially announced the withdrawal of Stirling from the league.

The big question of the evening arose when it was revealed that had all unplayed Campbellford games played or defaulted were deleted from the records was allowed to stand.

With Stirling out of the playoffs a new playoff draw was proposed. It was decided that the standard procedures of 1st and 3rd, 2nd and 4th teams would participate. The first round is to be the best of three, the second best of five, with the team finishing higher in the standing to get the odd home game, if necessary.

The ice-breaking game was scheduled for Trenton and the R. C. A. F. at the air station on Monday night, to decide second place in the league standing. Playoffs are scheduled to begin Wednesday night, barring a tie game between Trenton and the Air Force, or other unforseen circumstances.

Karl Austin of Wooler was appointed to look into arrangements for a league banquet to climax the season.

Final League Standing

Wooler	12	4 .750
R. C. A. F.	11	5 .687
Trenton	11	5 .687

Blood-Thinning Drug Helps Heart Patients

New York, Aug. 13—(AP)—Pills that dissolve in your mouth may be a new way of fighting blood clots in heart patients, or saving frostbitten soldiers from amputations.

The new pills contain heparin, a blood-thinning drug. Heretofore, heparin has been given only by injection to heart patients, to dissolve potentially fatal clots in blood vessels.

In frostbite, a major winter hazard of soldiers in Korea, tiny blood vessels in toes or fingers may become clogged, and the tissue dies, necessitating amputations. Heparin thins the blood to prevent clogging, but soldiers usually can't get it until they reach a hospital. Someday they may be able to carry the pills for emergency use.

The first human experiments with the pill form of heparin was described in the proceedings of the Society of Experimental Biology and Medicine by Drs. Joseph Litwins, Jefferson J. Vorzimer, Leon N. Sussman and A. David Bless, and a chemist, Norman Applezweig, of Beth Israel Hospital here.

Only a small amount of heparin tablets have been produced for experimental studies.

Rome, Aug. 14 (AP)—Earthquakes again shook central and southern Italy last night and sent inhabitants of the Port City of Ancona scurrying in panic from their homes.

Fearful inhabitants rushed for open, public squares. There were no reports of injuries or damage.

Quakes were also reported from Florence, Modena and Leghorn at about the same time but no damage was reported.

Supply Officer Joins Red Party, Is Suspended

Bath, England, Aug. 14 (Reuters)—A senior British Admiralty Armament supply officer, Malcolm M. McGrath, who joined the communist party last month, said today he has been suspended from duty.

McGrath added that he is awaiting re-posting to "an innocuous position".

"I joined the communist party feeling that this was the only party with any constructive policy for peace and found that my work in the Admiralty, supplying arms for use against Chinese and Koreans was incompatible with my views," he stated.

McGrath said the suspension came after he volunteered to his superiors the fact that he had become a communist.

"I wanted to obviate suspicion that there are communists in defence positions concealing their views so as to assist with subversive activities," he told a reporter.

British government policy is to remove communists and others regarded as poor security risks from key civil-service posts.

McGrath said he served four years with the British army in the Far East "and I have an intense admiration for the Chinese, whose recent campaign to rid their country of Chiang Kai-Shek has my approval."

Three Russians 10 East Germans Are Captured

Bad, Aug. 14—(AP) — Three Russians and 10 east Germans who crossed the zonal border into west Germany searching for uranium deposits were captured yesterday by west German police.

Three others escaped and fled back across the border.

The captives told the police they had crossed the poorly-marked border by mistake while seeking uranium ore on the Russian zone side. Uranium, the basic constituent of atom bombs, is reported to be mined in east Germany and shipped to Russia.

Two of those captured were identified by police as Russian soldiers in uniform. One was said to be a Russian civilian and the others east German technicians. Two of the three who escaped also were Russian soldiers, the police said.

THIS MR. ICARUS

By Harry Meldrum Moore

CHAPTER VII

John [illegible] was all smiles when Lance Bradley limped into his office that afternoon.

"Bring up a chair, Mr. Bradley," he said, "and make yourself at home."

Then the lawyer picked up a letter and explained:

"This letter is from the bank at The Bay, Mr. Bradley. According to what they say there are 20,225 shares of Lucky Streak in your safety deposit box, made up as follows: 19,325 shares deposited there by one Harry Mooney, 10,000 shares bearing no name of the depositor, but there is a slip attached with the words 'for services rendered,' an old Lunenburgers mark, stick together'. Does that later deposit and the message it bears, mean anything to you, Mr. Bradley?"

"Yeah, it does," Lance said, "only Boss McKay would do a thing like that."

"A fine boss to have!"

"Yeah, guinea gold. But is that the same Lucky Streak stock that is now on the market?"

"None other, Mr. Bradley," the lawyer said, "besides there are in the bank thirty-five quarterly dividend cheques waiting for your signature. Again the lawyer stopped. "Are you aware, Mr. Bradley, that you are now a wealthy man? With your stock selling at twenty dollars a share on the market, plus your dividends, on paper you are worth close to half a million dollars."

"On paper? You mean I don't have that much money?"

"You have it, of course you have it, but only in stock, and in dividend cheques. If you were to sell your stock, cash your dividends, and put the proceeds in the bank you would have every cent to use as you see fit. But, of course, when you sell your stock, you won't be paid any more dividends."

Lance Bradley took the news that he was a wealthy man with remarkable aplomb. Apparently at least. But inwardly, the fact that he was so rich, frightened and confused him. There had been a day when the very thought of attaining great wealth had thrilled him, but that day was gone. He had come through war, he was an ex-soldier who had been in many tight spots, yet never let anything get him down. And the thought of getting rich so unexpectedly wasn't going to get him down either. If he was rich, he was rich, and all that it meant to him at the moment was that he had plenty of money to go where he pleased and do what he pleased.

"For one who had attained such great wealth, you appear to be mighty cool about it," Johnston Parker was saying. "You act as though you had rubbed shoulders with half a million dollars before."

"Mr. Parker," Lance Bradley said humbly, "Up to now I never had a half of a half of a million cents all at one time in my life. And if you were me, Mr. Parker, what would you do? For instance, would you turn that stock into cash?"

"Yes, Mr. Bradley," the lawyer said, "I would, and I wouldn't lose any time about doing it, either. The war is over, and there never was a war that was not followed by a period of hard times, a depression. This war must be paid for, there will be a tax, an income tax. To tell the truth there will be many taxes, unheard-of taxes before this country is back on its feet again. Your stock is worth $20 on the market today, tomorrow it may be worth more, worth less. And, of course, the lower it falls, the less will be your estate. I certainly would sell it right away, Mr. Bradley. By the way, you're quite a young man—"

"Twenty-seven, sir."

"You seem to have packed a lot of life in those twenty-seven years of yours," the lawyer observed. "My friend, Dad Roberts, tells me you spent four years at sea, two years at the mines, five years in the worst war in modern history. He tells me you were a sergeant and that you won the D.C.M."

"Yeah, I was an n.c.o., and I did get a medal, but that's nothing, lots of men got medals—" And then, "Mr. Parker, I want you to get that stock from the bank at The Bay and turn it into cash. I always had a yen to have money some day, but never so much money, and I'm looking to you to help me out, to help me look after it. I'm going to need your advice, and I'm willing to pay you well for it—"

"I know you will, Mr. Bradley," Johnston Parker agreed, "and from now on, I'm at your service. I'll ease your burden—help to take some of the load off your shoulders. If you will, drop in, in the morning. I'll have some papers for you to sign asking the bank to send those stock certificates to me. Then I will take the necessary steps to convert them into cash to be deposited in an Emerton bank, have you any choice?—the Capitol is where I do my business—"

"Then The Capitol it is, Mr. Parker," Lance said.

"I'll have the bank forward your dividend cheques to me, also. You can endorse them any time. Meanwhile keep in close touch with me, I'll keep my eyes open for places where your money may be invested with the least possible risk. I take it you mean to make Emerton your home in future?"

"Yes, Mr. Parker—with the Roberts's—that is until they throw me out."

Lawyer laughed. "Dad Roberts and his good wife Mary like to think of you as a long lost son who has come back to them just at a time in life when they need him most."

"The Roberts's are most kind to think of me in that way, Mr. Parker," Lance said, "it is obvious that I must never disappoint them."

"It is obvious you won't," the lawyer said confidently, "I'll bank on that."

"I think that it is better for all concerned that you do not tell them of my good fortune at this time, Mr. Parker," Lance said.

"I'll leave that for you to do, Mr. Bradley," Parker said, "After all, what passes between us is strictly confidential."

With a comforting sense of complete security in the knowledge that he could have anything that money could buy, Lance Bradley arose to leave. By either word or action that he was a man of considerable wealth. He dressed plainly, conservatively. He spent his money carefully, yet he wasn't skimping on anything. In England he had been advised to take daily walks to strengthen weakened leg muscles. He continued those walks there in Emerton. And pretty soon he came to know his town from one end to the other. No one who passed the time of day with him ever guessed that this war veteran was any different to other war veterans who were receiving monthly cheques or seventy-five dollars for six months to go towards their rehabilitation.

So while his money piled up in the Capitol Bank, and his bank book was in the hands of Johnston Parker, and there were no papers in his pockets that could possibly give him away, Lance Bradley nursed his secret. But a bit of philosophy he had read somewhere, came to mind. Editor Elbert Hubbard, who had lost his life in the sinking of the Lusitania in the recent war, had summed up his belief in the proper spending of money in these words: "By doing good with his money, a man stamps it with his own image and it passes on earth as the riches of heaven." He couldn't say that those were the exact words, but the way he was beginning to feel about it, they would suffice.

"By doing good with his money." Yes, that was it. And why not? Why have it and not spend it, and why spend it unless it was to help some one? Emerton must have its share of individuals who, through no fault of their own deserved some financial assistance. In this town of six thousand people there must be scores of poor children who required medical attention, hospitalization, and there was no money in sight to have this done for them. As far as he could see, the Salvation Army was the sole social organization in the town and its work was restricted because of a lack of the necessary funds.

Truth to tell, Lance Bradley was a deeply religious man without being aware that he was. But that can be said of most men who stand shoulder to shoulder with death on the high seas, in the field of battle. Except for the few occasions when as a boy he had attended Sunday School, he had never been in a church. He was not attached to any religious body or group, could not tell one church from another, yet believed there was a place for all of them. He had witnessed the efficacy of the captain's prayers when his ship danced with death on the storm-tossed Atlantic. There had been occasions during the war when he had humbly asked The Supreme Being to see him through. But of all church bodies, his preference was for the Salvation Army—the "Salty Arms" as the boys lovingly called them as they met the troops after a too-long stretch in the muddy trenches, with steaming coffee and something to eat. And all for free.

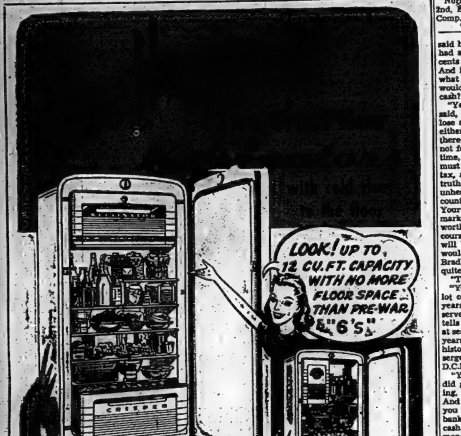
Many Changes In Staff Personel Of Local Schools

Bancroft — Many changes in teaching and administrative staffs of the local schools have taken place since the end of June, bringing to town eight people who will replace personnel, who have transferred to other centres.



A. W. Smith of Ottawa, a recently appointed public school inspector, will replace Donald W. Simpson, who has been assigned to the newly-formed inspectorate of South Carleton and portions of northern Dundas and Stormont with headquarters in Ottawa. Mr. Simpson replaced Hugh Loucks as inspector for North Hastings and the adjoining township of Renfrew and Nipissing in 1948. During the past year Mr. Smith has been a member of the Ottawa Public Schools staff.

Bancroft Public School has one new appointee, Miss Glenna Rose, cook, a graduate of this year's class at Peterborough Normal School. In the Bancroft-Faraday school area Robert W. Watson becomes principal of the new 3-room school that should be opened in Pandash at the first of September. The assistants at this school will be Miss Lois Fraser and Mr. Morton Gardiner.

The following six new members will be coming to the staff of North Hastings High School: Catharine Gillespie of Hamilton, home economics; Louise Bonson of Kitchener, girls' P. T. and English; Jack Stuckley of Grand Valley, boys' P. T., guidance and mathematics; Robert Colhoun of Willowdale, Latin, French and art; George McKelvey of Toronto, commercial; Ernest Dixon of Kenmore, mathematics and social studies.

THIRD AND FINAL DRAFT OF TREATY MADE PUBLIC

40 of 50 Countries Will Sign in Sept.

Washington, Aug. 15—(AP) — The United States and Britain make public today a third and final draft of a proposed "peace of reconciliation" with Japan which Russia has denounced.

Despite continuing Soviet objections, both governments anticipate at least 40 or 50 countries will sign it at a conference in San Francisco next month.

Once the treaty is ratified by a majority of the signers, it will formally end the war declared against the Japanese empire nearly 10 years ago.

Western powers hope this will restore Japan to the ranks of major powers banded together to resist communism or expansion throughout the world.

Informed officials said the latest draft differs only slightly from a version circulated a month ago by Britain and the U.S. as cosponsors.

The only important change, they said, deals with Japan's obligation to pay reparations to countries it devastated during the war.

This theme was reflected in deference to the Philippines, which had threatened to boycott the San Francisco meeting over demands for war damages.

As amended, the treaty notes Japan's obligation to pay such claims. But, instead of apparently ruling that Japan, because of its poverty, it leaves the way open for future reparations in the event the Japanese make a financial comeback.

The San Francisco conference, its opening date, it has been called to sign the draft as it now stands.

Britain and Russia, led by Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, are expected to wage an all-out propaganda battle at San Francisco against the treaty.

The Soviet Union disclosed Sunday it would attend the meeting, after first hinting it would ignore the entire show on grounds the treaty is illegal.

As now written, the pact brings Japan of all its pre-war overseas possessions except Okinawa, the Rykyus, the Bonins, the Uriles Islands and the Kuriles.

No bars are placed, however, on Japan's ability to rearm.

The treaty also affirms the "inherent right" of self-defence and does not abridge this in any way.

The U.S. and Japan note the treaty is signed, plan a two-way security treaty which will give the U.S. American forces and permit American troops to be stationed in and around Japan.

Britain, one of the diplomats believe it impossible the Russians will try to wedge Communist China into the conference through some parliamentary device. As it is, Communist Chinese and nationalist China is to be represented.

Millions Will Be Spent To Open up Large Iron Ore Mine Near Marmora

Toronto, Aug. 15—(CP)—A big iron ore deposit whose existence was known to pioneer settlers is soon to be developed in eastern Ontario.

Marmoron Company has started preliminary work of clearing timber and brush in preparation for mining ore at Marmoray 35 miles north of Belleville and 100 miles east of Toronto.

Premier Frost said yesterday that the iron mining operation is expected to employ about 225 men and involve expenditures "running into the millions."

The Marmoron Company is a subsidiary of Bethlehem Steel, major United States company.

Iron was mined in the Marmora district as early as 1850 but, after the discovery of the rich Mesabi ranges in Minnesota, the Marmora deposits were passed over. Interest in them revived recently when steel-makers became aware of a growing North American ore shortage.

Other Ontario ore deposits are in the north, the Steep Rock mines at Atikokan and the Helen Mine in the Michipicoten district.

Up to now, there has been no purchasing iron mine close to the southern Ontario industrial area. Thirty Holes Drilled Surveys of the Marmora ore were a federal-provincial project, with the federal government supplying plans and the province the technicians. Bethlehem Steel became interested in the findings of the 1948 survey and started diamond drilling in 1950. Thirty holes were put down.

Plan taking shape for developing the deposits call for an open-pit operation. The 150-foot capping of limestone must be removed to expose the ore, a two-year job. Then the ore, expected to average about 40 per cent iron, will be hoisted from the pit on an incline, crushed and ground, then treated by magnetic concentration. It is hoped the mine will produce 400,000 tons of concentrate a year.

Said Premier Frost:

"The presently indicated ore reserves are such that this operation can be carried on for 25 to 30 years and no doubt, as the development work goes on more will be discovered."

It will be necessary to build new docks at Lake Ontario. Their location has still to be decided.

U.N. Suggest Sub-Committee Be Appointed to Speed Talks

Munsan, Korea, Aug. 15 (AP) —United Nations delegates suggested today that a subcommittee be set up to break through the formality of Korean-truce negotiations and attempt to settle the buffer zone deadlock.

Red delegates showed interest, U.N. spokesmen said.

Simultaneously, U.N. command headquarters in Tokyo announced that the allies, if necessary, will continue "destroying or driving out of Korea" the red Chinese and North Korean armies.

At Kaesong the chief U.N. delegate, Vice-Admiral Turner Joy, proposed a two-man committee—one from each side — to meet and try to break the deadlock in an air of informality.

He proposed the sub-committee "meet around rather than across the table." They would thus escape "the formality of utterances" which he said contributed to the three-week dispute over where to place a military dividing line across Korea that would separate Communist and U.N. forces during an armistice.

He asked the communist to reply Thursday. The negotiators meet next at 1 p.m. (11 p.m. EDT Wednesday).

Both delegations appeared more cheerful than usual when they left the meeting place, a pool dispatch from Kaesong said. A U.S. communist correspondent on the scene hinted the reds might be willing to discuss a cease-fire line based on the present battle front, as the allies demand.

SLAYER AWAITING DEATH KILLS GUARD, ESCAPES

Police Believe Man Will Not be Taken Alive

Chicago, Aug. 15 (AP) — A rapist and slayer awaiting electrocution beat a guard to death and escaped over the wall of the Cook County jail last night.

Police, ordered to "shoot to kill," combed the city today for the fugitive, Harry Williams, 30-year-old Negro sentenced to die Sept. 14 for murder. He is armed with the riot gun of the guard he killed.

Warden Philip Scanlan and Sheriff John E. Babb issued the "shoot to kill" order. Babb personally offered a $1,000 reward for Williams' capture—dead or alive.

A short time after he escaped, Williams attempted to hold up a motorist about a mile from the jail. A policeman opened fire and Williams fled.

Later scores of police surrounded a rooming house on the south side when it was discovered Williams had been there at the home of Mrs. Willie Mae Hawkins, in search of a pair of shoes. It was not known why he wanted shoes.

Hawkins said Williams couldn't find any shoes to fit him, Just then the guard arrived and Williams fled.

Man is Desperate

"This man is desperate he never will be taken alive," Scanlan said.

The warden said Raymond Jenko, 20, a youth who also was sentenced to die for murder, was seized in Williams cell in the death row, after other guards and Jenko were together in the escape. Police said Jenko remained in the cell.

The jail break here was one of two prison disturbances in the United States yesterday.

At Point-of-the-Mountain, Utah, the first break in 20 prison months in Utah's new multi-million dollar prison was put down without bloodshed.

Two prison officials who had been held as hostages under threat of death most of the day were released. All inmates were reported back in their cells.

Investigate Grievances

The Utah uprising ended when Joseph W. Dudler, state commissioner of public safety, conferred with the rioters. He said an investigation would be made of their grievances.

Officials said 22 men were in the cell block which the prisoners took over during the riot.

At Chicago, Jenko told police Williams had asked permission to leave his cell to go to the washroom and on his return jammed the lock of his cell door in an attempt. He also was identified in 10 rapes and two robberies.

Jenko was convicted of stabbing 18 - year - old Patricia Schwartz to death in an unusual pet purse snatching in May, 1950. He originally had been sentenced to die Aug. 3 but his execution was postponed.

THREE CASES REPORTED

Milton, Aug. 15 — (CP)—Three cases of polio have been reported in Halton county within the last two weeks, Dr. A. Mills, Mather, medical officer of health, said last night that Immunization at child health centres would be suspended until it is determined whether further cases will develop.

Iran Turns Down Compromise Offer To Settle Dispute

Britain Refuses to Take 'No' For Answer, Talks Continue

Tehran, Aug. 15 (AP)—Iran today rejected the latest British compromise offer to settle the oil dispute. But Britain refused to take "no" for an answer and the talks were continuing.

Deputy Premier Hossein Fatemi told reporters the British offer does not conform with Iran's drastic nationalization law, under which Anglo-Iranian Oil Company properties were taken over.

The chief British negotiator, Richard Stokes, told a press conference he hoped an agreement might yet be reached.

Asked if he thought the 10-day-old talks would continue Stokes replied: "Oh yes, I think I can convince them our offer is the best they can get from anybody."

But the Iranian government statement issued by Fatemi showed clearly that Premier Mohammed Mossadegh and his cabinet are not budging from their nationalization plans to take over the properties of the British-controlled A.I.O.C.

Insist on Own Terms

The Iranians still insist on two laws which strip A.I.O.C. of all profits from Iranian oil—75 per cent going directly to the Iranian government and 25 per cent unfounded against possible compensation claims.

Stokes explained that under the British proposal, Britain would recognize nationalization and the authority of the National Iranian Oil Company by dropping over A.I.O.C.'s assets in Iran subject to compensation arrangements.

A.I.O.C. would then set up a separate purchasing organization to buy Iranian oil and refinery products under a 25-year contract. This organization would distribute and sell Iranian oil throughout the world.

Under the plan, the sale organization would form a management organization that would work under instructions of N.I.O.C. to oversee extraction, production, transportation, refining and loading of oil.

Minimum Prices For Fall Rye, Wheat Suggested

Toronto, Aug. 15. (CP)—Suggested minimum prices for fall rye and fall wheat for seed have been decided on by the grain marketing publicity committee of the Ontario Crop Improvement Association.

The committee decided on a price of $2.25 a bushel, plus 25 cents each for bags, for commercial No. 1 grade of Dawson's golden Saskatoon and Crossbred 185 wheat. For register No. 1 the price will be $2.75 a bushel, including bags. Suggested prices for lower grades was 10 to 15 cents a bushel higher than commercial No. 1.

For fall rye, a price of $2 a bushel, bags extra, was decided upon for commercial No. 1 grade of varieties other than Horton. For Horton variety the price would be $2.50 a bushel, bags extra. All prices were established on the basis of sale at farm or local shipping point.

Bookies Taken For Good Ride On 'Fixed' Races

Toronto, Aug. 15. (CP)—Premier Frost Tuesday promised "relentless pursuit" of gamblers and jockeys involved in "fixed" races in Ontario tracks.

He said ile had personally issued instructions to every agency of the government to support the Ontario Racing Commission "to unearth the root, trunk and branches of the vicious gambling rings which have been operating on Ontario tracks".

Appas Tappas, Globe and Mail racing writer, said in a news story written for Wednesday's paper that Toronto bookmakers were taken for $250,000 on fixed races run on various Ontario racetracks this year. He said the figure did not include money bet in the mutuels on the track or the money the fixes cost Buffalo and Montreal bookies.

The commission, meanwhile, announced its investigation into Canada's most world-race track scandal in modern times. It will be held Tuesday and chairman S. Tupper Bigelow said it was not certain whether it would hold a session today.

Fear Foul Play In Disappearance Of Manager

Windsor, Ont., Aug. 15 (CP) —Search for a London theatre manager who disappeared on the same time as $2,000 in company funds was reported missing here in Windsor today when the missing man's car was found on the city streets.

Kenneth Johnson, 40, manager of the Odeon theatre in London, left his missing car in his wife's home early morning, apparently on his way to the theatre.

Employees who became alarmed at Johnson's failure to show up at work found the theatre safe open and the entire weekend receipts, about $3,000, missing.

Police believe Johnson, an employee of the theatre chain for 10 years, may have met with foul play when he entered the Windsor area Monday.

"His body may be anywhere from Detroit between here and Windsor," said Constable L. J. Kelly of the London township police, a long-time friend of the Johnsons.

Child Killed And Four Others Severely Injured

Brockville, Aug. 15. (CP)— Six-year-old Gary Lee Denny was killed Tuesday night when an automobile careened in and out of a ditch and crashed into a tree on the Lansdowne road. Four adults in the car were severely injured.

They were Mrs. Charlotte Louise Narsisne, 37, driver of the car; and Frank De Lair, both of Alexandria Bay, N.Y.; Sylvain Fortin, 26, and Andrew Rheume, 19, both of Ottawa.

Anglo-Russian Trade Pact Hinges on Deal on Rubber, May Irk US Says Shawcross

Truro, Cornwall, England, Aug. 15. (AP)—Russia has reserved the right to tear up a new timber contract with Britain unless the U.S.S.R. can use the proceeds to buy British goods, Conservatives Eastern Europe is "the only available source of supply" for many of Britain's vital imports.

He conceded, in a speech prepared for a luncheon here, that the deal might lead to misunderstanding in the United States. But, Conservatives said:

"America has not and does not need to have any significant trade with the Soviet. It means little or nothing to her to discontinue the import of furs, caviar and crab.

"With us things are quite different. We obtain from the Soviet bloc essential foods and raw materials—and we believe that in these trade exchanges we get as good as we give, economically and strategically."

Under United States pressure, Britain cut off rubber purchases from her colonies to communist China in April because rubber is an important war material.

Exports to Russia have continued, although Britain says it retains the right to limit the amount considered normal for civilian use.

Under the wood contract recently signed, the U.S.S.R. agrees to deliver $20,000,000 worth of timber to Britain, with the option of supplying another $14,000,000 worth. The period covered by the contract has not been disclosed.

The two countries have started talks on the purchase by Britain of nearly 1,000,000 tons of Soviet coarse grains.

Chinese Crew Seizes Control Of Freighter

Hong Kong, Aug. 15 (Reuters)—The Chinese crew of the 1,507-ton Panamanian freighter Capella seized control of the ship six hours out of Hong Kong Sunday and handed her over to a Chinese Nationalist warship, a dispatch from Formosa said today.

The dispatch, from the China Nationalist news agency, did not say what happened to the Capella's master, Capt. J. M. Hood, of Nelson, New Zealand, believed the only non-Chinese aboard.

The agency said the Capella was bound for Haikiang, on the Chinese communist mainland, though it "falsely" cleared Hong Kong as bound for Kobe, Japan.

Headhunter Tribe On Warpath Again

Gauhati, India, Aug. 15 (Reuters)—The Naga headhunters who roam the wild frontier country between India and Burma have bagged more than 700 human heads in the last year.

And on the warpath again. Government troops are combing the jungles for them following a raid on a farming village last week which netted 90 heads, N. K. Rustomji, adviser of the Assam State Government, said today.

The Nagas are wild tribesmen answering only their own savage laws in the unadministered badlands.

Head collecting is their social yardstick. A bachelor's eligibility depends on how many heads he bags and how many skulls of his hut.

They do not shrink the heads as some Borneo tribes do.

The Nagas number about 500,000. They last went on the warpath in 1947, when one raid netted 300 heads.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Aug. 15 (CP)—Synopsis—Clouds moved into Southern Ontario Tuesday night and brought rain to southwestern regions and a thunderstorm to Windsor. Although cloud and occasional rain will linger in southeastern regions on Thursday, clearing is promised in the southwest on Thursday morning.

Ernie, Musical Race Horse, Stages Strike When Boss Gets Laryngitis

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 15 (AP)— There is a touch of sadness today around the barns at Playfair race track where Ernie is still living. He, the horse that loves a song.

He is pining for the beautiful blonde who sang to him and went away.

Ernie H is owned by Roy (Bing) Bennett and Clarence Wynia. It was Bennett who discovered the animal could be charmed by a tune. The horse has reached the respectable age of five without winning a race and he may have turned to chorus for consolation.

At any rate, Bennett sang each morning as he worked around the barns and soon discovered that Ernie H moped if he failed to croon. On the day that Bennett showed up with laryngitis the horse refused to budge from the stall for his regular morning workout.

Into this impasse galloped Jack Fyle, the track publicity man. Fyle couldn't sing to Ernie H, but he knew somebody who could.

Fyle called Ernie H's owner who is doing a turn at a Spokane club, and after she had practiced a song to croon down and sing to the horse," reports Fyle.

That she did. And Ernie H pointed his ears forward, trotted happily into his stall and settled down to chew out. I would like to say he went out there and burned up the track, but he's really not that much horse. Let's say he galloped gaily."

Next day Bennett had his voice again and all should have been back to normal in the Playfair barns. It is not nearly so. Ernie H takes his morning workouts without protest, but when Bennett sings he stamps his feet and shakes his head and snorts.

Allied Ground Troops Probe Into Red Strength

U.S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Aug. 15 (AP)—Allied ground troops probed into red strength in sectors of the Korean front yesterday while warmships opened up their guns less than 100 miles from Siberia, United Nations commands reported today.

The air force, in clearing weather, mounted 925 sorties, including a heavy combined jet and bomber strike at Pyongyang, red capital. Two fighters were lost.

United Nations infantrymen extended small gains in a three day fight near the east coast for commanding hills overlooking Kansong. Tuesday night they were still trying to blast dug-in reds off two hills.

In the west U.N. patrols fought five hours against red resistance south of the Kaesong neutral zone. The skirmish ended when the allies withdrew.

Carrier planes joined landbased aircraft in hammering fit highways and rail lines.

The U.S. cruiser Toledo and U.S. destroyer Van Galen steamed up the east coast and worked over targets at Chongjin, less than 100 miles south of Russian territory.

Palace Approves Press Release on Marriage Rumors

New York, Aug. 15 (CP)—The British Information Services, in a press release issued yesterday, refers to the "constant speculation" about whom Princess Margaret will marry.

The 1,000-word release, issued to American newspapers by the British government agency, is in connection with the Princess' 21st birthday Aug. 21 and 4th Canadian visit.

The last paragraph of the release says:

"Whom she will marry is in constant speculation; her appearance here is a new crop of rumors. But her father's subjects are certain of one thing: that the man she marries will be measured against the qualities of her brother-in-law, the Duke of Edinburgh. For Princess Margaret looks admiringly on the happiness of Princess Elizabeth's married life."

(The Daily Mirror said in London today that "such officially approved speculation about Royalty is unprecedented." The Mirror said it was learned the release was approved by Buckingham Palace.)

Says Stocky Men More Inclined To Drink Than Lean Ones

Edinburgh, Aug. 15 — (AP) — Stocky men smoke more than lean men and fat men are more often fond of strong drink.

These theories were advanced today by Dr. R. W. Parnell of the Department of Social Medicine at Oxford University.

He added, however, physique plays a large part," he told the British Association for the advancement of science.

Dr. Parnell reported on his research into the relationship between physique and work, play habits, illness and lawbreaking.

Dr. Parnell said total abstainers from alcohol are most often found among those of a light build.

"Indigestion is commonest in men dominantly muscular in build," he said. "It is commonest in the lean and muscular and less common in the fat and muscular. Very lean men rarely have any indigestion much less often," he reported.

Dr. Parnell's research into the connection between physique and lawbreaking is controversial. He contrasted the build of women university students with young women in a corrective institution.

He reported there is a tendency for young women delinquents to be stocky, but not necessarily short.

SEA CADETS HELP AS TRAFFIC OFFICERS

Members of the "Quinte" Sea Cadet Corps are doubling as traffic officers during the first few days of the Belleville Exhibition, which got under way on Tuesday.

During Monday afternoon's school crowd the boys did yeoman service in keeping the parking lanes straight and in directing autos to parking spots. The same was true yesterday and they can attain being marked in an orderly manner allowing for ready exit of any of the vehicles.

Grounds Crowded With Fair Goers On Second Day

Another best-record crowd greeted the second day of the Belleville Agricultural Society's four-day fair at Exhibition Park, Tuesday night.

The heavy rainclouds did not deter the large crowd from viewing the several attractions, entertainment, displays, exhibits and midway, that characterize the 1951 fair as being one of the best ever offered.

The Thurman Harris Artists stage show production, rated the best entertainment of its kind to be offered at a Belleville Fair, attracted a capacity grandstand crowd at the evening performance.

Prior to the grandstand performance the Y.M.C.A. Boys' Choir, under the direction of Walter Best, offered several numbers. The choir was highly applauded at the conclusion of its performances. It was introduced by President Harry Rollins of the Fair Board.

Harness racing enthusiasts had an afternoon of thrills as fleet standard bred pacers and trotters vied for supremacy in the first of the various heats. The races were closely contested and the large grandstand thrilled to the performance.

Added to the grandstand attractions were the parades of various classes of horses especially the horse breed and the backways. The horses provided a superb equine picture as they proudly trotted before an admiring crowd.

The midway was again the mecca for thousands of adults and children with the rides and games of chance. Refreshment concessions and those offering novelty trinkets and games did big business.

The building exhibits were again well patronized as thousands were those of the livestock and other agricultural displays.

Tomato Canning Starts in District

Canning of tomatoes has commenced in the Bay of Quinte district, but, according to reports, will not commence operations for some days, according to the weekly crop report issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

One factory in Prince Edward county made a small run on tomatoes last weekend, however, general crops will be somewhat later than usual, it was stated.

Wheat is not yielding as well as was anticipated but oats yields are higher than average, according to a report from Peterborough county. Many fields of oats are going down with the rain, but it is estimated that over 80 per cent of the crop has been cut.

Second crop hay is a splendid crop. Corn is only fair to good. Sod is being plowed for wheat.

Hay Bay Church Will be Scene Of Pilgrimage

The first Methodist Church in Upper Canada, the old Hay Bay Church at Adolphustown will be the scene, Sunday, August 26th, of an annual pilgrimage and anniversary service.

The church, built in 1792, stands on the shore of Hay Bay on the site donated by Paul Huff.

As the Methodist congregation in the district grew, the church was gradually abandoned as a regular preaching appointment and the building deteriorated.

However, because of its historical interest, the building has been reclaimed with the preservation of much of the original structure. It is now maintained by the Methodist Church as a religious shrine to commemorate the birth of the pioneers in the Quinte district.

Another special service this year will be conducted by Reverend V. T. Mooney, B.A., D.D., treasurer of the United Church.

Display of Cars Well Worth Visiting at Fair

Situated directly behind the agricultural building and adjacent to the tent at the Belleville Fair is well worth a visit by fair-goers. Five local dealers have on display the latest in auto makes and styles, all of them sufficiently attractive to catch the eye of the would-be motorist.

J. B. Reid and Sons have seven vehicles on display, including a Cadillac, an Oldsmobile, three Chevrolets and a two Chevrolet trucks.

Situated in other parts of the auto tent is the display of Bateman Motors with Dodge and De-Soto cars; Bowerman Motors, Austin and Hudson cars; Belleville Motor Car Company with Studebaker, Mercury and Monarch cars, and West End Motors with Studebaker.

Trudeau Motors, handling Chrysler and Plymouth cars, also have a fine large display of these cars.

Another local dealer having a display of cars at the fair is Clarence Clapp and Son who has two Nash models on exhibition in the manufacturers' building.

PROTEST ACTION

Berlin, Aug. 15 (Reuters) — The United States today protested to Russian air safety representatives against a flight by several Soviet jet fighters over Tempelhof airport last night.

American air force officials said nine Soviet jets recently flew in formation across the west Berlin airport without previously notifying the airport's traffic control station. Three others crossed the field last night at a "very low altitude."

Stage Show 'Vanities of 51' Sparkles With Color, Music Comedy and Variety Acts

Musical comedy in miniature, revealed with a dash of top-flight vaudeville tossed in, is the colorful "Vanities of '51", elaborate stage attraction that is offered twice daily at the Belleville Fair.

Costumes of the thousands of sequins that go to make up the "Vanities" is by far the most entertaining stage production ever offered at the exhibition.

A Norman Harris artist production, the music is appealing and tuneful. Its melodies are from the internationally famous musical comedies of "Oklahoma," and "South Pacific." Its production is excellent. Its artists, from comedian Bob Kennedy, former leading man of Oklahoma and South Pacific, to the well-known musician-comedian Ernie Bruce are of the top-flight variety.

Its girls are a group of beautiful young girls to whom choreography is an art, not a routine of going through dance routines in a mechanical manner, but each girl in the "line and chorus" attractive in appearance but they display a rhythmic grace that is a beautiful asset to the show as a whole.

Celestial Scenes

Scenically speaking the show is a work of colorful art. The musical numbers are each backgrounded with dreamy palm-fringed scenes of tropical splendor with rising moon and blue water lapping on white sands. It changes quickly to a New York or to a peaceful rural scene with golden fields, barns, fenced rolling hills and trees.

The show is based on the famous Hollywood formula but is tuneful excerpts are pleasantly interlinked with comedy, a wonderful musical background, artistry of a New York television dancing team and the individual "specialties" of each of the principal comedienne and her company.

Not by any means least is the splendid symphonic band conducted by Barry Townley, curtain raiser at Toronto's Brown Derby.

Talented musicians, the eight members of the band contribute in no small measure to the success of the musical comedy numbers, while appropriate background music to other acts rounds out an outstanding orchestral performances.

Tuneful Excerpts

Kennedy, tall, blonde master-of-ceremonies has a fine stage personality with an excellent voice. His offerings of "Oklahoma" "On What a Beautiful Morning", "Surrey with the Fringe on Top" "People Will Say We're in Love" and the title song gives ex-patrons of this show a definite touch of nostalgia.

From "South Pacific" with the chorus apparelled in gorgeous Spanish shawls against a background with grass skirts, baskets of fruit against the exotic background, he brings "Some Enchanted Evening", "Bali Hi", "Wonderful Guy", "Nothing Like a Dame," and other well-known melodies.

Miss Zena Cheevers, well-known Toronto dancing soubrette, with the chorus is a langorous tropical dream summer. In her individual routines Miss Cheevers does a sparkling drum majorette number with taps and a Spanish dance. She received a fine ovation.

Ernie Bruce, well-known comedian-musician offers hilarious entertainment with his clever artistic dance numbers and other acts. Bruce has almost "human" James and Jardine, well-known dance team which appeared at the Toronto Hilton Bowl on his New York Television show, and who are still playing to capacity engagements, are likely to offer top flight singing and dancing entertainment. Their pair delighted the crowds with their graceful routines and splendid voices.

Nora Toomey, a clever artiste who "brought down the house" with her clever take on a swing. "Selected" from the audience by Kennedy she appeared in a fine artist in her own right, Miss Toomey goes through some exciting vocal routines in street dress and carrying a purse. Her limb-twisting efforts augmented by her fine voice to keep the house at half-staff is serial comedy of the first order.

As was said before, the "Vanities of '51," is easily the best stage attraction ever presented by the Belleville Agricultural Society. It plays again tonight, matinee afternoon and evening. It is a must for musical comedy and variety show lovers.

Development of Iron Mine At Marmora Will Create Much Extra Wealth in District

With the arrival of R. Olsson in early September to take up residence as general manager of Marmoro Iron Mine, a subsidiary of Steelmaker's Steel Company, the north Hastings iron industry is expected to establish Deurtah in the Marmora district after a 60-year shutdown.

Two weeks ago on a visit to the operating southern end of the village, general manager of the mining division of the company Paul B. Entrekin, announced that Mr. Olsson had been appointed assistant under supervision of Entrekin who is superintendent of the Cornwall iron mine and several other Steelmaker's properties.

Many months of diamond drilling and exploration work at the former Roger's property, have revealed that there is a body of iron ore sufficient to warrant the opening of a mine. In the early days iron was mined in quantity at two places west and south of the village. The ore then was shipped to Trenton and concentrated for U.S. mills.

It is understood that the company plans to mine the ore by the open pit method and an estimated 10,000,000 tons of rock will have to be moved before the actual ore can be readily taken out. It was announced officially today that 250 men will be engaged immediately, cutting timber, and clearing away the brush from the proposed pit-site. Diamond drilling has indicated that the overburden covering the orebody ranges from 60 to 70 feet in places. In the meantime full diamond drill crews continue to probe with heavy diamond drills to prove further reserves.

While general manager Entrekin was in Marmora he made no secret of the fact that the company hopes to commence operations at an early date, as soon as certain problems have been worked out. One problem he said is an agreement with railways as to freight rates to make the shipment of ore economically feasible to both parties.

It has been reported that the company intends erecting a concentrator here and shipping the concentrates to steel mills in the States. Company officials have looked over the old shipping docks at Weller's Bay but to date no shipment the port of Cobourg provides suitable facilities for movement to U.S. bulk ports.

Residents of the village and district have become excited over the latest developments as a full scale iron operation would mean the employment of a large number of men and general prosperity for the community as well as all of eastern Ontario stands to profit by the 2 highway outlets of Belleville and Trenton.

Already arrangements have been made in the village for the influx of new families and a number of new houses to handle the anticipated added population is common talk among the excited villagers.

WILL NOT GET DIP

Oshawa, Aug. 15 (CP) —Night shift workers from industrial plants aren't going to get their early morning dip in an outdoor pool here any more. Police have decided to stop them swimming in the pool—which they enter by climbing a wire fence from —because of the accident risk when the pool is closed.

Marketing Bd. Makes Record Cheese Purchase

Considerable discussion was provoked on the Belleville Cheese Exchange last evening when the Ontario Marketing Board made a board bid of 26 9/16 cents a pound for 2,778 boxes of cheese, after much talk the bid stood and the Marketing Board purchased a record purchase for the season as they also took 2,172 of 2,751 white cheese at 26 1/16, down ¼ from the preceding week. Production listed as specials totalled 4,950 boxes.

The Marketing Board's second board bid of the season set off another round of discussion on the rules and regulations governing board bids. It also provoked comments about the Marketing Board's contract to supply Great Britain with 20 million pounds of cheese.

"I don't see how it is possible for the Marketing Board to buy all these cheese at 26 9/16 per the factories 33 9/16 and net 30 cents at the seaboard," said Mr. Stan Joss of the Belleville Chedder Cheese Company.

The Marketing Board buying all these colored cheese for export: are we not bidding to hold them for sale on the domestic market?" enquired Mr. W. McCreary, "I understand that the Marketing Board wanted white cheese for export."

He was assured by Mr. Charles Hall of the Marketing Board that all the cheese purchased was being sent overseas. The reason for the purchase of colored cheese was that the Marketing Board has fallen behind on its shipments to Britain and is endeavoring to catch up.

In discussing the matter of a board bid, most buyers agreed that the Marketing Board should not be absolved from his bid if some other buyer wishes to raise the bid in order to make a selection. They all agreed that a board bid should not be made a selective bid but could not see why a board bid should be withdrawn if selections are made after but at a higher price.

This led to a general discussion of the methods of doing business and Mr. McCreary remarked that "the best procedure (the Marketing Board) would have been to requisition all the cheese. They should have had all the factories produce white cheese, and Canada stamp them to facilitate export until their contract with Great Britain had been filled and then they should have been withdrawn from the market and left it open to the domestic trade. As things stand now their method of doing business is an extreme embarrassment to the buyer, losing 9/16 of a cent a pound on all these cheese tonight."

A meeting of the directors of the Exchange was held following trading to discuss a possible change in the rules of the Exchange to cover the matter of board bids.

Belleville Theatre Guild Holds Picnic Meeting

The highlight of the very successful picnic meeting held by the Belleville Theatre Guild last Sunday was the presentation of a one-act comedy-skit dealing with the unsolicited mailing of an amusing and topical one-act play. Disguising very expertly the fact that they were receiving the said mailing Margaret Robbins, Gladys Simpson, Bert Simpson and Bill Hall demonstrated that dramatic talent is by no means lacking in this city, which has for so long been waiting for a central organization of this kind to encourage and exploit to the full the theatrical capabilities of its citizens.

Prior to the play reading, guild president Mrs. W. J. Doyle conducted a short business meeting in the course of which to date with the activities of the executive committee which had been selected at the first gathering of the guild last June. She reported that a selection of suitable play had been obtained on loan from the Public Library of the Ontario Department of Education, which had indicated that they were prepared to give all the help in its power to the young organization. It is hoped that Mrs. Mabel Hubbard of the Education department, will be able to speak at the first regular meeting of the guild in September.

Support Promised

The president and the secretary, Mrs. W. J. Jardine, recently met the Ontario Censorship Motion Commission, who also promised their support and suggested that a local representative might be appointed next year to a seat on the commission. After a motion had been passed altering the committee to look into the possibility of establishing a little stagecraft with speakers from the Department of Education, probably in the month of November, Mrs. Jardine, speaking in her capacity of program convener, outlined the programme of the various evening meetings a month between now and the New Year.

It was decided by the members that these two meetings should be held on the second and fourth Tuesdays in each month at a location to be announced later. Additionally, members decided that visitors would be most welcome to come to one meeting at any time prior to January, but on a second appearance the annual membership fee of $1 could become payable.

Members of playreading groups interested in the entertainment on the various one-act plays they had been considering with a view to the selection of three for the guild's first acting venture early in 1952, Mrs. Doyle reports it was clear that enough suitable material was available in the plays already read, and the final choice being left to a selection committee to be appointed at a later date.

Reading Appreciated

The play reading which followed was greatly appreciated by the audience, and at its conclusion suitable floral tributes were presented to the lady members of the cast. The more formal part of the meeting was then brought to a close by Mrs. Doyle who proposed a vote of thanks, firstly to the actors for all the time and effort they had put in, and secondly to Mr. and Mrs. Simpson for their kindness in throwing open their home and garden, which formed such a perfect setting for this event.

With the opening of picnic baskets on all sides, conversation became general, and it was agreed that the appearance of close to 50 enthusiastic members at an informal meeting of this kind augured extremely well for the future of the Belleville Theatre Guild.

ADVICE TO SMOKERS

Montreal, Aug. 15 — (CP)—E. O. Ellenwarr, 61, has this advice for all smokers today: never light a cigaret while standing on a manhole. Mr. Ellenwarr, 61, yesterday and was blown into the air like a cork, tearing eight bones to his right leg. The works department said there must have been a gas leak in the manhole.

CAMPBELLFORD

Constable Given Chance to Defend Self at Meeting

Campbellford — A great deal of discussion took place at the regular meeting of the Campbellford town council on Monday night regarding a recommendation brought in by the police committee, suggesting the action to be taken regarding a local police officer, who was recently charged with selling sweepstake tickets.

Chairman of the committee, F. M. Rutherford, said his committee had considered the question and presented a report to the council in which the committee thought the proper procedure would be to ask for the resignation of the officer. Most of the council members, however, thought that the selling of sweepstake tickets by a police officer, while it was a serious offence, did not in itself, warrant his dismissal if his character and his previous record were good. Mayor J. E. Ayrhart supported the theory that it is no more legal for sweepstake tickets to be purchased than it is to sell them, and spoke at some length on what he termed the "discriminatory law" regarding the sale of these tickets. He said he believed their sale should be legalized.

Claim Neglect of Duty

The police committee also stated that it is not on the grounds of the sweepstake tickets alone that the resignation of the police officer is asked for. They claimed there were numerous occasions where the officer neglected his duty. Mayor Ayrhart said so far there had been no substantiating evidence to show that the officer had been found negligent of his duty, and that the man in question should be brought before the council and given a chance to defend himself. It certainly wouldn't convict a man on gossip or hearsay", he said. Councillor Rutherford, chairman of the police committee said that there was no harmony between the two officers of the force, and that co-operation was poor. He had been in touch with the Attorney-General, and said the latter would be selling a prosecutor if they did not file the man. Councillor Ingalls said there were instances reported showing the man was not on duty when he should have been, but that he would not want to discharge him over selling sweepstake tickets. Councillor MacMillan said he believed the man should be brought before the council and given a chance to answer the accusations made against him, and made a motion to that effect. This carried and the officer will be asked to appear at the next regular meeting of the council on September 9th. Councillor Mayhew also claimed the man should be given a chance to defend himself, and that he should not be condemned until the gossip concerning him was proven before council.

Councillor Rutherford denied laying the charges concerning the sweepstake tickets against the officer.

Mayor Ayrhart's Vote Decided Issue in Council

Campbellford — Sweepstake tickets and a Brewer's Warehouse occupied a major portion of the regular meeting of the Campbellford town Council on Monday evening, with heated discussion on both.

A petition asking for a vote on the establishment of a warehouse in the town was presented to council by the town clerk, which after being checked was found to have an insufficient number of names for the 25 per cent required for a vote. The council may, however, cause a vote if it so desires, and if it believes the question to be in the best interest of the citizens of the town, and this came up for much discussion.

The last voter's list of the Town of Campbellford was compiled in 1946, and this was the list that was used in checking the names on the petition. The list contains 2220 names and 25 per cent of this would be 573. The petition contained 580 names but 115 were struck off because, while the majority of those persons would have a vote at the present time, they did not have a vote on the 1946 voters' list. This left the petition with only 475 names, which was 98 short of the required number. Mayor J. E. Ayrhart took the stand that even though the petition did not carry the required number of names, a by-law should be drawn up authorizing the vote due to the fact that he firmly believed the petition was a true indication of what the people wanted.

He was upheld in this matter by a number of councillors, and some also disagreed with him. Reeve Locke said that whoever took up the petition should have seen to it that the required number of names were on it, so that the matter would not have to be dealt by council. Councillor Rutherford said that in view of the fact this was a democratic country and upheld free enterprise, he did not think council had any right to deny the people of the town a vote on the question, even though the petition was lacking in names. There was much discussion on the subject, and a polled vote was taken to decide whether or not a by-law should be drawn up authorizing the plebiscite. Thevote resulted in a tie, and Mayor J. E. Ayrhart was called on to cast the decided vote. His "yea" gave a five to four majority and the motion was carried.

The result of the polled vote was as follows: For—Councillors Mayhew, Ingalls, Higgins, Campbell, Rutherford, Agnew—Reeve Ralph J. Locke, Deputy Reeve Oscar Hall and councillors Nicholas and Free. The town solicitor will now be instructed to prepare the by-law necessary for the citizens of the town to vote on whether they want or do not want a Brewer's warehouse or a liquor store, or both.

Two Arrested On Theft Charges

Campbellford, Aug. 15—(CP)—Charles Bergen and Eugene Lavois, both of Toronto, were arrested Tuesday on charges of breaking and entering and theft after they were captured by police at a roadblock 13 miles southwest of here.

Police said two men had been seen entering a summer cottage in the Brighton district, about 30 miles southeast of here. They abandoned cue car there and fled on foot. Later they stole a car from a Brighton garage.

CELEBRATE LIBERATION

Seoul, South Korea, Aug. 15 — (Reuter) — Thousands of Seoul citizens marched into the centre of the city today to celebrate "liberation day" — the end of the Japanese war.

Carrying South Korean flags and banners printed in Korean and English, they formed up outside the hall, ready for the evening fine clothes — except for the naked children.

Reuter said: "Let's stop aggression, let's fight out for north - south unification and push back the communists."

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST

The death of William Randolph Hearst removes a figure from the newspaper world renowned for his huge business enterprises and the princely manner in which he lived. At one time his newspaper empire represented a $200,000,000 enterprise. He was the most successful circulation builder who ever lived, which placed many of his papers far in front of his competitors. It was through such initiative that he was able to build his newspaper empire of over twenty units in many of the more important American cities.

Hearst was no "rags-to-riches" hero. His parents were wealthy and he was educated in the best-private schools and Harvard University. Shortly after graduation he took over the management of his father's newspaper, the San Francisco Examiner and from the very beginning his unorthodox methods enabled him to become a dominate figure in United States journalism.

Other newspaper men scorned his system and called him "yellow journalist" but his stunts, that other men never thought of or did not have the courage to use, paid off handsomely. He also paid salaries unheard of prior to his entering the field with the result he gathered into his organization many of the outstanding journalists of his era. Probably the best known of these was Arthur Brisbane whose front-page editorials will be recalled by some of our readers. It was reported in those days that Brisbane received up to $1,000 annually for his work.

Hearst was a great campaigner for or against many causes. He was a champion of Americanism and fought for the eight-hour day and women's suffrage. On the other hand he fought governments, public utilities and was a foe of conservation.

Over the years Mr. Hearst acquired a great amount of antiques from all over the world, chiefly from Europe. All these treasures were stored in a huge warehouse in New York for many years until things got a little tough during the depression, even for a millionaire like Hearst, when he eventually disposed of the bulk of his collection.

Probably one of Hearst's greatest disappointments was his several unsuccessful bids for office. He tried different times, but only once was successful when he represented the eleventh New York District in Congress from 1903 to 1907. He tried to be mayor of New York City and also governor of the state of New York on several occasions.

It will be a long time, if ever, that another man will come along in Hearst's footsteps. Newspapers in large cities are held by interests who have no inclination to sell. The number of newspapers is also declining as that it is more difficult to buy up and consolidate rival papers in the same city. Perhaps, it is just as well. Hearst served his generation in a way that added nothing to newspaper prestige. Rather, he was the chief benefactor of his own efforts. But he must have had great joy in the game we call business. And so another era passes into history with his death.

ANNIVERSARY FINDS UNEASY PEACE

Six years ago today the Japanese nation surrendered to the Allied forces and ended the costliest war in history.

Their capitulation, with more than three million men in the field and navies that ruled the Asian and Allied seacoast in the echo of the second atomic bomb blast and was greeted universally as the end of conflict and the beginning of "peace in our time".

Now the memory of war changed. Today the Japanese nation is spoken of as a bulwark of the free nations against the engulfing tide of communist expansion. She is now our outpost of defence in Asia. Political, military, and economic leaders in the Western world have been hurrying to Japan to consult, to facts and to treating that will consolidate this position. In that unsteady balance of power that threatens to plunge the world into another war even more terrible than the last, Japan has changed, in six short years, from a fanatical enemy to a valuable ally, and now by the cornerstone of "that vital ring of islands" spoken of by General MacArthur in his home-coming address to Congress last May.

Even as we clutch Japan to our bosom comes word that the last of the Japanese military leaders sentenced to prison for "war crimes" committed in Malaya, Singapore, Borneo, and Burma, are on the way home to serve out their sentences in Japan.

The formation of military alliances, so expedient and so necessary in times of trouble, has become an even more grotesque caricature than the union of Western capitalism and Russian communism so ably described by Hilaire Belloc.

Even as the delegates gather in San Francisco for the beginning of the "peace talks" on September 4th, men are dying in Korea, and armies are being drawn together in Europe.

The might of a weapon so terrible that mankind itself was once thought to be in jeopardy, has done nothing in six years to banish mankind's folly of war. The antagonists change, and so do the issues. But "man's inhumanity to man" goes on and the dreams for peace are still unrealized.

THE WAITER'S VIEWPOINT

"What are the great and humble like?
You meet them both." The waiter smiled.
And said to me: "I daily see
The ways of woman, man and child.
The modest and the swollen head,
The hungry and the over-fed.

"I stand as they select their meals,
For as a waiter that's my task,
And some are crude and some are rude
And some demand and others ask.
And some are soft of speech and some
Have voices louder than a drum.

"To please them all my best I try.
I've only eyes and ears and hands
Though care I take, mistakes I make.
But that a big man understands.
And always patient he will be.
The little man will shout at me.

"The truly great are always fair.
I've found it hard to well regard
A man grown arrogantly proud.
I'd say of all on whom I wait
The humble are the truly great."

"Just let me get a mental picture of you as you ARE."

THE RIGHT CHANNEL

Walking up a mountain recently, we came upon a part of the path being rapidly washed away by water flowing down it. Higher up, we saw the cause. A tiny brook had formed a trail, but the main bed swelled it above the little mound of earth which had kept it in its channel. Now the path, and now it was washing away the trail itself.

In its proper channel, the water was useful, flowing into a stream which helped fill the reservoir of the water supply station. Out of that channel, it was not only useless but positively destructive.

Human energy is just like that water. Expended in hard work, in healthy exercise, in creative skill, in home-making, it is a source of power and satisfaction to us and to our community. But the same energy misdirected produces tragedy. The juvenile delinquent who breaks a window merely expends the energy which might have gone into a wholesome game of baseball. The dishonest politician uses for bad ends the talents of leadership and organization which, well directed, would help his community, state and nation.

The greatest channeler of human energy ever known is Christianity. Christian history is full of men whose whole lives were channeled into God's work. The man who directs his energy into Christian channels knows that it is being used, not abused.

Probe 'Lost City' Of Ancient Tribes

Johannesburg. (CP)—An expedition is preparing here under Francois Balsam for another search for the "Lost City" of the ancient Kalahari desert in northern Cape Province.

Balsam said that on his last trip to the region three years ago he believes he came within 30 miles or so of the ruins. These were first seen in 1885 and roughly located northeast of Kikiki.

J. D. Herbeids, one of three Johannesburg men who claim to have discovered the city, said that on their last visit to the ruins they saw two huge tombs cut out of the solid rock on a hillside, and in front of each tomb was a huge rock door covered with strange carvings.

The region between the Zambezi and the Orange rivers is not entirely desert, for at different times of the year large tracts are covered with grass and scrub providing cover for game. Natives of the region, including Bushmen and Balakhari, number about 50,000 and live chiefly by hunting.

SMALL SLAUGHTER

Chicago, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Packers under federal inspection butchered only 920,106 cattle in the United States during July—the smallest slaughter for the month in eight years.

Winnipeg Larders Get Whale Steaks From Hudson Bay

Winnipeg. (CP)—You can buy whale meat in Winnipeg stores now. And its put up in cellophane-wrapped, frozen steaks.

W. J. Ward, Liberal member of parliament for Dauphin and president of Churchill Whale and Fish Products Company, said Winnipeg is the first large city in Canada where stores have whale meat for sale.

The company is canning and selling the meat for the general consumption last year to the Northern Manitoba market by way of Flin Flon, The Pas and Dauphin.

The company was set up in 1948 to process Belugas, which are small white whales, about 12 feet long. From each whale the plant processes it gets over 100 pounds of steak and 400 pounds of oil.

Nothing is wasted, since the rest of the whale is ground to sausage-meat consistency and sold to fur farms. Fifteen Eskimos and Indians are employed in catching the mammals in Hudson Bay during the June to September season. They are paid a dollar a foot for each 'ey their catch.

Mr. Ward said the Churchill plant is the only one where three processes are combined in one factory to dispose of each whale. The refined oil finds its way chiefly to manufacture of shortening and butter substitutes.

The company expects to find its big market for whale flesh because they are boneless, skinless and take only ten minutes to cook. "They have no fishy flavor," Mr. Ward said. "If anything, they taste something like liver."

He said the company is still in the experimental stage, but "if the public will try the venture will be a success because the supply of Belugas seems inexhaustible as far as our plant is concerned."

Platypus, Wombat Make Popular Toys Down Under

Written for The Canadian Press
By Margaret Ecker Francis

Melbourne, Australia — (CP) — A duck-billed platypus, a wombat or a kookaburra, maybe — would make a cute companion for Johnny or Mary. And if Australian toy manufacturers have their way, these remarkable animals and birds from "down under" will become well known to North Americans.

When shortages ease and labor is more plentiful these toy firms hope to flurry kangaroos with her "Joey" baby in her pouch and the kookaburra, "laughing bird" will be exported so that Canadian youngsters can learn natural history the friendly way.

Maurice Coat, managing director of an Australian toy firm, talks of his creations as though they were dear friends. His firm turns out models of the koala, or bears, made from the skin of the Queensland wallaby (small kangaroo.)

The 300,000 other items he manufactures include other Australian animals, including rabbits of all sizes, colors and materials, and fluffy chicks. The rabbits and lambs are very popular with Australian children who are familiar with them in the natural state.

Sixtyes for Accuracy

Designer Marjorie Davenport, who is secretary to all her animals, introduced some of the family.

The wombat turned out to be a cuddly brown animal, like a very large mouse, with intelligent, inquisitive eyes. The kookaburra, a familiar bird in Australia, is pearl white, was accurately depicted even to the flashes of blue on wings and tail.

The platypus was a flat, floppy creature in soft brown fur like velvet, with black leather bill and flippers. The characteristic ridge of fur on the tail was indicated.

Three years ago, Mr. Coat, another zoo favorite in Australia.

Letter to the Editor

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

Generally speaking, the increased standards adopted by labor today, which term should properly include employees who work for others, have not been gained by the foresight of their employers granting to them the conditions of employment but have been gained by uniting together for a determination to better working conditions.

Employers never seemed, in the whole course of history, to the rights of labor until such rights were forced upon them by labor unions. In most large industries and businesses, not only has there been actually labor with their hands organized, but also office workers gathering in offices, stores and other "collared workers", which includes female stenographers.

The need for such an organization among all female office workers, restaurant waitresses, etc., has again been emphasized by the advertisements appearing in your paper, some evidently sponsored by the Hairdressers' Union, which is a most graphic office workers in the province would organize into a body or association, and like existing union, the terms of their employment would not be arbitrarily dictated to them by their employers, some of whom "appear to be subject of mutual agreement by all concerned to the benefit of employer and employee alike.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE EVER BREATHING SPIRIT

From the earliest days of the human race man has reached for something higher than himself. Go back to Confucius, Plato, Zarathrch, and Horace, and you will read of their hunger for something higher than themselves.

Here is a prayer of Socrates, as Hoskins of Queens College, used Pan, and all ye other gods who haunt this place, give me beauty within the soul, and may the outward and inward man be at one. May I reckon the wise to be the wealthy, and may I have such a quality of gold as a temperate man and he only can bear."

If you will read from the other philosophers and teachers mentioned, you will find the same longing and heart urge for knowledge regarding that far beyond their own human frame. Even the savages have their sacred spot, and have since they were born.

Our Indians had their "happy hunting grounds".

Why command someone to look up to. We see the magic wonders and creations of God all about us and so we look up to Him, the giver of light, hope and salvation. Our spirit mounts and wants the wings of the soul, so that it may get a closer glimpse of God. Without a religious urge in the world, born in the darkness of human beings,' we would be in a sad state, indeed, and lonesome.

Said the great Pasteur: "Blessed is he who carries within himself a God, an ideal which he obeys it." The greatest figures in human history are the men of religious men and women. Their ever reaching spirit has forever exalted them, yet they have always remained humble and full of faith. It is to the faith of these heroic men of God that we owe a debt of gratitude for the example they have bequeathed to us all.

This inward spiritual urge, or reaching spirit, is something that is inherent in all intelligent people, and because of this fact they translate it into living and undying faith, which means somethings we can't see but we know it is there, and that it can blossom and demonstrate itself at will."

Personal Health Talks

CHEAT-FOODS AND BERIBERI

The prodigious per capita consumption of refined white sugar in the United States—nearly nine pounds a month, representing more than 500 calories daily, or a fifth of the sedentary adult's total fuel or food requirement—is a mounting menace to our national well-being.

Mind, now, fathead, this is not Dr. Bourgeois giving vent to his prejudices. I have nothing against sugar or any kind of food. I advise the addition of a reasonable amount of sugar—raw sugar, brown sugar, refined white sugar, cane sugar, beet sugar, sorghum, molasses, glucorn syrup, dextrose, levulose, lactose (milk sugar), it doesn't matter which kind, to diluted cow's milk for the feeding of infants. I advise every diabetic individual to carry in pocket or purse a spoonful of sugar to take in an emergency of low blood sugar (hypoglycemia). Sugar in one form or another—sweetened tea, lemonade or other sweet fruit juice, chocolate bar, candy, is the very best emergency food for an athlete in an endurance test. Finally, sugar in one form or another is a good food for children who play as hard as normal children should. provided they eat regularly and not between meals or as a substitute for more essential food.

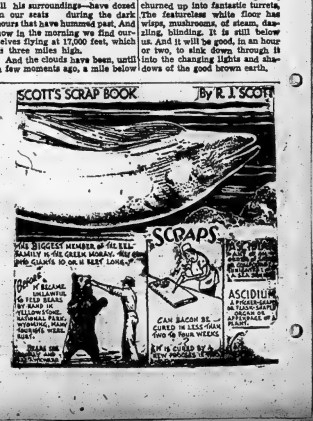
It is not a guess but the estimate of recognized nutritional authorities that most of us get most of our daily calories from refined white sugar and refined white flour, both of which are deprived of whatever vitamins and mineral values grew with them, in the refining process.

One who subsists mainly on refined white flour and refined white sugar can hardly get even the minimum daily requirement of minerals and vitamins from the vegetables, meats and fruits that may happen to be available to him, and he is apt to be overfed artificially colored, flavored carbonated fountain beverage or after he has disposed of a double chocolate malted!

The dependence of these two high-calory items — cheat-foods, I call them—on the American diet accounts for the wide prevalence of beriberi in America today—not the tropical wasting disease type which is common among half-starved people in China, India, the Philippines and Malaya, but a milder chronic type which is due to partial deprivation and diagnosis but keeps the victim from enjoying life, lowers his efficiency and keeps him constantly "dying" this and that meddling or treatment but never getting much benefit from the guess-work.

The chronic beriberi is characterized by constant fatigue, heaviness and stiffness of the legs, tenderness of calf muscles (that is, tenderness to pressure or squeezing, and sensations of burning or pricking in legs or feet, especially burning of the soles). In some instances these symptoms affect the hands and arms along with or before the feet and legs.

It is now well known that the chief cause of beriberi, oriental or occidental, is vitamin B1 (thiamine) deficiency, but it is equally well known that deprivation or inadequate intake of other vitamins and minerals that are naturally present with this vitamin are unpublished (undefined); rice and in whole wheat, are contributing causes. These vitamins and minerals are essential for good nutrition, good health, and removal of them in the refining, milling, polishing, and from whole wheat in the making of refined white flour.



Some food barons and their subsidized chemists and nutritionists claim that we can believe that white flour "enriched"—that is, treated with some but not all of the vitamins and minerals removed in the refining-milling process—by the requirements virtually as well as real whole wheat flour and bread. This, of course, they are wrong, but they have to live, don't they?

Two men, did hard physical work for two weeks, on a diet deficient in vitamin B—not sufficient as your diet probably is. They complained of fatigue, aching legs, backache, sore constipation and decline in physical fitness.

Then they were given a daily ration of 2 milligrams of B1. Within 24 hours these nutrition authorities regard as necessary to prevent true beriberi, and virtually identical deficiency disease. It failed to relieve their complaints. Finally after a two days supplemented with dried yeast and their complaints soon cleared up. Brewer's yeast is the richest other vitamins besides B1.

Enough whole wheat flour doesn't keep long enough to permit shipment, storage and quantity sales. In order to enjoy the economy, health and good eating that whole wheat flour gives you, you must grind your own. Send stamped self-addressed envelope and I will send you (no clipping, please) for the pamphlet Wheat for Eat, which gives many tried recipes and tells you where you can get a hand grinder.

American Quartet Entertain Member Of Local Chapter

The recent social meeting for its members of the SPEBSQSA (Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America) was varied by being held at the Outlet.

Four members of this rapidly expanding international organization, from the Liverpool, Ohio chapter, invited the local chapter to their cottage and sixteen ardent members from Belleville and two from Napanee made the twenty-mile trek.

They were rewarded by an excellent evening of harmony, punctuated by the blinding flashes of one American member's Polaroid "Land" camera. As this special camera developed its own photography in approximately one minute, the chorus and various quartets were able to see themselves as others see them even before finishing their songs.

At three of the chaps from Liverpool belonged to a very successful quartet, "The Jolly Boys", and the fourth visitor had sung with them for their whole vacation, they were able to provide some excellent listening for the Belleville boys.

Just a Small Man

The lead in the quartet was a "small" man by the name of Tiny. He told the Belleville members that he topped the scales at 450 pounds, and there was no reason to doubt him. He was one of the largest men seen in the district for some time.

In addition to the Jolly Boys, the well-known local quartet, The Quintones and a group called the fourmuleires added to the evening.

The chorus took the opportunity to practise some of the numbers that they will present to the public in the Belleville chapter's fall show to be held in the Collegiate auditorium on October 20th.

Reviewed Program

President Brad Bradford reviewed the full program planned for the club during the winter months and "Sid" Sillito, chairman of the Harmony Night show, announced that some of the best quartets in Canada had accepted invitations to perform in October.

The season of barber shop harmony is getting off to a flying start with the quartet from the RCAF station appearing on the special program over CJBQ on Thursday night at 7.30 p.m. Also on the same night the Quintones will add to the grandstand performance at the Fair Grounds and on August 28th both the Quintones and the Fourmuisires will provide entertainment for the Kinsmen Clubs at the County Home on the Trent road.

Brutality of South Korean Police to N. Korean Evacuees Overlooked by Army Men

By BILL BOSS
(Canadian Troop Staff Writer)

With the Canadians in Korea, Aug. 16—(CP)—One Canadian staff-sergeant had been almost complacent about the progedure of south Korean police in interrogating north Korean evacuees. He had said:

"I've seen them over to Korean police working with us. They have their own methods. We don't understand the workings of the oriental mind. They do.

"Right now they're working in that little hut. We don't ask them to beat them. But if they do, we don't know anything about it."

Hong Teh-Jong, a handsome north Korean lad, obviously had been given "the treatment." His cheeks, two hours earlier peach-colored, now were pale and drawn. His upper lip quivered.

The bespectacled, vixen-faced south Korean police sergeant who had "questioned" him said he was politically okay. There had been "difficulties" over how he had managed to elude service in the north Korean army.

The sergeant was asked to remove himself and Teh-Jong was motioned to a hill-side and invited to sit down, beside the visitor and an interpreter.

Tears of disillusionment streamed down his face as his story tumbled out.

Village Evacuated

His village had been evacuated by Canadian troops that morning through what might be called "military necessity". And the three-roomed hut that had been "home" since he was born was empty, the four-acre farm his family owned and which he'd helped to till since first he walked was abandoned. His wife and child's whereabouts were unknown—no one had inquired whether he had a family.

Teh-Jong—his name means "Big Bell"—was 20. He had been married to Chun Ki-Sun—now 17—for four years and they had a little son one year old.

With six other members of the family they lived in the family dwelling, now owned by his elder brother, Mong Wun-Jong, 31.

A week earlier, Teh-Jong said through the interpreter, he had been happy for the first time in months.

United Nations tanks and infantry—from the Canadian 25th Infantry Brigade group—had appeared on the plains north of the Chorwon area. As they passed his village on a knoll about six miles north of Chorwon, Teh-Jong turned toward the ailing Ki-Sun and said:

"Now we can live. Now we can be free. Now we won't have to hide any more."

Almost a year ago he had been conscripted for service in the North Korean army. After four days' service he had escaped. A deserter, he made his way home from Wonsan.

He and his brother dug a hole behind the house and there they had spent every night since.

The army order had gone out that all civilians were to be evacuated and notices posted that henceforth all persons seen in the area would be considered enemy and shot.

Filed Into Corner

The women and children were piled into one corner of a little square—perhaps 60 of them, from little girls to grim-mouthed grandmothers, many with infants on their backs. The older men were with them.

The younger men were kept apart on another part of the square, hands above their heads, and were "frisked" by the platoon commander.

Teh-Jong cheerfully compiled his identity card, his bank-book, a book of Shaman prayers, a school-Atlas map of Korea and wrapped in an old military map probably once left on the battlefield, a notebook indicating his progress in learning English.

A division of the spoils came to a shame-faced halt when the officer asked the visitor "say, would you like a communist bank-book as a souvenir?" And was answered with "no thanks, it's probably all he has to make link some day what he owns."

Belongings Restored

Teh-Jong's belongings were restored to him and now-friendly Canadian troops piled him with biscuits and bully and chocolate bars.

Then he was sent down the line for "interrogation."

Despite his experience, he told the visitor he would "go south" if he had to—if he could find his wife.

She would in either of the two parties that had trudged across the paddy-fields back to the collecting point. And the staff-sergeant wasn't worried beyond letting him stay there and watch until sunset, by which time he'd have to leave.

She came back in an ambulance just as the conversation ended, a girl of 17 who looked every day of 35, weak and complaining of pains in back and legs.

They turned to one another, their only future, said a few quiet words, and then he sat down, not far from the ambulance, to wait for the next party to assemble for the walk to Chorwon.

From there they'd be trucked to somewhere south of Seoul, and then—no one knew or cared.

Blames Racing Commission for 'Colossal Mess'

Toronto, Aug. 15—(CP)—The Ontario Racing Commission was accused today of handling a "colossal mess" of the control of horse racing in the province.

The charge was made by James J. Heffering, who bossed racing in Ontario for years as head of the Incorporated Canadian Racing Association. The Association was replaced last year by the present government-appointed commission.

"The government and the new commission have nobody except themselves to blame for the present scandal," Heffering said in an interview. He was commenting on the current probe of race-fixing on Ontario tracks while has resulted in arrests and suspensions of jockeys and trainers.

Objects to Remarks

Heffering objected to remarks made Monday night by W. E. MacDonald, counsel for the racing commission, who said the conditions are being investigated went back 10 years.

"Only Mr. MacDonald to produce any reliable evidence that such conditions existed during the regime of the I.C.R.A.," said Heffering.

"I doubt very much whether the public will be fooled by what appears to be an attempt to get out from under the colossal mess the commission has made in the control of racing.."

Heffering said he couldn't understand what the stewards had been doing while the race-track scandal was going on.

"The stewards' job," he said, "is to see a race is run so that it is clearly run, and to check up on any off-color performances they might see in the running. For this they have binoculars, and the aid of the patrol judge.

"Nowhere on the street, to say nothing of racetrackers, knew that races were being fixed. There can be only one answer to that—the stewards didn't do their jobs."

APPROVES OF REDS IN U.N.

In his first address to a Toronto audience, United Kingdom's permanent representative to the United Nations, Sir Gladwyn Jebb, above, labelled efforts to exclude communist countries from the U.N. as "defeating objectives for which the world body was formed." Mr. Jebb said that if United Nations were to turn into an anti-communist organization, many neutral nations, who are waiting to see whether what Stalin calls "peaceful co-operation" between communist and non-communist states is possible, would withdraw from U.N.

Find Prehistoric Marine Creature in Manitoba Clay

Winnipeg, (CP)—The remains of a gigantic marine reptile that swam in a Manitoba sea about 75,000,000 years ago were discovered recently near Morden, Man., 65 miles southwest of here.

L. T. S. Norrie-Elyn, director of the Manitoba Museum, said the prehistoric monster is known as a Mosasaur, a "sea lizard" that lived beneath the seas of cretaceous times.

It dwarfs anything that has been found in Manitoba to date," he said proudly.

The discovery was made by Walter Stephenson during mining operations in bentonite clay deposits about 10 miles northwest of Morden.

The jaw bone, which has been brought to the museum, is more than 40 inches long. The stubby teeth average more than two inches in length.

Actually the skeletal remains of at least two, and possibly more of the animals are contained in the jumble of bones being excavated by museum technicians. Enormous dorsal vertebrae have also been identified.

Bones Scattered

Area of the spot where the bones are scattered throughout the bentonite clay measures roughly 25 by 12 feet. But the bones are so mixed up it is impossible at the present time to make an accurate estimate of the length of the reptile.

Bones of another Mosasaur were discovered in this area last year. This prehistoric creature has been estimated at 25 to 30 feet in length. However, bones of the latest find are nearly twice as large as those of last year's discovery.

It is possible the monster may eventually be identified as a Tylosaurus, the largest type of Mosasaur, museum officials said. These long, sinuous sea serpents were as large as medium sized whales and equal in bulk to many of the Dinosaurs.

Distant relatives of the Mosasaurs, are the "monitor" lizards of the old world, still exist.

The first Mosasaur remains were discovered in a sandstone quarry in Holland on the Meuse River in 1780. Since then a number have been unearthed in other parts of the world.

Curious Expert Scanning Stone Helped Farmers

By J. C. GRAHAM
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Auckland, N.Z. (CP)—The intensive farming methods which result in high yields in New Zealand and Australia are obtained by heavy application of fertilizer, accidentally discovered by a man who died here recently.

Sir Albert Ellis, who was 81 years old when he died at Auckland, at the start of the century was a young analyst employed by a London company. He was visiting his firm's office at Sydney, Australia, when he spotted a large block of stone used as a doorstop.

Ellis was intrigued by the stone. The Sydney manager told him it had been found on Nauru Island, and that several geologists had classified it as a piece of fossilized wood.

The analyst however was not satisfied. He saw a resemblance to a special kind of hard phosphate he had found on Baker Island some years before. Ellis made a careful analysis which showed the doorstop was phosphate rock of the highest grade.

In a matter of weeks he had inspected Nauru and Ocean Islands, small dots on the Pacific near the equator, and found they contained some of the world's richest deposits of pure phosphate.

Became Big Industry

He directed the industry from its birth, first as leader of the party extracting the phosphate, and then as local director of the company, and when control of the islands was acquired by the governments of Britain, Australia and New Zealand, he became one of the three commissioners.

DEFENDING CHAMPION

Prime Minister Sydney G. Holland of New Zealand, 58, has promised income tax reductions if his National Party is returned in Saturday's general election. Food and fuel prices, he said, also would be reduced. The snap election was called after criticism of the government's handling of the protracted waterfront strike which tied up shipping.

Soon the islands were shipping vast quantities of phosphates for top-yielding pastures in Australia and New Zealand. Modern machinery was installed, including a huge cantilever loader jutting out into the sea from Nauru so that ships could stand off the island and be loaded in a matter of hours.

The islands were devastated by the Japanese during the war, but were restored with such vigor that by 1949 the two islands were shipping a total of 1,250,000 tons of phosphate a year to maintain the productivity of the farmlands of the southern dominions.

Sir Albert Ellis maintained close touch with the islands, until the time of his death. The doorstop which changed the economy of the two countries is today preserved in the Auckland Museum.

WEDDINGS

JOSE—BARRIE

Maranatha United Church was the scene of a wedding of local interest on Saturday, July 28, at 3:30 p.m., when Miss Reverend H. Hillis united in marriage Yvonne Lalla Barrie, daughter of Mr. Gordon Barrie, of Belleville, and Frederick Ernest Louis Jose, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Jose, of Massanga.

The altar was tastefully decorated with tall standards of gladioli, ferns and a various assortment of summer flowers.

Mrs. Harvey Hillis rendered the wedding music and Miss Aldythe Arthur sang before the ceremony, "I'll Walk Beside You" and during the signing of the register, "Because".

Entering the church on the arm of Mr. Percy Osland, who gave her in marriage, the bride was radiant in her bridal gown of white slipper satin with fitted bodice, Peter Pan collar, long sleeves ending in lily-points over the hands, Chantilly lace yoke adorned with seed pearls and an applique of Chantilly lace down the front and around hemline of skirt. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion with hand-rolled edge, was held in place by a sweetheart shaped headdress of white slipper satin and Chantilly lace with rows of seed pearls. She carried a semi-cascade of red roses and sidnonium fern tied with white satin braid.

Mrs. Trillene Wood, sister of the bride, was her only attendant, wearing a turquoise floor-length brocaded taffeta gown, with full skirt of net over taffeta and a brocaded cape. She wore a matching turquoise net headdress and mitts and carried a nosegay of pink, lavender and white sweetpeas.

The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Luther Jose, of Belleville. Mr. Charles Jose, of Peterborough, was usher.

Following the ceremony, the wedding reception was held at the home of the groom's parents. The bride's table was beautifully decorated. Silver flower centres held pink, white and lavender sweetpeas and silver candle-holders held the tall pink tapers. On a centrepiece of pink tulle was the tiered, pillared wedding cake on the top of which was a silver bud vase of pink carnations. Girl friends of the bride served.

The Rev. Mr. Hillis proposed a toast to the bride to which the groom responded.

Receiving for the bride, with the bridal party, was Mrs. Percy Osland, who wore navy blue sheer with pink accessories and a corsage of pink roses. The bridegroom's mother received wearing navy blue sheer with white accessories and a corsage of red roses. Also receiving was Mrs. Edith Jose, grandmother of the groom, wearing a navy blue crepe dress and a gardenia corsage.

The happy couple left later amid showers of confetti and good wishes. For travelling the bride chose a yellow linen suit with natural and brown accessories. Following the wedding trip they will reside in Belleville.

Prior to her marriage the bride was presented with a silver tea service from Angus McFee Jeweller Limited and staff.

She was also guest of honour at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mrs. Percy Osland, where many friends gathered and presented her with a number of beautiful gifts.

Fine Exhibit of Women's Work Displayed at Fair

Dating from time immemorial, it has been woman's prerogative to "sit and sew a fine seam", and judging from the exceptionally fine exhibit of women's work displayed in the horticulture building, she has not deviated greatly from her chosen niche in the annals of things.

Beginning with the display of women's clothing, which included housecoats; bed jackets knit in lacy stitch patterns and pleasing colors, as well as in the more durable shades; smart new housedresses; practical aprons, and dainty tea aprons, one especially dainty, made in ecru crochet bordered with colorful flowers and sporting green satin ties; knitted sweaters, a grey silk blouse, with fine tucked front, and fine handkerchiefs, edged with crocheted lace, both in colors and in white, all testified to woman's ability to do what she wills to do.

Fancy Linens

And not alone in the clothing field, but in the more fancy articles as household linen was this gift demonstrated: a white water lily cut work luncheon cloth, and one done in ecru in dahlia pattern; crocheted chesterfield sets, bridge sets, tray cloths in Irish crochet and linen pillowcases, some in cut work, and others with fine filet crochet borders; in white and pleasing colors; dainty guest towels; bed place mats, some in white with red rose centres, others in white and green and blue and white, as well as pretty novelty knitting bags. There were several lovely table cloths in crochet, both in the ecru shade and in the white, some in filet crochet with rose pattern, while others showed various medallion designs.

The rugs demonstrated both the hooked, and braided variety, as well as fine velvet, felt medium. All were most colorful. One especially attractive was the Scriner's rug depicting the lodge's insignia of the white crescent and red star and the motto, with the word, "Rameses" on a dark background —a rug both out of the ordinary and eye catching, something differing before an inviting fireplace on a cold winter's day. There were also bathroom mats in colors of mauve, white and green, and one in Mexican design, and many others, nearly all too pretty to walk upon.

Lovely Bedspreads

One of the many bedspreads exhibited which were done in crochet, satin, and knit in various designs, was that done in ecru squares, centred by mauve and yellow pansies in variegated colors, with green stems meeting an ecru centre, the whole surrounded by ecru crochet, having a frilled lace edging of from four to five inches in width. A lovely piece of work, and most unusual.

In the quilt exhibit, there were so many pretty ones, it was hard to choose, but one was rather true the blue and white block; the appliqued pink dogwood flowers on scallops of blue; and the morning glory quilt with its pink, trumpet-like flowers and green leaves twining around the blue lattice work, still, as in past years, took its own place as a work of art. This was exquisitely quilted in a fine-like design, flawless in execution.

The afghans were colorful and pretty in design, and the deep wine rayon satin comforter looked both lovely and invitingly warm. The cushions were many in number and gorgeously colorful; some were made in the modern buff satin design, while others sported tops of velvet flowers in wool, and still others in braided satin.

Children's Wear

The children's wear included play suits, tiny dresses, rompers, little dresses both knit and crocheted. One little set consisted of a tiny, white pleated jacket and lace-edged panties, made in white broadcloth. The little jacket had wee flowers embroidered in colors in pastel shades. There were also baby sets of bonnet, jacket, and booties, as well as many separate sacques, one of which was done in baby pink with two little white kittens, one on either front, worked with a baby blue ball of yarn. The medium sized ball sweaters were cosy, cardigan blankets in knitted wool were also shown.

Neither were the men of the household neglected for their needs forgotten: pajamas in broadcloth as well as the cosy flannelette were shown; knitted pullovers, with sleeves and without; knitted mitts and knitted socks, plain and in diamond design; golf shirts and sport shirts, with ski mitts and socks taking care of the sporting end of living.

Specimens of tatting, filet crochet, needlepoint, and cross stitch were also demonstrated rounding out a full, colorful and fine exhibition of woman's skill in the things that go such a long way in making home, homelike, comfortable and attractive.

A great deal of credit and appreciation is due the directors, Mrs. B. Docter, Mrs. Ben Bleecker, Mrs. M. B. Weese, Mrs. Thomas Walmer and Mrs. S. M. Nicholson, for a most attractive and pleasing display.

Wife Preservers

Where the washing is done, wipe the woodwork clean with a damp cloth to remove soap film and help keep the rolls fine and spotless. Don't use the cleansing fluids on them, however. After wiping, retrace the wringer with Vaseline to help it run smoothly. Same treatment by unscrewing them as far as they will go.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A Widow's [illegible] No Hurry

Dear Miss Fairfax:

For nine years I have been deeply in love with one man, whom I am apparently fated never to marry. . . .

When I first got acquainted with him, he was married, so although he told me he loved me very much, I didn't bother with him except that when we met going to and from work we would stop and talk. He said that if anything ever should happen that he was free, he didn't want to marry me.

Well, two years ago his wife passed away suddenly, and we have been going together ever since then. The funny thing is, though, that while he says he still loves me, he also says that he doesn't want to get married. I know he doesn't go with any other women, because he spends all of his spare time with me. He's 48, I am 40 and have never been married.

C. W.

Dear C. W.:

I'm afraid it sounds to me as though this man may have fallen ahead, wanting to marry you just to make you feel good. Stop and think a minute. It was while his wife was still alive and he wasn't free to marry that he mentioned it, wasn't it? And now that he is really free and nothing seems to stand in the way of your marriage, he tells you he doesn't want it. Does that sound as though he were truly sincere in the first place?

It's quite possible that he is genuinely fond of you and finds you a congenial companion, but it's not at all unusual to find a man who is entirely satisfied with just such a set-up—free-dom, plus a woman he can depend on for companionship whenever he wants it.

A woman like yourself, however, is hardly likely to be content with such a role indefinitely, unless it comes under the heading of the familiar saying: "Half a loaf is better than no bread." In your case, that means that if you prefer such inkwarm mild companionship to doing without entirely, then you are going to have to accept its limitations as philosophically as possible.

There's always the chance, of course, that if this man gets the idea he is in danger of losing you, he may change his mind and even favorably of marriage again. If he has to choose between giving you up and marrying you, he might break down. So—why not decline some of his invitations now and show him, by letting him see that you're going out with other friends, and see how he reacts?

Teen-agers Have Feelings and Rights, Too

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I usually enjoy reading your column unless it's about those silly teen-agers who imagine they're in love. It seems to me foolish to waste any time on them. Please opt out such letters out of your column entirely!

S. P.

Dear S. P.

Silly or not, according to how you look at it, I wouldn't dream of cutting out such letters. Teen-agers have feelings, like anybody else, and just as much right to those feelings as people of any other age. They have a right to be taken seriously, too.

Naturally there are times when teen-agers, like all the rest of us, young or old, get themselves emotionally worked up out of all proportion to the importance of the matter, and then it's perfectly justifiable to remind them that most adolescent tragedies are not quite so permanent as they seem. But the problems of teen-agers should be listened to and considered just as carefully as those of older people, and I certainly want the boys and girls to know that they are always welcome in this column.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

No woman has a beautiful figure who does not possess a slender, straight back, carrying just enough adipose padding to give smoothness to the flesh. But there is more than superficial beauty in perfect back; the spinal column is the support of the anatomical structure, and graceful lines and health depend upon it, to a certain extent, since erect carriage has a favorable effect upon the inner organs, the musculature, even the nervous system!

The woman who slumps, who lets her shoulders fall forward, should not complain if she develops a spare tire around the waistline, because this habit weakens the muscles, and fat cells collect upon slack muscles, forming ever-increasing communities.

Women who lounge in the same attitudes throw their weight on one set of muscles, causing them to overdevelop, while the corresponding set is weakened. The spinal column can go out of alignment, and when that happens no woman is entitled to face forth in a backless formal. She does not qualify for this sartorial privilege.

To restore the youthful contour of the back, assume the correct standing position. Place the hands on the inside of the opposite elbow. Take a deep breath and arch the body forward and downward. Then lift your hands, keeping the same position, until they are high above your head. This forward-and-back, movement will ring a bell, call every muscle of the torso into action.

The skin on the back should be smooth, devoid of all blemishes and possessed of satiny texture if it is to be attractive.

As a woman never sees her back unless she uses a double mirror, it is possible that it may be a call for special attention. On young girls cursed with oily skins the back can become spotted with blackheads and tiny pustules. Such a condition calls for a toning daily scrubbing with soap suds and a long-handled brush. After an energetic session, cold shower and a brisk rubdown, bolter the Mama and have her go over the flesh lightly with a cloth that has been dipped in eau de colgne or a witch water. The alcoholic content will dissolve the black points.

When the brush is used, send it straight across the back, then diagonally across the shoulders to the waist. This will stimulate the circulation and the flesh will take on a entirely new tone. If one persists in this treatment the skin will have a finer texture and better coloring.

A girl must appear her best going and coming. That the rear appearance is often neglected is testified to by the fact that the bath-de that is charming in front is oftimes a scrambled mess at the back. If every beauty-quester had a triple- full-length mirror it would be a help in the cause of pulchritude.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Three graces for a visitor: (1.) to be amiable. (2.) Be co-operative . . . agreeable to all plans, to all circumstances. (3.) Be appreciative . . . and express your appreciation. "How very kind of you" is a charming phrase to have readily in your thoughts and on your tongue!

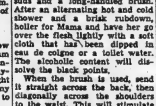
Even in a Restaurant The Hostess Should Not Have Herself Served First

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I feel as strongly as you do about the discourtesy of having the hostess served first. Of course in my own home I can always have the woman guest of honor served first. But I am often stumped about this when I give a luncheon party in a restaurant, or when my husband and I give a dinner party in a restaurant or even (as recently) at the country club here. Today so many waitresses serve the hostess first! Just what can I do when this incorrect service is followed—accept it, or what?

Troubled Hostess

I think it's important that you do something about it . . . it takes only a few seconds of pleasant directing and a gracious manner. When you are giving a luncheon in a restaurant and the waiter starts to serve you first, say graciously, (and motioning to the guest of honor at your right), "Please serve this lady first." When you and your husband give a party in a restaurant or club, and the waiter starts to serve you first, say graciously to him (and again do a bit of motioning), "Will you please serve first this lady on my husband's right?" This on-tiptoe thoughtfulness of your guests shows that she is surprisingly aware of what's what in courtesy-to-a-guest, particularly to a guest of honor!



Visitor Tips The Part-Time Maid . . . . Hands Her Tip Graciously

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I are going on a week's visit to friends or ours who have a part-time maid, a local woman who comes to them every summer. This is our first visit with these friends, and we are wondering if we should tip this maid? If so, about how much would you suggest? Also: if so, should I hand it to her or hand it on our bureau?

Visitor

Yes, you should give a tip to this woman, who will, of course, have extra work. For a week's visit for two, I think you should give her about five dollars, four dollars at a minimum. Make a special point of being most gracious when you hand it to her (hand it to her . . . don't leave it for her): "Marie, may Mr. Smith and I please give you this, with our sincere appreciation of your goodness to us? You have been most kind, and we have enjoyed so much your friendliness. We both hope you have a happy winter!"

A laundry supply shelf placed over the washing machine is a handy idea. The laundry chore may be like it—wide enough and long enough to hold everything, but never it with plastic shelving that will last for years and may be soap streaked.

When should a family borrow

A family should borrow only when a loan is the best solution to a money problem. For example, to pay old debts, medical expenses, taxes, fuel, education, car or home repairs. Loans for these reasons are not lightcoming for the most part. Don't buy goods in short supply or increase indebtedness.

SOLVING MONEY PROBLEMS

At HFC—Household Finance—we believe a family should borrow only when, by careful planning, the money problem can be resolved, and the loan repaid in an orderly manner. When a family borrows under these circumstances, it is simply "renting" money on terms it can afford. At HFC you may borrow $50, $250, $500 or more on your signature, without bankable security.

English Officers Search Greenland by Boat, Sled

London—(CP)—To explore the remote and mountainous area of Greenland a scientific expedition has left England in a Royal Air Force coastal command flying boat, which was making the flight in the course of training.

The plane carried a privately-sponsored expedition consisting of three Royal Navy officers and an officer of the Royal Marines. The party, which has approval of the Royal Geographical Society and other scientific bodies, will spend a month of six weeks in Greenland.

Commander C. J. W. Simpson, D. S. C., of the navy leads the party which includes navy lieutenants F. B. Brooke and Angus Erskine and Capt. M. F. B. Banks of the Royal Marines.

Surveys of the mountainous coastal ranges surrounding the Greenland ice cap have been nearly completed but little is known of the interior, which consists of a sheet of ice 1,500 miles long and 600 miles wide, rising in the centre to a height of about 10,000 feet.

Chief objective is a range of rocky mountains about 100 miles long and 40 miles wide in the area known as Queen Louise Land. These mountains, which about 7,000 feet are called nunataks, the explorers' name for a mountain rising beyond an ice field. To get there the party will have to cross a glacier 30 miles wide.

Use Rubber Boat

This year's party aims to make a preliminary survey for a more ambitious expedition planned for next year, when surveys will be made in the fields of geology, glaciology, meteorology and biology.

The party intends to land on a long lake near the coast and make its way to the glacier by means of a rubber boat. It will cross the glacier with the aid of a Greenland trapper and dog sleds to survey the second lake about three miles long, lying on the eastern edge of Queen Louise Land.

On this lake it is hoped to establish a base for further operations next year, and also to discover whether the lake would make suitable landing for float planes to be used by the main expedition next year.

Geological specimens will be obtained and the party will reconnoitre a suitable sled route through the mountains to the inland ice lying to the west.

Canadian Family Has Four Pilots and More Coming

Vancouver — (CP) — The Kent family here are usually "up in the air." Four of them are pilots, and three others are anxiously waiting until they're old enough.

Of the present pilots, two fly commercially. When the next two join, says the father, they will be two more commercial licences. Only Mrs. Kent, the mother, doesn't fly.

Mr. A. M. Kent, affiliated with an engineering company, got his private pilot's licence back in 1929. The next year he bought his first plane, the first of a series until he sold his last in 1946.

Between 1941 and 1943, while he was attached to the Air Observer Schools flying navigators, he logged over 3,000 hours. Yet, he still flew privately.

Mr. Kent finds it hard to realize some person regard flying as dangerous. His children don't get automobile driver's licences until they're 21, but they have their private pilot's licences by the time they're 17.

"They might bump somebody with a car," said Mr. Kent, who has a dry sense of humor.

Mother Approves

Mrs. Kent is a good-natured sport with a great love for flying. The fact she doesn't hold a pilot's licence is probably self-sacrifice.

Betty and Gerry both work for Canadian Pacific Airlines on the North Pacific run. Betty is a stewardess and Gerry is a second officer. Both have his commercial and Betty her private pilot's licence.

Ken, 18, private pilot, practically swoons when he thinks of the big planes Gerry flies. But it doesn't bother Jean—she will be doing the same thing.

Obviously and impatiently, Edith, 16, Donald, 15, and 10-year-old Joyce wait for their chance to fly. The girls plan to take nursing courses and then become stewardesses like big-sister Betty. Donald intends to be a commercial pilot.

There's no juvenile delinquents or root-rulters in the Kent family.

Red Front-line Troops Feel Out Allied Positions

U.S. 8th Army Headquarters, Korea, Aug. 15—(CP)—Communist troops, which Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway said have been materially strengthened during truce negotiations, felt out allied positions in central and eastern Korea with small probing attacks, the Eighth Army announced today.

All were repulsed.

Powerful U.N. air and naval forces—belittled by reds at cease-fire talks—smashed at red reinforcement lines to check the buildup.

Warships led by the U.S. cruiser Toledo shelled bridges and railways as much as 230 miles north of the 38th Parallel.

Further south, three destroyers sank nine Sampans trying to sneak red supplies along water routes near Wonsan, east coast port now in its 180th day of siege.

British, Australian and New Zealand warships hammered reds on the east coast.

Plow Cover For Bombers

Meteor jets of the Royal Australian air force flew fighter cover for United States bombers in a big air raid on Pyongyang, north Korean capital today.

They encountered heavy anti-aircraft fire, but the Australian forces said all allied planes were reported returning safely to their bases.

The air force said that American superfortresses today also attacked large communist troop concentrations in the northwest sector of Pyongyang.

The air force commander, Maj.-Gen. Frank Everest, said the Chinese commander had been steadily building up supplies and troop concentrations around Pyongyang since early June.

Despite American bombing they had been able to keep up the flow of supplies to this key communications centre.

At the same time the communists had strengthened their anti-aircraft defences, making Pyongyang an extremely important military target.

The present red operation had been planned before the cease-fire talks at Kaesong were ever mooted, Gen. Everest said.

Hon. Milton F. Gregg, Minister of Labor, and Arthur MacNamara, Deputy Minister of Labor, (right) receive a description from Col. J. G. Bisson, Chief Commissioner of the Unemployment Insurance Commission, of the way the National Employment Service finds jobs for the physically handicapped in Canada. Mr. Gregg and Mr. MacNamara were inspecting the Department of Labor exhibit before it goes on the road to appear in all the major fairs and exhibitions in Canada. The exhibit is designed to help expand the employment horizon for the physically handicapped. The exhibit points up the people and effective formula for placement of the handicapped — matching the remaining capacities of the man with the actual requirements of the job. This exhibit is at present on display in the General Exhibits Building at the Belleville Fair.—(Photo by Newton, Ottawa).

4,500 American Soldiers May Be In Red Prisons

San Francisco, Aug. 15—(AP)—Unofficial estimates indicated today that, of the 10,634 Americans officially listed as missing in action in Korea, as many as 4,500 probably are being held in communist prison camps.

This figure comes from allied military sources which cannot be named but which are in as good a position as anyone on the allied side to know the score.

The prisoners are said to be confined near Kanggye, deep inside north Korea about 30 miles from the Manchurian frontier.

The number of American and other United Nations prisoners never has been announced by the reds. Allied sources estimate the total at about 10,000.

Allied authorities have said little about the treatment of prisoners for fear that a chance remark might anger the reds and make life harder for the prisoners.

However, a group of 15 marines who escaped last April on the central front confirmed that prisoners were fed the same food as communist troops and were given medical attention.

Before releasing a group of men, the communists require them to attend "school" eight hours a day for indoctrination courses on communism.

The days Lance Bradley thought was a red head, a boy with blue along these lines as he took h freckles, a really smart boy daily walk, and then one sh must be lifted out of these soon it seemed to strike him t given right to develop naturally a blow between the eyes that fil and property into a useful citi-volume had turned for the better zen. But how was he to do that?
last night when friendliness and How he was to get this boy out kindness, his body crying for food, he of there? That was something to had placed the fifty cent piece figure out some other day.

shocks of more modern construction. Here sanitary conditions were appalling.

But even though he had much to take up his time, Lance Bradley continued his daily walks. He met Goldie Webster on occasion and he debated with himself as to whether he was the son a man should have as an heir to his estate, a son who would use it wisely or throw it up against the wall. He did get a line on the boy's family life, learned he was the son of Black Jack Webster, a rather rough character in the neighborhood, but let it go at that. If the time came when he felt that the only way to save the boy was to adopt him and take him away from there, he would ask Lawyer Parker to do the investigating.

He spoke to a group of ragged boys; there was a dozen of them, leaning on a broken railing on a street corner. After he had taken a few steps he heard their noisy laughter. He turned quickly. A stout red head was following him down the sidewalk, now imitating his prominent limp.

He retraced his steps. The boy in the freckled-faced, there was smiling devilment in his blue eyes, a ragged shirt open at all the seams, partially covered his shoulders, his thick chest, a pair of pants, holes in the knees and the back side showed much boy.

"You shouldn't do that, son," he said quietly. "After all—"

"Hell, mister" the boy said, "can't a guy have a bit of fun?"

"Sure, sure," he said, "but why pick on me—an old soldier? I suppose because I can't help it—" he spoke the urchins gathered around him.

"Gee, mister," the red head said, "I'm sorry—I wouldn't do that to a soldier. I like soldiers. I'm going to be one when I grow up." He stopped: "Look, mister," and then he gave commands, commands that were obeyed with alacrity: "All in your guys, make it snappy. Right dress, eyes right, from the right—number, odd numbers two pace mark time, halt, dismiss you dirty bums," then he returned to Bradley, to bring his heels together, saluted and asked, "How's that, sir?"

Lance Bradley returned the salute.

"That's pretty darn good, son!" he chuckled, not aware at the moment that this boy was the split image of himself. "But you made one mistake, son. Never salute a sergeant, he never deserves it. Yes, I ought to know, for I was a sergeant over there."

The boys broke up, a dirty hand was on his arm, enquiring eyes were searching his face.

"Were you wounded, mister?"

"Yes." Lance Bradley saw in the faces of these boys a demand for nothing but the truth, so he pulled up his pant'leg. "There—" he said, "I was bayoneted by a wounded German."

"Gee, I hope you killed that dirty Hun," red head said.

"No, as a matter of fact I did not, but he was properly looked after, you may be sure. Now," placing a hand on the boy's head "What's your name, son?"

"Goldie."

"Goldie—what?"

"Goldie Webster," another boy broke in, "he lives over there."

"I'll be seeing more of you, Goldie, I hope," Lance said. "Here—" he ran his hand into his pocket and slipped a coin into the boy's hand. "Take your mates over to the store and get yourselves some cream—compliments of an old soldier, eh?"

"By doing good with his money" was still ringing in his ears long after the boys left him. Yes, by doing good with his money—never to the Salvation Army on his list of those who should be helped, but to the person who is spreading so much money around must have the idea that money can be satisfactorily invested in human happiness—or something."

"He must, and he's certainly placing it where it will do the most good. And, do you know I admire a man like that, a man who won't let his left hand know what his right hand is doing. Evidently he's not trying to make a big shot of himself, not trying to get his name in the paper—"

"It must be nice to have money to spend like that, Dad, don't you think? Not that I'm rich, I—"

"Yes, if you were rich, I believe you'd do just what this anonymous friend is doing. I've seen proof of your generosity before—remember the night you gave the Salvation Army the fifty cent piece I gave you to get something to eat, and how hungry you were?"

"Dad reminding me, dad," Lance spoke up, "I never repaid that loan. What would be the compound interest on fifty cents for seven or eight years?"

"Depends on the rate or interest, but—forget it. By the way, son, how did you make out with your mining stock? I haven't heard you say."

"Didn't lose anything," Lance said non-committally.

"Putting money into mining stock is a great risk, don't you think?"

"Yeah, I guess it is. I guess it's a risk all right."

"Well, you can't say I didn't warn you."

"Yeah, I know you did. If I lost my money, the fault is all mine."

The stories of this strange person's great generosity grew apace. The Red Cross acknowledged the new donation; the Horticultural Society was provided with sufficient money to place flower beds on every available corner in the town's business section; the baseball club would have covered stands, a new fence, and an up-to-date diamond; playground equipment, teeters, slides, swings, were to arrive at the park for the use of the children when a crippled war veteran to supervise their play; and as the greatest need of all, workmen started to prepare the park centre for a cenotaph, to contain all the names of the boys killed overseas. These were actualities. On the wheel from the chaff of the many stories in circulation. But it was noticeable that the donor was leaving the school, school property to the town council and its Mayor Joe Crookes, a small man with a dubious reputation. Behind the scenes, behind all this, Lance Bradley and his friend, Lawyer Parker, were trying to spread one hundred thousand dollars over the community without spreading it too thin, and they were having a heap of fun as they planned.

Dad Roberts wrote an editorial on this anonymous giver of so many good things. It was called him Public Friend No. 1, a truly great generosity, and reading that editorial, Lance Bradley felt very humble, yet very grateful. "By doing good with his money, a man stamps it with his image, and it passes on earth as the coin of heaven. Yep, that was it, but there was more to it than that as far as he was concerned. He was feeding a soul that had been deprived of boyhood, a soul that had starved for the love and affection of parents, parents he had never seen or known.

By now Lance Bradley looked on every man, woman and child that he met in the street as get such work done. He spoke to Dad Roberts about it, asked him to write an editorial.

And a few days after the paper was out, Dad returned to the office to say that the business block on the nearby corner had been bought by someone as yet unknown, that the business-men occupying the premises would move into new places which someone who might need the help that he could give. With the hundred kegs of the promoter, the builder, he was seeing buildings that must be removed or repaired and rebuilt before Emerton could consider itself a neat, appearing town. And with better conditions as they were, plenty of idle men, and correspondingly low wages, now would be a good time to had been secured for them as part of the bargain, that the building would be remodelled.

"What's going in there? A chain store?" Lance asked.

"One can never tell," Dad beamed. "I guess that editorial I wrote didn't do any harm."

"I wouldn't be surprised, dad. Your editorial was like casting your bread on the waters—some day, mark you, it may come back to you buttered both sides—"

"And toasted," Dad laughed. "Great is the potency of printer's ink."

Bus Plunges Into Icy Lake, 35 Drowned

Bolzano, Italy, Aug. 14. (CP)—Thirty-five persons were drowned last night when a crowded excursion bus plunged into an icy Alpine lake.

Only one passenger, a woman, was rescued. Police said she crawled through a bus window and was pulled from the waters of Lake Resia near the Swiss border by several men in a rowboat.

The accident occurred when the bus lost a rear wheel and veered off the road, plunging down 25-foot embankment. It sank in about 46 feet of water.

DISCUSS WRONG REPORT

St. Catharines, Aug. 14 (CP)—It took city council members nearly five minutes Monday to discover they were discussing the wrong report.

When Alderman W. R. Bald, chairman of the finance committee, read his report of the last committee meeting, the council debated several points for nearly five minutes before it was noticed that he had the works committee report.

"I did it deliberately to see if the council is on the job," said Ald. Bald as the proper report was handed to him.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 15, 1951

N.Y. State Argues Commission Wrong in Denying Application To Build River Power Plants

Washington, Aug. 15—(AP)—New York State argued today that the federal power commission acted in an "arbitrary and unreasonable" manner in denying its application to build St. Lawrence River power plants.

The state, through its power authority, took this position in a brief prepared for the United States court of appeals. The authority asks that the commission's order of Dec. 23, 1950, denying the application, be set aside and that the case be sent back to the commission for further action.

The commission's order, the authority said, was not only "arbitrary and unreasonable" but was unsupported by not even a scintilla of evidence.

The brief further stated that not only was the power authority's record of testimony uncontradicted, but also that the commission's own witnesses supported the application as meeting the requirements of the Federal Power Act.

The power authority is an independent state agency, created by law, to develop the hydro electric resources of the St. Lawrence and Niagara rivers.

The authority contends its proposal to develop St. Lawrence power is in harmony with plans of the army engineers, and that it would in no way hamper construction of the St. Lawrence seaway when and if that project is ever approved by Congress.

Undertaken by Govt.

The commission, in its order, said the power project should be undertaken by the federal government — necessarily involving congressional action.

The combined seaway and power project has been rejected several times by Congress in the last 20 years. Only last month the public works committee of the House of Representatives shelved legislation to authorize the project.

The authority argued that its application, approved by the commission's own staff, — if permitted to be undertaken — "not only utilizes a valuable water resource for power purposes, but in addition offers the most expeditious method of constructing the over-all (seaway) project contemplated by the commission."

The brief said that the case was the first in the 30-year history of the commission which it had referred to Congress. This action, it said, was not "warranted or justified."

It said that the commission's action, unless reversed, would "arbitrarily hold the proposed 900, Engineers estimate that the annual power yield would approximate 13,000,000,000 kilowatt hours.

Princess Anne Holds Birthday Party at Scotland

Balmoral, Scotland, Aug. 15 (CP)—Britain's youngest princess today tried out her six teeth on a birthday cake with one candle.

Princess Anne, daughter of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, celebrated her first birthday at Birkhall, the royal couple's summer residence. Tele. grams from well-wishers poured in from many parts of the world.

Reports from Birkhall said Prince Charles, her brother who is almost three, insisted on opening up the birthday presents for his sister.

Princess Anne is third in line of succession to the throne, behind Princess Elizabeth and Prince Charles.

The project, as proposed by the authority, would be undertaken with the province of Ontario, at a cost estimated in 1948 at $463,274,-

Hearst Leaves Bulk of Estate To His Widow

San Francisco, Aug. 15—(AP)—William Randolph Hearst came back today to the city where he began building a newspaper domain that was to become known throughout the world.

His body, accompanied by four of his five sons, was flown to San Francisco from Beverly Hills, where he died yesterday after a series of strokes. He was 88.

Funeral arrangements were awaiting the arrival from New York of his widow, Mrs. Millicent V. Hearst, who is accompanied by a fifth son, John. Burial will take place in Cypress Lawn Cemetery, where the publisher's father, U.S. Senator George Hearst, and his mother, Mrs. Phoebe Apperson Hearst, were buried.

Four of Hearst's sons were at his bedside when he died. They are William Randolph, jr., George, David and Randolph. Also present were Martin F. Huberth, chairman of the board of the Hearst Corporation, and Richard E. Berlin, president of the Hearst Corporation.

Hearst's 57-page typewritten will already has been filed for probate in Los Angeles. His widow was left $1,500,000 in cash and the income from a $6,000,000 trust fund.

Former screen actress Marion Davies, in a codicil dated Aug. 13, 1947, was bequeathed the publisher's Beverly Hills home but a codicil, dated Sept. 8, 1948, revoked the bequest without explanation.

His will directs that the estate be divided into two trust funds—one for the family and the other the residuary or charitable trust.

Executors of the estate, the will directs, are not to part with ownership or any of the Hearst publications "unless it shall, in their opinion, be necessary or prudent to do. . ."

His sons are to get enough preferred stock to realize an annual income of $150,000 to be added to the shares of common stock in the Hearst Corporation.

Hearst's death closed a career of 63 years in newspaper publisher. He built a newspaper chain that at its peak represented a $200,000,000 enterprise.

The extent of Hearst's vast estate today was discussed in his will but it may be learned at a probate hearing set for Aug. 27.

Premier Frost Praises Work Of Commission

Toronto, Aug. 15 (CP) — Premier Frost yesterday complimented the Ontario Racing Commission for what he termed its thorough and effective investigations into race "fixing."

"Recent events have shown how right the appointment of the commission was," said the Premier.

The commission was created by the Ontario legislature at its 1950 session. Previously, racing in the province had been under the jurisdiction of the Incorporated Canadian Racing Association which lacked the commission's power to compel witnesses to testify under oath.

The commission's investigations in the last two weeks so far have resulted in the life suspension of six jockeys of whom two have been arrested on criminal charges, in the indefinite suspension of two others and in $100 fines for six for failing to report bribe offers promptly.

Two trainers have been suspended—one for life—and three persons have been arrested while attempting to cash tickets on fixed races.

Last night W. E. MacDonald Mitchell, Q.C., counsel for the commission, said the commission had the names of many of those who had "practised fraud and deceit on the public...the past 10 years." The rest would eventually be discovered, names and offences would be disclosed to the public and criminal action taken where warranted.

57,000 School Pupils to be Given Flags

Toronto, Aug. 15—(CP)—Union Jacks for every one of Toronto's 57,000 school children will provide Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh with a red, white and blue welcome when they visit this city Oct. 5.

The board of education has recommended purchase of six-by-eight-inch flags at an estimated cost of $3,500.

The Royal couple will follow the traditional route of all distinguished visitors to Toronto — from Union Station up Bay Street to city hall.

Decisions to include city hall on the tour means that the district covered structure will get a facelifting. City officials said recently they wouldn't bother to clean up the building unless the Princess and her husband were going to see it.

The school kids will get an opportunity to welcome the visitors at a mass rally, location of which is still to be decided.

Long Tour of City

Hamilton—(CP)—Hamiltonians are assured of getting a good look at Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip when they visit here Sunday, Oct. 7.

It was announced today that tentative plans for the Royal visit include a 5½-mile tour of city streets to the civic stadium where 20,000 to 30,000 school children will be gathered.

Following a 15 to 30 minute ceremony there, the Royal couple will return to the centre of the city and place a wreath at the cenotaph.

Thence, Their Highnesses will travel to the armories, where the Princess will be guests of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders.

Labor's General Staff May be Dissolved

New York, Aug. 15—(CP)—The New York Times says today that organized labor's general staff, an emergency partnership of the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations, faces collapse.

The Times says in a Washington dispatch that A.F.L. president William Green, in a meeting late last week in Montreal, has been authorized to dissolve the 7-member United Labor Policy Committee.

The committee was formed last December by the two big labor groups and the International Association of Machinists and the Railway Labor Executives' Association. Its purpose was to deal with problems of defence mobilization and wage-price controls on a united basis.

The story says the A.F.L. council's decision will go before the annual A.F.L. convention in San Francisco next month.

A spokesman for the C.I.O. is quoted as expressing his "surprise and astonishment" at the council's decision, the Times says. President Philip Murray, who was not immediately available for comment, had recently extolled the U.L.P. C's work as "most constructive," it says.

Explorers Seek Traces of Early Man in Deep Cave

Oloron, France, Aug. 15 (AP)—Two explorers Tuesday went 400 feet farther down into the deepest cave ever explored, seeking new traces of a prehistoric civilization that once flourished in southwestern France.

The explorers, members of a French-Belgian team, reached 1,505 feet below the surface, deeper by far than modern man has previously descended in a natural cave.

The Pyrenees area of France already has yielded several traces of prehistoric man, including a fantastic cave paintings found at Lascaux, a few miles north of the cave now being explored.

LOOKING AFTER DUMP

Stratford, Aug. 15 — (CP) — City councillors here are going to look into the situation at the city dump. Smoke, dust and odors from the huge open dump have provoked many complaints from nearby residents and even as far away as the neighboring township of South Easthope. The councillors are considering what action to take.

French Priest and Six Nuns Accused of Maltreating Children Are to be Deported

Hong Kong, Aug. 15—(Reuters)—A French priest and six nuns accused of maltreating orphanage children are to be deported from China, the pro-communist newspaper Takungpao reported today.

The priest, Father Robert Labas, formerly of Lille, was sentenced to three years in jail and the nuns to sentences ranging from six to 12 months by a Kwangshowwan, south China, court.

The sentences were immediately suspended and the deportation orders substituted.

The newspaper said that 30,000 persons attended the trial, at which it was alleged the accused caused the deaths of 13,000 children at two orphanages under their control.

Several Canadian Roman Catholic nuns are being held by the Chinese reds, charged with the same offence—mistreating orphans.

The paper also reported that three French sisters had been arrested at Holhow, Hainan Island, on charges of maltreating children at St. Paul's orphanage.

They will face charges at a public trial, the paper said. Authorities have taken over the orphanage.

All foreign Christian missions working in communist China were ordered to cease activity under a July 27 order by Premier Chou En-Lai.

A month earlier it was announced here that all foreign members of religious orders working in China had been directed by their orders to leave. Priests were told to stay behind as long as possible.

Originally there were 5,400 nuns and priests in China, Communist pressure and persecution has forced more than one-third to leave. Others have been jailed on trumped-up charges.

Smothering Heat Wave in Texas Is Continuing

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 15 (AP) — Texans wonder if 1951 will be remembered as the year of the big scorch.

The smothering heat wave threatens lean harvests from the Gulf coast to the Panhandle. Seared pasture lands are sending lank cattle to an early market. At least 30 are dead from effects of the blazing sun.

No relief in sight.

After thundershowers brought brief respite to some sections during the weekend, the scorching temperatures soared again yesterday. College Station had 106 degrees, Fort Worth 105, Dallas 104.

Labor Minister Says Oshawa Report Untrue

Oshawa, Ont., Aug. 15.—(CP)—Labor Minister Gregg had denied a suggestion that the Oshawa office of the Unemployment Insurance Commission is being used for recruiting for the armed forces.

He said investigation has revealed nothing to substantiate such assertions as one made last month by William Rutherford, United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.) delegate, who told the Oshawa and District Labor Council that clerks at the commission's office here had asked some unemployed young men why they did not join the army.

The minister said in a letter to the Labor Council yesterday that "the commission in its administration offices throughout Canada would not countenance any such conduct on the part of its employees".

The Kibitzer

Every once in a while some expert is struck by an idea and thinks he is being shrewd. Like those who say my rule per a takeout double is different from that of cumbersome systems.

How do they get such an impression? The Sloco Scuse rule says it in a few words; the cumbersome rules cover a lot of territory in reach the same conclusion without meaning any more.

They will say it shows three house tricks in three suits with intermediates if any one suit has less than four cards; or three house tricks in two suits with a rebiddable suit.

They continue to say: Also, the hand must have either support for an unbid major or equivalent values and an acceptable suit if there is any suit partner may bid for which fourher has no support.

Why must they make all these provisions to protect their takeout double? Because their opponent bid is not always sound. Times are when their three honor tricks contain less than four highs.

To protect this occasional deficiency they must throw guards all around the place. They must apply the principles of preservation or the principle of anticipation; or they may be in dander.

In Horse Sense we need not go into so many details. We say: If you have enough for a true opening one bid you have enough for a takeout double; automatically what they say is needed.

So, when you come right down to it and include their provisions you will find their doubles the same as mine. Only difference is you can remember mine in three few words. As good as a true opening of one.

Your opponent in south opens with a bid of one heart when you have the west hand shown here:

"Gambling House" and Fast-Paced Variation" Entertaining" Bill

With its melodramatic romance "Gambling House", now showing at one of two features at the Belle Theatre, has struck a timely note in presenting a striking story.

Victor Mature, Terry Moore and William Bendix are featured in the unusual picture. Mature and Bendix as rival gamblers, Miss Moore as a hotel switchboard worker active in settling newly-arrived immigrants.

Mature accepts an offer of fifty thousand dollars from Bendix to take the blame for a killing, and manages to get off on a self-defence plea. Bill Bendix wishes on paying the money and the immigration service, learning that Mature has never been naturalized, prepares to deport him as an undesirable alien.

His awakening to the value of privileges, now that he is in imminent danger of losing them, leads to the tense climax of the film, that has been given high realism and conviction.

Toronto's Harbor Development Is Big Asset

Toronto — (CP) — There are 1,300 acres of waterfront in Toronto that weren't there in grandfather's time.

The land, reclaimed from Lake Ontario during the last 40 years, is the result of a municipal investment of $20,000,000 in the development and administration of the city harbor. For their money taxpayers have received the 1,300 acres complete with about 30 miles of railway trackage, 10 miles of streets, 10½ miles of berthing space for ships and a baseball stadium.

In addition, part of the land used for the Canadian National Exhibition and all of the thriving Sunnyside amusement centre was dredged up from the lake bottom.

In 40 years the harbor area assessment has increased from $1,986,804 to $59,392,536. In 1912

See Air Races Reducing Flying Times to N.Z.

By J. C. GRAHAM
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Auckland, N.Z. (CP)— Flying time between England and New Zealand may be cut to around 24 hours when the world's longest air race is held in 1953.

Hume D. Christie president of the Canterbury International Air Race Council which is controlling the race from London to Christchurch, says Jet planes should be able to cover the distance in between 20 and 26 hours, and that does not include the possibility of development of newer and faster planes before the race is held.

In 1919, Ross and Keith Smith flew from England to Darwin, Australia, in 28 days. By 1930 Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith had cut this time to just under 10 days.

In the famous London-to-Melbourne air race of 1934 the time was reduced to less than three days for a much longer distance.

The race in 1953, will be the longest and possibly the most important in aviation history. Already several leading English aircraft manufacturers have notified their intention of entering new planes in the speed section, and several leading air lines have announced they will enter the transport section.

The transport section is a new departure in air racing. It is open to air liners carrying passengers, under a handicapping formula which takes all factors into account, including passenger comfort. Some air line operators expect they will be besieged by passengers wishing to make the trip and think the race might even be a paying proposition quite apart from the prestige factor.

Rich Prizes Offered

Prizes will be awarded in both speed and transport sections, the first prize in each section being £30,000.

The route will in general follow that of the early pioneers along the England-Australia journey, but whereas the London-Melbourne race had 23 check points in the handicap section and 10 in the speed section, there will be only one check point on the whole route in the 1953 race. This will be in the neighborhood of Basra.

Consequently there will be a wide variety of choice of route and method of flying. It is thought that some of the larger planes may fly the course virtually non-stop apart from the call at the check point. Various Great Circle courses will be possible, although iron curtain areas will make some of these impracticable. The question of aerial refuelling may also be involved.

FORMER MINISTER DIES

Vancouver, Aug. 15 —(CP) — William Curtis Shelly, 73, former British Columbia finance minister, died Tuesday.

Mr. Shelly came to Vancouver from his native Jordan, Ont., in 1910 and with his brother, Frederick, started the Shelly Brothers Bakery.

Mr. Shelly was finance minister in the Conservative Simon Tolmie government from 1928 to 1930.

Wings Trim Bisons For 8th Straight; Orioles Nip Chiefs

(By The Associated Press)

Kazi Drews, [illegible] righthander with Baltimore Orioles, is one of the hardest pitchers in the International League.

Drews, up in the Majors previously with New York Yankees and St. Louis Browns, appears headed back to the big show, but this time with Philadelphia Phillies of the National League, who have a working agreement with the Orioles.

Drews made his 24th appearance for the sixth-place Orioles last night and [illegible] turning in his 19th complete game. He beat Syracuse Chiefs 6-3 on five hits for his 13th victory but was lifted in the ninth when he walked the first batter, pinch-hitter Augie Bergamo, Bilx Donnelly retired the next three hitters.

Rochester second-place Red Wings ran their winning streak to eight games as knuckle-ball artist Bob Porterfield turned back Buffalo Bisons 9-1 on seven hits. Marty Tabacheck doubled home Frenzy Leeman with two on in the ninth for the lone Buffalo run. The Wings collected 16 hits with Don Richmond and Steve Bilko showing the way with three each. The other games were idle.

Four Marks Set At Thornecliffe

Toronto, Aug. 15 —(CP) — Thornecliffe Raceway bolstered its claim to being the fastest harness racing track in Canada Tuesday when seven horses set new lifetime speed records for themselves.

Five of Monday's winners set new lifetime marks for themselves.

Those horses which lowered their records Tuesday were: Tooley Patch, owned by A. Hardersee, of Fleshertom, Ont; Bert Patch, Jr., owned by Hugh McLean, of Port Rigby; Castle Brook Ace owned by Louis Mack of Hamilton, and Turnabout, owned by J. S. McIntyre, of Peterborough.

Merry England, owned by Dr. J. R. Ferguson of Chatham, and Castle Brook, divided the spoils in the two divisions of the day's feature race.

The Goodwill Cup for two-year-old pacers, with a purse of $676 was staged as a hotless race before the opening of the regular program. As expected, Bobby Herbert from the powerful Herbert Stable, London, spread-eagled his field and won in 2.13 without being extended. Johnnie G. finished second and Barbara Mac was third.

Joe Bivins Spots Lewis 30 Pounds; Fight Tonight

Baltimore, Aug. 15—(AP)—Joe Louis is expected to have at least a 30-pound pull in the weights tonight when he meets Jimmy Bivins of Cleveland in a 15-round outdoor bout at Baltimore stadium.

The Louis camp expects the former heavyweight champion to scale about 210.

Whatever Louis weighs, he's going to have a terrific bulge on Bivins.

The Clevelander came here to train last week at only 178.

Despite the weight spread, plenty of people figure Bivins is going to give Louis a stiff fight. About 13,000 already had bought their tickets last night and the promoters confidently expect nearly twice that many to be present for a $100,000 gate.

Thousands more will see the fight, eighth in Louis' comeback try, in 15 theatres in eight cities.

Louis is a 4-1 favorite.

Amateur Golf Tourney Slated For Ottawa

Ottawa, Aug. 15 (CP)—Sam Urzetta of Rochester, N.Y., United States amateur golf champion, is among 70 golfers already entered in the Canadian amateur golf championships, tourney officials announced today.

The championships are to be played at the Royal Ottawa Golf Club here from Aug. 25 to Sept. 1.

The entry list includes the eight teams which will compete for the Willingdon trophy as well as the list of junior provincial representatives.

There is also one of nine American golfers seeking to lift the title from Bill Mawhinney of Vancouver.

Mawhinney last year ended a long U.S. grip on the Canadian simon pure golf crown, beating Nick Weslock of Windsor, Ont., in the final. Both are oft their respective province's Willingdon Cup teams and are entered in the amateur again.

Remember When

(By The Canadian Press)

C. Ross (Sandy) Somerville of London, Ont., won the Canadian Amateur Golf Title for the fourth time by defeating Arthur Yates of Rochester, N.Y., three and two at Montreal, 20 years ago today. Somerville went on to win the title again in 1935 and 1937 before leaving competitive golf to serve in the Canadian Army.

PITCHING POWER THAT HAS KEPT INDIANS ON WARPATH

Proud manager Al Lopez, of the Cleveland Indians, is seen posing with the ace hurlers who deserve the major portion of the credit for the Indians' first position leadership in the American League. Despite mediocre hitting the hurlers have kept the Indians on the heels of the New York Yankees. Lopez, who is serving his first year as manager, Early Wynn, won 11, lost 11, and Bob Lemon, won 12, lost 9. — Central Press Canadian.

$100,000 Filly Eyes Rich Stake

Chicago, Aug. 15 (AP)—Princess Lygia will try to clinch her bid for the 1951 two-year-old filly championship as the odds-on favorite in the $58,785 Princess Pat Stakes at Washington Park today.

She'll also be trying to earn back roughly one-half of the $100,000 her new owner, Louis R. Mayer, Hollywood movie producer, reportedly shelled out yesterday in acquiring the unbeaten winner of five straight races this year.

The winner's share of this stirfuring event, richest in the nation to date, will be $47,320 if all 18 entries go to the post.

Mayer purchased Princess Lygia from Mrs. Harry Trotsek, Louisville, Ky., whose trainer husband had bought the filly as a yearling for $3,000.

Trotsek is also one of the finest shots in the tournament in the semi-finals against E. Edney's rink from Kingston, when he scored the winning point in the 11-10 match.

Cheny yesterday defeated the last Toronto rink in the Eaton, E. V. Cooper's Boulevard foursome, 14-9. He overcame the Boulevard's 4-3 lead at the end of the sixth to hold an 11-5 margin at the finish.

In the semi-finals for the Robert Simpson Trophy T. Gerdon's Hamilton Rosslawn team defeated Toronto Deniorals rink, under G. Smith, 14-11. The second Deniorals rink skipped by S. Houghton was beaten 22-11 by the team from Cornwall skipped by M. Rouleau.

Tomorrow, third day of play in the five-day tournament will also see the opening of doubles play for the Townsend-Clark, Parker, Pen, Birks-Ellis-Ryrie and Kenzie trophies.

Ottawa, Hamilton In Bowls Final

Toronto, Aug. 15 (CP) — An Ottawa and a Hamilton lawn bowling rink will meet today in the finals for the Eaton Gold Trophy at Toronto's Boulevard Club, at the same time, another Hamilton team will vie with a Cornwall rink for the Robert Simpson Trophy.

Competing for the Eaton Trophy, considered the most important rink award in Ontario, will be a Hamilton Fenleigh crew skipped by Robert Hall and the Ottawa rink skipped by Dr. H. H. Cheney.

Bell has the chance to win the trophy for a second time. He skipped a rink which won in 1949.

Yesterday he laid one of the finest shots in the tournament in the semi-finals against E. Edney's rink from Kingston, when he scored the winning point in the 11-10 match.

Cheny yesterday defeated the last Toronto rink in the Eaton, E. V. Cooper's Boulevard foursome, 14-9. He overcame the Boulevard's 4-3 lead at the end of the sixth to hold an 11-5 margin at the finish.

In the semi-finals for the Robert Simpson Trophy T. Gerdon's Hamilton Rosslawn team defeated Toronto Deniorals rink, under G. Smith, 14-11. The second Deniorals rink skipped by S. Houghton was beaten 22-11 by the team from Cornwall skipped by M. Rouleau.

Lacrosse

(By The Canadian Press)

Peterborough Petes and Fergus Thistles last night both finished their regular schedule of Ontario Lacrosse Association league games with a victory.

Petes had no trouble downing Brampton Excelsiors 13-3 at Peterborough while the Thistles came from behind in their game at St. Catharines to defeat Athletics 13-7.

Kingsway Trims Peterborough 9-5

(By The Canadian Press)

Kitchener Legionnaires today wrested over whether they'll have to defend their fourth-place playoff spot in the Senior International Baseball League after last night's 5-2 loss to St. Thomas.

Waterloo Tigers, trailing the Legionnaires by one-half game, have a chance to tie them by beating London Majors tonight. If Majors win the schedule's last game, Kitchener will be home free.

Galt also plays at Guelph tonight in their last games.

Last night's encounter in St. Thomas wound up the regular schedule for both St. Thomas and Kitchener. In the only other game last night, Galt Terriers edged London Majors 4-3 in an 11-inning affair that made no difference to the four-team playoff lineup.

St. Thomas put on an extra effort for an Appreciation and Booster Night affair that brought out 1,500 hometown fans. The win was the St. Thomas team's 14th against 34 defeats and the loss Kitchener's 26th against 22 victories.

In a Niagara district game last night, the league-leading Niagara Falls Ferds took a 7-1 win over the North Tonawanda Dodgers and stretched their lead over St. Catharines Stags to a full four games.

In Viaduct League action last night, Toronto Kingsway downed the loop-leading Peterborough Peter 9-5. Toronto Hatfords dropped a curtain raiser to Oshawa Merchants 4-2 but bounced back in the nightcap to win 12-7.

Warm Reception Given Marlene

(By The Canadian Press)

At Pontiac, everybody went overboard for 17-year-old Marlene Stewart Tuesday. Celebrating her double win in the Canadian ladies Open and Closed golf tournaments at Laval-Sur-le-Lac near Montreal, her home town turned out to give her its official but affectionate welcome.

Marlene, who came home Monday and left again Tuesday to play at Niagara-on-the Lake, was greeted at Wellard railway station by Mayor David Thomas.

She climbed into an open convertible and rode through Wellard streets to this community four miles away. More than 5,000 persons cheered her in Wellard, the county seat, and during the 100-car procession which bore her in triumph home.

Marlene, who still has two years of high school to finish, was dazed by the welcome.

Carter Wins Over Trigo

Los Angeles, Aug. 15 (AP) — Lightweight champion Jimmy Carter, 135, won an unanimous decision last night over Mario Trigo, 136½, Los Angeles, in a 10-round non-title bout at Olympic auditorium before 4,100 fans.

The New York Negro took eight of the rounds and the others were even. In the third round, a right hook sent Trigo to the canvas for a seven count.

Claim Liquor Started Brawl; Prexy Fired

Rouyn, Que., Aug. 15 (CP) — Ted Soucie, president of the Rouyn-Noranda Junior Baseball League, was asked to resign Monday night.

The request came at a meeting of the league executive called to investigate a brawl among members of a junior team on a bus last week. The team's general manager demanded Soucie's resignation "because he is not doing his job."

Police, meanwhile, began investigating Soucie's charges voiced after the bus incident that junior athletes are drinking in clubs and taverns despite the law prohibiting sale of liquor to minors.

Soucie, 45-year-old theatre owner and a baseball executive since arriving here 10 years ago, said liquor was responsible for the fight among players on the J. P. Ross junior baseball team after a game last Wednesday.

The affray lasted about 15 minutes after the bus arrived in nearby Noranda, but the players retired to their homes on the arrival of a city policeman. No arrests were made.

Tunney Picks New Heavy Champ

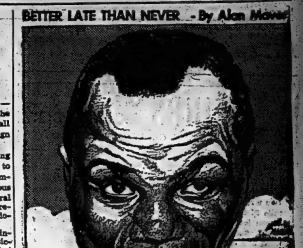
Portland, Ore., Aug. 15 (AP) —Gene Tunney, ex-world heavyweight boxing champion, has come to the defence of ring promoters.

Here on a business trip, he told the Portland Oregonian yesterday that the International Boxing Club has invested considerable money in boxing. The club is merely trying to protect its investment, he said.

Tunney now a Danbury, Conn., business executive, was referring to a proposed congressional investigation of boxing.

Tunney said he would pick Rocky Marciano as the man who eventually will wear the heavyweight crown.

Marciano is inexperienced, but he has a great future—"if he can take it," said Tunney. "He's a terrific puncher with both hands."



Sports Ink Reclaims Walker

Toronto, Aug. 15—(CP)—Gordon Walker, 36, announced last night that he is resigning as business manager of the Toronto Maple Leaf ball club, effective at the end of the baseball season and will return to the Globe and Mail where he was a sports writer 15 years.

He has been business manager for a year at the International League club recently bought by Jack Cooke, owner of Toronto radio station CKEY owner and publisher of New Liberty magazine, Cooke said Walker's ultimate replacement will be Bill Hodgson, public relations head at CKEY.

"I want to go back to baseball writing so I can see a game . . . and I'd like to see how my family gets along in the summer time."

"UP, THE GLENS"

Glen Rovs will carry the banner of Belleville Intermediate "A" softball into the Ontario Amateur Softball Association playdowns, the Glens won the honor last night at Alexandra Field when they defeated the gallant Rovs and Hagerman team to clean-sweep the three-fl'ver series. The Glens exploded for eight runs in the decisive second inning and the margin proved too great for the plumbers to handle.

Glen Rovs are worthy representatives of the city. They have played consistently good softball from the start, and although boasting plenty of offensive and defensive power, they by no means won the championship the easy way. Like any team they had their share of that intangible thing in sport, the "breaks" but usually they capitalized on them. Their hitting power is fairly well distributed down the line and in Bob Hunter, Don Boyle and Marty Hallerest, they have a twirling staff that should rank with the best the future opposition can produce.

It is Belleville's first entry into OASA playdowns in a number of years, and softball fandom will generally agree that the Glens put on an excellent account of themselves when they meet the "foreign" teams in playdown series. They may not win the provincial title, but some teams will know they have been in a softball game before the Glens say "enough."

Their first playdown tilt will be played on August 23rd against the winner of the Kingston-Viney Barracks series. The second game is scheduled for Belleville on August 25th.

POINT ANNE - PICTON TONIGHT!

Speaking of softball playdowns, the Point Anne team starts down the rocky trail to the provincial Intermediate "C" title tonight at the Point when they meet the fast-stepping Picton Army in the first game of a two-out-of-three first round series. The second game is scheduled for Picton on Friday evening. The Ox Pointers have a strong squad and should go quite a distance in Intermediate "C". But they face a tough test against the gunners of Sgain. The Indides of the Glens have a powerful squad, one which satisfied the Glen Rovs to the limit on a couple of occasions. However fandom here will be solidly behind the cement-village crew and will be rooting for them to bring home the proverbial bacon.

AUTO RACE SPECIAL!

Saturday will be a special day at the Speedway Parkland near Marysville when Promoter Dick Burrowes is staging a special card of races for the benefit of local and district drivers. This is the first series of events of its kind since the new sportsway opened last May 24th and not only is it a tribute to the prowess of the lads who took up this sport this season but will be productive of all the thrills that are forthcoming when seasoned veterans of the stock car tracks do their stuff.

Auto stock car racing caught on like a measles epidemic. The novelty of the sport struck a sympathetic response in the minds of several youthful drivers of the district and they immediately took advantage of the generous practice facilities provided for them by Mr. Burrowes. Nightly the young drivers practice on the splendid track that is Speedway Parkland, and by Saturday the local veterans and Canadian Auto Racing Association officials to be the best, not only from a racing standpoint but spectator safety as well, between Toronto and Montreal.

Burrowes too, is to be complimented on the effort he has put forth in his undertaking and making the sport the success it has proved here in one brief season. Experienced Toronto drivers were brought here to give a curious public the extremes in thrills of the new athletic attraction. It need only mention the fame of the rubber tired thrill-seeking drivers as well. The result is seen in the fifteen or twenty young throttle artists that have taken to the sport and are rapidly developing into expert race drivers.

Saturday, August 18th is their special day. Generous purses have been provided by the track management and the going list is expected to be a record one for the track. More about that later.

DON'T MISS THIS!

Wrestling bouts is striving hard in a series of new offerings for the long-haired sadistical fans it has had in years. On the other hand, the "villains" sit by nonchalantly smiling crafty smiles and smirking "Bring 'em on. We'll 'mother de beans'" or words to that effect.

Yassir, it looks like a cross between the retreat from Moscow an Irish Donnybrook; Custer's Last Stand, and a circus "Eve Rube" when Miles and Ben Sharpe clash with Fred Atkins and Lee Henning Friday night in Memorial Arena. The foursome called to a stalemate in last week's battle, but this time the time limit is off, and one of the duos must fall by the wayside. Should be a strenuous tilt with all four going out for victory.

Atkins and Henning claim they will make the handsome pair from Hamilton look like amateurs while Mike and Ben shrug their shoulders and declare: "They can use whatever, hooker they choose, we'll take them apart Friday night — and forget to put them together again." So, there it is.

Relief Hurler Rescues Lemon When Tigers Rally In Sixth; Williams Hits Two; 'Bums' Lose

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Lou Brissie is the unheralded cog in Cleveland Indian's stirring drive for the American League pennant.

Brissie is to the Indians what Joe Page was to New York Yankees in their successful 1947 and 1949 pennant campaigns. But unlike the former gay reliever of the Bombers, Brissie hasn't drawn the headlines.

Although Cleveland's "Big Four" of Bob Feller, Mike Garcia, Early Wynn and Bob Lemon have received most of the publicity, Brissie has contributed handsomely to the 2 1-3-game lead the Indians enjoy over the Yankees today.

The 27-year-old lefthander, severely wounded in Italy during the Second World War, pitched three scoreless innings in relief yesterday to gain credit for the Tribe's 6-5 10 inning victory over Philadelphia.

Yanks Keep Pace

The Yankees kept pace by defeating Washington Senators 6-3. The third-place Boston Red Sox whipped Philadelphia Athletics 7-4.

In the National League, New York Giants turned back Brooklyn Dodgers, 4-2, Boston Braves trounced Philadelphia 6-3, and Chicago Cubs edged St. Louis Cardinals 5-4. The rest of the clubs were idle.

Brissie, making his 34th appearance for the Indians, gained his third triumph. However, it was the 12th time he successfully bailed out a faltering starter. Brissie now has pitched 19 1-3 consecutive scoreless innings.

Lemon started for the Indians against Detroit's Fred Hutchinson. The Tigers knocked Lemon out with a three-run rally in the sixth. Brissie took over in the eighth and held the Tigers at bay the rest of the way. Jim Hegan singled home Harry Simpson from second base with two out in the 10th to break up the game. The victory was the Indians' 15th in 16 meetings with Detroit.

Williams Homers Twice

The Yanks scored three runs in the ninth with two out to down the Senators. Relief pitcher Bob Kuzava singled home the first run and Phil Rizzuto doubled the final two home.

Ted Williams drove home three runs on a pair of homers to lead the Red Sox to victory. The homers enabled Williams to wrest the league lead from the A's Gus Zernial, 25 to 24, and also boosted his RBI output to 100, tops in the majors. Mickey McDermott started for Boston but left in the sixth complaining of a pain in his left side. Chuck Stobbs and Walt Masterson finished up. The Sox pulled a triple play in the eighth.

Relief specialist George Spencer made his first start since May 15 and checked the Dodgers on six hits. The Giants sewed it up in the first scoring three runs on homers by Don Mueller and Whitey Lockman off Erv Palica. The victory was the Giants' first over the Dodgers in seven games.

Home runs by Ebba St. Claire and Sam Jethroe featured the Braves' triumph over Robin Roberts and the Phils. Rookie Chet Nichols scattered eight Philadelphia hits to bag his seventh victory.

Hank Sauer drove home all five Chicago runs in the 5-4 conquest of the Cards. Sauer blasted a two-run double and his 19th and 20th homers.

Ball As Big As a Grapefruit, Says Campanella

New York, Aug. 18—(AP)—Roy Campanella admits he is hitting the ball harder, offener and further than ever these days. But the solidly-built Brooklyn catcher can't see why.

"All I know is the ball looks as big as a grapefruit. And every time I hit it, she just seems to go over the fences."

But socking 18 home runs in 36 games must spell for an explanation, especially when he had hit only 10 in his first 78 games.

"You've got me there, brother," he said in an interview. "All I know is that I seem to have more confidence now than ever before. Sometimes I just have the feeling that I'm going to hit one over the fences, and sure enough, out of the park she goes.

"But the reason? Search me. I'm still using a 40-ounce bat in practice and a 37 during the game. I haven't changed my stance. My weight is the same."

Campanella has been getting more than his share of teaser hits, too. His batting average is a robust .334, more than 50 points above his life-time mark, and he has a runs-batted-in count of 79.

There isn't a more industrious catcher in the business. He has worked in all but six of the Dodgers' 110 games, often handling both ends of a doubleheader.

Injuries Worry Tennis Stars

Brookline, Mass., Aug. 15 (AP) —With Bill Talbert sidelined with an injured right ankle and a wrenched left knee, that veteran New Yorker and Gardnar Mulloy, his 37-year-old Coral Gables, Fla., partner, appeared good to be the victims of the National Doubles Tennis Tournament's first major upset today at Longwood.

Those four-time tourney winners, paired with Jiro Kumamaru of Japan, and Grant Golden of Chicago, in the sixth-seeded foreign team, for the most difficult of today's third round tests.

Instead, they were the foreign seeded list, Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor of Australia's Davis Cup defenders, appeared to have fairly easy third-round assignments against unranked Dave Mesker of Boston, and Edwin Wesley of Chevy Chase, Md.

Other competitive second-seeded pairs on both lists, Budge Patty of Los Gatos and Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, and Australia's Mervyn Rose and Don Candy, also drew easy qualifying tasks for Thursday's crucial quarter-finals action.

During yesterday's second round competition, most of the weaker entries in the four-day championship competition were brushed on the sidelines in fairly abrupt fashion.

Sports Roundup

By WILL GRIMSLEY
(For Ruth Fullerton, Jr.)

New York, Aug. 15—(AP)—Are you fat and fortyish? Getting a paunch? Going bald around the temples? Puffing after a flight of stairs?

Don't despair. You're just reaching your athletic peak. This is definitely the "pappy" era in sports.

The heavyweight boxing champion of the world is Jersey Joe Walcott, 37, the oldest man to win the title. The chief challenger is Joe Louis, essaying a comeback at 37.

The greatest golfer is Ben Hogan, still bagging the big ones at 35—10 years older than Bobby Jones was when he completed his grand slam and retired in 1930.

On the amateur side, perhaps the best golf is being played by Dick Chapman, 40, winner of the British amateur this spring.

Cleveland's Bobby Feller, once all washed up as a pitcher, has just won his 19th victory. Bob-by is 33. At 38, big John Mize is still smashing out vital home runs for New York Yankees.

In tennis, Gardnar Mulloy, 37, and Billy Talbert, 33, recently spanked the pants off the fuzz-faced wonders of the court, Dick Savitt and Tony Trabert.

Henry Dreyer, 40, who competed in the 1936 Olympics, recently won an American record in the 56-pound weight throw.

Are the young sprigs not developing into crack athletes fast enough or are the old codgers lasting longer?

"They're just lasting longer," explained Bernarr MacFadden

Edmonton Flyers Red Wing Farm

Edmonton, Aug. 15 (CP) — Coach Frank Currie of Edmonton Flyers of the Pacific Coast Hockey League last night confirmed the team has arranged a working agreement with Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League.

Currie said three players with the team last year in the annual tour Western Canada Major League are the property of N.H.L. teams and must be released by Flyers if they see to play with Edmonton again this season.

They are Doug Anderson and Colin Kilburn who have agreements with Montreal Canadiens and Ray Barry who is the property of Boston Bruins.

Currie added that in addition to new players obtained from Detroit farm teams the Edmonton squad will allow try-outs at its September training camp for players with last year's Flyers who wish to sign professional contracts.

The Edmonton coach will attend Detroit's junior training camp opening at Winnipeg next Saturday and Red Wings' main training camp opening at Sault Ste. Marie, Sept. 2.

Glen Roys Win City Softball Title

Clean-Sweep Final Playoffs With Howe-Hagerman Defeat; Meet Kingston in Playdowns

Glen Roy Athletic Club will represent the Commercial Softball League in the OASA Intermediate A playdowns.

They moved into the provincial playdowns last evening as they completed a sweep of single-game, two-in-five series with Howe and Hagerman with a 10-4 decision in nine innings, before the largest crowd of the season.

Glen Roy won the first two games of the series 9-1, and 6-5 in 10 innings.

The GRAC sent 13 men to the plate in a hectic second inning in which they scored Lum Carson from the bag, and racked up eight runs on eight hits, a walk and an error. It was one of the biggest single inning assault of the season and was more than enough to wrap up the game and the series.

Powerful Attack

While Glen Roy slammed out 13 hits in a powerful attack, Howe-Hagerman did adequately in the field as Bob Hunter turned in the third route going performance for a C.O.H. hurler in the series against the Plumbers.

Disastrous Second

Other than in the catastrophic second frame, Howe and Hagerman played steady ball with their highly regarded offensive strength piling up 10 safeties off Bob Hunter. They were unable to bunch the blows together and with Hunter walking only two men, couldn't get a rally underway.

Both teams scored once in the first inning. Howe and Hagerman picked up their run when left-fielder Harry Wardhaugh dropped Alf Rowbotham's fly for home.

Big Inning

In the big second inning, Bill Corbett started the ball rolling with a single to left field that was booted for an additional three bases.

Doug Sword and Jack Hunter doubled and Lyle Wanamaker was picked off third base when Leo Goyer doubled home brother Vern from second. Glen Roy collected

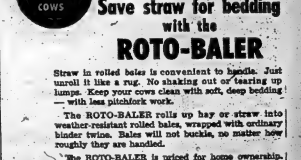
Ontario Slavery Recalled by Will

Whitby, Ont. (CP)—Say what therefore is that she be released and thereby accordingly released from all service and bond of bondage the said Dorinda and all and every one of their to be free."

In these words with their "Uncle Tom's Cabin" flavor one Robert Isaac Gray, a farmer in Ontario County, recognized the faithful services of his slaves and left them free.

The record of this act, that seems more like an event from the history of the Southern United States than from the backyard of Oshawa, Ont., is contained in one of the oldest and most unique wills on file in the Ontario County registry office at Whitby.

It recalls the days of Upper Canada when the organization and boundaries of the country were not as they are today—and when freedom was not for all persons.



Set Up Trust Fund

Farmer Gray died 90 years ago leaving a small estate of 100 acres and bequeathing freedom to his slaves. His will remains in a public state of preservation and contains the following clauses.

"In consequence of the long and faithful service of Dorinda my blackwoman servant rendered to me my family and to prisoners, nasmuch and discharge her from the state of slavery in which she now is and I do give her and all her children their freedom. My will therefore is that she be released . . .

". . . in order that provision may be made for the support of the said Dorinda and her children, and that she may not want after my decease my will is that I hereby empower my executor out of my real estate to raise the sum of $100 and place the same in some solvent and secure fund and that the interest arising from the same be given and bequeath to the said Dorinda and her and said heirs forever to her and said heirs forever two hundred acres of land . . . I do give Simon and John £50 each.

The land referred to by the testator is now incorporated in the city of Oshawa.

SCENES LIKE THIS MAKE "OLD SALTS" NOSTALGIC

Isolated Couple Make Fair Living by Raising Goats

Charleston, S.C. — (AP) — The hermit of Big Goat Island and his wife have found a way to get away from it all — or most of it anyway.

They have been living next to nature on a remote island in the inland waterway near here for more than a decade. Their only neighbors are 200 or so goats.

Self-sufficient and unbeatable, the couple asks only for people to leave them alone. For their purposes, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Holloway have hit on the ideal existence.

Holloway, 75, had to make a rare visit to the county courthouse here recently to swear he would not claim squatter's rights to the island. State law lets a person claim land on which he has resided for more than 10 years without the owner's objection.

Big Goat Island, which has about 300 acres of high land and considerable marshlands, is being sold to a Charleston lawyer. He has agreed to let the Hollaways stay.

County Probate Judge Clarence F. Limn, a principal owner of adjacent 430-acre Little Goat Island, told Holloway he could live there if he ever has to leave his present home.

"Then I've got two strings to my bow," Holloway declared.

"Don't be uneasy about me taking the island," he assured his new landlord, "because I ain't got the money to pay taxes on it."

The Holloways decided to leave town when hog prices plunged from 22 cents a pound wholesale to seven cents retail. They went first to the Isle of Palms, were evicted in 1940 and came to Big Goat.

Holloway estimates they sold 70,000 goats in their first five years on the island. Now they sell none, but kill about 150 a year for meat and hides. They make rugs, curtains, picture frames, handbags and upholstery from the skins and sell them in Charleston.

They grow tomatoes, onions, cucumbers, cantaloupes, watermelons and other produce, making their own fertilizer from animal bones. Rain water is their only beverage. They flavor it with syrup and goat's milk.

There was a house on the island when they arrived, but they soon tore it down and lived in shelters of leaves and boughs. Their present living quarters have no roof and are encircled by a series of fences made of old lumber, wire, burlap and castoff clothing.

"We never feel cold," Holloway said. "Animals are guided by inborn biological instincts and have tailor-made suits furnished by God. God didn't give man a house."

An amateur photographer, he develops and prints his own pictures of island scenes. At one time he had 1,130 pictures of his goats.

The couple said they found but one flaw in their island life. Boats on the inland waterways have a habit of sounding their horns and whistles as they pass.

"It's getting so my wife and I can't sleep for the noise," Holloway complained.

High Life Lurks Behind Drabness in East Berlin

Berlin. (AP)—A rugged, vodka-powered night life awaits the East Berliner with a fat pocketbook and the right political connections.

For the run-of-the-mill resident things are drab. The Socialist-Unity (communist) party in East Berlin manages things with an apparently austere and moral eye.

But scratch a highly-paid comrade and chances are you'll find quite a night life man underneath.

The party controls the public, so the matter of stretching the closing hour for East Berlin night clubs is easy for the red hierarchy.

A semblance of night life is permitted in two or three East Berlin night spots. These places are closed at 2 a.m. by stern Volkspolizei (People's Police) men. The East Berliner who scraped up enough for a brief fling goes home to prepare for his morning headache.

But after 2 a.m. the party hierarchy and the free spenders who "know a guy" take over.

Socialist Unity members who don't partake themselves, turn their heads at these bourgeois manifestations by party comrades.

They have one rule: don't kick up your heels where everybody can see.

Remember Party Status

But even the late-stayers pay tribute to their party status as proletarians. They nearly always toss away their ties and collars to show that they're really just workers relaxing a little.

There is no such thing as a girlie show in spy East Berlin night spots. Anyway, not until after 2 a.m. Then the vodka flows freely for the select and the roof is the limit.

Only one East Berlin spot pretends to offer cabaret entertainment to the casual customer. This is the Hajo Club, a place a few sizes bigger than a phone booth and always jammed to the hilt. They have a couple of sedately clothed dancers and a tired sextet or two.

But West Berliners taking advantage of the mark ratio in their favor sometimes go and East Berliners with enough set aside for a bit of vodka help fill up the place.

High party members go all-out on the bourgeois side and even have gambling parties, but it's all on the quiet, of course.

The big things after 2 a.m. are the vodka, the girls and the music. Some work-bound East Berliners have heard "decadent, capitalist music" descending the communist early morning air.

Brantford, Aug. 14 (CP) — Found in a downtown laneway early today suffering from head injuries, Harvey A. Johns, R. R. 4, Aylmer, was admitted to hospital.

Police said he had been robbed of approximately $50.

A truck driver who drove into the lane at 1:45 a.m. called police when he found Johns lying behind his truck, apparently injured. Traffic officer James Davison and constable R. Lucas investigated and stated that Johns appeared to have been hit on the head "and rolled" of his money.

His condition was described this morning as satisfactory.

Encouraging Step Taken Toward Solving Issue Over the Demarcation Line

Munsan, Korea, Aug. 17 (Friday)—(AP)—Truce talks moved into a new and informal phase today as Communist negotiators sought to break their long impasse over a demarcation line.

Highlight of the first small talk-consulting go try to untangle the main point over a demarcation line should be withdrawal between opposing armies.

It was the most encouraging step taken thus far toward solving this particular issue.

The cautious tactics came amid growing, but cautious, optimism the reds may be willing to compromise on their demand for a demilitarized zone back along the 38th parallel. The allies went it right where they now are, along the present battle line, as defensible terrain.

The sub-committee, consisting of two delegates from each side, was created Thursday. It will hold its first meeting at 11 a.m. today (9 p.m. EST Thursday). Meet Informally.

Its members will meet informally in Kaesong where formal, dress negotiations have been hocked over the same point for more than three weeks.

The U.N. command said it will issue no communiques during these meetings. And the press will not be briefed on what happened. The purpose is to allow the negotiators complete freedom in trying to find a satisfactory recommendation.

There was no indication how long the sub-committee will be in the hands of the sub-committee.

Daily sessions of the full Korean delegations will be suspended while the smaller group works.

The sub-committee idea was advanced Wednesday by Vice-Admiral C. Turner Joy, chief U.N. delegate. He suggested a small group meeting informally might solve the question which has stymied conferences of the full delegations for 16 meetings.

The communists accepted in a big surprise session Thursday after the shortest meeting since talks started July 10.

Neutral Korea Lt.-Gen. Nam Il chief communist negotiator, proposed two delegates from each side handle the issue as Joy had suggested.

The U.N. accepted.

The change permitted Nam Il to name both a red Korean and a Chinese general to the sub-committee. He appointed North Korean Maj.-Gen. Lee Sang Cho and Chinese Maj.-Gen. Hsieh Fang.

MING SUNG BOSS OPERATES ON BOTH SIDES OF CURTAIN

Chinese Capitalist Mastermind of Firm

Ottawa, Aug. 16 (CP) — A fabulous Chinese capitalist who operates on both sides of the Iron Curtain is the mastermind of the Ming Sung firm that provoked parliament's stormiest quarrels last session. His firm is expected to provoke more when parliament meets this fall.

His name is Yu Tso-Fu. He is one of the most consummate fence-straddlers of his time. He is sound 50, very wealthy, described here as a typical, driving big-line capitalist, the boss of a commercial empire that extends beyond shipping into other spheres. He lives in Red China and his advice is sought by communist leaders.

His shipping interests, fuge-lining both inside and outside the red China, are in part the nine Canadian-built ships that have caused all the furore here are a mere drop in the bucket.

Let's listen to some of what Ottawa, through one of his subsidiaries, that since it has been embarrassing to the Canadian government to have one of the nine Ming Sung ships running cargo from the colonial portuguese port of Macao to Hong Kong Canton the ship will no longer carry cargo, only passengers.

This was learned from weeks of press reports from Hong Kong that, despite tightening export controls, vital strategic materials still are getting to China, largely through Macao, ships and smuggling centre on the Chinese mainland about 100 miles from Hong Kong.

Hard to Make Check

In the fight here, it was a main opposition contention that the government couldn't tell what was being loaded aboard the ship in Macao. The government kept saying it was checking but it and even the British have officials in Macao so it's hard to see how a thorough check could be made.

Nevertheless, the government said on May 30, the latest evidence of Ming Sung's good faith and the opposition fury revive calls for cancelling the Canadian charter on seven of the ship selling out of Hong Kong to Canton and Macao.

The government refuses to do this, but confesses it'll be three firm has done nothing wrong, in good faith, to live up to its obligations on a $13,000,000 loan from a Canadian bank guaranteed by the government. The last two ships are owned outright by Ming Sung and are not under charter.

The Canadian trade commissioner in Hong Kong has been told to keep a close eye on the situation but so far, officials say, Ming Sung has lived up to and even backwards to keep within the law on the ship deal.

ACTOR CONNECTED

Los Angeles, Aug. 16 (AP) Actor Lawrence Tierney was convicted last night by a municipal court jury of battery. He was acquitted of a charge of disturbing the peace. The 33-year-old actor was charged with battering Ben Irwin, 24, of Culver Naylor, 28, during an early-morning row last June 21 at Naylor's home.

Polish Official Wins Western Asylum, Hits Reds for Making Poland 'Soviet Slave Colony'

Frankfurt, Germany, Aug. 16—(AP)—A young official of the Polish foreign ministry who political asylum in West Germany today and denounced the Reds for turning his homeland into a "Soviet slave colony."

Thereafter—30-year-old Bogus-law Borowicz, who was granted asylum after appealing to allied occupation authorities here—declared that Poland now is no more than a huge prison.

"All the rights and freedoms of Polish citizenship have been trampled by a handful of traitor dictators who take orders from their Kremlin masters," he said.

"Through bloody police-state methods they have forced over 90 per cent of our country into the aggressive plans and desires of the world conflict of the Soviet politburo."

The dark-haired, six-foot refugee, until recently was chief editor of Wiadomosci Polskie, weekly newspaper issued in Frankfurt under the auspices of the Polish Red Cross, but controlled and financed by the Warsaw Foreign Ministry.

Borowicz, who joined the Polish United Workers (communist) party in 1948, said he resigned part of the weekly for the last two years.

The aim of Wiadomosci Polskie was to serve as organ for communistic and anti-west propaganda among Poles, displaced persons". Borowicz said in an interview. "The publication also served as a means to contact individuals for collection of information on allied military forces, the activities of Polish political emigres and the activities of D.P's unfriendly to the Warsaw regime.

"Under the protection of diplomatic immunity, Polish foreign ministry employees recruited agents and informers from among the German population and the DPs. The information gained was used against the allied occupation authorities and the federal German government at Bonn."

Borowicz's case is the latest in a series of spectacular defections from Polish communist rule.

Borowicz said his mother, wife and three-year-old son are still in Poland.

"I am never allowed to bring my family to the west. They were held as hostages for my obedience to the communist government.

"If I were to return to Poland, I would live as a slave—as much a hostage as I am here. And also, "By choosing the west I lose my family and all my ties I may have it, but I have an opportunity to fight and destroy the system which has reduced my country to a slave state."

Story of Greed Revealed In Brutal Slaying of Officer

Washington, Aug. 16—(AP)—A cold-blooded killing of an American cloak-and-dagger officer behind enemy lines in Italy seven years ago has been solved, the defence department said yesterday.

The department said Maj. William Y. Holohan, 34, was killed by two fellow American servicemen with the aid of two Italians.

All were attached to an office of strategic services mission parachuted into enemy territory to get the low-down on partisan guerrilla bands.

One of the former U.S. servicemen denied any connection with the killing; the other withheld comment.

Named by the department as the principles in the case were:

Aldo Icardi, then a 23-year-old lieutenant, formerly of Pittsburgh, but now employed in New York City. The department said Icardi hatched the plot in a disagreement with Holohan over how much arms aid to give to communist partisans.

Carl G. LoDolce, then a sergeant from Rochester, New York, the department said, was "motivated by greed" and thus got the assignment of shooting Holohan when Icardi decided against the earlier might not be effective.

Denies Act

At his home in Preakness, N.J. Icardi denied any part in the killing, and said the accusations against him have been done by two Italians who, the department said, had told the entire story.

Icardi told a reporter, "I deny any connection with the affair. When the shooting started, I ran. That's the last I ever heard of him (Holohan)."

In Rochester, LoDolce's wife Ruby said, "my husband does not want to make any statement until he finds out what it is all about." She said he has been studying under the Veteran Bill at the Rochester Institute of Technology.

The defence department said it has been seeking a way to prosecute Icardi and LoDolce in the United States, and it added: "all possibilities have now been exhausted and it appears that the only hope of prosecution lies with action by the Italian courts."

The Italian Embassy declined comment on whether it would seek partment.

MAY REPLACE SIRENS

Hamilton, Aug. 16—(CP)—The Board of Health is considering the possibility of replacing sirens with bells on Hamilton fire trucks as part of an anti-noise campaign. Ambulance owners will be asked to keep the use of their sirens to a minimum.

GOLF BALLS, CLUBS STOLEN

St. Catharines, Aug. 16 (CP) C. Nye of London, Ont., lost 262 golf balls here Wednesday night when thieves broke into his car on a downtown parking lot. A number of golf clubs also were stolen. Nye is a traveller for a golf equipment firm.

WINNIE LEUSZLER, TORONTO, WELL UP IN SWIM RACE

Some Within Sight Of Cliffs of Dover

Aboard the Yacht Ginasal in the English Channel, Aug. 16—(CP)—Eileen Fenton, 29-year-old British school teacher, was leading the field of seven women swimming the English Channel today as some came within sight of the White Cliffs of Dover.

Miss Fenton surged ahead to take the lead from Winnie Roach Leuszler of Toronto, lone North American competitor in international race.

Mrs. Leuszler, 25, was reported swimming strongly in third place. The Canadian had drawn steadily away from the rest and had taken the lead at the 31½-hour mark.

Sixth in Whole Field

Miss Fenton was sixth in the whole field in the 21-mile race, heading most of the 13 male competitors as well.

Egypt's three "bronze giants" plowed their way into the lead in the men's section of the race.

The 20 swimmers from 10 countries left Cap Gris Nez, France, at 4 a.m. (EST) to swim the 21 miles through waters that stayed calm and mild through the day. None dropped out.

Mareeh Hassan Hamdad, third in last year's contest, was less than 3½ miles from the coast after eight hours.

Following him closely was last year's winner, Abd-el-Aziz Hassan Abd El Rehim on whose heels was Saied El Araby, the third Egyptian.

Close behind, and in the same group, was Geoffrey Chapman of Britain, at 21 the baby of the race.

Fighting for fifth place was Antonio Abertondo, 32-year-old Argentinian who came eighth in last year's swim.

The race, for prizes totalling $1,344, is sponsored by The Daily Mail.

50 Boats in Flotilla

It was a striking spectacle on the usually-calm surface of the channel. More than 50 boats followed the swimmers as they fanned away from the French coast. Challenger were announced almost ideal.

The swimmers are protected by a 300-hour before takeoff time, getting prepared in individual cabins. They start off amid from the crowd of about 500 spectators. The preparation consists largely injected and trusted senior officials.

As the same time, he announced pointedly that Mr. Norman, the government's top far-eastern expert, is going to Ottawa as adviser to the Canadian delegation going to San Francisco for the Japanese Peace Treaty conference opening Sept. 4.

Without Foundation

Mr. Pearson, who described the government's private talks with department as "friendly representations", told newspaper men that, as far as Canada's government is concerned, the allegation before the U.S. committee is "completely without foundation".

In the representations to the State department, it was described as "an unimpressive and unsubstantiated allegation" by the former communist.

In a prepared statement, he said the Canadian representations were made in these terms:

Two 'Human Guinea Pigs' Die After Dose From Wrong Bottle Given

Vermillion, S.D., Aug. 16 (AP) —Dr. Donald Slaughter, dean of the University of South Dakota Medical School, said today the deaths of two "human guinea pigs" in a drug experiment occurred when a doctor on his staff "picked up three the wrong bottle."

The staff doctor, whose name was withheld pending an inquest had planned to participate in the experiment himself, along with a fourth person.

Slaughter said the staff physician called him after injecting had been given to Jack Clifford, 30, laboratory technician, and Mrs. Ardys Pearson, 26, a secretary. The injections were given afternoon. Clifford and Mrs. Pearson died 24 hours later.

Slaughter said all human experiments were given without effect before his assistant mixed up the "five made a mistake."

Coroner Myron Iverson took vials of what did not belong to Sioux City, Ia., for analysis.

Professor J. D. Weaver of the university withheld comment on the deaths to say that the drug involved was one in common use for research. He added that its experimental use here was under a private grant from a drug firm and that the university was not directly supervising the tests, although its facilities were used.

Canada Expresses Regret, Annoyance At Slanderous Act

Disclosure at Washington Termed H. Norman a Red

Ottawa, Aug. 16—(CP)—Canada has expressed "regret and annoyance" to the United States government over the disclosure of an allegation of communism against a Canadian diplomat at a secret Washington hearing External Affairs Minister Pearson said today.

The protest, delivered verbally to the State Department at Washington Tuesday, was one of the strongest exchanged between the two governments in years.

In it the Canadian government expressed "surprise" that the name of Herbert Norman, acting head of Canada's United Nations delegation, should have been "dragged" into hearings of a congressional committee.

It added sharply that it expects any references to Canadian affairs will be passed on to the Canadian government through diplomatic channels, instead of being made public.

The protest was delivered by T. D. Matthews, Minister to the United States and charge d'affairs at Washington while Ambassador Hume Wrong is on vacation.

Sharpest Protest Since '47

While lacking the formal impact of a diplomatic note, its tart language made it the sharpest government-to-government protest since 1947.

Following him closely was last year's winner, Abd-el-Aziz Hassan Abd El Rehim on whose heels was Saied El Araby, the third Egyptian.

Close behind, and in the same group, was Geoffrey Chapman of Britain, at 21 the baby of the race.

Fighting for fifth place was Antonio Abertondo, 32-year-old Argentinian who came eighth in last year's swim.

The race, for prizes totalling $1,344, is sponsored by The Daily Mail.

50 Boats in Flotilla

It was a striking spectacle on the usually-calm surface of the channel. More than 50 boats followed the swimmers as they fanned away from the French coast. Challenger were announced almost ideal.

The swimmers are protected by a 300-hour before takeoff time, getting prepared in individual cabins. They start off amid from the crowd of about 500 spectators. The preparation consists largely injected and trusted senior officials.

As the same time, he announced pointedly that Mr. Norman, the government's top far-eastern expert, is going to Ottawa as adviser to the Canadian delegation going to San Francisco for the Japanese Peace Treaty conference opening Sept. 4.

Without Foundation

Mr. Pearson, who described the government's private talks with department as "friendly representations", told newspaper men that, as far as Canada's government is concerned, the allegation before the U.S. committee is "completely without foundation".

In the representations to the State department, it was described as "an unimpressive and unsubstantiated allegation" by the former communist.

In a prepared statement, he said the Canadian representations were made in these terms:

Henry Loyd, 59, Of Bamockburn Killed by Tram

Henry Lloyd, 59, well known Bannockburn sawmill operator and lumber dealer, was instantly killed at Ivanhoe, 19 miles north of Belleville, shortly before midnight Wednesday when he ran his late model car into the side of a CPR freight train.

The auto plowed into the first car back of the locomotive and Lloyd was believed to have suffered a broken neck and chest injuries. The front of the car was demolished.

A brother of Magistrate J. L. Lloyd of Northbrook, Mr. Lloyd operated a lumber yard at Ivanhoe only a few yards from the crossing where he was killed. He was believed to have been to Belleville and was returning home when the accident occurred.

According to police the westbound freight was moving very slowly intending to go into a passing track to allow another train to pass. Lloyd apparently failed to see the train and his car plowed into the front corner of the freight car.

He is survived by his wife at Bamockburn and one son, a farmer, at Kellars Bridge, south of Bamockburn.

Provincial Police Corporal Jack Hatch and Constable T. Lammens investigated the accident. An inquest has been ordered by Coroner Dr. J. R. Carleton of Stirling, the preliminary to be held this morning at Madoc.

C.I.L. Will Build Chemical Plant At Brockville

Montreal, Aug. 16 — (CP) — Canadian Industries, Ltd., today announced a plant to manufacture basic chemicals used in making nylon will be built on a recently-purchased 1,300-acre site between Brockville and Prescott, Ont.

Construction will begin this fall and be completed in mid-summer 1953.

The announcement said the plant will be the largest single project undertaken by C.I.L. and investigated development expected in the two basic chemicals used in manufacture of nylon yarn and staple fibre.

Concurrently the nylon spinning plant in Kingston, 50 miles west, will be expanded to twice its present capacity and will absorb the entire output of the new chemical plant. The Kingston plant, opened in 1942, now employs 650 persons.

C. I. L. said the new chemicals plant will employ about 200, one-third of them engineers and highly-skilled technicians. It will consume about 50,000 tons of coal annually and 6,500 gallons of water a minute. It will use ores and a salt mine in the Kingston suburbs as the neighboring city of Brockville with its paper, petroleum refining not previously made in Canada, said the announcement, and development of a Canadian source is under way.

'Ma'am' and 'Sir' are Greetings For Princess and Prince Philip

Ottawa, Aug. 16—(CP)—It will be "sir" and "ma'am" for Prince Philip and Princess Elizabeth when Canadians greet them during their visit to this country.

Those, government officials say, are the correct forms of address to use in speaking to either the Princess or her husband—after of course, a preliminary salutation of "Your Royal Highness" in recognition of their royal titles.

One official said there is no particular "do" or "don't" in meeting royalty and the best thing is to act naturally.

On meeting the Royal couple, it is customary for women to curtsy. Some women might not curtsy because they do not know how, but they will not be taken as being disrespectful. For men, a slight bow—more of a deep nod of the head—is the thing.

In conversation with royalty, the normal procedure is to call them royalty to speak first. In all social contacts with the Royal couple, follow the ordinary dictates of good taste.

It is correct in writing or speaking of the Princess's husband to refer to him as "Prince Philip," though his British title is the Duke of Edinburgh. His title of "Prince" comes from his descent from the Royal Family of Greece.

Personal Effects And all Clothes Lost in Blaze

Holidaying has not been a particularly happy experience this year for Mr. and Mrs. Maurice B. Button, 10 Everett St., who last weekend had the misfortune to lose all their clothes and other personal effects when fire razed the home of their son at Nakadia in Northern Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. Button were holidaying with their son, Stewart, and his wife at the northern railway centre. Sunday they were having an outing at a nearby lake, when a neighbor drove in to say their son's house had been burned with everything lost.

Only recently Mrs. Stewart Button had returned home from Toronto, where she attended her father's funeral.

Rail-Seat Judges Pick All Winners

They were two well-dressed gentlemen who sat in a rail seat in the grandstand at the Fair Grounds.

Their appearance hazarded the guess they were gentlemen who had sufficient of this world's goods with accent on lucre.

The conservation impressed a listener that they knew horses.

In fact they proved it.

As different classes of horses paraded in front of the grandstand, they got up and down and judged the horses themselves.

They picked the first prize winner four lines out of four in prize.

Wonder if they "play the ponies?"

Shriners Prove Perfect Hosts, Shining-Eyed Kiddies Revel In Thrilling 'Day at the Fair'

Red-fezzed members of the Belleville Shrine Club adopted a new character in a familiar role yesterday.

Last year they were "courtiers" to 178 crippled and other less fortunate kiddies who were "Kings for a day" at the Morton Shrine Circus in Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto.

Yesterday they were fairy godfathers to 325 of these children who were guest "Cinderellas" at "A Day at the Fair."

In a modern setting of the famous fairy tale, the youngsters were "whisked" from their homes, spent a glorious ten hours of joyful freedom from a year-round environment, then were returned, tired, happy and thrilled to the doorsteps of a never-to-be-forgotten day.

Nor will the Shriners forget it. They, in an outside observer's point of view, these members of an organization that has adopted as one of its major social service projects, the easing of the way for crippled children, those who through circumstances are denied the privileges of their own home life, derived as much pleasure and happiness from the "Day at the Fair" as did their small protégés.

Enjoyed All of It

Happy, shining-eyed kids, enjoyed to the limit the color, the excitement, the rush and bustle of people; the sights and, the only youngster can experience with the sudden discovery of something new in the offing; the setting of fun, laughter, and mingling with others of their kind. They enjoyed every minute of it. The Shriners saw to that.

They, too were smiles of happiness as they shepherded their young charges to and from the different booths on the entertainment itinerary. Some of them took personal charge of crippled kiddies, taking them in their arms and seeing to it they did not miss a single phase of the program.

For the young guests it was a continuous round of fun, merriment, thrills and treats from the time they left the Shrine Club about 8.30 a.m. until they returned there a little after 6.0 o'clock.

From Belleville, Tweed, Thomasburg, Moira, Ivanhoe, Foxboro, Stirling, Shannonville, Marmora, Deloro and Stirling, their arms laden with gifts they came, eyes alight with anticipation; eager to take part in the fun of the day.

For many of them it was a "first" day at the fair. For all of them it was a glorious day's outing. For many of them it was a long-looked for treat, with no brother and sister. For some, perhaps there was a bit of heartache hidden beneath that outward bravado of laughter and happiness. But no brother, sister or sister Jane" did not put in an appearance. But it quickly disappeared in the glorious vista of things to come, or in some cases, did it?

From the Salvation Army Camp at Roblins Mills came a busload of young men and young women. They quickly mingled with their counterparts from other districts, their typical "blue-plumed paper fezzes as a mark of identification.

Until noon they roamed the fair grounds, gazing, some with wide-eyed wonder at the strange fairyland of rides, shows, tents, and lingering at some length before the concessions from which came appetizing odors. Some of them had change in their pockets—not a short time.

Hearty Appetites

Came noon and luncheon time. They converged on the Shrine tent erected for the purpose south of the grandstand. Here mountains, it seemed of sandwiches, cakes, ice cream, milk, soft drinks, disappeared as if by magic. Some of the youngsters went back for "seconds"—and got them.

Post - luncheon entertainment arrived in the person of the well-known musician-comedienne Ernie Bruce, garbed in clown paraphernalia. The youngsters surged around him in a milling mass. Ernie drew shrieks of wonderment and delight with several little tricks. He produced a cornet and conducted a sing-song giving special prizes for singing stars.

Then under the supervision of Shriner members, the youngsters divided into groups of 25 and "did the Midway". Here they found the genial Shriner Frank Conklin, one of the famous brothers owners of the Conklin Shows. Through Shriner Conklin's generosity, the young guests were taken on three rides, two shows and treated to ice cream and popcorn.

Then to the grandstand where they were given special seats in the west-end bleachers. Here they saw thrilling trotting races; an exhibition of the best horseflesh in the province. They stared in wide-eyed silence at the new, and attractions passed before them in panoramic parade.

Youngsters Entertain

The thrill of the day came to the least ten of the youngsters who were invited by Clown Ernie Bruce to form a band on the stage, Pierrette-clad pretty chorus girls of the Norman Harris Artist Productions, now playing at the fair, personally conducted the embryo musicians across the track to the stage and helped them formed part of the band. The youngsters under "Conductor" Bruce gave a creditable performance with their make-shift instruments despite the fact a few self-conscious were heard.

The kiddies received a fine ovation from the crowd in the grandstand as laughing chorines escorted them to their homes at noon.

Then another exploring trip to the midway and back to the Shrine Tent for supper. An hour later they were on their way to the Shrine Club where they were further entertained by their "good fathers". Treats were passed around and each child received a handsome bag of gifts including souvenirs of the fair, and the Shrine Club, home, tired perhaps but gloriously happy.

The Shriners? They, too, were tired. But in the happy kind of fatigue. At their well-appointed club they rested in the satisfaction that follows a job well and truly done.

Do Fine Job

Also doing an outstanding job were members of the St. John Ambulance Brigade from under the supervision of Mrs. Lillian Addison. They stood watchful guard over the young guests all day, and their efforts were no small contribution to the success of the outing.

Shriner Jack Bush transported those kiddies unable to walk, to the Fair Grounds in his well-appointed ambulance. Shriner Stevens "chauffeured" kiddies to and from the grounds.

Present were Past Potentate Dr. Grant Fraser, Madoc; Shriner Colonel Wallace Burgess, of the Salvation Army, Toronto, who made a special trip here and Captain Leonard Knight, Salvation Army, Ottawa. Many out-of-town members of the Belleville Shrine Club were here including Shriner Clarke Rollins, Coe Hill, ex-warden of Hastings County.

Shrine Club president D. L. Storey and members are to be congratulated on their book of achievement, "well done".

Pet Woodchuck Lives Life Of Riley at Cottage

The high cost of living is apparently having far-reaching effects.

In fact wildlife of the district is seeking respite from surging costs.

Take "Woodchuck Willie" Clift Baragar's Oak Lake cottage pet, who, tiring of an unending steady diet from the field, decided to take a social nap and fraternize with humans.

"Willie" had one entry to his cozy domicile beneath the Baragar cottage, when the family took over.

Shortly after their arrival, he decided to make the subcottage resort a double-entry affair and dug himself a hole at the rear giving him exit and egress in two directions.

Came the dog question. It was a long haul to the nearest grocery, and besides excavation jobs were scarce.

So he swallowed his pride and decided to cultivate human friendship. It paid off.

Now "Willie" dines luxuriously upon "at". He spoke before officers and men aboard the Carrier H.M.S. Franklin D. Roosevelt, gathered to bid him farewell as commander in chief of the Atlantic Fleet.

Gun Accidently Discharges, Smithfield Man Wounded

Trenton (Special) — Joseph Riga, 31, of Smithfield, five miles west of Trenton is in Trenton Memorial Hospital recovering from wounds suffered when a shotgun, carried by Robert McMaster, 15, also of Smithfield accidentally discharged.

Riga and McMaster were hunting near the village of Smithfield some time around noon on Wednesday, when the gun went off, killing Riga's spaniel dog and peppering the left and lower portion of Riga's body.

Riga was taken to Trenton Memorial Hospital, where he was operated on by Dr. Jack Farley. Hospital officials say that he has spent a good night and describe his condition as "fairly good."

Provincial Police at Brighton are investigating.

Nearly Two Inches Of Rain Fell In Two Hours

In a two-hour deluge, which saw gutters run like rivers and run off the highway in sheets, almost two inches of rain fell over the Quinte district early this morning. Officials at the local filtration plant stated that 1.95 inches of rain fell from about 12.30 to 2.30.

During the height of the storm Front Street appeared like a river and water was running at the curb to such a depth that the sidewalk was awash in many places. Water ran down Victoria Ave. and Bridge Street hills in a miniature torrent.

Although the rain lasted for approximately two hours, the heaviest downpour did not last more than half of that time and in this period the greatest volume of water fell.

Roadways silted to a depth of an inch or so with mud was testimony this morning to the downpour. This was particularly true at the foot of inclines.

Harvesting operations will receive a particular setback as result of the rain. Grain stooks already were reported wet through with recent rains, while last night's downpour flattened grain still uncut.

4 Deer Poachers At Maple Leaf Fined $50, Costs

Bancroft (Special) — Mousepluy when the official "cat" is away, and catch up to four deer poaching residents of Maple Leaf, 30 miles northeast of this village.

Harold Lemke, Harold Lemke, Victor Nottke and Robert Lentz, convicted of shooting deer out of season, were each fined $50 and costs by Magistrate J. L. Lloyd of Northbrook in court here yesterday.

Charges were laid by officials of the Department of Lands and Forests after a 75-pound doe with suckling twin fawns was found shot to death in the woods.

At the time of the shooting, Game Overseer Percy Thompson was attending a course of instruction at Dorset.

It appears that the four men took advantage of his absence to get themselves some out-of-season venison, but they did not reckon with other officials.

Inspector Robert Shepherd, of the Quinte District Lands and Forest Department with Conservation Officer Robert Davidson, Dwight, traveled to take a look at Overseer Thompson's territory.

They arrived at an opportune moment and charged the four men within a very brief time after the shooting.

Bills Pending Force Revision Of Final Draft

New York, Aug. 16—(CP)—The New York Daily News says today that bills pending in the Canadian House of Commons force a revision of part of the draft Japanese peace treaty.

Washington columnist Ruth Montgomery says a secret Canadian mission last week protested against letting the International Red Cross have the final say in splitting Japanese assets in other countries among former prisoners of war.

The treaty originally provided that the Red Cross would supervise the distribution of assets.

But, the columnist says, "Canada has several bills pending which would require ex-prisoners of Japan to sign away any future rights in return for government bonuses now."

"It consequently forced (presidential adviser John Foster) Dulles to let the Red Cross merely divvy the proceeds by governments. Each country could take offer from there."

Police Recover 10,000 Pounds Stolen Copper

The cables were stolen from lines of the Bell Telephone Company and the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways and the Shawinigan Light, Heat and Power Company in the districts of St. Paul D'Abbotsford, Vaudreuil, St. Martin, Farnham, St. Johns, St. Bruno, Marieville, St. Angele de Monnoir, Joliette, Lachenaie, Three Rivers and Drummondville.

NO IMMEDIATE EFFECT

London, Aug. 16 (CP)—Food ministry sources said today the stoppage of meat shipments from Argentina will have no immediate effect on the British meat ration.

A spokesman said most of the meat now being consumed is home-produced, since this is the top of the season for domestic producers.

The Argentine Livestock Institute last night ordered a 10-day stoppage of shipments to Britain because of critical domestic shortages.

Harriman Expected to Make Last-Ditch Effort to Solve Iran's Explosives Oil Crisis

By ROBERT B. HEWETT

Tehran, Iran, Aug. 18 (AP) — British and Iranian negotiators have scheduled informal talks today at which W. Averell Harriman is expected to make a last-ditch effort to solve Iran's explosive oil crisis.

It is the first time since he got the two sides talking that President Truman's trouble - shooter has stepped directly into the negotiations.

Premier Mossadegh, who plans to meet with Harriman later today, reported to Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi on the deadlocked talks.

The terrorist Fedayan - Islam Society called for a demonstration tomorrow to protest any deal with the British.

Observers feel that results from the informal talks will determine whether there is any chance of reaching a settlement at a scheduled full-dress conference Saturday.

Today's talks were set up at a dinner party Harriman gave for the delegates last night after Iran had rejected Britain's latest offer for 50-50 profit sharing.

Although the two still are far apart, observers feel the fact that talks are continuing indicates both sides want to reach a workable agreement.

Drafted by Harriman

Informed sources said the British offer — which Iran labelled "unacceptable" — was largely drafted by Harriman himself. Iran's Deputy Premier Hossein Fatemi told reporters the British plan had eight points.

1. All assets of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company in Iran would be turned over to the National Iranian Oil Company and due compensation would be paid.

2. Anglo-Iranian would set up a purchasing organization under a 25-year contract to buy Iran's oil and refined products and distribute them throughout the world.

3. Iran would give the purchasing organization priority in oil purchases.

4. The purchasing organization should have firm guarantees of deliveries to meet customer needs. To ensure this, a managing organization to carry on producing and refining operations would be set up.

5. The National Iranian Oil Company would sell oil to the purchasing organization at reduced rates and split the profits 50-50.

6. A detailed agreement on sales to the purchasing organization would be worked out later, but immediate arrangements would be made to resume oil operations.

7. All operations at Kermanshah, a small oil field and refinery, would be turned over to the national company on payment of compensation.

8. Iran would be represented on the managing organization.

Richard Stokes, head of the British Mission, said he thought he could still convince the Iranians there were the best terms they could get from anyone.

Fatemi said Iran had its own three points to which it would insist on limiting discussions. He said these were

1. The purchase of oil for British requirements.

2. The continuing of both parties.

3. Continuing the service of British technicians.

Will Give Secrets Of Polio Cure In Text Book

Sydney, Australia, Aug. 16. (Reuters) — Sister Elizabeth Kenny took off for the United States today to give the world the final secrets of her "natural cure" of infantile paralysis.

Incurably ill with not long to live, the grey-haired Australian nurse had packed to her bedside the last chapters of her final text book — a record of 40 years' work with polio-stricken children.

She will deliver the 36 typewritten pages to Dr. John Paul, of Minneapolis, who is having the text published.

She told reporters before she left that she had vowed to complete the work before death claims her. It will allow her methods to be studied around the world instead of only in the clinics she operates.

Fresh fruits, vegetables and berries are plentiful. Quality is excellent. NEW WEALTH FOR HASTINGS COUNTY

At long last it appears that Hastings County is to have a major development of an iron ore property. Word from Premier Frost that work is to commence right away puts an end to any doubts that the project might not have been sufficiently valuable to bring to the producing stage.

Over the years there have been many attempts at opening up mines in the county, but few amounted to anything worth-while except the talc mine at Madoc. Now, under the sponsorship of the Bethlehem Steel Company of the United States millions will be spent to uncover and mine iron ore of which there apparently is sufficient quantity to keep the operation going for twenty-five years or more. And that may only be the beginning.

The development of a new mine of this magnitude will add much to the wealth of the whole district. Every phase of business will benefit. The railroads, merchants, building trades, professional men, supply firms who are interested in mining equipment and farmers will all get a share of the new influx of capital.

Marmora, of course, will feel the effects sooner than neighboring centres, but in time there will be gradual spreading of this new-found prosperity. Both Belleville and Trenton are bound to share in the success of this venture which will increase in stature as time goes on.

As many readers will recall from the series of articles appearing in this newspaper last Fall and Winter on the history of Hastings County, iron ore mining is no new venture especially around Marmora. As early as 1848-9 the production of the Marmora furnaces was above five tons of pig iron a day from seven foot ore of only 25 per cent. It had been mined in Marmora township as early as 1820 and in later years when the railway was constructed ore had been shipped to the United States for reduction into iron. However, competition from mines across the border put the mines out of business.

Now we have a project backed by plenty of capital and thorough engineering and exploration experience to assure the success of the mine. The investigation of the property has proven beyond a doubt that the ore is there in sufficient quantities to last for years. Hastings County will now mean something in the lexicon of the mining man. Another unit will have been added to the wealth of Canada.

TREATMENT TOO DRASTIC

The shooting, by his wife, of Dr. Pierre Chevalier, 42-year-old mayor of Orleans, and a rising young French politician is a rather dramatic way to emphasize that first things should come first.

Dr. Chevalier, described as a heavily decorated hero of France's wartime resistance movement, and newly-appointed secretary of state for technical training, apparently reports in from Rene Hardy's cabinet, had returned to his home in Orleans after an absence of eight days during which time he was immersed in fact that he told his wife he did not have time to communicate her and say where he was. Police have stated that Mrs. Chevallier is "pathologically jealous" of her husband, but that the arch-rival for his affections is not another woman, but politics.

It is quite true that politics can be interesting, but is this not carrying one's interest to the point of absurdity? Murder is not to be condoned, of course, but can anyone imagine the lengths to which a woman must be driven to kill her husband because he spends too much time on politics? And French politics at that.

Dr. Chevallier was described in the press as a "rising young politician". How many of France's young men can be described in the same terms? There are many rising young politicians in France that almost two score political parties have been formed to contain them. In fact the whole trouble with French politics seems to be that there is a surplus of "rising young politicians" and a deficiency of leadership. It is not surprising that French women adopt Mrs. Chevallier's rather frenzied remedy for the political condition of France, but her husband's death makes one wonder if maybe that country would not be better off if more of the young men stayed home to keep their wives happy and contented instead of abandoning their homes to acquire a label as a "rising young politician".

WAGES IN GOLD CAMPS

"Starvation wages" is a battle cry frequently uttered by union agitators in Ontario gold camps, says the Northern Miner.

Average wage incomes belie the slogan. At one of the Porcupine mines the average received by employees this year was as follows, per week: In January $58.44; February $60.00; March $58.20; April $61.02.

This takes in cost of living and incentive bonuses, does not embrace fringe benefits. It is the weekly pay, and it is representative of the camp.

The figures are well above Toronto average. Evidence presented at a conciliation board was that the average rent in Timmins was $51.29 a month. Big-city rent for no more comfortable or spacious quarters runs two and three times higher. Further evidence was that 580 of one mine's employees live in company houses, and 780 own their own homes. The rent of 350 company houses is $15 to $20 a month.

EXCUSES

I can think of a hundred excuses
For failing to do what I should,
They may ease for a moment my conscience, but never is one of good.
I may say at the time I'm too busy that little bit extra to do,
And others perhaps may believe me, but I know what I've said was untrue.

I'll frame an alibi ready. "I wanted to do that," I'll say.
"And I wish now I had. But I didn't. I hadn't a minute to stay."

Of the many excuses I offer for failing to stop for a call,
That falsehood: "I hadn't a minute." Is surely the poorest of all.

I am glib with my reasons for failure. Myself I am quick to acquit.
Deliberate neglect of my duty I never will freely admit.
I can think of a hundred excuses, the old ones and sometimes new,
They may sound like the truth when I cite them, but never is one of them true.

OUR TOWN

By JACK SCOTT

REGAL BUT NICE

It was only a matter of time, of course, before someone in the public print would refer to Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip to these shores with a small bit surprise the only that the first to curl his lip was the barefoot boy of the cinema business, Mr. McDevitt.

Mr. McDevitt, one-time circus press agent and Conservative Party candidate, now going straight with a column of his own in the North Shore Press, put down his clay pipe one recent day, picked up his shillelagh and proceeded to lay into the forthcoming royal tour in a most ungentlemanly manner. He was, he said, "coolly disinterested."

There was, it seems, a sort of shocked hush as Christy lowered the boom. This was quickly followed by a brisk business in the circulation department from cancelled subscriptions.

Mr. McDevitt's customary Irish grin froze into a look of chilled dismay. Indeed he wrote me a doleful letter at the time mourning the loss of 200 readers. Subscribers I wrote back the simple truth, to wit: a columnist isn't worth, his full salt, unless he can contribute to the ulcers of a circulation manager.

Others responded with an aggrieved column suggesting that his late readers were denying him his freedom to write as he pleased overlooking the obvious fact that the readers, too, bless their hearts have certain rights.

Apart from this, I didn't have much sympathy with Christy. Royalty to me is a sitting duck for any writer, particularly in these days when the late King Farouk in the public eye, and it seems to me there are many more worthwhile targets for lingnation.

More than that, I just happen to like royalty. I like to read of royal brides and already my oldest daughter and I have decided to have a royal wedding couple who seem to us pretty admirable people.

A Good Symbol

It was around the time that Elizabeth and Phillip became betrothed that Judy's interest first assisted in the Princess. She began pasting photographs of the Royal lovers into a large scrapbook. She read the papers avidly for news of the wedding. Every gift recorded in the Prince Castle came along, he too, went into her collection.

To her, of course, there was not feeling of being allegiance or any dull considerations of loyalty to the crown. There was merely a story book Princess come to life and filling all the exacting specifications for the heroine of a story demanded by the average little girl.

I encouraged this, particularly when I observed, not so many days ago, Judy's friends were having a slight case of worship involving Hollywood personalities with the morals of minks and personal lives that make a mockery of decency.

British royalty, it seems to me, has lived up to the traditional functions and become as much an enduring symbol of family life as the best as it is a symbol of leadership and loyalty to one's own land.

Mr. McDevitt observes, rather foolishly, I think, that there are "loyal souls" who hold that royalty can do no wrong." If there are, I've never heard of them. The most loyal Britain is ever on guard to keep his monarchs the way he wants them whether this involves Princess Elizabeth's leaving her small son for too prolonged a holiday or the decolletage of Princess Margaret's latest gown.

This loyalty is not a blind thing and is ever dependent upon the character of the royal family itself. All of Britain today worships the dowager Queen Mary and the simple reason that she is a pretty wonderful old lady. A boon like Princess Margaret is a week in Buckingham Palace. It was precisely this kind of thing that forced the Duke of Windsor to a not-too-bright playboy, to step aside.

Without Voice

Mr. McDevitt makes the mistake of thinking that royalty is the sole property of the rich and the sons of dark hand in the economic inequalities of the day.

I'm thinking of the thousands of young children who travel in the various camps of which I am one, who are underfed, to whom a trip to the city is something unbelievably without moving hand or arm.

Slow walking, sauntering, is as bad as prolonged standing.

One with swollen leg veins or feeling of swollen legs late in the day should lie down for a few moments with both legs raised to within half a dozen times every Day. Many who have already developed varicose veins or are, so to speak, in training for varicose veins and perhaps varicose ulcer do not avail themselves of the opportunity to walk, preferring rather the unnecessary ambition to take a walk even if they can afford it. SWOLLEN VEINS IN LEGS

In a recent article about the effects of being on one's feet eight or ten hours a day you said:

"From prolonged standing without such rhythmic contractions of leg muscles—a trick one can learn in every few minutes while standing"—etc.

What is the "trick"?

I'm sure you'd spend all day, and would much like to know the exercise you mention, which one can do while standing. (T. V. J.).

Perhaps part of the article was omitted—lack of space. In the article I said:

"Prolonged standing requires long hours of standing allow gravitation to work full force without counter-action or self-massage by the rhythmic contraction of the muscles in walking, which normally squeeze the blood up toward the heart."

A brisk walk, that is, not a saunter.

A brisk walk should clock a mile in 15 or 16 minutes over level course without traffic or other interruptions.

If you cannot afford from two to six miles of oxygen on the run, you may be failing to add from work school, office or store—then study the action of your feet, and thigh muscles when walking, and try to contract the same muscles when standing, especially, without moving the legs. Just as you can, if you try, contract muscles of your face, forearms and upper arms mechanically without moving hand or arm.

Purpose of these posture measures is to favor better circulation of blood from the overfilled veins. Of course the direction of blood flow in the veins is always feet towards the heart.

Many who have already developed varicose veins or are, so to speak, in training for varicose veins and perhaps varicose ulcer do not avail themselves of the opportunity to walk, preferring rather the unnecessary ambition to take a walk even if they can afford it. They are too fearful because of nutritional deficiency. They may learn how to correct this by reading the pamphlet ear-

Strength for the Day

A NEUROTIC NATION

The country is crying out for more doctors. It is disconcerting to realize that almost all that we need more psychiatrists—more people to treat the insane and to try to save the borderline cases from being institutionalized.

What has gone wrong with our nation? Here we have the richest, the most resourceful group of people in the world, with the highest standards of living humanity has known in its history, yet half our hospital beds are occupied by mental cases. At a time when we ought to be training people how to enjoy the good life, how to be more healthy, how to avoid diseases, we turn up an SOS for more doctors to keep us from going to the insane asylum or to help treat the people who are already there.

We are a neurotic people, and the tragedy is that most of us know it. We realize it, but we do not know how to change.

It is not a good sign when the eye on any day is for bigger and better mental institutions, more psychiatrists, more clinics to treat the maladjusted. A good dose of religion might help.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARKE

Not having seen London since the war's end, my sensation on driving in through the suburbs from the airport was one of incredulity. London right now is one of the best-looking cities in the world. It is spotlessly clean and tidy. It is painted and shined. It gives the impression of being more prosperity, though we know full well it is suffering controls and austerities that make for the gimp-out of almost any other community we could imagine.

I have seen London many times, both in the first war, and through the thirties, including the royal coronation, which was an occasion of considerable dressing up and decorations. But the impression we half million Canadians had, who saw it during the first years of the last war, was one of tragic drabness and neglect. Besides the ruins of the bombing fires, the city had that appearance of decay due to the absence of care and upkeep, since the population was evacuated in 1939.

We may be forgiven for remembering London in that condition.

Today, London might very well give the lie to the old saying that all roads are a nation of shopkeepers, and entitle them to be called a nation of housekeepers. From the beautiful suburban regions right down into the heart of the city, there are well-kept house and factory areas, the picture is one of freshness, with paint, flower gardens, polished glass, gleaming metal. No doubt the Festival of Britain has something to do with the brushup, but it could hardly account for the whole change in the job. Get a combination of shopkeepers and housekeepers, and you inevitably have a talented community.

WAY STATIONS

I have always been fascinated by the expressions used by railroads and railroad people—"and all Way Stations". I have been a train that stopped at all these so-called "Way Stations". For you, come to know about everyone in the town, so that when walking down to the business, or Main Street, you are stopped time and again to greet friends, each one becoming a part of "Way Station" to your main destination.

If too many people are in too much of a hurry. The "Way Stations" of life have far more for them than they ever realize. I notice that the politicians, when running for office, don't run fast past these "Way Stations!" They put a big importance upon them just before election. They are in no hurry to make the big towns and cities. The folks in these small places are sound thinkers, and they are more likely to vote their minds. They are readers, but they are substantial citizens first of all, and do their own thinking.

I have also noticed that the "Way Stations" of life have a dictionary, encyclopedia, pamphlet, or notes that I would call them, and from the main route of my mental journeys.

People who have spent most of their lives in small towns know how friendly everyone is, and how they come to know about everyone in the town, so that when walking down to the business, or Main Street, you are stopped time and again to greet friends, each one becoming a part of "Way Station" to your main destination.

Flaming autos and exploding flares are the colorful aftermath of the terrific crash of a four-engine B-50 bomber into a Seattle apartment house recently which set fire to the three-storey wooden structure. Firemen are shown, top, pouring water on the smoking debris. The plane was so completely demolished that it can hardly be seen in this picture. Bomber had taken off two minutes before crash on what U.S. air officials termed a flight to check secret military equipment. Rescue workers are seen above carrying victim from flaming structure. Six plane crew members were killed instantly, with twenty tenants still missing. (CP Canadian Photos.)

Northern Electric Girls Beaten 20-5 In Playdowns

Belleville Northern Electric trekked to Peterborough on Wednesday evening to do combat with the Westclox lasses of that city and suffered a 20-5 setback in the first game of the PWSU playdowns.

The Lifticckers launched a 17-hit attack off the three Northern hurlers and climaxed the game with 13 big runs in the bottom of the eighth to put the game on ice.

Jardine started on the mound for the visitors and held a power laden Westclox crew to seven runs and seven hits in an equal number of innings. Anne McGrath relieved in the eighth, retiring the side without difficulty. In the ninth, however, the homesters powered to the attack and with the aid of one error, three walks and ten base blows, they tallied 13 times to tuck the win away handily.

Sally Twigg came in with one out in the eighth to retire the side without further damage.

Armstrong handled the hurling chore for Westclox allowing 12 hits while whiffing five and passing three others..

Young, Reeves, Bevay and Waite each garnered a pair of hits for Northerns, while Marg Hawthorne led the Westclockers with four safe blows. Marg. Bailey and Bea Morrow each got three while Joan McIntyre, Owens and Armstrong came up with a pair.

These same two teams play the second game in their best-of-three series at the CNRAA field on Saturday afternoon with the third game, if necessary, being played at night.

"After examining the committee record, a message was immediately sent to our embassy in Washington requesting them to inform the State Department of our surprise that the name of a highly respected and trusted senior official of the Canadian government had been mentioned in a way which could not fail to prejudice his position.

"We emphasized our complete confidence in Mr. Norman and requested that the congressional sub-committee be informed of this fact, and of our regret and annoyance that his name had been dragged into their hearings by their counsel on the basis of an impressive and unsubstantiated allegations by a former communist.

Suggest Different Procedure

"We expressed the hope that the committee would instruct their counsel to act differently in future in matters which concerned officials of this government, adding that we expect that if in investigations by committees of this kind in Washington, names of Canadian officials appeared, that these names should not be made public but that the normal practice should be followed of sending them to the Canadian government through normal diplomatic channels. The allegations made could then be investigated here and the results of the investigation given to all those concerned."

Do Your Hands Tell Your Age?

Your complexion cream will at no time keep hands soft and young looking. Two applications a day will work wonders for your skin

By HELEN FOLLETT

Nail polish, like the rosy lipstick, is one beauty whimsy that has had a long run. Some old-time duddy men still protest against fashion's hold, but a lot of good it does them. Polish gives a modern touch and it is fun to play with.

But the sisters should keep in mind that it calls attention to hands that have been neglected, that carry discolorations or look old. Many women have young faces, slender figures but hands that look old as anything. No reason for it. Even the busiest boss of domestic works can keep her mitts in form for little cost and little time.

Selecting Soap

In the first place, soap must be selected with care. What does nicely for one may be the bane for another woman. If hands look shiny and drawn after using particular soap, it is not for you. Find one that is blander, more neutral, after a session in the garden, clean your hands with mineral oil, and then give them a soapy scrubbing with a brush. Or add a little cornmeal to the suds; the tiny grains will dig dust from knuckle wrinkles, the starchy content will be soothing.

Don't stint on the use of a hand lotion. Some supplicants for pulchritude fancy that lotions are necessary only when the hands are chapped. They need it all the year round and two applications a day are better than one. A gentle massage at bedtime with a nourishing cream will work wonders. The one you use on your complexion will usually agree with the skin on your hands as it has the same characteristics.

For Gala Evenings

If you would dress up your hands for the gala evening, apply a little vanishing cream to the backs and the fingers. Keep rubbing until every bit disappears. Sometimes a drop or two of skin tonic will serve, and it will also impart a delightful fragrance.

The housewife who wrestles with vegetables should have a cut lemon handy, plunge her fingertips in it to remove stains and to whiten the nail eaves.

MARIO ... in his distinctive feature about FOOD ... What's Cooking?

The cassis is sour, the west is sweet—as far as cherries are concerned. The sour types of cherries used in pies and cobblers are grown most successfully east of the Rockies. The sweet meaty cherries used for eating straight are mainly grown west of the Rockies.

When you buy fresh cherries you have the job of removing the stems and the pits. If you are preparing bushels of cherries for canning or freezing, you can buy a mechanical cherry pitter which eliminates most of this drudgery. A hooked metal wire—like the old-fashioned shoe buttoner-can also be used for removing cherry pits easily.

A cherry cobbler is made by baking a rich biscuit dough on top of sweetened cherries in a baking pan.

If cake flour instead of all purpose flour is used, the dough will be more tender. Less liquid is also required, and the dough is more difficult to handle. But it has a feathery, crumbly texture which is delicious as a topping for fresh fruit.

Fresh Cherry Cobbler

2 cups fresh cherries
1 cup sugar
1-2 cup water
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 cups sifted cake flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-4 cup sugar
1-4 cup butter or vegetable fat
1 egg slightly beaten
1-3 cup milk

Remove stems from the cherries. Pit and wash the cherries.

Bring the 1 cup of sugar and 1-3 cup of water to a boil. Boil three minutes. Add the cherries. Simmer until tender.

Mix the cornstarch to a smooth paste with 1-4 cup cold water. Add to the cherries. Simmer until clear and slightly thickened.

Put the cherries in an 8-inch square baking pan.

Measure the sifted flour. Sift again with the baking powder, salt and 1-4 cup sugar.

Cut in the butter until the pieces of butter are no larger than rice grains. Combine the egg and milk.

Add the liquid to the dry ingredients. Stir only until dough holds together. Do not mix. Roll or pat out to fit into pan.

Place the dough on the cherries. Bake in a preheated oven at 375 degrees 40 to 50 minutes or until done. Serve with whipped cream if desired.

PETIT FARM GIRL NOW "MISS CANADA"

Five-foot-two, with eyes of blue, pert Marjorie Kelly, 23, of Courtland, Ont., saw her dreams realized recently when the "Miss Canada" crown was placed on her curly locks by Margaret Bradford, Miss Canada of 1950. The University of Western Ontario graduate topped a field of 17 girls to carry off the $1,000 scholarship money, which she plans to use for work in study in New York. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kelly, tobacco farmers, the young lyric soprano is youngest of family of three girls. One of seven contest judges in attendance at the Brant Inn contest was Sarah Churchill, daughter of Winston Churchill. —Central Press Canadian.

Quiz for Jellymakers

1. Q. What are the characteristics of a good jelly?

A. A good jelly is clear and transparent; it is firm enough to hold its shape when unmolded and cut; it is tender, not tough or gummy; it has the fruit flavor characteristic of its kind.

2. Q. What three ingredients are necessary for jelly-making?

A. Pectin, acid and sugar are necessary in the correct proportions.

3. Q. Which fruits make good jellys?

A. Fruits which contain large amounts of pectin and acid make good jelly. Examples of these are sour apples, crabapples, cranberries, currants, gooseberries, grapes, and sour plums. Most other fruits are lacking in either pectin or acid, but may be combined with fruits having a high pectin and high acid content.

4. Q. How ripe should fruit be when made into jelly?

A. A mixture of about equal parts of slightly underripe fruit, which contains more pectin, and fully ripe fruit, which has better flavor, is considered best.

5. Q. How can you test for pectin?

A. Boil the fruit juice for three minutes. Then measure 1 teaspoon fruit juice and 1 teaspoon rubbing alcohol into a small dish. Blend quickly together and let stand 30 seconds. If a jelly-like mass or clot is formed, the juice contains sufficient pectin. The same test may be added.

6. Q. What determines the amount of sugar to be used in making jelly?

A. The amount of pectin determines the amount of sugar. Three-quarters of a cup of sugar is allowed for each cup of extracted juice, unless a heavy clot is formed in the pectin test. The heavy clot shows that the juice is rich in pectin, and 1 cup of sugar for each cup of extracted juice should then be used.

7. Q. Should jelly be boiled slowly or rapidly?

A. Jelly should be boiled rapidly, otherwise the pectin may be destroyed by long slow cooking.

8. Q. How can you tell when the jellying point is reached?

A. Dip a spoon into the syrup and allow some of the syrup to run off the edge of the spoon. When drops form and flow together to form a "sheet", the jelly stage is reached. The jelly should then be removed from the heat immediately.

9. Q. Why does jelly sometimes fail to set?

A. There may be several reasons for this:

(1) Using over-ripe fruit or fruit lacking in pectin.

(2) Too short a boiling time.

(3) Too much sugar in proportion to the amount of pectin and acid.

(4) Too much water used in extracting the juice.

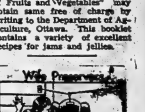
10. Q. What makes jelly tough?

A. Jelly may become tough if too little sugar for the amount of pectin and acid is used. Overcooking results in gumminess.

11. Q. Why is jelly not always clear?

A. A cloudiness may result from improper straining, or by squeezing the bag. Too great a proportion of green fruit may also cause this.

12. Q. What makes crystals form in jelly?



A. This may results from an excess of sugar, insufficient acid or over-cooking the jelly. Insufficient acid may cause crystals in grape jelly but this can usually be prevented by letting grape juice stand in a cold place before making into jelly. The crystals will settle to the bottom and the juice may be carefully drained off.

13. Q. What makes jelly weep?

A. Weeping occurs in fruits high in acid. This is thought to be caused by a contraction of the jelly mass which squeezes out liquid, similar to the separation of the whey from the curd of milk.

If dribbles of jelly are not wiped off the inside of the glass above the jelly level, the paraffin will not form a good seal and weeping may result. A slightly moistened clean cloth should be used to do this.

Anyone who would like the bulletin entitled "Home Canning of Fruits and Vegetables" may obtain same free of charge by writing to the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. This booklet contains a variety of excellent recipes for jams and jellies.

To clean fur at home, dampen some towel or sacrfcot with a dry cleaning solvent, and rub the mixture into the fur; then shake, brush and air the garment. Home cleaning should only be tried where the piece is not worth the expense of professional treatment.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Smiling lips, sparkling snow-white, highlighted teeth are an important part of the pulchritudinous picture. Highlight the dominance of attention to cosmetic degree. It would be well if the sisterhood, especially the younger ones of high school age—would realize that the tooth-brush is more important in the cosmetic line, good looks than those interesting little items in the makeup box.

The toothbrush is about the only weapon we have to combat decay of the teeth, though the belief seems to be growing that diet is an influence, especially vitamin C; so a quart of milk a day may be a wise insurance against oral troubles. By using the right kind of brush—not too large and bristles neither too soft nor hard, set in groups—and by using it correctly, much trouble with the gums may be prevented. The friction necessary for a thorough scouring has a stimulating effect upon the blood streams that bring nourishment to the tissues.

When selecting a toothbrush, note the length of the handle. It should be at least six inches long to insure full sufficient grasp to apply and maintain considerable pressure. Extremely long bristles are not as efficient as shorter ones, for after they're wet, they have a tendency to bend and slide over the surfaces instead of frictioning them properly.

Take care of your brushes. You should have two of them, so one will always be dry. Place a new brush in a strong salt solution and let it remain there for two hours before using it. It will set and clean the bristles and take away their original toughness. After using, they should be rinsed with cold water. Very hot water should not be used, even when you are grooming your teeth, as it softens the bristles, may alter the shape of the handle. If you keep your brush in a glass the end with the bristles should be up, not down. It is not wise to place it in a covered container. This prevents drying and encourages the growth of bacteria.

As soon as the bristles weaken, the brush is useless. Some dentists request their patients to buy new brushes every four months.

No matter how excellent the dentifrice you use, plenty of brushing is required; it is the brushing that does the business, reduces the bacterial count. It is an unpleasant thought, but germs are always present in the mouth, and can have a devastating effect unless the teeth are cleaned frequently and the mouth is rinsed with a refreshing lotion to remove foreign substances that the brush has dislodged.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

How Do You Know When You're In Love?

In most cases when two young people are truly "in love" with each other, they feel as though they hadn't a care in the world, life is just one rose-colored hour after another, and anyone reckless enough to suggest that it might not always be that way; that occasions might even arise in years to come, when each would think the other a great deal less than perfect; would be written off as a complete idiot.

That is one big reason why I view with considerable skepticism—an attitude for which I am frequently taken to task by readers—the mazzy letters that come to me, mostly from teen-agers and slightly older young people, which begin in some such way as this: "I am deeply in love with this fellow and he says he feels the same way about me. But . . ."

And I don't have to go beyond the "but" to know that the writer of the letter is not very likely to be "in love" at all, but is simply using the words to express anything from infatuation with the other—person's marvellous blue eyes and smooth line to a very genuine admiration—but scarcely anything approaching the certain qualities in the young man or woman that instinctively attract them about them.

Doubts and Reservations

For the "But" shows that there are doubts and reservations in the mind of the one using the word; that the next sentence he or she will go on to say: "Now my problem is this . . ." And the truth is that doubts and reservations are not usually a part of those first ecstatic days of being "in love.' Contrariwise, in the days of courtship and engagement, neither party to the happy goings-on is apt to see life as anything but one long joy-ride, as long as the two of them can be together.

Don't misunderstand me, now. Nothing would be sillier than to suggest that people in love don't have their problems, and sometimes wonder if it might not have been better if they had never met each other. But that type of situation rarely arises until after marriage, when the first thrills have worn off, as they inevitably do, and a husband and wife, however much they really love each other, have come at last to realize that the person they've married is just another human being, with all a human being's faults and frailties.

All this is why it is always particularly gratifying when a teenager has the good sense to stop and try to figure out whether the emotion felt at the moment for a member of the opposite sex is, indeed, love itself. As, for instance, the one who writes me this brief and to-the-point note:

"Am a girl 18 years old and I like a boy very much but do not know whether I love him or not. Can you please tell me when or how you know when you are in love?"

A Sensible Question

So, to this sensible young girl, I would first say that I'm delighted she is smart enough to think there might a least be some question as to whether or not she is actually "in love." And second, I would say that the fact that she's only 18 is an excellent reason for believing that what she feels for this boy is not love, but simply an attraction likely to pass and be forgotten in not too long a time. For opinion of many a teen-ager to the contrary notwithstanding, not one 18-year-old in a thousand—and the figure is conservative—knows anything about real love, which is a composite of more things than the very young and inexperienced ever stop to think about when they "fall for" one another.

To know when you are actually in love is to realize fully this composite nature of the emotion and to find that your heart and your mind together can okay each of the items that compose it.

Among these items are affirmative answers to such questions as:

"Do you and this other person like the same sort of people?"

"Are the things you like about him (or her) fundamental qualities like sincerity, loyalty, honesty, friendliness, unselfishness, etc., or superficial ones like good looks, a socially pleasant manner, an entertaining line?" "Have you many of the same interests so that you will always be able to do things together companionably" "Do you agree on what is and what is not important in life, or haven't you bothered to find out where each of you stands on such things?" Are you sure you could always depend on him (or her) in any emergency?" "Does his (or her) attitude toward you make you always feel perfectly happy and secure?"

These are just a few of the things to which you should be able to answer "Yes" with certainty before deciding that you are definitely in love. But they're plenty to begin on.

TO MOTHERS OF LITTLE GALS FROM 5 TO HIGH SCHOOL AGE.

How does your daughter grow? With naturally curly hair? If so, we'll cut her hair in a style that will be trim and tantalizing. If not, we'll cut her hair to a perky length and give here a baby-soft permanent wave. No more putting it up every night or after every rainstorm. This plan is not only helpful to you but good for your child. Most little girls are coquettes at heart. We'll wager a child who looks pretty as she can will be smart as she can—and happier—in school.

RAWDON

Hoard's Live Stock Sales Commemorate One Hundredth Sale

Rawdon—Monday evening, a special session was held at the Community Livestock sale at Hoard's Station, with the proprietor, Mr. J. R. Williams, commemorating his 100th consecutive sale.

Away back in 1949 Mr. Williams had a vision of holding and selling direct from the farmers and the first sale was held in April, 1950 at his farm. Since Later that year, improvements were made and due to the loyal support of the farmers and buyers, the sale has shown continuous growth and today is one of the largest in Ontario.

At each sale some organization from the nearby churches or institutes caters to the needs of the inner man and hot meals are served as well as light snacks, soft drinks and ice cream. These are well looked ahead for months as the ladies find this a profitable money-making venture even though it does mean working in the wee small hours.

Own Auctioneer

Mr. Williams is his own auctioneer and Fred Hough is the sales clerk, while Mr. Bruce Bell is in charge of the finances. There is also a staff of attendants who look after the livestock and are responsible for all the various chores connected with the department. At first the sales were held monthly, but of late they have been weekly affairs and crowds gather from all over the county. Numerous buyers come from many points in Canada and the United States.

Many improvements have been accomplished and several more have been planned. Recently a group of entertainers from Campbellford give the audience a half hour of fun between the auction moon and evening sessions. Dozens of ladies attend regularly with their husbands and the 100th celebration was a red letter night in the history of Mr. Hoard's Community Livestock Sales.

Old Maids Talk About Having Day For Bachelors

Denton, Tex., Aug. 16 (AP)—The old maids came to Denton yesterday and to show their hearts are in the right place began talking about a day for bachelors.

This is Denton's second annual old maid's day—the idea of Miss Dorothy Babb, teacher in the North Texas State College here who wondered aloud last year why old maids don't get some recognition.

Then today one of the unmarried ladies, Miss Bessie Brown of Denton, said why not give a helping hand to their brothers who also enjoy unmarried bliss?

"The public has failed to show appreciation to the bachelors in the public service they have rendered," she said.

"Like old maids, the bachelors have to give wedding, birthday and Christening gifts but get few themselves. I don't think it would be amiss to let old maids' clubs sponsor parties and invite bachelors so everybody will know who is who."

If she has anything further on her mind such as any change of status that might result, she was not saying.

Niece of Queen Granted Restitution Of Conjugal Rights

Capetown, South Africa, Aug. 16 (Reuters) —A niece of Queen Elizabeth, Lady Nancy Motra Robinson, yesterday was granted a Supreme Court order for restitution of conjugal rights. The marriage certificate, submitted in evidence, was witnessed by the Queen.

Lady Nancy, 32, daughter of the Queen's brother, the late Earl of Athlone, is suing for a divorce as an alternative.

She testified that her husband Lance Amigo Burra Robinson, a factory representative, had left her after telling her he was interested in another woman and that his feelings had changed.

The court ordered her husband to restore her conjugal rights or else show why a divorce should not be granted. She was granted custody of the two children and maintenance of $70 a month until the children are 18.

She and Robinson were married in London in 1940, while he was on the volunteer reserve of the R.W.

Robinson came to South Africa after the war and Lady Nancy joined him in 1947.

Defence Pact Between U.S. And Philippines Has Reached Drafting Stage Says Official

FOOT OF NO RETURN

It was moving day at West Point recently for the first group of cadets to leave the academy in the mass discharge of 90 for violations of the honor code. One cadet here carries a handbag while a comrade pushes a baggage truck at the start of their terms, to collect luggage. Many of the cadets slated for discharge were given a lift by the statement of Cardinal Spellman of New York that discharged cadets would be accepted by three Catholic colleges in the New York area.

Washington, Aug. 16—(AP)—A mutual defence pact between the United States and the Philippines has reached the drafting stage, it was learned today.

Informed officials here told a reporter that American and Filipino officials hope to whip the treaty into shape in time for a signing ceremony at the Japanese peace meeting next month in San Francisco.

A similar U.S.-Australian-New Zealand defence alliance is due to be approved there Sept. 1. Three days later 50 countries will meet to sign a final Japanese peace treaty.

American officials confidently expect a U.S.-Japanese arrangement will be concluded later to give American armed forces defence bases in and around Japan.

A proposed draft of the U.S.-Philippine arrangement has been sent to Manila, U.S. officials said today. If it is accepted, they said the U.S. would be bound to regard any aggression against the Philippines as "dangerous" to American peace and security.

The alliance represents another U.S. move to build up defences against possible communist aggression in the Pacific. There is hope here for an eventual tie-up of the two agreements to parallel the north Atlantic Treaty.

The "final" Japanese peace treaty text, drafted jointly by the U.S. and Britain, was made public yesterday by U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in defiance of any Russian effort to wreck the peace conference.

Combined War-of-Nerves

And dulles reported for the first time officially that Soviet communists have been conducting a war-of-nerves against the treaty and "even suggesting that it may be considered by their violence." He did not expend on this point.

But he declared in a radio broadcast (CBS) that so many Second World War allies will sign the treaty that there will be no doubt in any quarter as to either the fact of peace or as to the terms of it.

Although China was an enemy of Japan in the Second World War, no Chinese representatives have been invited to the treaty signing. The results from an agreement between the U.S. which recognizes the Chinese nationalist government, and Britain, which has recognized the communist regime.

Peiping radio yesterday branded the statement by an Premier Chou En-lai saying that with the Chinese communist excluded from the San Francisco conference they would consider the treaty "illegal and therefore null and void."

Only minor differences were noted in the new Japanese treaty draft as compared to the previous version. The only change of any importance made clear Japan's obligation to make certain reparations to allied countries who suffered damage and loss of life from the Japanese.

BOOKLET ISSUED

Toronto, Aug. 16—(CP)— The Ontario Agriculture Department has issued a 64-page illustrated booklet providing detailed information on the province's agricultural industry.

Army to Have French-Canadian General

Ottawa, Aug. 16 (CP) — The army is going to have a French-Canadian general — J. P. E. (Paul) Bernatchez, CBE, DSO, CD, a fighting rock-jawed infantryman from the famed Royal 22nd Regiment.

The fact is has gone now and has not had for some years brought criticism of the last session of parliament from Quebec members deploring what they considered inadequate representation of French-Canadians in the army's higher ranks.

It was announced today that Brig. Bernatchez, 49-year-old native of Montmagny, Que., is being promoted to Major-General Dec. 1 and posted to Montreal as general officer commanding Quebec Command. He will succeed Maj. Gen. W. H. O. G. Morton, CBE, 56, who is retiring.

Meanwhile, he is leaving defence headquarters here this week to fly to Tokyo temporarily to relieve Brig. Frank G. Cleary, MBE, 37, of Ottawa, as head of the Canadian military mission there.

Toronto, Aug. 16—(CP)— Two archbishops and three bishops of the Church of England are reported to be in the running for the post of Primate of all Canada, in succession to the late Most Rev. G. F. Kingdon.

Election is to be made at Victoria, next September, by the executive council of the General Synod.

The five whose names are most prominently mentioned in church circles are: Most Rev. Louis Ralph Eberman, Archbishop of Winnipeg; Most Rev. Philip Carrington, Archbishop of Quebec; Rt. Rev. W. L. Wright, Bishop of Algoma; Rev. W. F. Barfoot, Bishop of Edmonton; Rt. Rev. Ingles N. Lazier, Bishop of London.

The Acting Primate is Most Rev. W. Adams, Archbishop of the Yukon. Because of his age and health, he is barred from as a contender, church sources said. Neither is the other Canadian Archbishop, the Rev. John Lyons, Metropolitan of Ontario, for reasons of health.

Four Constables Guard Prisoner In Police Court

Hamilton, Aug. 16 (CP)—Four constables guarded John Edward McKay when he was brought into court today for preliminary hearing on a charge of breaking and entering. Four policemen guarded the entrances and were posted along the court-room.

McKay had made an unsuccessful effort at a break when he appeared in a Toronto court a few days ago.

Magistrate Beamer Hopkins refused McKay's request for a week's adjournment to allow the defence committed the prisoner to trial before a higher court.

Detective Sergeant Jackson testified he had arrested McKay as a suspect in a $69,000 robbery of Wingfield Detective George Nair told of finding the escape route through a hamilton hall July 8 and of picking up McKay at Toronto Aug. 8 after his arrest by Toronto police.

Scientists Hope To Induce Rain In Vancouver

Ottawa, Aug. 16. (CP)—The Rockcliffe Flying Wagon, National Research Council experimental plane, is en route to Vancouver to help bring rain to the parched coast city.

The four-engine North Star took off from Rockcliffe air base today for Vancouver where it will drop dry ice on clouds in efforts to induce precipitation.

Research Council officials are making any promises, however. They said that this method of inducing rain is completely dependent on suitable cloud conditions.

The operation is being carried out as part of the "Ice Wagon's" routine work. The Vancouver area was selected because of the suitability of geographical conditions there and because the Vancouver area is in the midst of an extended dry spell.

SWOLLEN RIVER ADDED PERIL IN KOREA

By the side of the swollen Imjin river in Korea, a U.N. soldier stands guard to see that "no swimming" and "no unauthorized personnel" rules are obeyed. The pontoon bridge across the Imjin, which was used by U.N. delegates to the Kaesong cease-fire conference, was wrecked by heavy rains in the area and rise of the river to unprecedented heights. It has been repaired and damaged again several times in the past month.—Central Press Canadian.

Attitude of Canadians Toward Korean Civilians Changes From Contempt to Compassion

By BILL ROSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

With the Canadians in Korea, Aug. 16 — (CP) — The troops are having a lot of "second thoughts" these days. And there's a lesson for the army in them.

The new note stems from what might be called the "Chorwon Wallop."

The Canadians cleared all Korean — Chorwon is in North Korea — from the rubbled city last June and a broad area extending 10 points 10 to 12 miles north.

There was uneasiness among some of them during the actual operation. There has been a lot of soul-searching since. And one Canadian soldier uneasy over the way the Koreans were handled at the front has in his worst imaginings a picture of the conditions to which he was consigning them in the south.

Even so, compassion is replacing pity and the soldier's thoughts are in terms of help — especially the fighting soldier's.

The Canadian who three months ago would have sneered "yotta" — "tara" (scram, go away) at grubby little children now feels around for some means of kindness — a candy, a piece of bread.

One unit, which still doesn't allow children in its camp area, has built for them at Uijonbu a complete playground. The 2nd battalion Royal 22nd Regiment has organized its "khaki charities."

Men who came to Korea as 20th century soldiers of fortune are finding that they stand for something and that they do want to do something. They are finding in Korea the purpose and principles they were prematurely credited with having before they left Canada.

That means that they will leave Korea as better men and better Canadians than they came.

Is there in all of this a lesson for the army?

Yes: Indoctrination. At school they used to call it "propaganda," lessons about foreign countries and their customs, and "civics," the duties of the western conception of relations between individual and state.

Indoctrination would have avoided the superiority complexes into which U. N. troops have fallen here. The Korean people have been so humiliated by the Communists, contemptuous attitude, the sneering arrogance that springs from treating humans like cattle, that experienced observers fear they have irretrievably alienated them.

Said one foreign correspondent with years abroad for a United States newspaper: "It doesn't matter now who wins the war. Our troops have lost us the Koreans."

Add to the abstract fact of attitude the concrete facts of murders, rapes, lootings and burnings by individual soldiers, and the wanton battlefield destruction of whole communities by field commanders, and the impact of the United Nations on Korea has been impressive but not happy.

Fortunately for Canada the 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry like its sister units is young and its feet before getting down to fighting. It was a "grass-roots" indoctrination course at the same time.

Insofar as they could the Patricias went out and unravelled and by the time they moved into the line they had an appreciation of Korean that at least had changed from the one they'd formed on arrival at Pusan.

The story of the Patricias' conduct in the line is, in the main, one of courtesy, kindness, consideration, even protection of the Koreans from the troops, and help when they could.

The rest of the brigade slowly is coming into line.

5 Municipalities Form Committee To Stop Erosion

St. Catharines, Aug. 16.—(CP)— Five municipalities in the eastern end of Lincoln County Wednesday night formed a committee to press the provincial government to help fight destructive lakefront erosion by setting up a conservation authority.

The five—Niagara, Grantham, Louth and Clinton townships and the town of Niagara-on-the-Lake —have all forwarded to the Minister of Public Works individual resolutions asking for such an authority. Three other Lake Ontario municipalities, North Grimsby and Saltfleet townships and the town of Grimsby, were represented at the meeting and earlier forwarded a resolution as a group.

Reeve Wilfred Stewart was named committee chairman.

G. M. Lampard, solicitor for the group, said no report had been received of the lakefront survey from Hamilton to the Niagara River being undertaken by a Toronto firm on behalf of the Department of Planning and Development.

J. W. Haylock, of Saltfleet, said he felt that the high water level this year was "at least 80 per cent due" to recent diversions on the Great Lakes watershed for power purposes. Grimsby delegates reported that during this year 40 feet of land had been lost just west of the town pier station, which now is at the water's edge.

It is estimated that Lake Ontario waters are eating away lakefront land at the rate of five or six feet a year, although in many spots erosion losses are as high as 30 or 40 feet a year.

Body Recovered From Lake Ontario

Toronto, Aug. 16—(CP)—The body of a Polish immigrant was recovered today from Lake Ontario where he drowned accidentally Wednesday night while fishing.

Police Canada-wide search for the man, a house-painter Joseph Pytliuski, 26, took his 17-month-old son Ryszard with him. He told his wife they would return in time for the child's bedtime.

Later, police found the child wandering in the exhibition grounds.

APPROVE INCREASES

New York, Aug. 16. (AP)—The Board of Estimate Wednesday approved pay increases for the city's 35,000 to 40,000 teachers, ending an 18-month dispute which included mass protests by students and a court battle.

Labor Chief Suggests Frost Arbitrate Checkoff Issue In Mine Strike at Timmins

Timmins, Ont., Aug. 16—(CP)— A proposal that Premier Frost of Ontario personally arbitrate the check-off issue in the strike at Hollinger consolidated gold mines was put forward last night by Pat Conroy, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Congress of Labor.

Mr. Conroy said the striking United Steelworkers of America, in C.C.L. affiliate, would abide by any decision the premier might make.

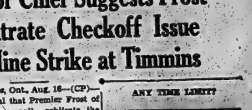
It also would accept any settlement arrived at by Ontario government conciliation services concerning wages, pensions and working conditions, if still unsettled, he proposed that these issues should be referred to arbitration by the premier.

The Conroy company reaction was a statement from E. A. Perry, head of the firm's negotiating committee and assistant general superintendent of the mine, who said Hollinger would make no decision on the C.C.L. proposal until it could be studied in detail.

Some 1,600 Hollinger miners have been on strike since July 9 for higher wages and a check-off of union dues.

Pledges Full Weight

Addressing a joint meeting of the C.C.L. wage co-ordinating committee and the Hollinger strike committee, Mr. Conroy pledged the full weight of all C.C.L. unions, if necessary, to support the strike. The committee recommended that the strike be continued until agreement is reached on settlement terms along the lines of its proposals.



"Premier Frost has refused to consider the check-off becoming law and has said it is a matter of collective bargaining," said Mr. Conroy. "We are willing to drop our contention it should be law, if he will undertake to arbitrate the issue himself." [illegible]

He said the check-off was not the main issue in the dispute. Low wages of 90 cents an hour were the chief point.

"We need the check-off to properly balance the economic inequality which exists between this rich, powerful corporation and its workers."

In another development yesterday, Mr. Perry asked the union to permit trained power crews to remove 900 cases of explosives from the depths of the mine. W. J. Reeves, C.C.L. chief mine inspection officer, ordered removal of the explosives on grounds they will become dangerous if left to deteriorate in the mine workings.

ANY TIME LIMIT?

Chief Communist delegate to the peace talks at Kaesong, Lt. Gen. Nam Il, is seen checking the time as he enters peace talk conference room. For two hours and 11 minutes of a recent session, the allied and red truce teams sat in silence, as the reds refused to even consider the buffer zone suggested by the U.N.

Accountant Noted Large Advances To Rochette

Quebec, Aug. 16 (CP)— An accountant said in court Wednesday he once noted a $301,000 "advance" from La Traverse de Levis Limitee to Armand Rochette, former company president accused of theft and fraud involving $375,000.

Marc Bolduc, 37, year-old accountant with Montreal firm (Armand et Filion), said the ferry company's books showed the money had passed to Rochette in January 1951.

He was unable to find a resolution in the company's books authorizing the "advance."

In April, he noted a similar amount of $20,000, and April 30, a $300,000 "reimbursement of advances."

The accountant testified during preliminary hearing of the 64-year-old Montreal businessman who is charged with fraud of $375,000 and theft of $301,000. Rochette is free on $20,000 bail.

FRANKFORD Hundreds Attend Memorial Service

Frankford—Hundreds of citizens of the village of Frankford and neighboring Sidney township thronged to the Memorial Park Sunday afternoon for the annual Canadian Legion Memorial Day. Sunday was Sidney Day, at which the names of the Sidney Veterans, who gave their all, were officially dedicated, as they appeared on the Frankford Cenotaph.

Led by the 40 piece Peterborough Salvation Army Band, veterans from the village, and neighboring communities paraded from the C.N.R. station to the Memorial Park. The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Legion and the 1st Frankford Boy Scout Troop paraded with the veterans.

In the park, Reeve Gecige Spencer, chairman for the day, welcomed the many guests and paid tribute to the organizations who had worked so hard to make the day a success. Reeve Spencer then introduced Lieutenant P. E. Gardener of the Trenton Salvation Army Corps, Lieutenant Gardener brought the Call to Worship, following which the hymn "O God Our Help in Ages Past" was sung accompanied by the band. The scripture reading followed.

The most sacred and solemn part of the service was conducted by Reeve Les Grills of Sidney, as he unveiled the names of the Veterans of World War two, drawing a large Union Jack from the plinth. As the flag was withdrawn, Reeve Grills read the names as inscribed on the cenotaph. Reeve Grills expressed his happiness at being able to take part in the service, and to bring greetings from his township. There has always been a strong bond of friendship between Sidney and Frankford, and this service did much to strengthen that bond.

Last Post and Reveille were sounded, with the period of silence being observed.

Wreaths were laid on behalf of the Canadian Legion, Branch 287, The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Legion, the township of Sidney, the village of Frankford, the Lions Club of Frankford, the village of Balwin, the Frankford Boy Scouts, and a wreath by Fred Conley in memory of his brother. Beautiful sprays of flowers too numbrous to mention were laid around the cenotaph.

The Peterborough Salvation Army band then played the hymn "Nearer My God to Thee," at the special request of Col. W. G. Ketcheson of Oshawa.

Col. Vanderwater Brings Address

The address of the day was brought by Col. Roscoe Vanderwater V.C.O., V.D., Sidney. Col. Vanderwater brought a message from Col. Ketcheson, expressing regret, that due to illness, he could not attend. The Colonel brought greetings from Sidney, and complimented the organizers of the day. He emphasized the obligations that the veterans of two wars had to the younger generation, in teaching them the real true meaning of liberty, which the boys, whose names appear on the cenotaph, made possible. Col. Vanderwater stated that only through an unselfish, Christian attitude of heart will peace in the world ever know real peace. On the conclusion of his remarks, Col. Vanderwater was heartily applauded by veterans and citizens.

The benediction was pronounced by Lieutenant Herron of the Salvation Army Corps.

Led by the color party and the band, the veterans, Ladies' Auxiliary and Scouts paraded around the block and by the Cenotaph for the March Past. The salute was taken by Col. Vanderwater.

Thus, through the combined efforts of the Lions Club, Legion and Frankford village council, the Canadian Legion held many individuals, "Sidney Day" was a beautiful and impressive day, which the village of Frankford and Sidney township will long remember.

Indians Blast Garver For 13th Straight; Yanks, Bosox Win; Brooks Lose

There won't be any such rickuns at Memorial Arena as occurred last Friday night after the Sharpe Brothers, Miles and Ben stalemated with Fred Atkins and Lee Hedning after each team had won a fall. "That's for sure" smiled big Michael, "because these gentry won't be around. We intend to tuck them away early." Do they ask it may. The Atkins-Hedning team have other ideas. They figure they have perfected a few new tricks which will not only fool the referee, whoever he is, but the handsome laddies from Hamilton, too. It's going to be a ditty of a bout, and fireworks of all sorts are liable to explode. Pat Flanagan meets Steve Stanlee in the semi-go while Billy Stack takes on Sonny Kurgla in the opener.

BLACK HAWKS HERE OCT. 6

This year, we, if hockey is not sneaking around the corner, not lashing on ears at baseball, softball and golf as a solid summer sports which will probably be in playoff fevers by the time the whistles toot and the first puck is dropped. Just take a gander at that calendar, check off the upcoming seven weeks and then October 6th as your first hockey date of the 1951-52 season.

That's it brethren. And no less than the Chicago Black Hawks in person will be here to knock the lid off the good ole winter sport that now circles nearly seven months of the calendar year, including vacation.

Yep, according to President Ken McNaught of the Belleville Hockey Association, the Chicago crew will be here in all their hockey-feathered glory, sans 35 of 'em to do exhibitional battle in Memorial Arena on that date.

The Hawks will be vanguarded by President Jill Tobin and Coach Elddi Goodfellow. Also along will be Chief Scout Bob Wilson and other Hawk luminaries who will escort their National Hockey League privileges here for the trip and the intersquish game. That's official, says Prexy McNaught.

The Hawks play in Guelph on Tuesday, October 2nd and leave immediately following that game for Belleville. They will remain here until early Saturday morning, spending three days in the city. While here they will tour the village, visiting public schools, the Ontario School for the Deaf, R. C. I. and perhaps some of the industrial spots.

The Hawks are being brought here by the Belleville Hockey Association after they are connected in a pleasant manner of way. The game on October 6th will see the Regulars play the Yanigans and also on the ice will be three or four of the Rocket Juniors most promising prospects. We'll have more details on the game and visit in the near future.

HOE-DOWN!

Speaking of the Belleville Hockey Association, the boys are bringing in Wiz Carter, famous country entertainer on Monday, August 20th. The well-known purveyor of western melodies and cowboy ditties has established himself as one of the foremost in his field, and his appearances have been greeted with sell-out crowds wherever he has played. The Trail Valley Rangers will also play oldtime and modern music for the dancing that is included in the Carter show. If you like to doey-doe and "swing yuh podner" don't miss this. Wiz Carter Jamboree at Memorial Arena come Monday evening.

Bill Rotary, by the way, is very fighting for the right to enter the OASA peewee playdowns. The leading hitter of the loop will receive a trophy donated by coal merchants of the city.

Meanwhile four girls' teams are in playoff throes. In this series Robbin's Dairy meets Reid's Dairy and the Y's Mettes play Ted's Restaurant with the winners competing for the Paul Mercier Trophy. All games start at 6.30. The girls play Wednesdays and Fridays with the lads going at it on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Seven-Run Explosion Creates Longest Win-Streak Since' 42; White Sox Blank Tigers 2-0

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

It seems nothing can halt Cleveland Indians' mad dash to the American League pennant.

Yesterday the Tribesmen were running for their 13th straight victory. Opposing them were the pesky St. Louis Browns who knocked them out of the 1950 ring race about a year ago this time with four straight lickings.

On the hill was Ned Garver, who already had whipped them twice without a setback this season.

But the Browns overcame all these obstacles —in a mighty seven-run first inning— to batter Garver and blast the Brownies 9-4, win their third straight, and protect their 2 1-2 game margin over New York Yankees.

Rosen Hits Another

Al Rosen's fourth grand-slammer of the season, which equaled a major league mark, featured the first-inning attack on Garver. It was Rosen's 31st homer.

The runner-up Yankees took an 8-5 decision in Washington; Boston's third-place Red Sox remained 3 1-2 games out by beating the Athletics 4-3 in Philadelphia, and Chicago's fourth-place White Sox shut out the Tigers in Detroit 2-0.

New York's second place Giants took their second straight from Brooklyn, 9-1, to whittle the Dodgers' 13 1-2 attack margin to 10 1-2 games. Boston Braves swamped Philadelphia Phillies their fifth straight loss, 9-0. Cincinnati and Pittsburgh also scored shutouts over the Pirates' blanked St. Louis Cards 7-0 and the Reds shading Chicago Cubs 2-1.

The Cleveland victory tied the Indians' longest winning streak set in 1942.

Yanks 15 Hits

Yogi Berra and Joe Collins each slammed out four hits to lead the Yankees' 15 hit attack against five Washington pitchers. Berra drove in four runs with his 18th homer, a triple and two singles. Ed Lopat gained his 16th triumph but needed help from Bob Kuzava in the eighth.

Dom DiMaggio singled twice, scored once and drove in another run to help Mel Parnell register his 12th victory as the Red Sox defeated the A's.

Saul Rogovin handcuffed Detroit with five hits as Nelson Fox and Ray Coleman batted in both Chicago runs. Virgil Trucks lost a four-hitter.

Owner, Trainer Barred For Life From Ont. Tracks

Toronto, Aug. 16 — (CP) — A racehorse owner and trainer accused of accepting a bribe to make sure his horse lost a race has been barred for life from Ontario race tracks.

The Ontario Racing Commission took the action against G. W. Sharrard of Hamilton, owner of the favorite that finished third in a race at Fort Erie early Sat.

The race, in which North Drive, a long shot, beat Sharrard's heavy-favored Hemjohn, was ruled of the first to occupy the commission in its investigation of suspected "fixed" races on Ontario tracks.

Jockey Bobby Keane of Toronto, who rode Hemjohn, is one of the six riders under lifetime suspension for bribing or accepting bribes. Sharrard is the first owner or trainer to be barred.

The commission ruled that all horses trained by Sharrard will be barred from racing until they are placed under the control of a trainer or trainers satisfactory to the commission.

The commission also fined apprentice rider Robert Allen $100 for failure to report a bribe. In the race concerned, Allen rode Ambitious which finished third and dropped dead while being led back to the barn as a result of injuries suffered in a previous race.

Sharrard is said to have been double-crossed in the July 25 race by Johnny Perron, former jockey's agent who is being sought by the commission. Perron is reported to have given Sharrard only one-third of the money owing to him from bets against his own horse.

Three men are out on bail, charged with conspiracy, after attempting to cash a number of tickets on North Drive in the Fort Erie race.

Red Wings Win Ninth Straight; Royals Triumph

(By The Associated Press)

Now it's Rochester that holds a seemingly-safe grip on the runner-up spot in the International League.

For the first half of the campaign, it looked as though Buffalo would spend the season chasing Montreal Royals. But the Bisons stumbled somewhere along the line and today found themselves five games behind the Red Wings, who still are 12 1-2 in arrears of the Royals.

The Red Wings won their ninth straight last night when they overcame the Bisons 2-1 in 11 innings. Rochester sewed it up with two out in the final frame when Steve Bilko singled Jay Van Noy home. Van Noy had walked and gone to second on Don Richmond's single.

Jack Fazzolo scattered 10 hits for the triumph, Ryan Lovenguth balled him down to the wire and suffered the defeat.

The Royals had no trouble whipping the Ottawa Giants 6-1 behind Jim Ottawa scrom. Mel Mallette fanned seven in posting his eighth triumph. Dick Sisler and Mel Clark aided with the defeat, although he lasted only four innings. The Giants' Chiefs wiped out a 5-0 deficit to defeat Baltimore Orioles 9-8. The losers built up a 6-0 lead on homers by Bill Glynn and Howie Moss, but Loren Babe and Hank Workman hit round trippers for the Chiefs. They clinched the verdict in the seventh with three hits and four walks.

Reliever Charley Riesman, who was set for Jack Gritton in the second, was credited with the triumph, while Ken Trinkle, second of five Baltimore hurlers, took the loss.

A scheduled doubleheader between Springfield and Toronto was rained out.

Hockey Goalie 'Sugar' Henry Seriously Burned

Kenora, Ont., Aug. 16 (CP) — Sugar Jim Henry, goalie of Indianapolis Capitals of the American Hockey League, is in hospital here suffering from serious burns, his doctor said yesterday. Dr. Ross Hall said the right-handed Hemjohn was rushed of the first to occupy the commission in its investigation of suspected "fixed" races on Ontario tracks.

Henry, former New York Rangers netminder, was badly burned Monday when enveloped in flames from an exploded gasoline can he was pouring into an outboard motor inside a gasoline storage place.

Henry started to carry the blazing can outside away from other loaded drums when he stumbled. He fell and caught fire.

He rolled over and over to put out the flames, leaving himself and the store house.

Louis Light, So Are Punches Wins Over Bivins

By GEORGE BOWEN

Baltimore, Aug. 16—(AP)—I'll never find light again, Joe Louis vowed today.

Whether it be Rocky Marciano or Ezzard Charles next, the Brown Bomber will come in as the class as he can get to 208 pounds.

He blamed last night's weight of 203, lowest for him in 10 years, for a disappointing though unanimous 10-round victory over Jimmy Bivins of Cleveland.

"I didn't improve none tonight," he said dispiritedly.

He was downhearted mostly at his failure to deal Bivins in the last round when he hit the 190-pounder with everything he had. Bivins was still hanging on at the end and Louis' deadpan for once showed disbelief—or perhaps realization the deadliness has gone with his 37 years.

The last-minute flurry was the most savage of the fight which otherwise followed a dull pattern. Louis jabbed and jabbed and Bivins ran and ran.

The crowd of 18,215 which paid $73,217 pleaded Louis and said, "Joe, open him up." But Louis was afraid to get only half a chance telling blows from that once-feared right and never could he get through.

It was the eighth straight triumph for Louis since he decided to get serious about a comeback after being laced by Charles last September. The referee called it seven and three after taking the 10th round from Louis for hitting low and the two judges agreed it was 6-3 with one even.

The question of number nine fight is being discussed today.

Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club is talking to manager Marshal Miles about Louis meeting Rocky Marciano in the Polo Grounds on Oct. 10.

If this can't be arranged, Norris may talk about Louis and Charles in Miami during the winter.

Shawinigan Falls Withdraws Team From Sr. Hockey

Shawinigan Falls, Que., Aug. 16 (CP) — Robert Hebert, president of the Shawinigan Falls Cataracts in the Quebec Senior Hockey League, announced last night the team was withdrawing from the circuit.

His announcement followed a stormy session at the city's hall when the council met to discuss arrangements for heating the city owned hockey arena.

Hebert, who headed an eight-member syndicate which operates the team, said the club lost $18,000 last year.

The syndicate turned down the city's offer to install a $40,000 heating system in the rink if the syndicate would contribute five percent of the cost. Hebert said the annual rental of $2,500 plus the additional $2,000 for the heating equipment "made it impossible, for the syndicate to operate" in the forthcoming season.

Cataracts finished in the cellar in the seven-club league for the last two years. They have been continually plagued by small crowds and high operating costs.

First-Inning Jinx Nets Five, Reds Err Afield Six Times Drop 14-6 Verdict to Batawa

By [illegible] E. REID

Nine unearned runs proved too great a load for the Belleville Redmen to overcome at Batawa on Wednesday evening and the homesters gained a 10-4 victory in a regularly scheduled OBL baseball game.

The win improved the Shoemen's chances of gaining a play-off position and left the Redmen in a scant game in front of them.

Belleville broke the ice early, scoring a pair in the top of the first as Fitzpatrick's base on balls and a tremendous double to centre field by Vern Goyer. Goyer came all the way home when the throw from centre field to third base was missed by Willis Rankin.

Two walks, three hits and four errors by the Redmen contributed five runs to Batawa in their half of the inning. Varn Green opened with a walk, was advanced a base when Bush's looper dropped in just back of first base, Wright was retired and Watson forced Green at third but was safe at first when the throw was wide of the base. Rud Green and Semark were both safe as Belleville field ball players and were followed by Rankin and Bunton with looping singles. Vern Green, coming up for his second try, went down on strikes for the third out.

Wright and Rud Green opened the third with singles but Wright was picked off second to start a rally in the bud. A double play in the fourth and a nip-off at home plate in the fifth quelled the scoring of the Shoemen.

Bush Hits Homer

"Mouse" Bush, leading off in the seventh, met one of Willie Fordham's fast balls on the nose and gave it a ride over the short right field fence for a home run to add to the lead.

Fitzpatrick and Goyer opened the eighth with doubles to the alternate outfields and Bush was all for Bob Bunton, starting hurler for the Shoemen. He retired the side without damage although the two runners were placed on putouts.

The Reds came apart at the seams again in the bottom of the eighth committing errors on the first two batters and before he dust had cleared at second, Batawa had garnered four more unearned runs.

Bunton Good For Seven

Bob Bunton worked very effectively on the mound for seven innings allowing five hits, none of which came between the first and seventh, walked four and whiffed five others. Art Wright, his relief, gave up three hits for two runs but was not required to be overly effective. He walked and struck out one each.

Starter for the Redmen, Willis Fordham, received about the poorest support a chucker could get and still have a heart in the game. He was reached for twelve bingles, five of which were of the scratchy variety, walked two and threw the third one by three Shoemen. Johnny Mowat came on in the eighth, striking out one and allowing one scratch hit.

Bunton was the top batter for the night garnering three singles gles in three appearances. Big Vern Goyer bagged a duo of doubles and a single while Fitzpatrick, Rud Green, Rankin and Bush netted a pair. Cosgrove knocked a two-bagger in his only appearance.

Earned runs in the contest were four for Belleville and one for Batawa.

Waterloo Wins Playoff Berth

(By The Canadian Press)

Waterloo Tigers, doing it the hard way, grabbed themselves a place of playoff money Wednesday night.

The defending champions of the Intercounty Senior Baseball League edged London Majors 5-4 in six Kitchener Legion for fourth place on the last night of scheduled play. The Legion obligingly dropped their last two starts to make Waterloo's feat possible.

In a game that didn't mean a thing as far as playoffs were concerned, Galt Terriers whipped Guelph Maple Leafs 8-3. The sixth-place Terriers were counted out of the race earlier this week while the Leafs were safely ensconced in third place.

Oshawa Merchants narrowed the gap between themselves and the league-leading Peterborough Petes by blanking the pace-setters 6-0 in a Viaduct Major League fixture. It was the first defeat after nine straight victories for Bill Dadson on the Peterborough mound.

Sharry Rowland led the Merchants' attack with a double and a triple.

Fan Operation Of Ball Game Irks Phils Boss

Philadelphia, Aug. 16—(AP)—General manager Arthur Ehlers of the Philadelphia Athletics Wednesday bitterly denounced owner Bill Veeck of the St. Louis Browns for his plan to use grandstand managers and coaches in the Browns'-Athletics game Aug. 24.

Veeck had announced that St. Louis fans will vote on managers and coaches who will replace skipper Zack Taylor and his staff in the game at St. Louis next week. The grandstand personnel would handle every phase of the field manoeuvres of the Browns.

Informed of Veeck's promotion scheme, Ehelrs angrily denounced it as making a joke out of the game.

"The fans are paying to see us perform," said Ehlers. "They are entitled to our best efforts and should not be subjected to antics such as some barnstorming team puts on for laughs."

Legion Wins Midget Baseball Title, Trophy

Canadian Legion won the championship of the Belleville Baseball Association midget division last night when they defeated the Sidney Inn team 14-11 in the fourth game of their best-of-five series.

The game was played in "sections" of the four and one-third innings played at Point Anne on Tuesday night which Legion led 7-6 and the remainder played here last night.

Pitcher for Sidney Inn smashed out three hits with Prowe of the Legion getting two for them. Don Cherry went the route on the mound for the Legion with Gibbons and Thrasher toiling for the losers.

The Legion club will advance into the O.B.A. midget playdowns, won the Mack MacCrimmon trophy as well as the city title.

Quebec Hockey Not Broadcast

Ottawa, Aug. 16 (CP) — All clubs in the Quebec Senior Hockey League likely will drop the broadcasting of home games this season, sports promoter Tommy Gorman said Wednesday.

Gorman, owner of the QSHL's Ottawa Senators, made the prediction in announcing home games of the Senators will not be broadcast during the coming season.

"We are following the recommendation of President George Slater and the executive of the Quebec Senior League to drop broadcasting of home games," said Gorman.

"We have found that the radio has hurt the attendance at all games in the league, particularly on night when it is stormy" he said.

Leafs to Have Working Plans With Ont. Teams

(By The Canadian Press)

Jack Kent Cooke, 28-year-old president of Toronto Maple Leafs of the International Baseball League, said Wednesday that he wants to see more Canadians in baseball. He said the Leafs will arrange working agreements with baseball teams in Ontario next year to achieve this end.

Although he planned no teams, he said some of them would be in the seven-club Intercounty League that plays in southwestern Ontario. It is a semi-professional league.

He said that St. Louis Browns of the American League will not decide until Sept. 15 whether they will renew their option with Toronto as a farm club, adding that Pittsburgh Pirates of the National League "are more than anxious" to pick up the option should St. Louis drop it.

AT THE McCARTHY — Joan Crawford and Frank Lovejoy take time out from their romantic capers in "Goodbye, My Fancy," Warner Bros. gay comedy based on Fay Kanin's successful Broadway stage play, now at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. Robert Young also stars in the film.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 16 (AP)—See what I mean about Hollywood going all-out for realism? Here's a war picture with more casualties than a college football game.

The picture now is called "Fixed Bayonets"! (Formerly "Old Soldier Never Die.") Here is the casualty list:

Gene Evans, injured arms; Bill Mickman, broken leg; James Magill, broken wrist; Keine Shew, bayonet wound in foot; Michael O'Shea, smashed knee; Wyott Ordung, knocked unconscious in a shell blast.

The cause of all this mayhew is Sam Fuller, writer and director of the picture. An army veteran himself, he wanted his actors to feel their roles. They did, and will for months. Not even Fuller escaped injury; he wrenched the cartilage in his right foot in a fall. There is no evidence that as actor pushed him.

It is rumored about on the "Fixed Bayonets!" set that Director Fuller might wear pockets more ham than the actors. I don't know how anyone could get that idea, except perhaps from his outfit, which includes a general's cap, a Zanuck-size cigar, combat boots, a cane, dark glasses and a belt holster with two guns which he fires for various dramatic effects.

Real Realism

At any rate, Fuller is getting his realism. It even amazes Larry Chapman, special effects man who sets off the explosions for the movie scenes.

"I've never used explosions closer to the actors than on this picture," said Chapman. Actually, there's not much danger to the actors, although they may think so.

During one scene I watched, Director Fuller was shooting off his pistols to simulate enemy fire. At the end of the scene, a plasterer dropped some stuffed ducks from the rafters.

AT THE DRIVE-IN

Geraldine Brooks who spent some time in Italy not long ago, is featured in a straightforward and touching love story at the Drive-In Theatre this week. The film is Streets of Sorrow (originally called I Dreamed of Paradise).

Miss Brooks is seen as one of the girls in a Rome brothel, forced there because her family is poverty-stricken. She falls in love with a rich young man who knows nothing of her profession. (They meet away from the sordid place.)

Maria wants desperately to marry Giorgio but owes money to her employer and keeps returning to the house, between brief encounters with the man she loves, only to be trapped there finally, just as she is about to leave it forever.

But director Giorgio Pastina has done a nice job of stretching the warm romance between Maria (Miss Brooks) and Giorgio (Vittorio Gassman) and the audience is almost bound to sympathize with them in their search for happiness.

Miss Brooks is a very attractive girl and manages to get across the seriousness of her position. Mr. Gassman, a tall, athletic type, is also convincing, and most of the supporting players contribute substantially to the film's success.

AT THE BELLE

Romance, Drama and Screen

Vaudeville on Twin-Bill

Romance and drama of an unusual kind keynote "Gambling House," RKO Radio's starring vehicle for Victor Mature. Terry Moore and William Bendix are played against a background of the New York underworld, showing at the Belle tonight for the last time.

Portraying a foreign-born gambler who has never bothered to take out his naturalization papers, Mature finds himself facing deportation when his status is revealed during the course of the trial. His sudden awakening to the value of citizenship and his strong love affair with Miss Moore provide the necessary played by Miss Moore, are complicated by his feud with another gambler played by Bendix, with the result that there is plenty of suspense before the climax is reached.

16 Vaudeville Acts on Screen

Fourteen fun and music headline vaudeville and specialty acts are combined in RKO Radio's feature screen attraction "Footlight Varieties," to provide screen entertainment for audiences from six to 60. The Warner-Pathe Newsreel completes the program.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Friday, August 17

March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—More promising for finishing incompleted work and other activities, for familiar routine than for starting something new and unknown. However, don't shirk methods than take needless risks for sake of venture or change. But the unusual and unique are favored if they add to quality, sales, production.

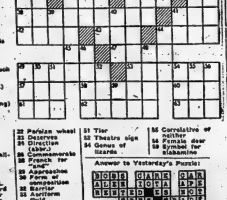
April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—Better to stick to sound rules and the interesting, more advantageous (projects or situations with your fine intelligence and progressive ideas. Quaich fear. Forward!

October 24 to November 22—(Scorpio)—Mild influences today but aspects are very fine and encouraging for tomorrow and Saturday. Think and wisely plan for future doings. Attend to necessary matters calmly, pleasantly.

November 23 to December 23—(Sagittarius)—Much is up to you and the demands of your position this Friday. May have to urge yourself with extra verve to get things done, if they are not urgent, take a less straining tempo.

December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn)— The more careful and steadier you are now in all work, the greater will be your returns and the easier tomorrow's program. Tomorrow is very benefic so enjoy day fully as you strive.

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius)—Your planet Uranus only one in truly benefic aspect today. Take advantage of any good opportunities to better position, earnings, advancement, but be mindful always of honor.



February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)— Your Neptune's rays stress self restraint and your best foot forward for better, happier returns at end of day. Care urged in confidential matters, water activities. Pleasant weekend!

YOU BORN TODAY: Are sincere, tactful, ambitious, willing to give service to humanity. Usually persistent, sometimes too impulsive for own good and for proper advancement. Must wisely study a proposition before rushing into it. Better first to weigh possible gains and disadvantages than regret later. Show appreciation to God for all his blessings by using rightly each day the fine talents and capability with which He endowed you. Help deserving people when you should. Keep striving to better yourself.

Birthdate: David Crockett, American frontiersman; Julia Marlowe, Miss West, Monty Woolley, noted actors.

Bakelite Holds Top Position In Softball Loop

Bakelite consolidated their position at the top of the Commercial Softball League's Ajax division last evening when they handed Stewart-Warner an 8-3 decision in nine innings.

The win leaves the plantmen in first place in the standings and they can do no worse than tie for the pennant. Channel Commercial have a chance to tie them.

Most of the scoring occurred in the first three innings with Bakelite doing the 3-3 lead. They added their final three runs in the eighth inning to sew up the game.

Bakelite opened the scoring in the bottom of the first inning with one earned run, Stewart producing one run. Stewart-Warner tied the score in the second on an error, a passed ball and a fielder's choice.

Bakelite took the lead with three runs in the second inning on two walks, three singles, a fielder's choice and added another in the third on Bob Green's home run into the parking lot.

Stewart-Warner collected two hits in the third on an error and doubles by Hammett and Bruno.

Harry Bob Green did a masterful job of hurling for Bakelite striking out six and walking but 3 as he scattered four safeties over the route. Letty Ted Butcher did a steady chore for Stewart-Warner walking seven, striking out four and giving up nine hits for eight runs.

Lineups:

Stewart-Warner: Bertrim 1b; replaced by Tobworth in 8th; Doyle 2b; Rosebrough ss; Hammett 3b; Bruno lf; Taylor cf; Watson, Upper c; Butcher p.

Bakelite: Hall 2b; Graham ss; Cook lf; Cousins c; Burley cf; Green p; Powers 1b; Lawn rf; Lever 3b.

THIS MR. ICARUS

By Harry Meldrum Moore

But despite the fact [illegible] was running the [illegible] thought doing good [illegible] thing that he must ever do on his record last he give the whole thing away, Lance was convinced that his closest friend Ded Roberts, did not suspect him of being the anonymous giver of good. But he was not so sure about Mother Roberts. Had she found him out?

That evening Mother Roberts said: "Son, I think you should buy yourself some clothes." next day I saw a brown suit in Wilcox's window this afternoon that appears to be your size, and would look well with your red hair."

"But I can't afford a new suit just now, mother," he lied.

"Of course, you can, son. You can buy all the clothes you'll ever need for a long, long time to come. Listen, son, I've something to tell you. You know all that money that was sent to me as your assigned pay during the war."

"Yes, I remember."

"Well, I never used it—I never spent it," she explained, knowing that you would find a use for it if you came back, I banked it in your name in the Canada Bank."

"But, mother," he said, "you shouldn't have done that—the money was for you, to spend as you pleased."

"But, I didn't need it, son. Your dad and I have all we want, all we need. I have all my needs on earth, and there's no sense in piling up more when you have perfect chick nor child to leave it to. Unless—what?"

"Oh, I'll remember to tell you about that—some day."

Now, not taking into consideration his large deposit in the bank, Lance Bradley could well afford to buy clothes, all sorts of clothes. Each month for six months after his discharge, he had been receiving a substantial cheque from the government for his rehabilitation. Besides, if he would apply for it, he might secure a small pension.

But the thought of spending money on himself had never been on his mind. But he did accept Mother Roberts's advice in the spirit in which it was given. He did purchase that brown suit in Wilcox's window, since it fitted him perfectly. And he would wear it in the evenings or on Sunday to church. For Lance Bradley went to church—the First Baptist—with Dad and Mother Roberts, and was there the morning the pastor, the Rev. Burns, publicly acknowledged receipt of an anonymous donation of one thousand dollars. Among other things the pastor said that morning was: That unknown person, who has been so generous to his works in the presence of His Master. His self-effacement is greatly to be admired. Would that there were many more like him, that God's work on earth might reach out to all places, as a guiding light in the darkness of this sinful world."

One afternoon Lance Bradley was in Lower Town, and Goldie Webster told him some of the strange stories that were going around.

"All these buildings, all these shacks, are to be torn down, and we're going to have real houses like you have up town. Mind if I call you Brad?"

"Why not? And how come you know my name?"

"Oh, I followed you down street, saw where you worked, you work in the paper office, don't you? And I asked a guy and he said you was Bradley, Lance Bradley. He told me you were a sailor, a soldier. Gee, Brad, you musta been places."

"Yes, a few."

"You musta seen lots, I bet-ya."

"Yes, Goldie, I've been in many, many places, but only along the sea coast until I got to France."

Goldie stopped talking, he had spotted Lance's tattoo marks for the first time.

"Aw, gee, Brad," he said admiringly, "a real ship and an anchor. Wait till I tell the gang about that. Gee, Brad, you must keep coming to see us. The guys like you, Brad. I ain't kidding. They—they think you're just one swell guy."

"I'll remember that, Goldie," Lance said. "Tell the gang that I appreciate that very much, and that I'll be back to see them lots of times, now that I know that they like me."

CHAPTER IX.

"You know, Brad"—everyone was calling him Brad now, except Dad and Mother Roberts, and he was soon to them—"we've been forgetting something. What about a will? Have you ever given any thought to it?"

Lance Bradley was in Lawyer Parker's office that morning in response to a telephone call.

"Now that you mention it, Mr. Parker, I can't say that I ever did", he said.

"Then you must," Parker insisted, "you must do something about it at once. Did it ever occur to you that if you were called away suddenly that every dollar of your estate would pass into the hands of the Crown? That is, of course, if you have no relatives to put in a claim to their legal share."

"But I haven't any relatives, neither close nor distant as far as I know," Lance explained. "And this only persons to whom I would like to leave my estate —the Roberts'—don't need it. In fact, Mother Roberts was telling me just the other evening that she and dad have all the money they'll ever require, and like myself, there is no one to leave it to."

"You should have a son, Brad."

"Yeah, I suppose I should have a son. But how?"

"You should marry. You're young. There's spare time."

"No, Mr. Parker," Lance said, "I shall never marry. And that brings us down to the question of how a man could have a son and not marry."

"It's a problem, Brad," the lawyer grinned broadly. "It's been done, but in nice circles it isn't considered cricket."

"I get it! Lance blushed. "But is there any other way?"

"Why, yes, of course—there's adoption. You select a likely looking boy, secure the consent of his parents or guardians, and I will only be too happy to make out the necessary papers. But if I were you, I'd give this matter considerable thought, Brad. You cannot be too careful about it. You must never forget that the boy you adopt will succeed you some day, will be the sole heir to your estate—that he will either use it wisely or throw it up against a wall."

"By the way, Mr. Parker," Lance suddenly changed the subject, "how are we coming in our investments? Have you passed our allocation yet."

"Indeed, I haven't. We have a long long way to go."

BLONDE TELLER SAVES $27,000, TRIPS ALARM

Bandits, However, Take $6,300 From Vault

St. David's, Ont., Aug. 17. (CP) —A blonde bank teller who tripped a burglar alarm is credited with saving $27,000 of her bank's cash from two holdup men, who stole $6,300.

Ann Neufeld, 30, set the siren sounding yesterday while one of the thieves was scooping cash from a vault drawer that held more than $33,000. The alarm frightened off the bandits, who roared off in a stolen green convertible.

The thieves entered the Imperial Bank of Canada branch in this fruit-growing district village five miles north of Niagara Falls just before closing time. One of them told two customers and three members of the bank staff:

"This is a stick-up. Stand where you are."

They ordered the staff and customers to lie on the floor. One robber then took up position at the door as a lookout while the other forced Miss Neufeld to go with him to open vault and unlock one of the drawers. As she did so, she threw the alarm.

Ledger-keeper Robert Izell, 18, fired three shots at the fleeing holdup men but apparently no bullets went wild.

On duty in the bank at the time of the robbery were relief manager Russel Grant; June Corbett, 18, a junior clerk; and Miss Neufeld. The customers were Sarah Cooley and Mary Lane, both of St. David's. The regular manager, A. T. Minnis, was on holidays.

The getaway car, a 1950 model stolen in St. Catharines, was found abandoned a few minutes later in Queen Victoria Memorial Park near the Brock monument. Police believe the robbers transferred to a second car.

Three men were arrested later near Smithville, 25 miles to the southwest, but released after questioning.

Canada Has Finally Got Her Kilogram, The Country's New Standard of Weight

Ottawa, Aug. 17. (CP)—Canada has finally got her kilogram, a shiny glistening chunk of metal which is going to keep this country's scales in balance.

Canada's new standard kilogram, it is the only one of its kind in the country and one of only 31 in the world. It will be used as the standard for weight in Canada.

It was received recently from the International Bureau of Weights and Measures, which made it on Canada's order, and now is entrusted to the safety of the vaults of the National Research Council, the guardian of Canada's official weights and measures.

The new National Standard is a platinum-iridium cylinder which stands about 1 1-2 inches high. Its diameter is about the same and it has slightly-rounded edges, so none chip off and reduce the official weight.

It replaces the Canadian Standard pound, another specific platinum-iridium cylinder, which has been Canada's official weight since 1873.

The fact this country now has a kilogram as the official standard, rather than a pound weight, doesn't mean Canadian scales now will be measured in kilograms instead of pounds. The pound still will be used, with the kilogram setting the standard. The Kilogram is heavier, weighing about 2 1-3 pounds.

Its use now as Canada's official standard results from Canada's adherence in 1906 to an international convention which sets the kilogram as the international unit of mass. Though the latest convention 45 years ago, Canada didn't until recently get around to ordering her official kilogram.

The kilogram here won't equally be used for weighing anything as decimalized weights is listed.

Its function is to sit under double glass domes in a research council vault and serve as the primary standard for other prototypes which are made for the trade department and used by its inspectors to keep check the weighing apparatus across the country.

TRANSPORTATION CRISIS LOOMS FOR FARMERS

Not Enough Facilities To Move Bumper Crop

Ottawa, Aug. 17 (CP) —Western farmers appear to have licked grasshoppers, drought and maybe even frost this year, But because they have a bumper crop doesn't mean they are out of the woods—not by a long shot.

The new bugbear is a shipping shortage. It has been acute all summer but now that a record-breaking crop is ready for harvest on the Prairies, a transportation crisis looms.

Officials say that unless the situation improves farmers may have to hold back millions of bushels for storage.

Transportation authorities said controls could be imposed by appointing a controller with power to requisition ships, break shipping contracts and force operators to haul grain only.

The opinion is, however, that this would not necessarily alleviate a Great Lakes shortage since the root problem is lack of ships.

Officials said more ships for grain just meant less transport for priority iron ore and coal needed in industrial production.

Get Start Last Year

Transport officials said the problem got its start in the prairie's late crop last year. Terminal points in the spring were jammed with millions of bushels of wheat, much of it low grade and hard to move.

Lake vessels took it eastward at the rate of about 2,000,000 bushels a day at first and then dropped to 1,000,000 bushels as iron ore and coal became available.

Now the Great Lakes' shipping fleet of about 190 vessels is devoting about half its capacity to grain and the other half to iron ore and coal.

This isn't good enough, say transport officials, if the country harvests a bumper crop of about 600,000,000 bushels of wheat and mixed grains. The prospects of such a crop were disclosed Wednesday by the bureau of statistics.

Three in Hospital For Burns After Barriefield Fire

Ten Children, Four Adults Escape Through Window

Kingston, Aug. 17 (CP)—Ten children and four adults are homeless, two of them and a woman are in hospital with extensive burns, and their home is a mass of rubble following a fire this morning near the village of Barriefield on Highway No. 15.

Injured as she clambered to safety through a smashed outwindow of the blazing house was Mrs. Orange Running, mother of seven children. She is being treated in the Kingston General Hospital.

The two injured children are Harry and Ronald Smith, aged two and four respectively. They are being treated in Hotel Dieu Hospital. Their mother, Mrs. William Smith, managed to get out of the inferno without injury.

The seven Running children, ranging in age from three to 14, reached safety by crawling through the broken window as roaring flames blocked exit from the doorway.

Were All Asleep

They were all asleep in the house when flames that fire had discovered about 8:30 a.m. After making their escape they stood barefoot tearfully watching their home and all their possessions go up in flames and smoke.

The Running family occupied the front part of the house where the fire is believed to have started.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith and their three children resided at the rear. Their other child besides the injured is a seven-month-old baby. The infant was in its carriage outside the house and not threatened by the fire.

Today's fire is the second in two years to strike the Runnings. In a fire at Gananoque on August 5, 1949, three of the Running children died. They were Gloria, 3, Wilmer, 10 and Agar, 4.

Famous Musician Weds Old Friend In Grand Style

Antibes, France, Aug. 17 (AP) —American musician Sidney Bechet got married today and there was a Mardi Gras-style celebration here on the French Riviera.

Bechet, who's been blowing the blues for almost half a century on the clarinet and saxophone, wed Elizabeth Ziegler, an old friend.

The couple came to the city hall in a horse-drawn carriage preceded by a jazz band and 11 horsemen. Four of them in red jackets and white pants, the seven others dressed like cowboys.

Thousands of Frenchmen lined the streets on one of the phashest stretches of the Riviera to watch the trappings around the marriage of the famous musician.

The bride, 43, is white. She was born in Germany and is a French citizen.

Bechet's papers show him to be 52 but he claims he might be about 60, because he says that when he was born New Orleans had no regular birth records.

As the couple came out of city hall, jazz orchestras hit the down beat and started the two-mile parade back to Juan-Les-Pins. A dozen Negro dancers jigged in the road. A huge cage carrying 100 doves which were released over the procession.

Toronto, Aug. 17—(CP)—Police arrested a jockey and a Winnipeg girl as a material witness yesterday as law-enforcement officers followed up the Ontario Racing Commission's investigation into "fixed" horse-races on Ontario tracks.

Phil Marchese of Pawtucket, R.I., jockey being held incommunicado from Ontario tracks since he was named as the rider who bribed Jerry Adair of Kenora to pull his horse in a race at Fort Erie, Ont., was held in Welland county jail on a charge of defrauding the public. He was unable to raise bail of $5,000 cash, or $10,000 property.

Blonde Betty Bowen, 20, was held in the case against jockey Robert Workmueller of Newark, N.J., described by investigators as the master-mind of race-fixing in the Canadian ring. She was held on $1,000 bail.

Besides Marchese and Workmueller, another jockey, Jimmy Gray of Hamilton is under arrest for perjury. He is free on $10,000 bail.

Jockey Bush claims he accepted a $3000 bribe from Marchese but turned the money over to the commission and did not pull his mount. Another jockey, Robert Keane, of Toronto, who rode the beaten favorite in the Fort Erie race, is under lifetime suspension.

Britain May Boycott Iran If Talks Fail

Tehran, Iran, Aug. 17 (AP)— Chief British negotiator Richard R. Stokes said today the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company will buy its oil elsewhere if Iran turns down the latest British proposal to settle the given nationalization dispute.

The threat to boycott nationalized Iranian oil came in the midst of delicate negotiations to break the deadlock caused by Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's rejection of the British offer.

Stokes, Britain's Lord Privy Seal, said the British offer, which recognizes Iranian all nationalization, would give the Iranians a "50-50 principle" for sharing the profits from the world's fourth largest oil - producing country.

At the same time Stokes said in a statement that the British proposal "is the best offer I can make." He denied reports in the local press that Britain would bring in a more generous proposal at a negotiating session tomorrow which is expected to decide the fate of the two-week-old talks.

Provincial Police Nab Ten in Three Separate Chases In District During Night

Toronto, Aug. 17, (CP)—Toronto police nabbed seven men in two separate chases, one by motorcycle, Thursday night and another on foot early today.

Matthew Morin, 27, shot in the leg, as he hopped a fence, Howard Bousquet, 21, and Jack Rosenzaan, 22, all of Toronto, were arrested early today following a foot chase by two officers who suspected that they approached their car carrying crowbars, chisels and a sledgehammer.

Bousquet and Rosenzaalan later were remanded without bail on charges of having burglary tools and breaking into an artificial limb company, where police found $76 missing from a smashed safe. Morin, who was taken to hospital, was unable to appear on the same charges.

Four men were arrested Thursday night after police fired five bullets at their fleeing car, one of which punctured a front tire.

Held on vagrancy charges pending further investigation were Douglas Vaughan ,20, owner of the car, his brother, William, 24, Roland Mignault, 22, and Howard Nixon, 24, all of Toronto.

Police found the trunk of the car stuffed with cigarets and tobacco and now are trying to establish ownership.

Keswick,—(CP)—An 18-mile chase over winding resort roads in this area 35 miles north of Toronto wound up in a field on Thursday night.

Today, two juvenities, turned over to Toronto police, face automobile theft charges. Their 16-year-old girl companion has been released.

Charles Hill, Keswick garage owner, told police that early on Thursday night the youths and the girl pulled into his station, filled up with gas and drove off without paying.

He gave chase in his truck, Keswick police joined in and they were captured at gun-point after their car missed a turn, smashed through a fence and stopped in a field.

First Canadian Woman to Swim Channel Says Once is Enough

Folkestone, England, Aug. 17— (Reuters)—The Canadian mother flew from a window in Folkestone today—a symbol of triumph for blue-eyed Winnie Frances Roach Lemaire of Toronto, second woman to reach France by land night in the cross-channel race and the first Canadian ever to swim the channel.

On her first channel attempt she wins $2,500 as the most persistent across the channel. In the official placing of 13 men and seven women, 23-year-old Winnie came seventh. But of the women competitors she was the only one to Britain's Brenda Fisher.

Her father and trainer Eddie Roach, claims she is the first Canadian, man or woman, ever to swim the channel.

Winnie, too excited to sleep, got up early and attended mass at Folkestone Roman Catholic Church.

"I am thrilled to death—but so stiff I could almost do with a wheelchair," she said.

Mrs. John Brigdon, with whom she is staying in Folkestone, hoisted the Canadian maple leaf beside her bedroom window this morning.

The flag was lent to Winnie by the Corporation of Folkestone. It flew from the pilot boat accompanying her throughout the race.

The Canadian girl said the 5-mile swim was tough going at times and once or twice she wondered if she could continue.

"After about the 15th mile I had a bad spell and felt sight ill. It slowed me down a bit. Up till then I was leading. Then Brenda Fisher came up with me and stayed in the lead for the rest of the way."

Winnie said she did not think she would ever swim the channel again. "Once is enough," she smiled.

She was very worried because I did not think Winnie had enough experience to do it," her father said.

"Right up to the last minute I wondered if she had been wise to make the race. But her confidence never faltered. She was certain she could do it."

Winnie learned to swim when she was four and could swim a mile by the age of five. At seven she won a kiddie's race—and has been at it ever since.

The organizers of the race, the London newspaper Daily Mail, issued official times with Izell showing Winnie covered the 21 miles in 13 hours and 25 minutes. Brenda Fisher beat her with a new British ladies' record of 12 hours, 43 minutes.

U.S. Officials Aim at Thwarting Anticipated Russian Moves At Japanese Peace Conference

By JOHN SCALI

Washington, Aug. 17—(AP) — American officials have worked out a plan aimed at thwarting an expected Russian propaganda filibuster at next month's Japanese peace conference at San Francisco.

With this aim in mind, Secretary Dean Acheson hopes to cut short the flurry of anti-American speeches the Russian delegation is reported ready to unleash.

The "stop-Russia" plan, informed official said, is the product of nearly four months of careful advance planning by state department officials led by Ambassador John Foster Dulles.

Acheson instructed Dulles last April, it was learned, to work out what United States strategy should be in the event Russia, despite its denunciations of the draft treaty, decided to attend the Sept. 4 conference.

Russia's disclosure yesterday that it will send a 25-member delegation to San Francisco has reinforced belief that Moscow will try to wreck the conference and prevent signing of the American-British sponsored treaty.

The state department bluntly told Russia in a formal note yesterday that it was too late to try to change the "final" treaty draft. The meeting, it said, is "not a conference to reopen negotiations on the terms of a peace."

The size and high rank of Russia's delegation—the state department says it will number 33—has led officials to conclude that perhaps Russia will try to convert the meeting from a Japanese peace conference into one aimed at a general solution of far eastern questions including the future of Formosa and the diplomatic recognition for red China.

American officials will seek to block any move by ruling it "out of order," it is reported.

Thirty-five countries already have indicated they will attend the San Francisco conference. Another 15 or so yet to be heard from but American officials expect nearly all will show up.

Chief Gets Job, Mayor Chastened After Meeting

Aylmer, Que., Aug. 17 (CP) — The police chief has his job back, the mayor is chastened and the Quebec Liquor Board is going to be asked to refuse licences for private individuals' parties in Aylmer.

Yesterday was one of the most exciting in 24 hours for Aylmer's 4,000 a few miles west of Ottawa has had in a dog's age.

But all is peaceful now. Police Chief Achilles Leblanc and Mayor Rene Therien shook hands and grove it.

The mayor apologized last night for his "unfortunate" words, had resigned after being suspended by the mayor, quickly picked up the reins of office.

The disharmony grew out of a police slap-up party Wednesday night at the Aylmer agricultural hall. Mayor Therien was a guest. Under the contract with the city evening the police chief was called a number of times to restore order. A difference of opinion on methods resulted in the mayor suspending the police chief for insubordination.

After a closed council meeting last night, Therien said the council council insisted the chief be kicked of the charge—a statement was issued by council:

New Shielding Materials Found By Researchers

Oak Ridge, Tenn., Aug. 17 (AP) —Nuclear researchers have found two new shielding materials' which may help in development of an atomic-powered plane, it was learned yesterday.

Scientists at Oak Ridge National Laboratory, chief nuclear research centre here, have been working on the project for months.

They have long known that to develop a plane, submarine or any type of engine using atomic power, they would have to find some shield for protection against radioactive materials.

To accomplish this, scientists have been using research into the field of the theoretical atomic physicist and in the practical development of the shields and shielding materials.

In addition to activities at the laboratory, the atomic energy commission says:

These two programs have shed new light on shielding physics and have led to immediate practical side, have resulted in new and more effective shielding materials."

That is all the A.E.C. and its scientists would say on the subject.

However, it was announced last February that the first phase of the program designed to produce an atom-powered aircraft had been completed here.

At that time, it was said the second phase of the project probably would be carried out at General Electric Company's gas turbine plant at Lockland, Ohio.

Unfortunately this phase would deal with actual development of an atomic engine or some of its component parts.

Sherridon in Manitoba Will Not Give up Ghost, it Will Just Move

Sherridon, Man., Aug. 17 (CP) —This mining town, 500 miles northeast of Fin Flon, Man., is about to die. It's simply moving away. Sherridon existed because of the mineral deposits. Immediate important producer of copper and zinc since 1930. Now the ore has been petered out and will cease operation Sept. 1.

Sherridon's 500 mining families their jobs gone, would move away and leave a ghost town.

But not one of the neatly-painted homes of Sherridon there is for sale.

When their tenants move the houses are going too—190 miles north to Lynn Lake, site of a new mining operation where a rich discovery of nickel was announced in 1945.

As yet there is little more than railroad survey line through to the site of the new town. Until the rails go through all supplies must be freighted in by white tractor trains over the frozen lakes or by air.

Forty houses are scheduled to be moved from Sherridon to Lynn Lake, behind tractors this winter. They will be placed on sleighs and moved "as is." Several were moved successfully this way last winter.

The surface buildings and machinery from the Sherritt-Gordon Mine will also be moved piece by piece by tractor train and re-erected on the new townsite. Foundations now are being poured to receive them.

Another train, Aug. 4, is to slash out a right-of-way for the $14,725,000, 155 mile railway extension from Sherridon to Lynn Lake.

Plans call for the new line to be completed to Lynn Lake by Nov. 1, 1953. And when the first rail cars arrive in Lynn Lake mine expects to have ore ready for processing at an Edmonton refinery.

Appreciation Shown For Act Of Deliveryman

Appreciation for a small service rendered can be expressed in many different ways but it was a Buffalo, N.Y., man who I think or one which will long be remembered.

Several months ago while motoring through the city Mr. and Mrs. W. Robinson of the above city had the misfortune to have tire trouble. The two were struggling with a tire change when Bert Girling, Grier Sts., driver for Reid's Dairy happened along. Girling changed the tire for the tourists and then politely declining any remuneration, went on his way.

But Mr. Robinson still wanted to show his appreciation to the good samaritan. So he contacted Paul Mercier, local jeweller, and laid $40 on the line to pay for a suitable token. The trophy, a silver station mounted on a mahogany base, was presented by Mr. Mercier to Mr. Girling this week in front of the grandstand at the Belleville Fair.

Fair Closes Gates On Best Show Given in Years

The Belleville Fair closed its gates on one of the most successful exhibitions in years last night.

While the attendance figures did not create a new record, it is estimated that the number of people who patronized the fair came very close to that which climaxed all attendance a few years ago.

The four-day exhibition was not blessed with perfect fair weather, rain threatening for three of the days and deluging it in an early morning storm.

Exhibits especially those of the agricultural division were outstanding. The horse exhibit was one of the best, if not the best shown by directors here in many years.

Grandstand entertainment was acclaimed the best ever seen here although many afternoon patrons were disappointed to not see the show in the afternoon.

Despite conditions that at times, due to weather, were not conducive to top-flight harness racing, thousands of lovers of this sport were thrilled with close exciting heats that resulted at times in neck-and-neck finishes.

The midway midway was another stellar attraction and thousands of children as well as adults thrilled to the many rides and contesting inducements.

Business and industrial exhibits housed in the various buildings drew a generous share of fair patronage and were said to be among the best seen here in some time.

Livestock exhibits marked the final showing made by breeders of the district and many fine animals paraded before discerning judges.

It is estimated that between 30,000 and 40,000 people were admitted to the grounds during the four-day exhibition.

The woman had left her purse in the washroom of a Milltown gas station but remembered it before she got away in her car. But when she returned to the washroom the purse was gone.

It was then the service station attendant remembered that two young girls had visited the washroom and then left the station in a hurry in a truck. Police were notified and officers of the Napanee detachment stopped the truck.

A search of the four adult occupants of the truck failed to reveal anything, but later empty woman's purse was found in the vehicle. It was then that one of the young girls produced $91 in American money.

On recovering her purse and money the American woman told police she did not wish to prefer charges against the two juveniles and they were allowed to go.

500,000 Jobs Were Unfilled During June

London, Aug. 17—(Reuters) Britain's rearmament has brought the country its biggest manpower crisis in three years.

Government statistics released today disclosed there were 500,000 jobs—many in vital war industries —unfilled during June.

Britain's economic planners face the ticklish problem of drafting labor out of industries into war production in such a way as not to wreck the export drive on which the country's economy rests.

The switch-over likely will mean further slashes in production for home consumption.

Lawyer Says Property Owned By Marion Davies

Los Angeles, Aug. 17.—(AP)—(AP)—Marion Davies' lawyer said yesterday that the Beverly Hills, Calif. mansion where publisher William Randolph Hearst died last Tuesday is the property of the former actress.

Lawyer A. Lawrence Mitchell disclosed the information in explanation of a codicil in the late publisher's will, bequeathing the residence and its contents to Miss Davies, long-time friend and business associate of Hearst, and another revoking the former one.

Mitchell said records show that Miss Davies, under her legal name of Marion Douras, bought the mansion in 1946 at an indicated value in excess of $120,000. Six weeks later she deeded it to Hearst.

Mitchell said Hearst gave a deed to the residence to Miss Davies in 1946. He said it was not necessary that the transaction be recorded, since it was a gift. Thus county records describe Hearst as the owner.

Mitchell said the second codicil to the publisher's will, revoking the bequest of the mansion to Miss Davies, followed its gift to her.

Husky Negro Captured on Car Without Struggle

Chicago, Aug. 17 (AP) — Harry Williams, the husky killer who beat a guard to death and escaped from a death cell in the Cook County jail, was captured last night without a struggle on a street car.

The 30-year-old Negro's capture lacked the dramatic overtones of his escape over the jail wall less than 47 hours before.

Williams, neatly dressed, was riding in a street car reading a Bible when four policemen in a squad car spotted him. Two of the officers, in plain clothes, quietly boarded the car, captured Williams and took him off. Other passengers apparently didn't know what was going on.

Williams surrendered meekly, insisting that police had the wrong man. But police fingerprinted him and established his identity. Under questioning Williams finally admitted his identity.

Williams, a rapist and slayer, escaped from death row on Tuesday night, just a month to the day before his scheduled execution for murdering a Negro woman in a purse-snatching attempt.

The six-foot, two-inch slayer shinnied up to the roof of the jail through a ventilating shaft. He lowered himself to the ground with a rope he had made of bed sheets. He climbed into a nearby guard tower on the wall and beat to death guard George Turley, 43. Then he dropped to the ground outside the wall.

More than 1,000 policemen with "shoot - to - kill" orders sought Williams.

Next Police Work

Last night Williams rang the doorbell of Mrs. Addie Hearn, 44, a distant relative by marriage, on Chicago's south side. Mrs. Hearn got him through a window and telephoned police. Police arrested Williams ending until he heard the sirens of an approaching police car. Then he fled.

Police figured out to the nearest spot where Williams could board a street car.

They rushed there, parked and waited. Williams was on the third car that passed the corner.

Police said Williams will be held for grand jury action on a charge of murdering the guard. They said Raymond Jenko, 20, a friend of Williams, is in the death cell as a convicted murderer; would be charged with being an accessory in the killing. Jenko is accused of aiding Williams in the escape plot.

Polish Consul Resigns Post, To Stay in Canada

Ottawa, Aug. 17. (CP)—Zygmunt Ziemski, 50-year-old Polish consul in Canada since 1946, announced today that he has resigned his post and will stay in Canada.

Mr. Ziemski, who has been serving in Winnipeg, made the announcement in a 200-word statement to The Canadian Press, adding his name to a growing list of iron-curtain representatives who have chosen to remain in Canada rather than return to their communist-dominated homelands.

The consul, who first served in Montreal in 1946, said he resigned yesterday in a cable to the Polish Minister of Foreign Affairs in Warsaw.

During the last two years, several members of the Polish Legation and of other Russian-dominated missions in Ottawa have taken similar action.

Grateful to Govt.

Mr. Ziemski, tall and slim and wearing a topcoat and carrying a brief-case, walked into the office of C. H. Blackburn, CP Chief of Bureau. He took the statement from the brief case and handed it over. He said he had nothing more to say.

"I have taken this decision after thinking of it for a long time," the statement said.

"When I was appointed consul in Montreal in May, 1946, conditions in Poland were entirely different from the present. At that time I hoped that the developments in Poland would be favorable to the Polish people in the long run. . .

"During my work as consul I have done my best to serve all the Polish people regardless of political views. I have been very happy in Canada because of the feeling of real freedom and democratic life in high degree. . . I am grateful to the Canadian government to grant me permission to stay here."

'Lady in Black' Being Sought Says Report

Toronto, Aug. 17 (CP) —Whispers that the "Lady in Black" would be arrested soon ran through racing circles here.

She is the mysterious woman in Ontario's race "fix" scandal, currently being investigated by the Ontario Racing Commission.

The woman, said to be the wife of a well-known Toronto gambler, was reported to have bet $1,500 in United States funds in $10 tickets on the North Drive race July 25 at Fort Erie, one of those which the O.R.C. has described as fixed. North Drive won the race.

The pari mutuel ticket seller said later that the "Lady in Black" was a familiar figure at the track until the trouble started over the North Drive race.

"She wore a low-cut black dress that clung to her like a bathing suit," he said.

Police Seal Radio of Chinese Communist Ship

Singapore, Aug. 17 — (AP)— Singapore police today sealed the radio of a Chinese communist ship suspected of broadcasting instructions to jungle terrorists.

The red captain and crew of the 4,380-ton Hai Hsuan made no resistance when the police boarding party made its early-morning raid.

The vessel has laid at anchor here for 19 months—ever since its present captain and crew mutinied and took over the ship from its nationalist skipper.

The ship's radio is described as one of the most powerful in southeast Asia. Singapore newspapers long have speculated that it may have been used to transmit instructions from communist China to red terrorists in Malaya.

SISTER KENNY

The announcement by Sister Elizabeth Kenny, the Australian Bush nurse who became an international celebrity through her teachings on the treatment of poliomyelitis, that she is dying of an incurable disease will strike home to the average person with a sense of personal loss. Sister Kenny was indeed a "sister" to her fellow men. So devoted was she to the alleviation of human suffering that she denied herself the balm of companionship that she might better serve her noble cause. For forty years she had striven with a single-minded devotion to bring her message of hope to the victims of one of the cruelest of human afflictions. The man who loved her was made to wait a lifetime while Sister Kenny carried on the work which she felt she had been called to do. "It is still very dear to me, I know," said Sister Kenny simply, in stating that one of the things that will make death more bearable is their ultimate reunion.

It is typical of her that even as she is dying she is thinking of the welfare of others. She is rising from her bed-bed to attend an international convention on poliomyelitis where she will be the principal advocate of man's relentless crusade against this crippling disease.

Throughout her life this great woman has had many honors. She is the only woman ever to be accorded "the freedom of the United States", a privilege which allows her free entry and exit from that country without interference even by routine customs officials. She has been decorated by scores of countries for her humanism. She has borne her honors gracefully and well. But her greatest honor is the unqualified affection which she has inspired in peoples the world over. Her selflessness, charity and deeply human understanding has taken on the dimensions of a legend, and with a brilliance that death cannot extinguish.

IMMIGRATION'S REVOLVING DOOR

The spectacular increase in the number of immigrants to Canada this year is a healthy sign of Canada's growth. Figures released by the Department of Immigration for the first six months of the year show that eighty thousand persons have come to Canada from other parts of the world, an increase of more than six thousand over the preceding twelve months. If the present trend continues it would mean that Canada, by the end of the year, would give succor to 160,000 potential citizens.

Most of those who have come to Canada so far have been from Great Britain and northern Europe, with farm laborers totalling 13,494 closely followed by 11,309 skilled workers and 10,517 unskilled workers. Of the total number of eighty thousand the Province of Ontario has accommodated more than half.

These figures are encouraging. Canada's great weakness has always been a lack of population to fully exploit and develop her natural resources. With a constant, steady growth in the native population and a vigorous and sustained policy of immigration we should go a long way towards eliminating this deficiency.

The Department of Immigration's report, however, was not as cheerful as it might have been. While Canada is gaining from one quarter she is losing in another. They reported that in the year in which only 37,000 people immigrated to Canada, more than 25,000 emigrated with a net gain to this country of only 12,000 persons. What makes this loss all the more serious is that of these 25,000 "citizens in absentia" many are well-educated and intelligent Canadians who have left Canada to seek their fortunes in the United States. The loss of many university-trained Canadians has been one of the most costly of Canadian exports in recent years.

That this has been so in the past is no reason why it should continue. Today Canada is a land of unparalleled opportunity. From the great iron ore deposits in Ungava to the untamed wilds of British Columbia from which will flow the raw materials for a new age of hydro-electric power and aluminum, Canada is on the march. She is striding forward in all fields of industry, from basic mineral and agricultural production to the highly technical fields of organic chemistry and atomic energy. Her as yet uncharted quantities of titanium and oil assure her a front rank in future industrial developments.

Because Canada has such a future it is most distressing that so many young and talented people are departing for the mirage of greater opportunity elsewhere. The plans being made by immigration do not offset the loss of native-born and Canada-conscious Canadians.

APPLES

I've always called them apples,
I've a tree on which they've grown,
But a state fair book informs me
by a name each one is known,
And when the harvest's over they're submitted to a test
For the prizes that are offered for each family's yearly best.

There's the McIntosh and Baldwin and the Jonathan and Grimes;
There's the Cortland and the Yelmin and many names that have no rhymes.

There's a Stark and a Ben Davis and a Wagener and a King;
A Chenango and a Hyslop — all from blossoms in the spring.
I am going out to meet them at the opening of the show,
For every apple family by its name I'd like to know.
I've always called them apples, in a dish or sauce or pies,
Now I want to watch the Baldwins and the Greenings win a prize.

OUR TOWN
BY JACK SCOTT

TWO-WAY LOOK

The recent exchange of views between Britain's Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison, and the newspaper Pravda has been widely hailed as a flop and yet it seems to me the most hopeful sign since Jacob Malik's move for a truce in Korea.

Mr. Morrison's plea to "let's be friendly" which summarized most of the West's complaints against Russia, was run in Pravda without blue pencilling and presumably reached some two million Russian families.

Pravda's sharp reply, in turn, appeared in full in six London newspapers with a combined circulation of perhaps eight million.

The exchange, brief and tart as it was, seemed to me to offer the same kind of hope that even the angriest debate in the United Nations offers; from it there is chance for understanding as long as there is discussion, however intemperate it may be. That's a true definition against nation as it is of union against management.

Even the exchange of Morrison-Pravda exchange, however, was not the end with the high altitude issues of the day. It seems to me the desperate need of these times is to get on a level below that of the policy-makers.

Drew Pearson wrote the other day of "people-to-people diplomacy," and while I'm among those who don't often agree with Pearson, I think he seemed to make good sense. He wrote that he had become convinced "that to the people of every land peace can be qualified with other people, no danger of war fascinates."

Certainly that terrible gap between the communist countries and the rest of the world is wider than it ough to be because the citizens of neither sphere are given a chance to see how the other half lives and, consequently, suspect the worst.

Is She Ready?

Pearson proposes that we launch a mighty balloon barrage against Russia and her satellites, to drop millions of pamphlets explaining our way of life.

The plan is feasible enough—the—Japanese floated balloons clear across the Pacific to Canada, as you'll recall—but it has a few fatal weaknesses.

The first is simply that the whole world has developed a vast superiority complex toward all other fellow's views. Any leaflet from the skies would carry the taint of propaganda, whether it fell in Minsk or Medicine Hat. The second is that balloons float only as far as the prevailing winds may be achieved by a monologue.

If this is true, then, the only hope we have is that both sides will realize the need for discovering the things they have in common.

Russia has been unwilling to do this. I am among those newspapermen whose applications for a visa have been filed and forgotten in Moscow.

There seems a growing tendency in our camp, too, to ignore the fact that Russians are individuals and to think of them only as a mystic glob of humanity.

Occasionally one of those inexplicable stories of the Associated Press' Moscow correspondent, Eddy Gilmore, will come through, giving the glimpse of the Russian as a person, the last spoke of the widespread hope for peace) and many newspaper readers must wonder why there aren't more of them.

I do not think it is too foolishly optimistic to say that there's a thirst for understanding on both sides at the level of the ordinary citizen and that if we had both the differences in ideologies and in the higher echelons might not seem so insurmountable.

The Morrison-Pravda exchange was, I suppose, pitched too negative, whatever its motives may be, indicate that the Soviet might now be in a mood for a wider exchange of knowledge.

An Even Trade

It seems to me that Canada without compromising on her foreign policies is the slightest, might make a gesture that would have a more lasting effect than Pearson's plan, which as he said to be under serious consideration in Washington.

I suggest that the new Department of External Affairs invite Pravda to send three or any agreed number of Russia's people to Canada on a discovery of Canada and the Canadian people, to discover for themselves that we earnestly want peace, to investigate and write of us as we live together, the way we work and play.

As in the Morrison-Pravda agreement, this would be a reciprocal arrangement. We, in turn, would send an equal number of our people to Russia to write on the purely human level. These men might be selected by the working newspaperment of Canada.

It could well be—some would say inevitable—that Russia would distort such a mission. Russia might accuse us of the same basic approach and, indeed, that is her excuse now for keeping western journalists from her soil.

But there is as one British paper puts it, "a chink in the iron curtain" and now might be the time to get a foot in there.

Strength for the Day

VOICE OF CONSCIENCE

Someone has said that there is only one question in religion which is unanswerable, and that answer: Has God spoken?

If God has not spoken, then there is no religion, at least not in any real sense of the term. If God has not spoken, we have built our churches in vain and our temples unfilled, unless it be the propagation of a huge mistake. If God has not spoken, the Bible is a mockery, and we believe just that. And we believe something more—to which every book of the Bible also bears testimony—namely, that God not only has spoken to man but that God is speaking to him today. Every decision we shun evil and to do what is right is related in some way to the voice of God's speaking to our souls.

You ask for proof? There is no proof save the proof of experience. The voice of God is not audible to the ear but it is audible to the soul. The voice of God which passeth all understanding settles down upon our lives when we hear and respond.

The Epistle to the Hebrews emphasizes the fact that God began to speak through seers and prophets and gave his final and complete message in the teachings and life of Jesus. We who call ourselves Christians believe just that. And we believe something more—to which every book of the Bible also bears testimony—namely, that God not only has spoken to man but that God is speaking to him today. Every decision to shun evil and to do what is right is related in some way to the voice of God's speaking to our souls.

You ask for proof? There is no proof save the proof of experience. The voice of God is not audible to the ear but it is audible to the soul. The voice of God which passeth all understanding settles down upon our lives when we hear and respond.

THE PACKSACK
By GREGORY CLARK

An impression that some of us get on first arriving in the old country is that we can't pull a good deep breath. After a few days it has gradually begun to begin to grow in the mind that the air has all been breathed before. Anyone with a fanciful imagination can soon work up quite a pleasing hypothesis, wondering if each unsatisfactory breath we had this one before. Might it have been wandering around the history atmosphere a few hundred years, and could Oliver Cromwell or Charles the First have used it briefly?

Those who know about these things assure me that the sensation is due to sea level. The impression of being unable to get a lungful is also common to many people who go to Bermuda or Nassau. It might even be true of Canadian inlanders who go to Nova Scotia or British Columbia. In Nassau I have after 2 or 3 days of it, been reduced in energy that it was too much trouble to reach into my pocket for a cigarette. I might go so far as to say the box out, and even half extract a cigarette. But the thought of having to then go for a match and light the darn thing overpowered me, and I have often sat in Nassau for an hour or two with a half extracted cigarette in my nerveless fingers.

Americans and Canadians arrive in London full of zip and ginger, with a lively agenda all typed out. Within three days, they are reduced to the pace of London itself, and the bland and kindly Londoners watch the agenda and progress papers in turn with considerable amusement.

Personal Health Talks
By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed Letters, Not More Than One Page, or 100 Words long. Pertaining to Personal Health. Not to Disease, Diagnosis or Treatment. Will be Answered by Dr. Brady if a Stamped, Self-Addressed Envelope is Enclosed.

THE EVER READY OPERATORS DON'T LIKE IT

The superintendent of a city hospital down east indited this snappy reply to an enquiry about the injection treatment of hernia recommended by Dr. Brady in his newspaper health column:

"We dislike to criticize Dr. Brady...the consensus of opinion at the Hospital is that the injection treatment for hernia is not worth the paper it is written on. We do not do this treatment at The Hospital, and...."

Of course not. It is ambulant treatment. One of the chief reasons why it is the method of choice if it is applicable (in many cases of hernia it is not applicable) is that the patient does not have to enter a hospital, the patient merely visits the doctor's office, gets the treatment, and goes home to be back to work or play. Even if it takes eight or ten such office visits to complete the course of treatment, who wouldn't choose that in preference to two weeks of disability in hospital and maybe a month or two after returning home?

A professor of Surgery in another hospital down east uses the same inquiry by the same individual as follows:

"We are frimly of the opinion that the injection treatment of hernia should not be done by the usual case, since operation is much more satisfactory and usually safer."

Well, how about the unusual case, Professor? Is there any in which operation has failed—as it does in many cases?

In the 8th edition of his famous textbook on Hernia, by Leigh F. Watson, M.D. (published in '48 by Mosby Co., St. Louis), the author devotes several chapters to the injection method and presents statistics concerning the success which may be ignored by the ever ready operators.

The hospital superintendent's answer reminds me of the fate of rejection a New York physician received when he submitted a report in the New York State Journal of Medicine his report of animal experiments and his application of the results to the improvement of the formula for the injection treatment of hernia. Said the editor of the medical publication:

"In view of Dr. Brady's articles" (that is, articles about the ambulant, office, injection treatment of hernia, printed in this column) "we will not be inclined to accept any article on the injection treatment of hernia."

Notwithstanding these old-time views on the injection treatment of hernia is steadily increasing in popularity and as doctors acquire greater skill in the different techniques it is bound to free a good many hospital beds for patients who really need them.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Spurs

I wish to report the treatment I received from a podiatrist. I was suffering from heel spurs. They were removed by X-ray and have never recurred—that was six years ago. I kept at my work, but would have been laid up for a while had surgery been used. (D. G.)

Answer—Thank you. Heel spurs, a common cause of tender heels, are relieved by removal of the treatment of remedies used. The X-ray film is useful to show the trouble is from spurs (osteophytes)...when it does not, it is useless for harmful. Pieces of thick felt cut out in centre like corn plaster, may relieve pressure and tender point.

Large Pores, Etc!

Have had large pores, pimples and blackheads ever since childhood. I am now 25 and can find nothing to help me. (Miss M. C.)

Answer — It didn't prevent landing your man. Send stamped self-addressed envelope and ask for pamphlet Acne.

A & B

A says when one takes several different vitamins each should be taken separately an hour apart. B says it may be taken at the same time. (Mrs. E. C.)

Answer—B wins.

I am 13 years old and I drink 3 to 5 glasses of artificially colored, flavored, carbonated, sweetened beverage) a day. Is this O. K.?

Answer—You say you want to gain weight and strength. Better switch to milk. The pop will not help you gain anything.

U.S. Servicemen Will Fight Any Move to Send Them Back To Italy in Major's Slaying

Washington, Aug. 17 (AP) — In a statement Wednesday that he was killed by former Lieut. Aldo (Ike) Icardi, now a resident of Pewaukee, N.J., and former Sgt. Carl G. LoDolce, of Rochester, N.Y., with the help of two other men, "the alleged attempt to scare others as does a magnet in that, if people do not back up with us we should find out the reason why. There isn't a single American who doesn't have something that no one else has! You see, each one of us is a citizen of the United States, since the alleged crime occurred in Italy, and since both men now are civilians outside the reach of military courts.

The Department has said it knew of no request for extradition of the two men from Italy on a non-justiciable offence under a U.S.-Italian treaty.

Meanwhile, Major Riccardo Fucci, publisher of a weekly Italian language newspaper in Middletown, Conn., who said he was Holohan's superior, defended Icardi and LoDolce. He said they were two of the finest intelligence work of the war, and would never kill for money."

In its account of the case, the department said after a dispute over whether it should turn the communist partisans, Icardi and LoDolce and the two Italians poisoned and shot Holohan, dumped his body in the lake, and then said he made it appear he had been killed or captured by Germans.

HAS TECHNICAL DATA

Madison, Wis., Aug. 17.—(AP)—The man who developed a way to make newsprint from sugar production wastes said Thursday he has obtained the technical data he needs to build a $15,000,000 plant to put the process to work.

Joaquin de la Rosa, Sr., New York, said work at the U.S. forest products laboratory here has confirmed his belief that sugar cane bagasse (the fibre material left after the juice is extracted) can produce a newsprint comparable to that made from wood.

Has Your Chin Gone Double

No double-chin trouble for me'vie star Virginia O'Brien. She avoids fattening foods that help build extra chins

By HELEN FOLLETT

One advantage the skinnies have over the plumpies is that their chins stay as nature designed them, never go double. When that under-along heavock appears abaft the Adam's apple, a woman feels that youthful appearance is lost, and the fair-to-fair her complexion, how abundant her tresses. It is one of those numerous penalties she pays for loving too well the good things of the table. No matter what the heavyweight may think on the subject, excess tissue is caused by too much food and little exercise, or by eating only such elements as build adipose tissue.

Expert facial operators are able to roll two chins into one, but this poste-change cannot take place in a few treatments. After a thorough cleansing of the skin with a thin oil, a heavy cream is applied, the spare chin is rolled between finger and thumb. The purpose is to crush the fat cells. This can be done at home and with success.

Start the pinching far down, work from centre to sides. Go through the same manipulation a little further up until you are sweeping along the jaw line which is nearly always free when chins have gone tandem. Fold your fingers in the palms of your hands and kneel the flesh with your knuckles. After that there must be a brisk patting and slapping.

There is more yet to be done. Protections must be taken so the tissues will not be flabby. So, after the massaging, frisk an ice cube over the area. If you give your chin-reducing treatment at bedtime, dash on cold water in the morning. Follow along with applications of an astringent putting it on with pledgets of cotton, and letting it dry.

A big help is in remembering to keep your head on the level. Letting it drop forward means that the muscles of the jaw line, the chin and throat have no work to do, so go into a decline. Turning the head from side to side with a strong muscle pull is recommended for this.

Fashion Flashes

COMING along for fall, but already appearing here and there, is the all-satin dress and suit. As for after-dark design is in gray silk satin, the full skirt stitched to look like accordion pleating. The self-belt has a narrow, rhinestone-studded square buckle. The scoop-necked bodice is tucked all over below a rounded band of plain fabric.

A WEALTH of fine detail and line distinguishes many of the clothes created for next season. Typical of this is the skirt of an evening dress, which has fine-line pieces of net starting from the basque curves of the bodice below the waist. They reach to the floor, then fold up to the top again to make a bouffant line. The fitted top is lace over net, with net pleating finishing the bone bodice and matching mitts.

WE NOTE the introduction of the slimmer, straighter line in fur coats, especially in high-quality collections. Black Alaska seal makes a full-length coat that is completely flat at the front and back, with just a little ease at the sides. Deep patch pockets with slanted flaps, break the line and accent the sides.

A WIDE range of brown—from deep beige, through gold to spice tones; and from woodsy shades to deep mahogany—is well represented in almost every house for fall. This means that there'll be plenty of pink used for trimming hats, for linings and for blouses. Many dark fabrics, suits of brocade or silk serge have linings of pink chiffon or pink lace blouses.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

She Must Write Bread and Butter Letter to Employer's Wife

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been private secretary to a man for the past four years, and in that time have met his wife quite a few times when she came to the office. Ever since I was a little girl my family and I have gone to the same beach resort for one month in the summer, and this year my employer and his wife took a house in a cuite-and-resort. I have just returned after a most delightful visit to which the wife invited me, a 3-day visit with other guests there, but I was only one from the office. I thanked both my hostess and host very profusely when I left. Should I just thank my hostess again when I telephone or come to the office, or must I write a note? And what about sending a guest-gift?

Frances B.

You should indeed write a bread-and-butter letter to your hostess . . . and please do it at once! Don't be uneasy about writing this note because she is your employer's wife . . . you had such a "delightful visit" that it will be easy for you to write enthusiastic things, and you should be fortified by the reassuring fact that apparently this couple find you pleasant to know and pleasant to have their friends know. A "gift" is not necessary . . . but it is a charming and generous thing to make. Perhaps a current book that has been discussed while you were there. Or a box of candy or a box of nuts with perhaps other goodies, such as slices of crystallized fruit, or a box of summery-looking mints.

Send Forth Those Birth Announcements in "All-Censored" With the News

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have bought quite a few very attractive birth announcements to be sent out when my baby arrives. But in compiling the list of names, I began to wonder if would be proper for me to send announcements to those who would naturally hear the news at once, or would read the news in our local newspaper which publishes births at once. How about this?

Lady-in-waiting

Send them to everyone who will be interested in this happy news. To begin with you couldn't possibly know who might know about your baby's arrival, and who might not know . . . and it's foolish to try and make such a list. Also the cards are the best way to announce the baby's name as well as the date of birth. And relatives and friends delight in receiving really attractive birth-announcements . . . polite people want to acknowledge them in some way . . . and doting relatives and friends like to file them, to remember the birthdate.

Not Proper For Member of the Immediate Family to Give Shower Bridal or Stock

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My sister is going to have a baby in the last part of October, and I was planning to give a stock shower for her. But my mother insists that it is not correct for a member of the family to give a stock shower any more than it is correct for a member of the family to give a bridal shower. Does the same rule apply to both?

M. N.

Yes. It is not considered proper for a member of the immediate family . . . mother, sister . . . to give a shower, because of the too-too-obvious look and implication of that shower, of whatever kind is "planned promotion" for gifts.

Club Activities

AVONDALE NEIGHBORS' AID

The August meeting of the Avondale Neighbors' Aid was held at Mrs. F. Boulton's cottage on the Bay shore, with a fair attendance.

The president opened the meeting with community singing, followed by the reading of two poems.

Mrs. J. Chambers read the Scripture lesson taken from Psalm 91. She also had charge of the program games and contests which were put on with the flower being won by Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Robson and Mrs. Holmes.

The next meeting is to be held at Mrs. Harold Wright's.

After the meeting closed, the ladies and their families served refreshments and a social half hour enjoyed.

R. Hannah Observes 92nd Birthday

The family of Mr. R. R. Hannah, of Cooper, gathered with him at Sarjeo' Beach, Oak Lake, on Monday to celebrate with him, his 92nd birthday.

About forty persons of a sumptuous dinner after which the afternoon was spent in friendly chat by the ladies, while the male members tried their skill at throwing horseshoes. The water appealed to some of the older ones, but chiefly to the younger generation, who spent most of the afternoon in it and other amusement provided at the beach.

Among those present apart from the family, were Mr. Alvin Long, of Sardis, British Columbia, a former neighbor and friend, who is renewing old acquaintances in the east. Also Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bradshaw of Toronto, were present.

The weather was ideal and while several members of the family could not be present, those who were, spent an enjoyable day and parted with the hope of celebrating another birthday with him in 1952.

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about FOOD . . . What's Cooking?

People going into butcher shops today are again reminded of the Klondike gold rush. This was the period when steaks sold for $40 a pound in Circle City, Alaska.

To stop eating meat is the kind of solution which people wouldn't and shouldn't follow. It is possible, however, to eat fish, eggs and other protein food in greater abundance than we do now, and thus stymie the rush toward higher and higher prices to a limited extent.

Main courses of cheese, for instance, have staying power and cannot be criticized as stingy eating. Cheese is a concentrated food and therefore should have light or bulky accompaniments like toast, salads, vegetables, etc.

A creole rarebit contains melted cheese, and sweet peppers and tomatoes. The cheese should be the sharp type of Canadian cheese, whether it is natural or processed. Processed cheese melts more easily, but it is also inclined to be watery when melted. A rarebit of either type may be thickened with milk, vegetables, etc.

Creole Cheese Rarebit. Serves 4.

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1-4 cup onion diced
1-4 cup green pepper diced
1 lb. sharp Canadian cheese
1 cup chopped canned tomatoes
1-4 cup juice from the tomatoes
1 teaspoon worcestershire sauce
1-2 teaspoon dry mustard
2 eggs slightly beaten
Toast

Melt the butter or margarine in the top section of a double boiler over direct heat. Add the onions and green peppers. Saute the vegetables until tender.

Cut the cheese into 1-2 inch cubes.

Put the pan over the bottom section of the double boiler containing simmering water. Add the cheese.

Add the tomatoes and the juice. Cook until the cheese melts completely. Add the worcestershire sauce and mustard.

Beat the 2 eggs until whites are no longer visible. Stir 1-4 cup of the hot cheese mixture into the eggs. Then add the eggs to the double boiler.

Continue to cook, stirring frequently until the mixture thickens. Add salt and pepper to taste.

Spoon the rarebit mixture over hot toast or serving plates.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON OF THE WEEK

God and Caesar, Church and State

By ROY L. SMITH

"Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and unto God the things that are God's."

This cryptic saying of Jesus has been quoted perhaps more frequently than any other thing he ever said, and almost as many times misinterpreted.

"East is East and West is West and never the twain shall meet" was Kipling's way of saying it, and something of the same philosophy has been mistakenly applied to the relationship of Church and State.

A Sacred Doctrine

The doctrine of separation of Church and States is one that is especially dear to the American mind. But those who abet their blood to establish the doctrine would have difficulty in recognizing it in some of its modern forms.

In the days of the Holy Roman Empire the State was the Church and many abuses prevailed. There is something corrupting about political power against which even the Church is not immune.

In more recent centuries the ardently-loved citizens have worked out the principle that Church and State shall be independent of one another in order that each may achieve its highest and finest results on behalf of the nation.

Citizenship and Obedience

During the first Christian century the leaders of the Christian Church insisted that the followers of Jesus should be strictly obedient to the State. This was due to two facts: (1) the Christian leaders believed that political authorities had been raised up of God to maintain law and order, and (2) they were quite unwilling to run the risk of a break with the Roman Empire while the Church was so weak and scattered that a single raid might stifle it.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for August 19: "The Christian's Respect for Law," Luke 20:19-26; Acts 22:22-29; 23:22-27; Romans 13:1-7; I Peter 2:13-17.

The doctrine of love, passive obedience, and co-operation with the 'powers-that-be was sufficiently effective that the Church was able to take firm rootage before the storm of persecution broke. Down through the centuries the principle of Church and State has been aligned with the principle of organized government.

Church as Critic

In all the centuries however, the Church has never approved its holy right to pass moral judgments on the state. Some of the most glorious chapters of human history have been written by those heroic souls who have stood out against the state in the name of destiny, righteousness, and God.

During the First World War the name of Cardinal Mercier of Belgium was on the lips of all the world outside the German armies. He was a man of godly independence and moral courage. In World War II, and since, the name of Cardinal Mindszenty has captivated the admiration and respect of Catholics and Protestants alike.

Moral judgments may differ at times, but the principle remains true to all Christians the right of the Church to pass moral judgment upon the state is a cherished boly that it can never be surrendered.

Soul Belongs to God

A Protestant clergymai, facing a police chief was overheard saying to apply some sort of sanction to the laws of the land "in the name of "Americanism," declared "you can take my property, you can put me in jail, and you can thrust my body into jail but my soul belongs to God, and I will continue to speak what I believe to be the judgments of God as long as I am called to the ministry."

The basic task of the Christian Church is to serve as the incarnate conscience of God. This implies not only the right to speak but also the obligation. For the Church to attempt to escape responsibility for itself from the state may be open to question, but to summon the state to the bar of God for judgment is its duty.

Canadian Boating Federation Takes Over Speedboat Control

Toronto, Aug. 17 (CP)—Speed boating in Canada takes on a new impetus with the formation of the Canadian Power Boat Association, it was announced last night. Up to this date it takes over control of speed boating in this country. The Federation now operates as affiliate of the American Power Boat Association.

In line with the growing interest Canadians the past year are showing in the Federation's competitions, says R. J. Mahaney, secretary, in addition to carrying off record awards which previously went to United States competitors, Canadians are a cinch this year to win three of the Harmsworth's four major trophies.

Under the new arrangement, the Canadian Federation shares equally with the U.S. body in regulation of the sport. The two will meet together to decide on rules as regulations.

The new national Canadian award in American could win this season in the Detroit, Trophy for most points over the season in the 11 open races. Gold Cup will be won by a Canadian driver the outcome depending on results of the future races in Canada and the U.S.

Here Inside Track

Canadians have the inside track on the R. J. Division 1 Trophy and Schenley Trophy for performances so far this year. The other contender for the competition for the R. J. Peerless Trophy is limited to Canadian outstanding races for the trophies will be held at the Canadian Motor Boat Club, Toronto, with Jack Langmuir of Brockville leading in the Peerless Trophy.

Langmuir, who has already annexed the Canadian Championship and the Canadian Trophy, is expected to be the leading contender for the Peerless Trophy. Langmuir is also a contender for the Schenley Trophy.

Bill Muir, Toronto, is also a contender for the Peerless Trophy.

REDS AT KINGSTON!

The Redmen travel to Kingston tomorrow when they take on the third place Dimmy Leads. Smarting under that 10-4 defeat at the hands of the Bluenose Bombers the other night when they kicked the ball around sagebrush they were at a grid practice, the Reds are determined to wipe that blot out at the expense of Stan Savoisten's crew. They need the win badly if they intend holding down that spot in the first division, for the Shearmen are creeping up on them and are only a few points in arrears.

FIREWORKS!

There will be no time limit when the team of Mike and Ben Sharpe collides with the team of Fred Atkins and Sky-Hi Lee in a return tag team match in the ring at the Memorial Arena tonight. These two high-powered pairs clashed last week in one of the most explosive matches seen in a long time. Expiration of time ended the bout in a draw, but no such saw-off can occur this time with all time barriers removed.

As if that were not enough, two of the best supporting bouts obtainable have also been signed. Flying Pat Flanagan will meet Steve "Mr. America" Stanlee in the semi-final and Sonny Kurgis will tackle Bill Stack in the first event.

'13' Lucky for Tommy Byrne, But Jinx to Soaring Tribe; Sox Squads Fall by Wayside

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Tommy Byrne, a hard luck guy from way back, found No. 13 the charm to ending Cleveland's all-winning rush toward the American League pennant.

The former Yankee, shunted to the last-place St. Louis Browns in mid-June, made his 13th start of the season yesterday. It coincided with a 13-game Cleveland victory string. The result was rough on the Indians, whose lead was reduced to 1-1/2 games by a 4-0 loss.

No Cleveland club ever won more than 13 in a row.

Byrne drove home all four runs off loser Mike Garcia before he left the game with a sore back in the eighth. Duane Pillette finished the shutout job. Gale Pall lost.

The 5-3 New York victory at Washington slashed a full game off the Indians' lead. Both of the other first division clubs lost to Boston by Philadelphia, 10-3, and Chicago to Detroit 3-1.

There were light stirrings of hope for a belated race in the National after New York knocked Brooklyn's 7-1 for a seven-game sweep and a six-game winning streak. The Dodger lead, however, still remained at five games with 43 to play.

St. Louis broke with six runs in the seventh to trim Pittsburgh 9-6, and Chicago exploded four in its eighth to whip Cincinnati 8-4. Boston and Philadelphia were not scheduled.

The Yankees received their first victory from Art Schallock, rookie lefthander from the Pacific Coast League. Until he willed in the best after seven innings, he was a lucky one run. Joe Ostrowski yielded two more in his two-inning relief job. Gene Woodling's 12th homer led the attack on loser Dick Starr and two others.

Falls Real Sox

Philadelphia climbed all over the Red Sox pitchers for 14 hits, including Gus Zernial's 25th homer, in taking a 10-3 game. Boston its only runs off Bobby Shantz with a two-run homer, No. 18, by Ted Williams in the loser.

Dizzy Trout was the big noise in the Tigers' triumph over the White Sox. He gave up only six hits and his 11th scoreless inning with his fifth-inning home run. It was Detroit's second straight 3-1 loss.

Sal Maglie threw a four-hitter at the Dodgers for his 17th victory. It took a solid pitch by Don Newcombe with two out in the seventh to give the Giants the run that proved decisive. Billy Cox's homer gave the Dodgers their only run.

Gerry Staley picked up his 14th victory for the Cards at the expense of Murray Dickson. Stan Musial's fifth homer with two on in the sixth preceded a six-run St. Louis uprising in the seventh.

Chicago just beat the clock at Cincinnati. They agreed to start no inning after 10:30 p.m. to let the Cubs catch a train. The 10th and 15 subsequent four-runners by for Chicago, started at 10:37. Chicago almost won it in regulation time but Connie Ryan hit a ninth-inning homer with two out. Shirley Rob Rush was the winner over reliefer Howie Fox.

King's Winner Reaches Final Dominion Shoot

Connaught Rifle Ranges, South March, Ont., Aug. 17 (CP) — A 27-year-old 48th Highlanders' officer from Toronto, who this year brought the King's prize from Bisley to Canada after an absence of 22 years, yesterday won the qualifying round of the Governor-General's prize at the 83rd annual Dominion of Canada Rifle Association meet.

Lieut. Gilmour S. Bell won the competition in a shoot-off with Capt. Norm L. Bechtel, 45-year-old Royal Hamilton Light Infantry expert from Hamilton, Ont.

In the match proper, the pair finished with a tied score of 149 — one off the possible.

The first 155 in the qualifying stage of the Governor-General's prize advance into Saturday's final stage.

Maj. Tommy Hall of New Westminster, B.C., posted the only possible to win the City of Ottawa match, scoring 30 consecutive bulls-eyes for a possible 150 from 500 and 600 yards.

The win in the match won him the City of Ottawa gold watch.

Cadet Gerald Coulette of Windsor, Ont., won the Wakefield Cup and souvenir in the Viscount Wakefield Cadet Aggregate for the highest combined score in Tyro, Tyro, Commando and MacDougall competitions. His winning score was 344 of a possible 350.

The featured event on today's card is the King's Medal shot from four stages including deliberate, fire with movement, rapid and snapshooting. Other matches to be shot today are the London Merchants, the Consolation, the Sherwood, the Borden and the Sir Arthur Currie competition.

Red Wings Win Ten In Row; Leafs Take Two

(By The Associated Press)

No denying it, Rochester is the hottest team in the International League today. But can the Red Wings ever overcome the 13-game lead enjoyed by the league-leading Montreal Royals?

The answer is probably "no".

The Royals, in first place virtually since the start of the campaign, have not had a serious losing streak, and show no signs of napping.

The Red Wings who last night won their 10th straight, defeating Buffalo 2-1 in 10 innings, still, even with their winning streak, have been able to gain practically no ground on the Royals, who were rained out of the game with Ottawa last night.

Johnny Hutzik hit a home run with none on in the 10th, and that settled it in favor of the Wings. The winners used four pitchers with Freddie Hahn, last in line, getting the triumph. Hilsen starter Moe Savransky went nine innings before giving way to Mike Sandlock who gave Hutzik that fatal one.

Toronto won a doubleheader from Springfield, 5-3 and 7-3, to shove the Cubs even further into the cellar. Russ Bauers won the first game, although he needed help from Ray Shore, who took over in the 8th inning with the bases loaded and struck out three.

Johnny Heiki scored his 14th victory against nine defeats in the nightcap.

Baltimore and Syracuse were rained out.

Sport in Brief

(By The Canadian Press)

The "brainless bauiser" has replaced the intelligent player in modern-day hockey in the opinion of one of the stick-handling "greats' of another era, two decades ago.

Frank Frederickson of Vancouver, 56, former top centre with Lester Patrick's Victoria club and with the National Hockey League's Boston Bruins, said in an interview yesterday that bodycontact sports of today, with special reference to hockey, are developing "savagery."

He was on three Stanley Cup teams, with Victoria in 1925 and 1926 and with Boston in 1927.

"Now you see more illegal tactics, such as smashing into the boards and into the corners. Some coaches, even in minor amateur leagues, need players not to 'give it' to players on other clubs. Today, hockey players are puppets, willing slaves of managers and the public."

At Victoria, Lester Patrick, owner of the Victoria Cougars, announced Thursday that his franchise and the 1951 Pacific Coast Hockey League champions were up for sale.

The announcement came when Patrick received the final draft of the contract between himself and the arena commission Thursday.

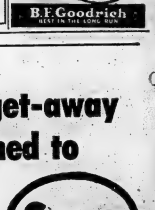
"I am definitely open for offers," Patrick said.

Babe Ruth's voice is now part of the home run king's shrine in baseball's Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N. Y.

A golden record of Ruth's "thank you" to the fans, a broken-voiced, earnest expression of gratitude to those honoring him on his day, April 27, 1947, at Yankee Stadium, was presented to the Hall of Fame Thursday by President Frank White of the Mutual Broadcasting System.

George Slater, president of the Quebec Senior Hockey League, said Thursday neither he nor the league has recommended that broadcasts of games be stopped.

He was commenting on a dispatch from Ottawa. Wednesday night in which Tommy Gorman, owner of the Ottawa Senators of the Q. S. H. L., was quoted as saying the league likely will drop broadcasting of home games and that the Senators' games will not be broadcast this coming season.



Baseball—not boxing or football—has been the most dangerous sport in New York City for the last 32 years.

Dr. Theodore A. Gonzales of the New York chief medical examiner's office said baseball injuries brought death to 43 players from 1918 through 1950—as many as football (23) and boxing (21) deaths combined.

Writing in the journal of the American Medical Association, he suggested this revision of vital injuries resulting from sports activities during the period.

'Foreign Threats' Enter Tennis Quarter-Finals

By BILL KING

Brookline, Mass., Aug. 16 (AP) After four days of peace and quiet—not counting two severe thunderstorms—the men's division in the U.S. national doubles tennis tournament was primed for knock-down and drag-out fights in today's quarter-finals at Longwood.

Eight seeded teams, including three pairs of outstanding foreign threats, continued in the championship running.

The veteran Gardnar Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., and Bill Talbert of New York were paired against Tony Mottram of England, and Syd Levy of South Africa. Australia's Davis Cup aces, Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor, were down for a tussle with Earl Cochell of Los Angeles and Hamilton Richardson of Baton Rouge, La.

Herb Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, met with another strong Australian pair, Mervyn Rose and Don Candy.

The other quarter-finals bracket was shared by Budge Patty of Los Angeles and Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, and Fred Fisher of Seattle and Sid Schwartz of Brooklyn.

The women's field was much smaller getting underway and as a result, it was down to the semi-finals, which will be staged today. Today Doris Hart of Coral Gables, Fla., and Shirley Fry of Akron, O., will oppose Brittiana Mrs. Joy Mottram and Pat Ward. Tomorrow Mrs. Pat Todd of Tolls, Calif., and Nancy Chaffee of Ventura, Calif., match strokes with another English lady, Jean Quertier and Kay Tuckey.

Sedgman and McGregor were the most decisive of yesterday's third-round victors as they drubbed Dave Nagler and Edwin Wesley of St. Louis 6-1, 6-1, 6-1.

Toronto Girl 2nd In Channel Swim

Mrs. W. Leuszler, Wins $1400 Is First Canadian Woman To Negotiate Tough Grind

Dover, England, Aug. 17—(CP)—A Toronto housewife's gamble on a long-way plane ticket to Britain has brought her the honor of being the first Canadian woman to swim the English Channel.

Winnie Roach Leuszler, 32-year-old mother of three small girls, made the treacherous channel crossing in her first attempt last night and came in second among the women in win a prize of $500.

Twenty of the world's top long-distance swimmers—13 men and seven women— plunged into the chilly but unusually calm waters off Cape Gris Nes, France, yesterday in a 21-mile race to the shores of this seaside resort.

The cross-channel meet, an annual affair, was sponsored by the London Daily Mail which offered £7,000 in prizes.

Egyptian-Britisher Win

An Egyptian army officer and a British ballroom dancing queen took the top honors in the mass swim. Hassan Hamed, 34-year-old army officer from Cairo, won the race in a photo finish over Frenchman Roger Le Morvan, 27. Hamed's winning time was 12 hours and 13 minutes, considerably below the men's record of 10 hours and 13 minutes set by fellow-Egyptian Hassan Abd El Rahim in winning the race last year.

Brenda Taylor, 22-year-old English dancing champion, was the first woman to finish after Hamed, or shore, and apparently set a women's record of 12 hours, 43 minutes by the counting.

This tops the record established last year by Florence Chadwick of San Diego, Calif., who made it in 13 hours, 23 minutes. Miss Fisher's time, however, is subject to check by the judges today.

Hamed and Miss Fisher both received first prizes of £1,000 each. Of the 30 who started the Daily Mail contest, 18 finished.

Like Mrs. Leuszler, Le Morvan won £500. The Frenchman crawled ashore only one minute behind Hamed at a point five miles away. The other 34 swimmers who finished received consolation prizes of £250 each.

Seventh in Over-all Finish

In the over-all finish, Miss Fisher was sixth and Mrs. Leuszler seventh.

The Canadian woman plunged confidently into the waters of the French coast at 7:30 a.m. yesterday morning and began her long crawl with beautiful, even strokes. She was clad in a black silk swimming suit, white cap and heavily coated with grease, she started into the lead among the seven women.

For 14½ hours she held the lead. Then, with the chalky white Cliffs of Dover in sight, she tired and began to drop back. Her strength came on strongly and soon overtook her.

But the Canadian mother refused to call it quits and although nearly exhausted plowed through the rest of the way.

She pulled herself out of the water on the Dover shore one hour and two minutes behind Miss Fisher. The Canadian's time of 13 hours and 34 minutes still was the fourth fastest by a woman in channel swimming history.

Ederle's Mark Beaten

And she bettered Gertrude Ederle's mark of 14 hours, 31 minutes, Miss Ederle, an American, was the first woman to swim the channel. She did it Aug. 6, 1926, and her mark stood for 24 years until Miss Chadwick broke it last summer.

Training played an important part in Mrs. Leuszler's showing. Under the watchful eye of her father-coach, Edward Roech, she began practising for the big race last April in the cold choppy waters of Lake Ontario.

After scraping and saving for months, she had just enough money to pay her plane fare to Britain, Ironically 32, "I will be just have to win to make it back to my husband and three girls," she said.

Her husband, Morris, is in the R.C.A.F., and stationed in Calgary. He strongly encouraged her swimming career, saying "sure, it sometimes disrupts the household a bit, but it's worth it."

Winnie for several years has been among the first finishers in the Canadian National Exhibition's five-mile swim at Toronto, although she has never won it.

While in England her children—Frances Mary, 6, Sharon, 4, and Phyllis, 10 months — are being cared for by her grandmother.

Cleveland Browns Meet College Football Stars

Chicago, Aug. 17. (AP) —The proud, prancing U.S. College All-Stars tonight are expected to learn what football really is all about when they crash into the amazing pro champion Cleveland Browns before 90,000 at Soldier Field.

Herman Hickman's All-Stars are packed with the cream of the 1950 collegiate crop. But the wise money says Paul Brown's National Football League champs will win by at least two touchdowns in this 18th classic of a series in which the pros lead nine to six, with two games tied.

Such makers of U.S. football headlines last fall as Kyle Rote of Southern Methodist, Bob Williams of Notre Dame and Whizzer White of Arizona State will whale away against the Browns in Hickman's Yale-borne attack.

But except for their youth and enthusiasm, the All-Stars likely will be outplayed right down the line by a Brown lineup that has won five straight pro titles —four in the fast-dying All-American Conference and one in the National League—and has been defeated only six times.

Whizzer White, property of the Chicago Bears, who toyed this spring with an offer from Edmonton Eskimoes of the Western Inter-Provincial Union, could be a game-buster for the All-Stars. Although he weighs only 160 pounds, the Arizona flash has had one of the most deceptive changes-of-pace seen in college football for years.

The question is, can the All-Stars shake White, who led the U.S. in college scoring last year, into the wide open spaces behind the mighty Brown defense?

Racing Formful Despite Poor Track Conditions

The racing strip was a sea of mud but it did not deter racing officials of the Fair Board from providing an entertaining card of racing on the final day of the exhibition. The owners and drivers wanted to race, the officials were of the opinion the track was not in fit condition but a compromise was amicably reached. After two heats in each class was raced, the meet was called off.

Victory Hy, filled Peter, owned by Stan Blewett, of Peterborough, was much the best in the free-for-all. He was expertly guided; taken to the best footing and won as he pleased in each heat. The Admiral, owned by P. Dever, of Westport, was an easy winner in the slow class and the mare was the second win for this chestnut pacer and he showed all the things of a fine colt, that should go far in the harness world. In both races it was almost impossible for the back horses to take out at the head of the stretch as there was only one good piece of footing on the whole track. The drivers took no unnecessary chances in injuring their charges.

In the running race Babe, owned by Ira Perry, was an easy winner in both heats.

Several Indicted In Basketball Scandal Probe

New York, Aug. 17 (AP) — District Attorney Frank Hogan called a press conference today on college basketball's biggest scandal amid reports that his inquiry was entering a new phase.

Hogan announced the conference last night shortly after a New York grand jury voted indictments against an unspecified number of persons, reported to have been involved in the rigging of Bradley University games.

Details of indictments were not made public, and Hogan said the true bills would be filed at the same time he holds his press conference.

Since the scandal first broke last January, 31 players from six United States colleges and a number of gamblers have been implicated.

Five of these players, who came here voluntarily from the Bradley campus in Peoria, Ill., testified yesterday before the grand jury that returned the indictments. They waived immunity.

During the grand jury session, the players and 13 other witnesses were questioned.

Five Stars Involved

The five Bradley stars are Gene Melchiorre, considered one of the game's best players; William Mann, George M. Chianakas, Aaron Pearce and Charles Grover.

When Hogan first broke the Bradley phase of the scandal several weeks ago, he said the players were offered $1,500 in bribes to lose by seven points to Bowling Green in the 1949 National Invitational tournament here.

A last minute field goal by a substitute not in the plot, Hogan said, ruined the betting coup by slicing the margin to five points, 62-57 for Bowling Green.

Six persons have been held as material witnesses in this Bradley phase, and Hogan has been seeking Jack (Zip) West, 40, as the alleged master-mind bookmaker behind the betting coups.

In addition to the Bradley players, the scandal has involved five from Toledo University and 20 from New York schools — City College, Manhattan, New York University and Long Island University.

Merchants Defeat RCAF Flyers 5-2

Frankford—Frankford Merchants went one ahead in the best of three Trent Valley softball semi-finals by virtue of their 5-2 triumph over the R.C.A.F. in Trenton Wednesday night. Bruce McComb scattered seven hits for the winners, while Jarrett and Burtt were nicked for only one safety apiece. Frankford, however, took advantage of four Flyer errors, every one of which proved costly, and several free tickets via bases on balls.

The Flyers drew first blood, getting a run in the opening frame. That was all the scoring until the ninth, when Frankford knotted the count. In this seventh frame Jarrett got into difficulty, and retired in favor of Vic Burtt with the bases loaded, and nobody away. Vic proceeded to strike out the side, without allowing a run, a real masterful bit of hurling.

Frankford came back strong in the eighth, with four big runs, as the Flyers defense fell apart. The Flyers added one in their half of the eighth, to complete the scoring.

The second game will be played in Frankford, Friday night.

Line score:

Frankford	000 001 040	5	2 1
R.C.A.F.	100 000 010	2	7 4

Batteries: Frankford, McComb, Murphy. R.C.A.F., Jarrett, Burtt (5), Samaine, Auld (9).

In Wooler, Barney McCollested Harry Farr in a pitchers' duel, with the homsters racking up a 4-2 victory. The second game of this series will be played in Trenton, Friday night.

Trent Valley Softball League Playoffs, Semi-Finals

Trenton	0	1	.000

They will represent the city in the peewee playdowns. Reading from left—Front row: Peter Young 3b; Glen Bennett ss; Dale Beer cf; John Brennan rf; Gerry Dali c; Bill Kelleher, utility. Back row — Joe Ryan p; Mike Ryan 1b; Ruddy Gadijar, utility; Walter Bent, coach; Tim Cook 2b; Ivan Kavarcla p; Neil Masterson, utility. PENNIES GO FARTHER

Kitchener, Aug. 17 (CP) — Pennies go farther than nickles here. If all the pennies collected in parking meters in this city since their inception in September 1947 were placed side by side in a row they would stretch 81 miles. The nickles gathered in the same way would only reach a little more than 14 miles, says Robert Key, deputy-treasurer.

CHANGE OF OWNERSHIP

Barrie, Aug. 17.—(CP) — The semi-weekly Barrie Examiner this week announced a change of ownership, John Alexander MacLaren, president since 1940, has sold his interest in the company and announced his retirement, K. Kenneth Walls, former vice-president and co-publisher with Mr. MacLaren, becomes president, with C. Leslie Chittick as vice-president and A. F. Rivett as secretary-treasurer.

Tom Gard's Note Book

It has often been said that necessity is the mother of invention. It was certainly proven to me the other day while travelling in the North Bay area. I was invited to spend the evening with a young couple whose acquaintance I had been privileged to make during a previous summer. I had admired their courage in starting a home on a shoe string and was most anxious to learn how they were getting along.

Their home was far from being luxuriously furnished but there was plenty of warmth and friendship that made you feel immediately at ease. They had let it be known that but their youthful enthusiasm had been retained, and they had created a truly happy home.

The husband shared my opinion of butter boxes. He had made many pieces of furniture, including the chesterfield, and had found these boxes could be used in many ways. One of his best efforts was his wife's dressing table — made entirely of boxes, plywood and pieces of two by four. Even the mirror had been salvaged from a discard, resilvered and placed in a refinished frame.

Fireplace Fuel Holder

Something else that caught my eye was a homemade fuel container made from a soap pail. It had been enamelled black and then stippled inside and out with gold. The feet and handles from an old brass jardiniere had been attached and did to its attractiveness. It was the finishing touch to a rustic stone fireplace he had built with his own hands.

Nor was all the beauty found on the inside of the house. Excellent progress had been made in changing a large "empty" town lot into an attractive setting for their small bungalow. He took great pride in showing me the cold frame he built from packing cases and on which he made the storm windows do double duty. Their harvest this fall will go a long way in helping the food budget through the coming winter.

I couldn't help but feel as I left them that no one house that will be a definite asset to the community and to our country.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

You should not let a double get you into trouble. What you should know first is that there are only two kinds of doubles: a takeout double and a penalty double.

A takeout double asks partner to take it out; to bid something. It almost shouts to partner: "I have a pretty good hand of my own but before I bid anything I would like to know what you have."

A penalty double asks partner to let it stay there; tells partner the opponent bid can be defeated. It almost shouts to partner: "We can beat their contract with what I already know."

If partner has not yet bid, a double is for takeout if he bid is less than four in a suit. But if he bid four or more in a suit, the double is for penalty.

Nobody ever bids less than four in a suit. So, it does not apply to that number in no-trump. Any double of more than one no-trump is for penalty. It is for takeout only if less than two in no-trump.

South opened with a bid of two no-trump and went undoubled. The north hand passed. East took out the double of two no-trump with a bid of three hearts when he held this hand:

♠ 8 6 3
♥ 10 8 6 4
♦ J 9 3
♣ J 5 2

This was a big mistake. A double of two in a suit would have been for takeout. But a double of two no-trump is for penalty. The double of two no-trump expects to defeat such a contract.

The three heart bid was defeated. Whereas, the two no-trump bid would have gone down. So, lack of knowing which kind of a double it was resulted in an unnecessary loss for east and west.

When partner has not bid, another way of quoting the rule is: A double of four or more in a suit or two or more in no-trump is for penalty; doubles of lower bids are for takeout.

Chalk it up. And not on the ice

Hollywood, Aug. 17 — (AP) — Gloria Swanson is back in Hollywood acting in a picture for the first time since her sensational film return two years ago.

Why the two-year delay?

"Don't ask me," she answered. "Ask the producers."

The one-time silent star was a sensation as the demented actress in "Sunset Boulevard" and was nosed out of an Oscar by Judy Holliday. She was frank to admit that the right kind of offers did not come her way after her film return.

"Paramount (where she made 'Sunset Blvd.') offered to test me for 'Alice Sit-by-the-Fire'," she remarked. "I told them, 'Why should I test? You know what I can do.' So nothing came of it.

"None of the other majors came up with anything."

But She's Busy

She is now performing in a television series, a television show, a dress business. And her stage opportunities appear much more numerous than those in the movies.

"They want me for all kinds of things — musicals, dramas, return engagements in '20th Century' which I did with Jose Ferrer last winter," she said. "But I'm starting rehearsals in September for 'Nina'... the Andre Roussin play which has been running in Paris for 3 1-2 years. It is a plum, but such a difficult play that it sometimes frightens me."

KOREAN ORPHANS — These are most of 30 Korean children living in an improvised orphanage attended school, but taught himself to read and write. United Nations authorities were impressed and made him responsible for the orphans. His sister, Chung Nok-Hyon, 15, lives at the orphanage. They do not know where their parents and five sisters are. (CP Photo).

Korean Houseboy Finds Sister In Dressing Station Wounded And Now Constant Companion

By BILL BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Seoul, Korea, Aug. 17 — (CP) — Eighteen-year-old Chung Kyong-Nyang had left his sister by him since the day he found her in a field dressing station.

Chung, a houseboy with a United States Army unit, had gone on a patrol to hunt guerrillas and had been hit by mortar fire. One shrapnel still is embedded in his chest and back, near the spine.

Evacuated to Uijungbu, he found his sister. She said that their mother was wounded in a hay rags, evacuated she knew not where. Their father, with their three younger brothers and two young sisters, also were evacuated. She didn't know where.

Chung since has nursed her, comforted her, changed her dressings daily — her cheek had been ripped away by shrapnel. When the United Nations Civil Assistance Command removed them to an improvised orphanage here, he kept it up.

In their native Yungchon in North Korea Chung never went to school. Three years ago he taught himself to read and write, in leisure moments from the family farm.

Here his calligraphy was so good that U. N. C. A. C. officers gave him charge of the children's records, or such as he was able to compile from the scanty information he could glean. Some were orphans. Others had lost their families when the troops evacuating them from the front had separated family groups. Others were too young to identify themselves, or tell their stories.

Chung ran the office. His responsibilities grew.

Never Seen to Smile

Today, this grave-faced youth who is never seen to smile:

1. Is general administrator of the establishment.

2. Is the chief nurse. He personally tends the sick children, administers such medicines as are available, on the prescription of the Korean woman doctor who calls daily. Among his patients are 20 with pink eye, and he bathes the eyes of all.

3. Is quartermaster, responsible for the rice-ration stores and any other food that comes in.

4. Supervises the kitchen — located in two tents behind the house — where he has five older girls detailed as cooks. His kitchen does double duty as mess hall.

5. Is dormitory supervisor — where he has five girls spread blankets on the floor as bedding for the youngsters every night and gather it up in the morning.

6. Is recreation director, and has paired the 80 children up so that each younger one is the responsibility of one older boy or girl. There are 30 girls and 50 boys, between two and 15 years, in the home. His own charge is three-year-old Han Tah-Sil, who knows only that he has a dad and mother somewhere.

But his major care is sister Nok-Hyon.

STOP PROVES COSTLY

Campbellford, Aug. 17—(CP)—A brief stop to ask travel directions Thursday proved costly for George Rasilaub of Toronto.

When he stopped his car in a service station to ask the way to Marmora his automobile roiled down an incline and across the highway. He rushed out to stop the car, grabbed the door handle and was slammed against a brick wall by the momentum of the car.

He suffered arm and shoulder injuries. The car kept going, crashed over an embankment and was extensively damaged.

HOPES ERRORS NOT REPEATED

Toronto, Aug. 17 (CP) — A hope that "glaring errors" in the restoration of Fort Henry at Kingston, will not be repeated in Fort York was expressed in a letter read to the Toronto Historical Society yesterday. The author, Spencer Armitage-Stanley, a member of the Ontario Historical Committee, referring to the recent $200,000 restoration grant voted by city council recommended reconstruction care from the standpoint of history and also from that of the tourist.

Volunteers Salvage Abandoned Crops Under Fire of Shells

By BILL BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Chorwon, Korea, Aug. 17 (CP) — Shells whistled to and fro overhead as the harvesters felled the grain.

The little stands of wheat and barley, on scattered terrace plots of half an acre in size — and even smaller — gave way before the scythe.

Abandoned crops at last were being garnered in.

Heading the operation was a man who once worked in Canada. Fred Shulley of Washington, D.C. Now a United States Forester, Shulley is on loan to the United Nations Civil Assistance Command team in Seoul province, as agricultural adviser.

A graduate of courses at the University of Toronto and of the Yale University forest school, his initiation into the bush was north of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

He tells his gang of 85 workers here whenever they grouse about the primitive accommodation available that "this is nothing — you ought to go to Canada!"

"Those two summers cutting lumber in the bush," he says, "really taught me to rough it. Now, whenever, whomever or wherever things have been tough, I've always been able to say, 'Well, I can remember when it was worse than this—in Canada.'"

Evacuees do Work

Shulley's gang comprises farmers and homesteaders who were evacuees from the Chorwon area more than a month ago—sent by the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade group.

The C. A. C., knowing that severe food shortages threaten Korea next winter, decided to try to bring in the abandoned grain.

About 1,100 volunteers, most from the area itself, were rounded up in evacuee camps in the southern part of the province.

"First or all," said Shulley, "we went for the rice. These men were going back to their old homes, to an area they knew, and in which they had buried their rice.

"Within 10 minutes of their feet hitting the ground at the first spot, they had walked about 40 feet into a field, scraped away the soil to a depth of eight inches and uncovered two broad sheets of tin.

"Underneath were three whole drums of unhulled rice, clean and fresh.

"During the next two weeks we salvaged 2,600 bushels of hidden rice in this one area."

Turned to Barley

When the rice had all been tracked down, the gang turned to harvesting the barley.

The gang had one truck and it was filled twice a day with the felled stalks, which then were threshed by the village elders.

"There they were flailed by hand to knock the heads off and get down to the base seed. The gang salvaged 1,300 bushels of barley that way.

Now it is working on the wheat — the same way. Shulley expects there to be 1,500 bushels.

The Koreans, all volunteers, are working for nothing but pay. They are right at the front with the soldiers and are often just behind patrolling troops.

Many, perhaps, are looking on their lands for the last time. Chorwon is in North Korea — and they may have to make new lives for themselves somehow in the south.

PASSENGER KILLED

Arnprior, Aug. 17 — (CP) — Nicholas Emery, 46, of Ashton, Ont., was killed Thursday night and four persons injured when an automobile in which they were riding crashed into a standard on a bridge over the Mississippi River six miles east of here.

In hospital here are Joseph Emery, 23, son of Nicholas Emery; Anthony Coady, 27; Dominic Coady, 17, and Vincent Coady, 15. The Coadys are from Kinburne, Ont.

COMMIE LEAVES COUNTRY

New York, Aug. 16—(AP)—Ferdinand Smith, former national secretary purged from the National Maritime Union (C.I.O.) as a communist in 1948, voluntarily left the country yesterday. Deportation charges had been brought against Smith under the McCarran Act. He left by plane for London.

THIS MR. ICARUS

By Hazle Meldrum Moore

"Running into trouble?" "Nothing unexpected," the lawyer said, "Case, the park is town property and I had to appear before council to get permission to erect our cenotaph, to put in play ground equipment and for ball fields. There was no argument against the former, but Councillors Crookes and Councillor Bill Crait and Ed Maker, who appear to be running everything in council, insisted that I give some assurance that the town would not be held liable for damages in case of an accident to any child using the equipment. When I told them that Tom Foley, the hose-armed veteran, would supervise the children at play after four, and on Saturdays and holidays, all objections were removed and I was told to go ahead. To their question of who was putting up the money, I gave the well-known answer as I have given to everyone else—'a good friend of the town who doesn't care to have his name mentioned.'

Chief Shegar tried to pump me at council meetings, but he was no wiser at the end than he was at the beginning.

"I know, Brad", he went on, "having the power of attorney to issue cheques against your account, and your permission to have the deeds of the YWCA hall and your new business block made out in my name, helps to keep the lid of secrecy pretty tight. In the matter of the Red Cross and Horticultural Society, it was easy. I gave them cash donations. The GWVA will order any furniture required for the hall from any furniture store in town and the bills are to be sent to me. I have advanced considerable cash to the Russell Builders to give to the Salvation Army and the baseball club work underway, with the assurance that any balance due on the work to be done will be paid at my office. But how are you doing? Anyone suspect you yet?"

"I had one close call," Lance laughed. "Dad Roberts asked how I'd made out with my mining stock and I said that I hadn't lost anything. And he took it that I had not made anything either, for he said "Well, you'll remember I warned you about putting money into mining stock. I told you it was a risky place of business."

It was Johnston Parker's turn to laugh.

"That's pretty good," he said, "but to get back to where we left off, Brad. About that will, and the adoption of a son. In your daily travels around town have you seen any boy who appears to measure up—a boy who you believe is honest and truthful?"

"Yes, Mr. Parker, I have. And he interests me very much. He is smart, healthy, and a funny thing—he has my blue eyes, my red hair. However, I would know more about him, before I would think of adopting him."

"Very well, Brad. Just think it over. And if you come in tomorrow I'll have a will for you to sign. The name of your son and heir can be inserted if, as and when. And like all wills, it may be changed at your pleasure at any time to suit the circumstances."

"That there was another person in Lance's life who was mindful of Lance's future, particularly that he marry and have a son to succeed him, Lance didn't know until one evening when he and Mother Roberts were alone in the house.

"I know, son," Mother Roberts began, "I was just telling Dad the other day that it was mighty strange to me that such a fine handsome young man as you have become, doesn't appear to have any girl friend. Don't you ever think of getting married, of having a home of your own some day, son?"

"To be truthful about it, mother," he said, "I never give much thought to such matters."

"Then you should, son," Mother Roberts insisted. "Some day you may be in business for yourself, you may be well-to-do, but what advantage would that be to you if you had no person to share it with? Some day you're going to need a son to carry on after you."

"Yeah," he said. "I should have a son."

"The young women of this town are breaking their necks trying to attract your attention."

Now that Mother Roberts mentioned it, he could recall girls bumping into him unnecessarily on the streets; the number of gloves and handkerchiefs he was accidentally picking up.

"I never was aware until now, mother," he said. "That any girl's heart was going pitter-patter just because I happened to be around. I guess things didn't work that way about it. I guess I was never cut out for a husband—"

At that moment Dad Roberts came into the house.

"What is she doing to you, son?" he asked. "Trying to make you believe that you should get married?"

"Could be," Lance grinned in a tone of relief.

"And—why not?" Mother asked sharply. "He should be thinking about it at his age."

"Oh, I suppose so," dad grinned, "and he may yet. One of these days the old lover boy will get him, and then look out! Then we'll lose him."

"I was only advising him for his own good," Mother spoke up.

"Naturally, Mother," dad said, "but why not let him figure that out for himself? But enough of that. Before you ever think of getting married, which is now," Dad went on, "I think we should get down to a matter of business."

"Shoot, Dad!" Lance said, settling back in a chair, and not knowing what was coming.

"For several months now you have been my right-hand man, you've been taking a big load off my shoulders. That began as a result—I'm feeling better, sleeping better, eating better than I have for some time. Due to thoughtlessness,—which is a poor excuse—or possibly the pleasure of your assistance and your friendly companionship you have given me, I have never thought of paying you for services rendered. I think there is no better time than now to come to some definite decision in the matter," he stopped. "That is, of course, if you still intend to live with us, to make our home your home—"

"I've been until you tell me to go," Lance said, "so—"

"Then, you'll never leave, son," mother interrupted.

"Or until I take mother's advice to get married," Lance concluded.

"Look, son," Dad Roberts said firmly. "From now on, I pay you $15 a week plus board and room. Will that suit you?"

"But for what will you pay me this money?" Lance asked. "I never considered that I've been worth more to you than my board and lodgings—that the work I've been doing was payable work. To me, it has been fun, a chance to learn something, a pleasant way of putting in my time, while this old bung-full of mine get's strong again. No, dad, I won't take your money, but I'll continue to help you, but not for pay. If you must pay anyone, pay mother for my bed and board—"

"You'll do nothing of the sort," mother said sharply, "I won't take a cent of it."

"But, I've no great need for money," Lance protested, more truthfully than they ever suspected, "I am, however, in dire need of something to do, something to occupy my time. As a matter of fact, I find newspaper work so interesting, that I have decided to stay with it. I am fully aware that I've much to learn, consequently I feel that I'm not worth twenty-five dollars a week to you or anyone else at this stage in the game. So, as I say, if you have any money to spend, give it to mother for all the extra work that I've been to her."

"You're no extra work to me, son," mother spoke up. "It's as easy to get meals for three as it is for two. And as for your room, your bed—where did you learn to make a bed!"

"Oh, we men can learn things," Lance laughed. "My first schooling was at sea. Then there was a brief course in the bunkhouse at the mining camp . . . But I had to go to the trenches in France to get my post graduate. Right now I believe I could give lessons on bed-making."

"I believe you could son," Mother agreed proudly.

"Getting back to business," Dad Roberts said, "Where do we go from here? I offer you money you won't take, so I'm taking the matter in my own hands. From now your name is on my pay-roll, you will come under the Workmen's Compensation Act. You'll take orders from me, and mind you, I can be pretty tough. For instance, if I ever catch you flirting with the girls in my office (there were no girls working in the Ensign office), or drinking whiskey on my premises (Lance hadn't taken a drink since the night he was drugged), or if you are ever late for work (he was never any more late for work than Dad Roberts himself). I'll fire you on the spot! And now that you know under what conditions you work on The Ensign, what are you going to be paid weekly and what you must do to earn it, what have you to say?"

"Well, Dad," Lance laughed, "I suppose there's only one thing I can do—take it and like it."

That night Lance Bradley went to bed fully conscious of two things—that he was now a paid employee of The Ensign for as long as he cared to work there; that Mother Roberts considered him a good marriageable prospect. But what he didn't know was that Mother Roberts was preparing to entertain the members of the Young Women's League of First Baptist Church at her home some evening soon, and that as a result of that gathering he was to meet the pretty vivacious Doris Parker, daughter of his legal adviser and close friend, and that she would be one young lady who was almost to convince him that he wasn't to remain celibate was a serious mistake.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

CHAPTER X

The Young Women's League of First Baptist Church was composed of unmarried girls between the ages of eighteen and thirty. With few exceptions they were working girls. Stenographers, secretaries, school teachers, telephone operators, librarians. Once a year Mother Roberts, as was the custom in church circles, opened her home to them, providing a light luncheon.

Lance Bradley had been warned beforehand that there would be such a gathering at the Roberts' home and was told what to expect.

"The girls are all nice", Mother Roberts explained. "They are, in a sense, business girls and earn their own living. There's nothing high-hat about them. Once a year they come here and they do have fun."

"Will Dad be here, too?" Lance asked. Mother Roberts turned to him with a laugh.

"Of course he will, son. Why? You're not afraid of a bunch of women, are you?"

"Not exactly afraid, Mother," he said. "But, this is new to me. What am I supposed to do? How should I act?"

"Son," she said, placing a hand on his shoulder, "I want you to be your own natural self. That's all there's is to it."

Thus assured that he had nothing to fear, but at the same time fully aware that Dad Roberts was a good life-raft to cling to, Lance Bradley was well groomed and composed by the time the first guests arrived. Introductions over, he found himself beside Dad Roberts on a wide settee. Quite used by now to such affairs, Dad was cool, unperturbed, and, as usual with quip or jest, completely at ease. Inability, Lance Bradley glanced about him. His mind flashed back to scenes he had witnessed in the city joints along the seaboard, France and England under war conditions, the women, the drinking, swearing women who prayed on soldiers on sailors. Gold diggers they were.

But these members of the First Baptist Y.W.L., were a different; as different as night from wrong—in the broadest sense. These were charming women, young, pretty, nicely dressed. There was nothing bold or brazen about them. But these were dangerous women for an avowed celibate to meet, and keep his celibacy choice he was an avowed celibate. They gathered around the settee and they made him answer their questions. In great embarrassment he heard himself put words into sentences but he did not know if he was saying the proper things or not. But they appeared to be enjoying it.

However, it was Dad Roberts who gave him a chance to recover himself.

"If I were you, I'd be mighty careful with this chap," Dad cautioned them, "He's been around, and he has formed some bad habits. He drinks, swears and—and he was a sailor. And you know what they say about sailors, —a sweetheart in every port!"

But Dad did not stop there.

"I like sailors," Peggy Blair who worked in the post office said, "I think they look cute in those snow white uniforms."

U.N. Must Retain Defensive Posts In Korea Says Joy

Rejects Demand for Buffer Zone Astride 38th Parallel

Munsan, Korea, Aug. 18 (AP) — The senior allied envoy to the Kaesong cease-fire talks said tonight the United Nations "must retain defensive positions" in Korea.

"We must keep up our military guard until the final settlement of the Korean problem," said Vice-Admiral C. Turner Joy in an official statement released at his headquarters here.

Joy added:

"It is the objective of the U.N. command delegation is a military armistice, based on military realities. These realities in negotiations are an essential prelude to any eventual long-time solution of the Korean problem."

Joy's statement had been read at the Kaesong talks but not the U.N. command did not say when.

Joy warned that "the fact of an any armistice will be of greater military advantage to the enemy than it will be to us."

He rejected the communist demand for a half-dozen airstrips near 38th parallel.

Joy said it was the primary responsibility of the field commander to insure the security of his troops at all times, and added, "We have a sworn obligation to our fighting men to afford them the maximum protection in any armistice."

The senior allied negotiator said both the U.N. and the communists are capable of continuing their military actions.

"International law," he said, "specifically defines an armistice as a temporary suspension of hostilities and just as specifically points out that hostilities may be resumed by either side if proper prior notification is given.

"Thus it can be seen that it would be foolhardy, and perhaps be disastrous, for either commander to base his forces along a political demarcation line rather than to place them in a sound military position while negotiation where they can protect themselves in the unfortunate event hostilities should be resumed."

NOTED GUIDE KILLED

Vera, Ont., Aug. 18 (CP) — Alex Kimbal, 64, was killed Friday night when he fell through an open door of a moving truck.

Kimbal was jarred from the truck when it hit a bump and fell to the ground, pinned over his body.

He was a long time resident of this area and well known to Canadian and American sportsmen who use nearby Michiplicoten harbor, on the shoreline of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., as a base for fishing in Lake Superior.

200 DUTCH FOR CANADA

The Hague, Netherlands, Aug. 18 (Reuters) — About 600 Dutchmen will go to Canada this month in 3 chartered flights by Royal Dutch Airlines (KLM). The demand for air passage by Dutch Canadians is so great that it is expected an even larger number of flights will be made in September, said an KLM official.

Train Hits Car, Wilfred Quance Seriously Hurt

Wilfred Quance, 42, of 53 Hampton Road, was seriously injured Friday evening, when the car he was driving was struck by a C.N.R. freight train at the Canniton Road crossing. His son Guy, age 4, escaped injury when at the last moment he jumped into the back seat and was thrown out of the car.

Quance is in hospital with broken ribs, a broken shoulder and slight concussion. His condition this morning was stated by hospital authorities to be good.

Quance was driving a borrowed car owned by Gordon Greves of Hillcrest and he drove north on Canniton Road apparently failed to see the eastbound train approaching. As the car started to cross the tracks it was struck by the engine and bounced around against a signal post 20 feet away. The front of the car was was badly damaged.

Nine-year-old Guy said that he had seen the train at the last moment and jumped over into the back seat just as the engine struck. "The next thing I knew I was out on the grass," he said. He was thrown out of the car.

Quance was taken to hospital in Bush's Ambulance. The accident was investigated by Police Constable Bill Evans and Inspector Hayes.

30 Red MIG Jets Break Off Fight With U.S. Sabres

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Aug. 18—(AP)—Twenty-nine U. S. F-86 Sabre jets clashed with 30 red MIG jets over northwestern Korea today.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force said one MIG was damaged and that all F-86s returned safely to their bases.

The battle, 5,000 feet over Sonchon, lasted five minutes. The MIGs broke off the fight and flew north. It was the first jet-to-jet scale jet air battle since July 11.

United Nations and communist infantry fought hand-to-hand battles at both ends of the Korean battle line yesterday.

In the centre of the 140-mile front, one allied patrol probed within sight of Pyongyang, the red stronghold under enemy fire.

Chinese troops attacked in the west in the Yonchon sector, 38 miles north of Seoul. The reds were repulsed. Thirty-one Chinese were killed and 33 taken prisoner.

On the eastern end of the line, U. N. forces moved right to dislodge reds from strongly-entrenched positions northwest of Yanggu. The allies pressed their attack into hand-to-hand combat but failed to dislodge the enemy.

Fifth Air force fighter bombers hammered away at enemy rail communications.

The communist Pyongyang radio said last night that red gunners fire shot down four allied planes. There was no allied confirmation of the enemy claims.

DE BERNONVILLE SAYS HE WILL RETURN TO CANADA

Chances of Re-entering Dominion are Slim

Montreal, Aug. 18 — (CP) — Count Jacques de Bernonville yesterday voluntarily quit the country where he sought refuge from a death sentence. But he said he will be back in Canada in no time to hear whether the courts uphold the government's attempts to deport him.

The 44-year-old Frenchman, decorated for gallantry in the First World War, but condemned to death in Absentia for collaboration with the Nazis in the second, left Montreal yesterday with a one-way ticket for Caracas, Venezuela.

His departure ended a bitter, and hopeful battle he has put up since 1948 against deportation. Without papers, other than a Brazilian safe conduct recommending permanent residence in Brazil, de Bernonville's chances of re-entering the Dominion are slim.

But de Bernonville and his lawyer, Jean Lesage, said he will be back by October when the courts are expected to solve the deportation issue in Canada.

From Caracas, de Bernonville will stop over in Spain, probably before going on to Rio de Janeiro "on business for a Brazilian firm" which he has permitted to divulge."

His last words to newspaper men were: "I love Canada and Canadians."

Sentiments Not Reciprocated

His sentiments haven't been reciprocated ever since deportation proceedings were started against him in 1948. For three years he blocked them, at first by saying he feared for his life should Ottawa send him to certain death.

His death sentence was pronounced by post-war courts which he said hadn't given him a chance to defend his actions as military governor of Lyons under the Vichy regime.

The France promised him a new trial but de Bernonville still refused to leave. He remained here, working as an executive officer of an insurance firm.

One of his friends here months ago, Mrs. Blanche Monnier, was given life imprisonment for the kidnapping of Denoit which the Count assumed when he slipped into the country illegally in 1946. Now the two may have returned to their homeland.

WIFE POSTS BAIL

Ottawa, Aug. 18 (CP)—George E. Tilley, 56-year-old Toronto salesman charged with the abduction and assault of a seven-year-old Ottawa girl, has been released on $5,000 bail by his big wife.

County court Judge John P. Madden ruled the bail application acceptable despite opposition by Crown Prosecutor Fred Mercier.

Tilley's wife collapsed during the hearing and had to be revived by court attendants.

Tilley has been committed for trial in county court on both counts.

Purge of Execution Squads of Reds May be Extended to Non-Chinese

Hong Kong, Aug. 18—(AP)—Red China for the first time has ordered non-Chinese in its blood purge net, sentencing two foreign priests and a missionary plotting to kill communist leader Mao Tse-Tung last fall.

The Peiping radio yesterday denounced the two, an Italian and Portuguese, as "spies" for the United States.

It caused fears among observers in Hong Kong that the purge by Peiping's campaign against foreigners to root out the purge by execution squads may be extended to non-Chinese.

State Department in Washington and the U. S. military attache in Peiping immediately denied the charges. The red radio said the attache, Col. David D. Barrett, hired the "spies" while attache in Peiping.

"I never at any time," said Barrett at Taipeh, Formosa, "either on my own initiative or on instructions of any agency of the United States government ever attempted to assassinate or contrive the assassination of any one."

Barrett added that while in Peiping he never spent a cent on espionage activities. He left Peiping Feb. 6, 1950.

The State Department in a statement backed him up, saying any assertion that he was the "mastermind" in a plot "is utterly bare-faced lie."

Peiping radio said two of the alleged plotters, Antonio Riva, 55, Italian merchant, and Rinichi Yamamoto, 52, Japanese hotel dealer, were sentenced to death. Two other Italians, a Frenchman and a German also were free life in five years.

The radio said the plotters planned to fire a trench mortar and smaller weapons at a reception for Mao in Peiping in May, 1950, when Mao and other red big-wigs were to review a navy and air parade.

Given life sentence was Monsignor Gerardo Martina, Italian bishop of Yihsien Diocese in Hopeh Province.

The "involvement" of Martina stirred suspicion here that this may be part of a new move against missionaries, who already are being driven from red China after persecution and arrests.

Canadian Brigade Battalion Stages Raid Behind Red Lines To Get Valuable Information

With the Canadian 25th Brigade in Korea, Aug. 18 (Reuters) — A battalion of the Canadian 25th Brigade has brought back valuable information about enemy minefields, defences after a three-day raid behind the Chinese lines north of the Imjin River.

The raid cost the communists an estimated 30 to 35 killed, said Col. Robert A. Keane, of (Syracuse Avenue) Fort William, acting commander of the brigade and commander of the regiment from which the raiding battalion was chosen. Canadian casualties were negligible," he added.

Today the raiders, who prepared six miles deep in the enemy positions, were given a Brazilian safe conduct recommending permanent residence in Brazil, de Bernonville's chances of re-entering the Dominion are slim.

But de Bernonville and his lawyer, Jean Lesage, said he will be back by October when the courts are expected to solve the deportation issue in Canada.

Car Shortage Begins this Fall Says Official

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 18 (CP) — An automobile shortage beginning this fall, and lasting through 1953 was predicted yesterday by the president of Kaiser-Frazer Corporation.

"Defence money will start pouring into this fall," explained Edgar Kaiser. "The public will want to spend it."

He predicted a "knock-down, drag-out fight" between car manufacturers and the national production authority.

The N.P.A. has set the number of cars each company may produce when defence production will get under way into swing.

Claim Women Involved In 'Fix' But No Arrests

Toronto, Aug. 17—(CP)— The investigation into "fixed" races on Ontario tracks has drawn nearly a dozen men, but no women. Interest remains high on the possibility that there may be women involved.

Newspaper headlines have dealt with suspensions and arrests of jockeys, track hangers-on and a trainer, but return consistently to the possibility that a "lady in black," a checkroom girl, or some other woman may be implicated in Canada's worst horse racing scandal.

So far, no woman has been named. Mrs. Ann Galbraith, platinum-haired Betty Spencer, is free on $1,000 bail as a material witness, but she has denied interviewers yesterday that she has no knowledge of any wrong-doing.

The "lady in black", identified only as the wife of a prominent Toronto gambler, is said to have wagered $1,500 in United States funds on North Drive, long-shot winner of an allegedly fixed race at Fort Erie.

A former Toronto hotel hatcheck girl may also be involved. She is reported to have bet $600 in American funds on the same horse. All the tickets, together with the money, are said to have been seized.

Both women could be charged under Canadian foreign exchange regulations, which prohibit bets of more than $100 in United States currency by Canadian residents. Fort Erie has a modern track which accepts bets in both Canadian and United States funds.

Definitely sought by R.C.M.P. and provincial police is Johnny Perron of Fredericton, N.B., and New Toronto, Ont., identified at the commissions' hearings as the trainer of two known jockeys and the men behind the race-fixing ring.

Foreign Aid Bill Cut Drastically By the House

Washington, Aug. 18 (AP) The House approved today last night passed and sent to the Senate a $7,498,750,000 foreign aid bill, $1,001,250,000 less than President Truman had asked for helping friendly countries arm for self-protection.

Administration leaders looked to the Senate to restore a good part of the cut.

They were particularly hopeful of restoring an unexpected last-minute slice of $350,000,000, in economic aid funds for countries in Europe.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee already had lopped $940,000,000 from the original economic help.

The House left the European economic allotment at $983,000,000 instead of the $1,673,000,000 requested by the committee.

There were no House-voted reductions in other funds recommended by the Foreign Affairs Committee. This group had trimmed a total of $1,000,000,000 from the requests for military and economic assistance for Europe, Greece, Turkey, Iran, the Near East, Africa, Asia, the Pacific area and American republics allied in resistance to communism.

The cut was not as deep as many Republicans had hoped. Some had sought a three-way cut-reduction, including the committee cuts, of from $2,000,000,000 to $3,000,000,000.

Republicans argued that the economic aid funds could be used to help friendly countries, already given billions of American aid, are in a position to carry more of the load themselves.

Democrats countered with the argument European economic recovery has progressed to the point that the entire amount requested by the President would put them on a sound footing and help them get the most of their own military supplies.

TREASURE IN PILLOW

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 18—(AP) —Just why a plain feather pillow should have seemed so precious to Mrs. Ida Fischig is a mystery to Mrs. Marie Fischig, until she opened the pillow.

Then one hung on to that pillow and never give it away," were the instructions Mrs. Ida gave before she died six years ago.

Yesterday when Mrs. Fischig opened the pillow to prepare it for a new cover, out popped $1,000 in bills.

POLISH CONSUL WILL NOT HAVE TO 'PLAY' ANY MORE

Made Decision to Stay In Canada 2 Years Ago

Ottawa, Aug. 18. (CP)—Zygfryd Zimnak, latest to turn his back on the iron curtain, is a man who won't have to "play" any more.

In nearly six years in Canada as Polish consul, Mr. Zimnak said in an interview, he's been "playing". By playing Mr. Ziemiak means acting.

The 50-year-old consul, who sold Belgian engines in his home-land before the war, defected Canada Day. He made his decision to stay in Canada, he said, he felt it prudent to keep his intentions in doubt until then.

The latest purges of the high polish command clinched his decision, he explained.

Thursday, he said, he sent this message, in effect, to the Polish Affairs Minister in Warsaw:

"After these last events I don't believe I will be in the future so many duty loyally under the instructions of the present Polish government. Therefore I resign."

Although he made his decision two years ago, it was not until last Wednesday that the experienced diplomat left his post in Winnipeg, fled to Ottawa, conferred with External Affairs officials and announced his decision to make his home in Canada.

He got permission to defect from his regional office in Poland on Thursday and announced his decision yesterday on a borrowed typewriter, signed statement to The Canadian Press.

Mr. Zimnak (he pronounces it Jaimesky), fluent in French but less facile in English, described events in Warsaw during an interview in his hotel room here.

Was Not Recalled

He said he was not recalled to Polish Foreign Ministry by the new Polish government rule that all diplomatic representatives in foreign lands must spend their six weeks' holidays at home. He was due for his vacation shortly, and had planned his defection.

Mr. Ziemiak said he has no immediate plans. He wants to rest.

Government officials say he is in Canada on a six-month permit. Mr. Ziemiak said he plans to become a Canadian citizen, in this he follows the line of a number of Polish Foreign Affairs members who have left their posts in Ottawa over the past few years.

Mr. Ziemiak said he had been in the diplomatic service in Belgium, Germany, Italy and Poland. It is encourage Belgian industry in Poland. He was "well off" in Belgium. The war came under Nazi attack he became secretary-general of the Polish Red Cross and was in charge of all evacuees. He lived in Eastern Poland with the farmers for almost five years. After the war he came back to the diplomatic corps and was posted to Canada in 1946.

He watched the developments at the Polish Red Cross conference. When he saw that his former peasant friends were not to be allowed to follow their own land, he made his decision.

Iran's Rejection of British Proposals Brings Reply 'Take It or Leave It'

Tehran, Aug. 18 (Reuters) — Iran's unofficial rejection of British proposals for settlement of the oil dispute today brought a reply of "take it or leave it" from Richard Stokes of the British envoy.

The rejection was made outright by Iran officially in an English-language broadcast last night. Stokes, who left Iran, is thought here to be Iran's answer to the British minister.

Premier Iranian Minister Mohammed Mossedegh and his men sharpened the points of the official reply they will deliver later today, Stokes told reporters: "I have no alternative proposals."

But he added that he was prepared to negotiate details within the framework of the proposition he had offered to the Iranians.

He did not emphasize the need for reaching a speedy settlement," he said.

Last night's Tehran broadcast said Stokes' proposals were not use to Iran "because even a superficial study shows that the British proposals are not for accepting the aspiration of Iran to free itself from the imperialist yoke."

After the broadcast, British officials were unduly pessimistic about the outcome of Stokes' flying visit to Tehran to see Mossedegh and his government to reject the British offer.

Stokes made it clear today that Averell Harriman, President Truman's special envoy, today had been kept informed at all stages of formulation of the proposals.

"I have every reason to suppose they meet with his full approval," the British envoy declared.

Hurricane Sweeps Jamaica, Cuts Off Communications

Storm Expected to Hit Western Part of Cuba

Miami, Fla., Aug. 18. (AP)—Navy planes took off at dawn today to pick up the trial of the hurricane that apparently struck overnight at the island of Jamaica in the West Indies.

Communication with Kingston, the Jamaican capital city of 130,000 population, was lost early Friday night when the airport and radio tower were evacuated.

All efforts early today to learn how the city and the outlying banana and sugar cane lands fared in the 150-mile-an-hour punch of the storm were fruitless.

The Miami Weather Bureau's last report from the island at 7 p.m. E.D.T. said rain squalls, the usual prelude to hurricane winds, were pelting the Jamaican coast. The central eye of the storm is expected to pass the passed Kingston about 11:30 p.m.

Dangerous Storm

"This is a dangerous hurricane," the weather bureau said in an advisory.

Strongest winds were estimated by aircraft at 130 miles an hour. Hurricane force winds extended outward 80 miles in all directions from the eye and gales reached 100 miles from the centre.

The Miami weather bureau calculation placed the storm about 100 miles west of Jamaica and expected it would move northwest 20 miles an hour.

Floodwaters offered as great a threat to Jamaica as the winds. The island is mountainous and the deluge that accompanies hurricanes has caused devastating flash floods there in the past.

After Jamaica, the Cayman Islands were next in the path of the fast-travelling tropical storm. Grand Cayman Island, site of the capital, Georgetown, is the largest of the group.

From there, Grady Norton, chief storm forecaster in the Miami Weather Bureau, said it would be "in position to swing up through the Yucatan channel or into the Gulf of Mexico."

Tokyo, (Reuters)—South Japan battened down today as the typhoon season moved across the Pacific toward the island's shores.

Typhoon Ida, bounded northwest of Okinawa towards the China sea and south Japanese island of Kyushu.

United States naval headquarters here issued warnings to all Marine flying-boats and naval land-based Neptune bombers were being flown from Japan to bases further away.

All naval establishments and Japanese ships reported in the area were alerted to make vessels ready to put to sea.

The Japanese Meteorological bureau reported that the typhoon, the 15th to threaten Japan this year, was moving north-northwest at a speed of about 15 miles an hour.

Trial of Ten Opens in Jordan

Amman, Jordan, Aug. 18—(AP) — The trial of 10 persons charged with plotting the July 20 assassination of Jordan's King Abdullah opened at Antelby Camp near here today before a special military court.

The indictment against the men three of whom are relatives of King Abdullah, accused Musa Al Husseini, exiled Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, accused them of "plotting" abetting and encouraging the assassination of King Abdullah." Two of the accused are being tried in absentia, since they are living in exile.

Abdullah, one of the most powerful figures in the middle east, was slain in the Jordan-held old city of Jerusalem as he was going to the tomb of his father in the mosque of Omar. His assassin, a 21-year-old Moslem tailor who was said to be a follower of the Grand Mufti, was killed on the spot by Abdullah's bodyguard.

Father Bushra Awad, Roman Catholic secretary of the Latin patriarchate in Jerusalem, and Dr. Hussein Abdullah, a Moslem, one of the Mufti's cousins, were the first defendants to appear before the three-man tribunal. They both pleaded innocent.

The prosecutor said Abdullah al Tell, one of the two being tried in absentia, was the kingpin of the conspiracy.

Will Try Soldiers In Absentia For Slaying

Turin, Italy, Aug. 18 — (AP) — Arolde Borghese, general prosecutor of Turin province, said today an Italian court will try two former American soldiers in absentia for the slaying of their wartime commander if it is unable to bring them to Italy to stand trial.

Borghese said the former Lieut. Aldo Icardi and former Sgt. Carl E. Lucius, accused this week by the defence department in Washington as the slayers of Maj. William Holden, 36, behind lines, cloak-and-dagger drama in 1944.

Freak Accident Results in Painful Injury to Driver

Campbellford — A freak auto accident resulted in painful injuries to the driver of the car involved late Wednesday evening, when an unattended auto took off down a slight grade, and ploughed into the Campbellford Cloth Company plant.

George Rasiaub of 201 Humewood Drive, Toronto, last stopped his service station and was approached by Thomas Hall on the opposite corner to the car, to ask directions to Marmora. While he was obtaining his information the car, a 1948 model, took off and down the slight grade to the roadway, and Mr. Rasiaub ran after it, grabbed the door handle in an attempt to get inside to stop it. He was crushed the door closed, and went down a steep embankment, carrying the unlucky man with it.

Mr. Rasiaub was thrown into the air and landed against the wall of the cloth company building beside his car. He suffered arm and shoulder injuries and head lacerations. The car was badly damaged, the headlights, grill and fenders receiving the full impact of the crash. A sill was knocked out from beneath a window of the plant.

Mr. Rasiaub was on his way to Glen Allen Park, five miles from Marmora, where his wife and family are staying at a Summer cottage. He was alone in the car at the time of the accident, about 10.30 p.m.

One of Children Burned in Fire Dies in Hospital

Kingston, Aug 18 (CP) — 4-year-old Ronald Smith, one of two children burned in Friday's fire at nearby Barriefield, died in hospital early today. His two-year-old brother, Harold, who also suffered extensive injuries, remains in critical condition, hospital authorities said.

The two children and Mr. and Mrs. William Smith were burned when flames roared through the small dwelling occupied by themselves and Mr. and Mrs. Orange Fleming and their seven children.

Mrs. Running and her children escaped from the flaming house by crawling through a window when the fire blocked their exit from the downstairs door. Mrs. Running had left for work in Barriefield when the fire broke out at about 8.15 a.m.

Two years ago this month three of the Running children perished also in a fire at nearby Gananoque.

Mrs. Running, who suffered arm lacerations in the disastrous blaze, was released from hospital yesterday.

Her seven children are being helped by a neighbor, Mrs. Isobel McTavish, who said that the response of Kingstonians to an appeal for help for the destitute family had been more than generous.

Brain Specialist Tried to Revive Woman With Gin

Muskogee, Okla., Aug. 18 (AP) —A prominent brain specialist who said he attempted to revive a drugged woman patient with a slug of gin charged with manslaughter as a result of her death.

Dr. Perry E. Hewitt, Jr., a strapping white-haired father of four children yesterday was granted a 15-day continuance of his preliminary hearing originally set for Tuesday.

He pleaded innocent Thursday and asked for a quick hearing. But his lawyer requested the extension. He is free on $5,000 bail.

Hewitt, who did post-graduate work at McGill University, Montreal, is accused of drunkenly administering drugs to Mrs. Alleen Shuler, 38, of Borger, Texas, who had sought headache relief. She died in a hospital August 8 without regaining consciousness less than 24 hours after treatment.

County attorney Sy Ed Richardson said Hewitt told him he "became desperate" when Mrs. Shuler failed to revive and ordered a dram of gin which was poured down the patient's throat.

Hewitt, 47, was disclosed by D. E. Hargis, of Oklahoma City, counsel for the State Board of Medical Examiners, to have surrendered his medical license to the board three years ago.

In hospital at Matheson, 40 miles east of Timmins, are Mrs. Jean Gagnon, of St. Therese, Que., with a broken back; his brother Lucient, with cuts and bruises, and Lionel Durette of Amqui, driver of the car which was owned by Mariel, with a possible fracture of the right shoulder.

All four were employed by a lumber company in the Matheson area and were returning from a holiday spent in the Quebec City area.

H. J. Toal of Cochrane and two passengers, both women escaped injury when their small truck was struck by the Mariel car. The Mariel car was demolished after it careened 500 feet up the highway and rolled over once.

Rita Will Let Courts Decide On Payment

Paris, Aug. 18 — (AP) — Rita Hayworth's lawyer said today she has given up trying to settle her friendly financial settlement with Prince Aly Khan and will let the courts decide how much he must pay for support of baby Princess Yasmin.

Lawyer Bartley Crum said Miss Hayworth will start her divorce action against the Moslem prince "within a week or 10 days."

Neither Crum nor Aly's lawyer, Charles Toren, would say exactly what the offers and counter-offers had been in the settlement talks. Sources close to them, however, estimate that Rita had $150,000 a year in mind for the child and that Aly had offered $8,000.

Rita's decision to let the court will leave it up to a Nevada judge, where she has established residence, to decide which sum to grant for support of the child.

OWNER $19,000 AHEAD

Toronto, Aug. 18 — (CP) Right now, Angelo Renaud is $19,093 ahead of the Ontario Transportation Commission.

Mr. Renaud sold his 16 - room house and lot to the Commission for $23,000 in 1949, to make way for the Ajax Kilsew airport.

Before the wreckers arrived, the C. T. C. changed its plans and decided it needed only a 33-foot strip of the property. It asked Mr. Renaud if he wanted to buy back his house, and sold it to him for $12,500.

Gen. James Wolfe won Canada for the British in 1759, but will he capture Toronto? Stories of Famous Hymns

BENEATH THE CROSS OF JESUS

Beneath the cross of Jesus
I fain would take my stand—
The shadow of a mighty Rock,
Within a weary land, '
A home within the wilderness,
A rest upon the way,
From the burning of the noonday
tide heat,
And the burden of the day.

O safe and happy shelter,
O refuge tried and sweet,
O trysting-place where Heaven's love,
And Heaven's justice meet!
As to the Holy Patriarch
That wondrous dream was given,
So seems my Saviour's Cross to me,
A ladder up to Heaven.

Upon that Cross of Jesus,
Mine eyes at times can see
The very dying form of One,
Who suffered there for me;
And from my smitten heart with tears,
Two wonders I confess,
The wonders of His glorious love,
And my own worthlessness.

I take, O Cross, thy shadow,
For my abiding place;
I ask no other sunshine
Than the sunshine of His face;
Content to let the world go by,
To know no gain nor loss—
My sinful self, my only shame,
My glory all the Cross.

"Beneath The Cross of Jesus"

One night, in Edinburgh evangelistic meeting, Dr. Dwight L. Moody thrilled an overflow crowd with a stirring sermon on "The Good Shepherd." At its close] him also was the evangelist turned to his associate, Ira D. Sankey, and said:

"Haven't you some appropriate new hymn that you can sing for us before we go?"

Sankey remembered some verses that he had clipped, a few days before, from the "Young Folks' Corner" of an English magazine during a rail trip from Glasgow to Edinburgh. He knew no music that would fit the meter of the poem, but he decided to try an impromptu air. Then he sang:

"There were ninety and nine that are safely lay
In the shelter of the fold,
But one was out on the hills away,
Far off from the gates of gold—
Away on the mountains, wild and bare,
Away from the tender Shepherd's care."

The song stirred the hearts of all who listened and Dr. Moody welcomed may new Christians that night. A few days later, at Dundee, Mr. Sankey received a message from a young woman who had been at the Edinburgh revival.

"The hymn which you sang the other night," she wrote, "was composed several years ago by my sister, Elizabeth Clephane, death, I was not aware that it had been published until I heard you singing it."

Investigation revealed that Miss Clephane had written other hymn poems, including the one published above, which has since become almost as popular as her "Ninety and Nine."

The verses of "Beneath the Cross of Jesus" captured Mr. Sankey's fancy. He took them home with him and set up for a good part of the night, fitting them to music. When on the following morning, he sang the new hymn as a solo at a mission service, the preacher of the day was so moved by the song message that he changed his sermon theme to preach on "The Cross of Jesus."

Europe as I See It

Articles 33,
Growth of Industry,
St. Gallen, Switzerland.

Special to the Ontario Intelligencer—About the time that Jacques Cartier was in the act of exploring the St. Lawrence, Swiss craftsmen were applying their skill to a new industry — that of watchmaking.

Development was slow at first, and it was not until the 17th century that the fame of these watches began to spread. At first they had only crudely produced clocks, but the goldsmiths of Geneva took an interest in smaller clocks and watches, and did their work so well that the name of Geneva became a synonymous with good watches.

At that time watches were not only made to tell time but also to act as jewels, so that a double amount of skill was required. Today many of their first products are found in the leading museums of the world.

Some time after the industry had become established in Geneva the craftsmen of the Jura district also became interested in it and soon the older centres had been surpassed in production. However all belonging to the same craft, they aided one another, instead of engaging in private wars, dumping, cartellisation or other economic devices.

Industry Boosted

The industry was given a great boost by the discoveries of Huygehens, the famous physicist of the 17th century. Among these were inventions which made it possible to regulate the performance of clocks by a pendulum and that of watches by a hairspring. These actually formed the foundation of scientific watchmaking, and were eagerly accepted by the horologists of the time, who proceeded to develop them.

To Huygbens' hairspring a device had to be added which would automatically correct the effect of temperature variations on the steel blades of the hairspring. Harrison, an Englishman, was the first to make progress in this direction, but final success came to Berthoud, a Swiss watchmaker who had settled in Paris.

All the time that the fabrication of watches was being carried on, other craftsmen were busy in the laboratory, spending all their time trying to improve on existing models or creating new ones.

Many Discoveries

To these men go the credit for discovering many of the particular qualities for which Swiss watches are famous. One of these is the self-winding watch, which is wound by the jerking movements of the wearer. This was discovered by Perrelet in the early years of the 19th century but at first was just regarded as a curiosity and was never put into production until our time. In 1862 they brought out the chronograph or sportsman's watch, in which the second hand can be stopped and started without affecting the movement. It was also to these men that the daily variations in wrist watches were reduced to 0.15 seconds and in clocks in observatories to 0.02 seconds.

Styles Change

Styles of watches, like women's clothing, have changed radically to keep in step with the times. Before 1800 watches were generally thick and heavy; then came a complete change and they became so thin as to hinder the efficiency of the movement. During the Romantic period of literature and art, watches took on an almost feminine grace. To suit the public they had to be well ornamented with varied engravings, and were brightly colored.

Watches followed the reaction against Romanticism and became more plain with heavy cases. Afterwards came the "general" period during which each country took a particular liking to some style and taste varied considerably.

Up until the First World War the pocket watch was very much in style, but gradually disappeared in favor of the wrist-watch which is at present having its day.

Sensitive to Trends

Even with the advent of the wrist-watch, styles did not become standardized, but were continually varied and new innovations added. Some of these have been the rediscovered self-winding watch and the calendar watch. After centuries of specialization Swiss designers have become especially sensitive to the influence of fashion trends and of taste.

They are in a trade which is truly international so this sense of anticipation has enabled them to produce watches which are always in demand.

Swiss watches have been in some strange places, but the following story is said by the watchmakers to be the strangest of them all.

A farmer and his wife set off one day for the fields, their mule following patiently behind them. Before starting the work, the farmer carefully removed his watch and placed it on the ground. It so happened that mule while eating some grass, was careless enough to swallow the discarded watch.

Strange Ending

The end of the story is stranger still. The farmer's wife had noticed the incident and, step by step, she followed the mule the whole day long! She was finally rewarded for her pains and at last able to retrieve the watch. It had to be scrubbed, of course, before its sojourn in the mule's digestive organs, but as soon as it was wound, began to run as before! Only the leather strap had come to harm, for the mule had digested it.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

by WINIFRED V. WILSON

Our fun with the American mergansers began early in July, when we first spied 13 very small ducklings paddling down the lake after their big mother. However, long before that we knew mergansers were living in a chimney of rocks just a trifle back from the water line, 75 yards or so from our wharf.

In mid-May Mr. and Mrs. kept flying low over the lake, their long white bodies held horizontally. Occasionally he flew alone, his very dark green head showing up to contrast to his white neck; at other times we recognized the female because of her reddish-brown, crested head and large, square, white wing-patch.

It was interesting to watch them catching their dinner near the shore. Diving under the water they used both feet and wings for the sake of speed, and came up several yards away, grasping a chub or a sucker in their slender, cylindrical bills. Fishing is made easy for mergansers because their bills have toothlike edges, and the upper section ends in a sort of hook. The slippery prey cannot escape.

Their favorite time for talking was early morning and late evening, when their quacks sounded like distant barking. One morning in late June Mr. Merganser gave quite an exhibition of quacking and flying in circles over the roof of the cottage, so low that we could hear the swish of the silvery-lined wings and plainly see his peach-colored breast.

Swim Early

Baby Mergansers are able to swim as soon as they break through their creamy buff shells, but they require help at mealtime and protection. Our mate had deserted, all duties fell on mother. "Quack, quack," she called, and they answered, "West west," as they followed her over the surface of the lake, the whole fifteen strung out in a row, bobbing along like waveless. Their backs shone silver in the sun, their heads red, as their mother's. When motor boats came too close she gathered the family, and herded them ahead of her, guiding them gradually to a secluded bay. There she taught them fishing. First one little head disappeared under water, then another.

By August 15 mother had left, but the 13 still kept together. In mid-September their numbers had been reduced to seven. By September 18, they had separated, and for the first time we saw one rise from the lake carrying a fish. The young mergansers were almost full size, and had become independent.

THE BELLEVILLE FAIR IN RETROSPECT

Now that the Belleville Fair has concluded its activities for another year perhaps it would be well to review some phases of the program with the thought in mind that improvements could be made for 1952. The fair is getting to be a big business and with an attendance of between thirty and forty thousand people. To keep crowds of this size entertained requires good organization and planning and nowhere are the results more apparent than before the grandstand.

This year the fair officials obtained the best acts that they have ever had, but the performance was delayed by judging of horses before the grandstand during the afternoon. This delayed the horse races and stage performance unnecessarily. In fact practically half the stage show was curtailed which was most unfortunate. There are many people who go to see the horses, but judging them in front of the grandstand should not be permitted. Most grandstand spectators go to see the stage performance and are bored beyond measure watching something they do not understand and care less about.

Actually, there should be a judging ring for horses in another part of the grounds where there would be no interference with other features of the fair program. There the judges could take their time and those interested in watching the judging could spend as much time as they wished. In fact it would not be too costly to erect a small bleachers stand at the horse ring for the accommodation of those spectators who enjoy this part of the show.

Good timing is the first essential in running off any program for there should be no dragging out of the show. Acts of every description should be alternated and one should be ready when the other stops. We believe this can be done and it would add immeasurably to the enjoyment of the show. The stand seats are not too comfortable and the afternoon's performance should not last more than three hours.

Construction of new cattle barns will greatly improve the livestock display. Wednesday night's rain left large pools of water beside the stalls so that it was impossible to get to the animals, unless one had on long rubber boots. Until the above is a reality a few loads of gravel on the low areas would do much to eliminate the mudhole.

It would also be good business on Mr. Conklin's part if he insisted that all his midway food sale booths being dressed in clean white uniforms, and that their places of operation were kept as clean as possible. There is no excuse for untidiness and there was no inducement for fair customers to patronize these booths. There was only one booth that pretended to any showing of neatness and that was the one selling ice cream and ice cream waffles and this man did a good job. It was too bad that the others did not follow his example.

On the credit side we would like to mention the excellent livestock and horse shows particularly the hackneys, carriage horses and roadsters. There was also a good showing of heavy draught stallions.

The display of poultry, swine and sheep were exceptionally good. The flower showing was excellent, but the vegetable display was only fair probably because it is too early in the season for them to be at their best. Great credit is due the women's institutes and their fine display of dressed booths and to the Department of Lands and Forests for their interesting exhibit which included a pair of fawns and a doe. Car and implement dealers also went to a lot of trouble to put on a good showing and their displays were unusually large.

Belleville Fair is a credit to the men who direct its activities. It means tremendous trouble for them and the fact that the fair is now one of the largest of its size ("B" Class) in Ontario testifies to the excellence of the staff of the best. Messrs. Rollins, Denyes, Bleecker, and their efficient board of directors are deserving of congratulations for their efforts on behalf of the fair. It was a difficult task well done.

NEWSROOM SHIRTS STIR EDITOR

Saturday was a hot day and, as we walked on to our office desk, it suddenly occurred to us that a lot of our male colleagues in the news room were wearing some pretty fancy sport shirts.

That was one chap on the news desk, for example, who had a sort of mahogany brown shirt with little bars scattered all over it about as big as king-sized cigarettes.

On the sports desk, one of those big outdoorsy fellows who prefers plaid lumbering shirts was wearing a flamboyant shirt featuring a lot of little aurora borealises on a field of orange.

Also, there was an office boy whose shirt was decorated with rose hibiscus blossoms interlaced with what looked like purple orchids on a bright green background. There were three other highly articulate sport shirts which we shall not even attempt to describe except to say that a sort of vigorous cerise dominated them all.

The women folks have been talking quite a bit this season about the unimaginative male and his summer servitude to drab and dreary fashions. About all we can say to this, after our eye-titillating walk through a veritable blooming garden of mushroom sport shirts, is balderdash and nonsense.—Minneapolis Tribune.

TO THE YOUNG

We're told we've failed by leaving you
So much to learn, so much to do
And yet our fathers thought that they
Had failed us in the self-same way.

They did their best for liberty.
Fought for a peace that couldn't be.
They tried to solve the problems all,
That none of them on us should fall.

Yet when a father leaves his son
With not one task that must be done,
Or all to reach, no loss to fear,
He robs him of his own career.

Youth, when the last of us has gone
Start with our tasks you carry on,
Remember, for the right we won
In freedom's cause did all we could.

WHAT WERE UP AGAINST

The communists have a philosophy, a program, a passion.

Look at these three factors. They have a philosophy. And their policy is to despoil the prudent, to ruin all legal authority, to get power into their own hands, and to deceive the populace into believing that they are doing all this only for themselves but for the beloved common people.

Their program is always to have on hand plenty of stout clubs, a pistol or two, and to call in the scientists to administer habitual forming drugs in order to get a "confession" from someone they have kidnapped. They believe in coercion and compulsion. They are quite sure that slave labor is profitable. They are willing to give up butter—and they still, have somebody else give it up—in order that they may accumulate armament ad infinitum; or perhaps strong munitions which have for the while to fight.

Their passion is love for the fact that they know what they want, they have no scruple about getting what they want and they live in a world filled with disinterested men who are willing to listen to their siren melodies.

Democracy has the truth, but often it does not have the philosophy or the program or the passion to implement the truth.

THE PACKSACK
By GREGORY CLARK

In most of our Canadian tobacco stores there is a pretty liberal display of pipes in the windows and in the show cases. But you do not very commonly see Canadians smoking pipes. The odd youth, smoking a pipe as he might show his muscles; the odd old timer smoking his pipe as though it were a violin he was playing.

In London and the country generally, the tobacconist is on every corner, and three or four times in every block. They are not the red garish cigar stores of Canada. There is a cernonious staidness among the English tobacco shops, the windows are dominated by black and gold, the bottom shelf are some china bowls each containing in loose form a liberal sample of the various kinds of tobacco on sale within. In the next shelf up are some pipes, of a quality to grain and shape calculated to appeal to the connoisseur of pipes. Above that shelf, and at eye level, are cigarettes, cigarette cases, lighters and they vie of the smoking are. The real business is there on the bottom shelf, in those bins of loose pipe tobacco, golden, alluring.

You see pipe smokers at all levels. The prime minister is a pipe smoker, and so is your aged taxi driver. The hotel porter, in his little hall cubicle, and arrayed in maroon and gold, moodily sits aside his light and hidden lower shelf when you approach to ask him a question.

Of course, there are cigarette smokers in British by the million. They may indeed be the inventors of fags. But fags are too expensive for them now. They have to adopt the pipe. And with the pound at $3, they pay from 55 to 70 cents for one measly ounce, half a dozen pipefuls of the kind, seductive stuff.

OUR TOWN
BY JACK SCOTT

The Sharpeners

P. T. Barnum put it pretty bluntly when he opined that there's a sucker born every minute. H. L. Mencken framed another when he observing that nobody ever went broke underestimating the intelligence of the American public.

Both remarks came to mind yesterday when a bookseller or my acquaintance reported an astonishing trend in astrology literature.

The two hottest numbers in the magazine racks in this year of madness are paperback books on chorus girls and literature for bird-fanciers who look to the stars to guide their silly little lives. The world is truly in bad shape.

The latest type publication, of course, is as old as time. This certainly surprisingly enough has no monopoly on ignorance.

From the days when the Roman soothsayers peeked about in a most unsanitary way among the entrails of birds in order to get a quick peep into the future, there's always been enough vain fools to keep a keep and a self-appointed voodoo man in the chips.

There are two basic and fortune-tellers, tea cup readers, crackers with second sight, inventors, seventh sons and seventh sons of seven bear gleam, readers with their palms and stargazers, in most categories with a striking edge for women.

The stargazers form the most baffling cult of all; playing a willing game for the double-talking Svengali.

Sometimes one or more of these moth-brains get the enjoyment there is a fluttering of borosope readers and a strange gibberish involving capricorns and aquarius. The astrologer will then guide them in their activities, such as a business deal involving $1,000 or the purchase of a load of manure or a major decision, like the desirability of wearing a girdle on Thursday.

Mumbo-Jumbo

The astrology racket, like that of Father Penitent in the movies, plays a very special kind of jargon. Willa Cather once observed that if you can't dazzle 'em, use words they quite often mistake it for a new idea and this is clearly the case in this present instance.

World Astrology Magazine, for example, which is among those getting a brief look, endeavors to define its gimmick in the following jargonese:

"Astrology is the rainbow key that unlocks the doorway to understanding of each cosmic spiritual quest. It forges your relationship with the universe and is the source of knowledge to use your latent resources and spiritual bounty. Astrology is the passport of the infinite meadows of true happiness through self-understanding."

Pigs in the rainbow key; two bits, plus tax.

There are now more than a dozen similar books catering to this revival of an appetite for dunk and even the newspapers offer a daily horoscope in their pursuance of the policy that anything justified if somebody wants it.

I once encountered in the flesh one of the originators of such syndicated newspaper garbage, a gent of advanced alcoholic tendencies who had been a monumental failure at everything until he discovered the rainbow key to the public's gullibility.

The fact that this unbalanced fellow, preaching palaced hatred for cosmic bulletins, might have had an influence on the lives of some innocent yahoo is either enormously comic or downright alarming, depending on your sensitivities.

It does seem true that in the advanced stages of mental disease, the sufferers are adrift without their gay's "reading" and like the addict they'll keep on at any cost. The result is to rob the victim of self-control. And therein lies the danger of the hoax.

For the Kro

The astonishing successe of the pitch at the moment doubtless reflects the insecurity of these times New York, Pennsylvania, Ontario or Michigan maple syrup and coffee that has been conjured from the boiling, I'd still hesitate to accept your invitation.

In addition other—individuals—you hear a fishwife yarn that has been conjured from the sone coincidence and embroidered fancifully in the constant repetition, and you'll find it impresses your alleged mind more than the countless instances where the expectant father had no morning sickness.

The trouble with you, M. C. Geek, is that you know so many things that ain't so.

If you ask a hundred million other Americans like you had had a fair break in school you would know better than to even think you do about the marking superstition. An elementary knowledge of human embryology the growth and development of a human baby from conception up to the time of birth, you would be able to see the absurdity of the old-wives' tales of "marking."

It is with the wish to enlighten young married persons about embryology, childbirth and care of the baby that I prepared the booklets Preparing for Maternity and The New Ready Baby Book. For either booklet send 25 cents and stamped self-addressed envelope. I hope every young couple who send for the maternity booklet will study it together. Common Sense in Dieting Pays Off

Probably thousands of women like myself have tried a diet—and every good intention— succumb to temptation—never achieving the goal. Surely all know about the common sense in the regimen in the booklet, Diet Wisely. It has made me a happy woman! —(Mrs. J. K. S.).

Common sense built you. Ma'am. Any woman, for that matter any man who wants to know about diets may have stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for the booklet. How to Lose Weight. Here's a suggestion to fatheads. It took a year, more or less, to acquire those pounds. Taking slacker flesh, that corporation, that handicap you carry, you can't lose it in a week or of it in a matter of days—not without sacrificing your health, good looks, and indeed your happiness too.

The Jitters

Would the fact you recommend for examination jitters keep a person who is very nervous from being able to be used regularly right along? (Senaca, Ill.).

Answer— No, I do not advise habitual use of any kind of medicine. The habit, to prevent night fright of examination jitters should be taken for days or perhaps two or three weeks before the ordeal. For instructions send for booklet, self-addressed envelope and ask for Examination Jitters and Stage Fright— and please remember that even after the examination or performance, how much the prophylactic helped you.

WHAT? WITH MASHED POTATO?

New York reader writes:

"Stop in some morning and have breakfast with me. I can make as good pancakes as anyone and we have just as good buckwheat flour as that you tell about from another mill."

Come, now, that can't be drive over to the great Birkett Mills, Penn Yan, N.Y., at the foot of the gem of the finger lakes, Lake Keuka, for ten pounds of the world famous Prize Buckwheat flour when you are in earnest about buckwheat cakes—yeast raised, of course. Otherwise you might as well invite me to join you in a mashed potato gargle.

"I want to tell you of two families where the household morning sickness but the wives did not suffer.

"And I'd like to hear your explanation of the reason why doctors, with an opinion they can't be marked, I know better and so do you.

"Six o'clock by real time and not the fast time that some fools would substitute just to fool the children, is breakfast time."

Man, even if you guaranteed to take only 100 grains of Prize Buckwheat flour delivered from Birkett Mills yesterday, battered up with a little overnight, and promised unlimited quantities of country butter and prime New York, Pennsylvania, Ontario or Michigan maple syrup and coffee that has been conjured from the boiling, I'd still hesitate to accept your invitation.

Wolfe Stormed Quebec in 1759 And Raises Awful Fuss in 1951

By E. J. ANDERSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Aug. 18 (CP) — Gen. James Wolfe stormed Quebec in 1759 and raised an awful fuss in Toronto in 1951.

The subject of controversy in the "Battle of University Avenue," rests in a Brooklyn sculptor's studio. Two-thousand-five 10-foot bronze figure worth, at the price of metal these days, $30,000 or more.

Is the hero of Quebec worthy of a place on Toronto's "Statue Parade"? Should he be? Is he worth $38,000?

Toronto is patriotic. It has tons of General statesmen scattered about its parks to testify to that. Nevertheless, the question is taken more than 20 years and some $38,000 to effect. Changes now apparent from Front Street to College.

The statue of Wolfe is $5,000. Hauling him here from New York will cost $3,000. A suitable granite base will cost $30,000. The over all cost would just about set up the splendid equestrian statue" as it has been called by one columnist as debate waxed hotly over the newspapers this week. Came off a Manhattan building. Plans are to make Toronto might look like the 60-year-old statue of what sculptor Emmanuel Hahn called "the first to militarist clothes." Mayor Hiram McCallum talked to the Board of Control last morning its purchase as an Avenue showpiece.

Yet to be Convinced

But city council, which can overrule the board, has yet to be convinced that the "hunk of beat-up bronze," as some call it, is a bargain at the price. After all, Toronto already has at least two likenesses of Wolfe not far from the avenue. Besides, was Wolfe ever in Toronto?

University Avenue, intended to be the showplace of the city. Beautiful, four blocks west of Yonge Street, once was a quiet, shady street of stately homes. Majestically trees. They fell before the ax as the city's commercial life pushed north. Now the 45-foot-wide roadways separated by a wide boulevard of sun-kissed grass, the envy of many cities from Holland at $4.50 each) and flowering shrubs, rainbow ahead. The trees and pots cost some $20,000.

Lined with hospitals, clubs, the United States Consulate and headquarters of scientific corporations, it also has a collection of parking lots and rundown shacks. Right up date back to before the birth of Mary Pickford. (Faithful follower of fads that they were put up a statuette of HER on the University Avenue site of her birthplace).

The discussion over Wolfe is occupying as much space on the front pages as 1950's battle of the bulge. Everyone, except birds and dogs, who might be considered as having special interest in the problem, has voiced his opinion. Even the splendid Grandfather Elm trees, maple trees, and fruit trees have talked of is a grandiose beautification plan that was to make Toronto might look like the 60-year-old statue of what sculptor Emmanuel Hahn called "the first to militarist clothes." Mayor Hiram McCallum talked to the Board of Control last morning its purchase as an Avenue showpiece.

sported by Mr. Hahn positively quivered as he exploded:

"When you're not sure whether you want the damned thing or not, it's a pity to occupy a site that might be used for something more appropriate."

TODAY'S TALK
By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THIS FRIENDLY EARTH

God's life is written, chapter by chapter in nature. No book on theology ever written is so explanatory, so simple; so open to the understanding. The beauty, ingness about every created thing whether tree, animal, or flower. It is true that there is constant desh in nature, but this death is always associated with something else. Life goes on.

There is an intimacy about the life in nature that is not explained from no other place. This earth is a friendly place. Walk over its woodsy, mossy paths in the forest, listen to the song of the birds as it brushes through and touches, ever so gently, every needle and leaf of pine and hemlock, oh what inspiration! Richard Jeffries threw himself upon the carpet of the earth, looked up into the sky and there composed that beautiful book of his "The Story of My Heart."

I am sure every lover of nature, and all its works continually finds that he has something of himself woven and melted into the whole. He never walks his footsteps fall, and from whose bosom rises and falls the breath of beauty. How significant that dedication in "The Road-mender" by Michael "Fairless." It is true that there is to Earth, My Mother, Whom I Love."

No tonic ever suggested by a physician is so effective with the tonic of the wild and all that it has. It puts that into one's soul a receptive mind and heart, and an appreciative spirit. Every time I go into the forest I feel at the moment of flowers I feel I have taken into my hands an understanding friend.

W. H. Hudson, the naturalist, who spent his early life in the Argentine would be at his prime and ride for miles into the pampas. Those wonderful books of his years later he put into masterful prose, and into books that will always live, such as "Green Mansions," "The Purple Land," and "Far Away and Long Ago."

This friendly earth is always sympathetic. It helps us to understand ourselves and to love our other people. Its poetry and prose intermingle. If we are of it we are in tune with the Infinite!

Curator Looking For Member Of Historical Society

Toronto (CP)—Ronald Way, curator of Kingston's Old Fort Henry, is in a high dudgeon.

He's looking for Spencer Armitage-Stanley of Toronto, a member of the Ontario Historical Society and also of the London and Middlesex Historical Society.

Last July 5 Mr. Armitage-Stanley wrote a letter to Mayor Hiram McCallum which Thursday night was finally read to the Toronto Historical committee — a committee advisory to the city council.

Mr. Armitage-Stanley congratulated the council on its $300,000 appropriation for the restoration of Toronto's Fort York. In passing, he mentioned that he hoped that Toronto would not repeat the "glaring errors" in restoring its fort that Kingston had done with Fort Henry.

Fort Henry was built in 1838 and was intended originally as a bastion against possible American attack.

Occupied by imperial troops through most of the last century, it was restored four years ago to its condition of 1866 and opened to the public as a tourist attraction.

Parts of Mr. Armitage-Stanley's letter were published—including a charge that period uniforms now worn by soldiers now on guard at the fort were made of "cheap" material.

Hackles rose on necks all over Kingston.

Mr. Way, visiting in Toronto, got on the phone to the editor of the Kingston Whig-Standard.

"Glaring errors!" he snorted. "Demurrol!

"The uniform worn by soldiers at the fort today are identical with those worn by the original Imperial troops.

"They're made of scarlet broadcloth, manufactured in England.

"And as for the fort itself, I defy anyone to put his finger on one thing that is not authentic in the restoration . . . or in the uniforms of the men."

Church Does Not Approve of Action Of Parish Priest

Montreal, Aug. 18—(CP)—Magr. Paul-Emile Leger, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Montreal, Friday said "the church does not approve" of the alleged burning by a priest of mail addressed to Baptists in the Rouyn-Noranda district.

Magr. Leger issued a statement commenting on newspaper reports which quoted postal inspector W. L. Gagne as saying Rev. Jean Roy, a Roman Catholic priest, admitted burning religious pamphlets mailed to Baptists.

"The Archbishop of Montreal wishes to inform the faithful of his diocese that the church does not approve such methods (providing that the statements of the press really correspond to the facts) and he calls upon all the people of good will not to implicate the whole church in a culpable act of one of its members, even though he may be a minister of religion."

FIGHT OVER MONEY

Port Arthur, Aug. 18 — (CP)— Ivar Karvonen, 58, was remanded Friday for eight days for preliminary hearing on a charge of murder in connection with the fatal shooting earlier Friday of John Puralainen, 32-year-old Stapetone district farmer.

Puralainen was shot to death in Karvonen's shack at Stapetone, 12 miles north of here, Karvonen gave himself up voluntarily.

Police said they were told the shooting occurred during a fight over money.

A STEP FORWARD IN CANCER RESEARCH

One of first radioactive cobalt units produced in Canada has been installed in University of Saskatchewan hospital, Saskatoon, now under construction, by Chalk River atomic energy plant. The small piece of precious metal, equivalent to 2,000 grams of radium, or a 2,000,000-volt X-ray machine, will be used in deep therapy treatment at the university hospital. Photo shows Dr. H. E. Johns, physicist to the Saskatchewan Cancer Commission, using a radiation meter, a type of geiger counter, to measure the radiation enclosed in the thick, lead walls of the container. Container at right in which radioactive metal was shipped from Chalk River weighed a ton, a necessary precaution to protect its handlers from the deadly rays. Lloyd Bates, left, University of New Brunswick graduate, assisted Dr. Johns in designing unit to contain radioactive cobalt. (CP Canadian.)

Police Hold Man As Witness In Rifle-Slaying

Joliette, Que., Aug. 18—(CP)—Provincial police are holding Jean Pelletier, 23, as a material witness to the rifle - slaying last night of a man named Lewery, 27, at St. Felix de Valois near this Laurentian town about 45 miles north of Montreal.

Police said the two were neighbors and had not been friendly for several years.

Police said there was an argument. Pelletier allegedly drew a small revolver and Lewery told him to "beat it and go home." Police said Pelletier did but came back minutes later with a rifle and shot Lewery in the stomach.

Lewery died two hours later.

Police found Pelletier asleep at home and said "he was definitely under the influence of liquor."

Ground Party Reaches Wreck, 12 Crew Men Dead

Anchorage, Alaska, Aug. 17 (AP) — Ground parties reached the wreckage of a navy PB4-Y-2 Privateer bombing plane on the slopes of lonely Amak Island off the northern Alaska peninsula coast yesterday and reported all 12 crew members dead.

The plane vanished Sunday on a routine mission from Kodiak toward Adak Island in the mid-Aleutians.

The four-engined plane apparently exploded as it crashed. Flames seared an area of about 100 feet.

Meanwhile low clouds hampered search for bush pilot Glen Hudson and his three passengers overdue since Wednesday night to Wolford Lake 170 miles northeast of here.

Cleaner Combines Aim at 1st Place Down B.M.C. 6-5

Cleaner Combines kept their hopes for a first-place tie with Bakelite in the Commercial Softball League AA standing alive last evening when they snatched a thrilling 6-5 win from the strapped Bellerville Motor Car.

Peter Jones' great defensive work in the bottom of the ninth inning saved the game for Cleaners as the Motormen staged what looked like the winning rally. With Callaghan and Stone aboard on hits Dick Thomson grounded to first base. Jones bluffed Callaghan back to third then tagged Thomson for the first out. Callaghan made his try for the plate but Jones' throw to James nailed him on the way in. Hatfield then grounded to Jones who made a great play to get him at first.

Jack Holmes, who slow-balled the Motormen to death, was nicked for nine hits but was very effective in the clutches. He walked one and struck out seven.

Cleaners opened the scoring in the first inning with a single tally on two singles and two walks. They added another in the third on Pete Jones' bases-empty home run to centre field.

Motors Lead

Motor Car took the lead in the bottom of the third when they pushed across three runs on a double, two singles and a three base error by the rightfielder.

The lead did not last long, however, as the Cleaners came back with a three -run surge in the fourth on a double and Dr. Rushle's double. They added their final run in the fifth on an error, a single and a fielder's choice.

Motor Car scored twice in the sixth on two errors, a wild pitch, a walk and a single.

Stone did the firing for Bellville Motor Car and over the route walked four, struck out five and gave up 12 hits for six runs.

Best at the plate for Motor Car was shortstop Miller with two singles in three tries. Bone had two for four. For the winners Bunton had two for three, and James, Mulvihill, and DeRushle each had two for five.

Lineup:

Cleaner Combines: James c; Mulvihill ss; DeRushle 2b; Jones 1b; York cf; Bunton lf; Young 3b; Draycott rf; Holmes p.

Bellerville Motor Car: Thomson cf; Hatfield 3b; Walsh lf; Bone c; Miller ss; Tapp 2b; Storms rf, replaced by Bland in 9th; Callaghan 1b; Stone p.

St. Thomas, Aug. 18 (CP) — Western Ontario's corn crop looks good to N. R. Martin, vice-president of the Canadian Holstein-Friesian Association. On his return from the annual meeting of the dairy farmers of Canada in Quebec, he said that the crops here are the best he's seen.

HEAVY CROP PROMISED

St. Thomas, Aug. 18 (CP) Heavy crops of most of the popular varieties of apples are promised in this district, orchard men say. The relatively cool summer, however, has caused many of them to lack color. Some scab is expected to affect the fruit.

TRIPLET CALVES BORN

Guelph, Aug. 18 (CP) — One of the rarest events in stock farming occurred recently on the farm of Joe Hasson, at nearby Arisa. Triplet calves were born to one of his cows and, to make the event even rarer, all three are heifers.

THE BEARDED IRIS

The tall bearded irises in their gorgeous, delicate and illusive coloring provide, in combination with late May and June perennials, a garden display that is most gratifying. Four perennials blooming at this time form the mainstay of the garden border. These are yellow day lilies, oriental poppies, columbine and peonies.

Plant during the late summer in well drained soil in full sun. Water sparingly and give occasional applications of bone meal.

MARIO ... in his distinctive feature about FOOD ... What's Cooking?

Tomatoes dislike indoor life. The tomatoes which are grown in hot houses during the fall and winter months only half the vitamin C found in the field tomatoes now in plentiful supply everywhere.

Home grown or country tomatoes also have the thin silky skin and the sweet firm meat which makes them particularly good for stuffing. The skin is easily removed by dipping in a hot water bath for about 1-2 minute. A hole or cavity can be made in the tomato by scooping out the insides with a sharp grapefruit knife.

The stuffing should be piled high and then the top slice of tomato placed on the stuffing.

The tomatoes, the stuffing and even the serving plate should be ice cold. Any salad mixture may be used for stuffing a tomato. In today's egg salad recipe, deviled ham is the main flavoring ingredient.

Tomatoes Stuffed with Egg and Deviled Ham Salad. Serves 4.

4 large tomatoes
1 medium size cucumber
4 hard boiled eggs
1 cup diced celery
3 tablespoons deviled ham
1-2 cup mayonnaise
Salt—pepper
1 teaspoon lemon juice
Lettuce leaves
Ripe olives

Bring a large pot of water to a boil. Lower the tomatoes in the boiling water for 1-2 minute. Wash in cold water. With a small paring knife peel the tomato skin. Cut a thin slice off the end of each tomato opposite the stem. Remove inside of the tomatoes with a grapefruit knife or a spoon. Cut the tomato pulp into dice.

Peel and slice the cucumber. Cut the hard boiled eggs into dice.

In a mixing bowl combine the tomato pulp, eggs, celery, deviled ham, mayonnaise and lemon juice. Mix well. Add salt and pepper to taste.

Put the egg mixture into the hollow of each tomato. Place the tomato cap on top. Place each tomato on lettuce leaves on serving plates. Arrange the cucumber slices and ripe olives around the tomatoes.

Singer Fond Of Spiced Dishes

Toronto, Aug. 18. (CP) —All sorts of spices have a place on the kitchen shelves of Maria d'Attili, for the pert black-haired concert singer is of Spanish background and has the typical Latin love of highly seasoned dishes.

Here for a singing engagement with an open-air operatic and musical comedy group, Maria said she collects recipes wherever she goes. But in her New York apartment or at her parents' home in San Juan, Puerto Rico, she specializes in the Latin dishes.

Such familiar spices as cloves, cinnamon, pepper and saffron are backed up by a variety of others, including Oregano and Rosmarine, and she says the liberal use of garlic, herbs, wines, olive oil and butter.

Maria, wife of concert pianist Glauco d'Attili, says one of her favorite dishes is chicken and rice. Another is "pasteles", a sort of Puerto Rican pie made from tropical vegetables and meat and wrapped in banana leaves.

She also makes Spanish "pastelillos", small fried triangular pastries filled with chopped meats, herbs, onions, peppers, eggs and sometimes almonds, raisins or melted cheese.

When she cooks a turkey she says it is inside and out with garlic, egg, salt and oregano, leaves it for 24 hours and then repeats the performance. Her favorite stuffings are chestnut or rice with a little each meat and giblets chopped into it.

Use the pretty garlic with a tiny bit of sugar in her salads but says "I have to be very careful not to bathe in it before rehearsals with my leading man."

English Statue Of Nude Maiden Stirs Argument

Welwyn, Hertfordshire, Eng.—(CP)—The 500-pound statue of a buxom nude christened 'Dawn' has emerged into the limelight of controversy after reposing in the darkness for two years.

The statue by the 57-year-old sculptor David Evans represents a young girl stretching her arms above her head, her eyes drowsy with sleep. A group of local art lovers in 1949 purchased it for £150 and presented it to the district council for public show.

But so far it has never been exposed to the public's gaze.

Henry Willard, deputy clerk of the council, said there was a great danger it might be disfigured by high-spirited youths if put outdoors. So it was moved to the darkest corner of the council chamber.

There councillor G. Dickson protested that the statue was very much out of place there. It was fit only for a garden pool, he contended, but if left in the darkness it should be turned towards the wall.

It Had to Go

The council finally agreed that "Dawn" must go and appointed a special committee to find her a permanent home.

Meanwhile, sculptor Evans is none the less pleased about the rumpus.

"I wish the town had never bought the statue," he said. "Some people might call it indecent but I think it is a very beautiful thing. It was modelled from my imagination."

The action of the council members made it clear they didn't like it, he said, "I can only object, however, that their action is shaily over where to put it is bringing my work into ridicule."

Air Hostesses Prefer Career

Johannesburg, Aug. 18—(CP)—South Africa's aerial glamor girls apparently prefer the adventures of their flying career to settling down in matrimony.

Contrasted with the trend in airline overseas, a relative who addresses on the state-owned African Airways don't often leave their jobs to get married. A recent report showed that only 15 out of 50 resigned to get married in the last three years.

The report said this rate was below the average "wastage" official term for personnel losses, in government departments employing women.

Miss Alma Wright, 34, who has been on the airline for several years, is assistant social adjustment of the girls when asked about this. "I haven't finished having a good time," she said.

Woman Expert On Fine Glass

London, Aug. 18 (CP) —The major restoration work of the ancient Chapter House in Westminster Abbey was the responsibility of Miss Joan Howson, daughter of a former Archdeacon of Liverpool. She is one of the country's leading experts on stained glass windows.

Visitors to the beautiful Chapter House where England's first parliaments sat have to wear slippers over their shoes for fear of scratching the precious wooden paving. It took Miss Howson and her staff of five men and three women total of two years to glaze the four great windows of the Chapter House, as well as cleaning and repairing the fifth window and the windows of the vestibule.

Miss Howson climbed high scaffolding to do this work, in which she is now in her 60 years of age. The old Victorian glass that was damaged in air raids made the Chapter House a gloomy place at the best, but thanks to her skill the famous shrine now is much brighter.

SISTERS ALL

By JEAN LOVE GALLOWAY

SCREEN NEWS

What ever has happened to many of our movie theatres that they no longer present a newsreel along with the usual extra shorts? It used to be that whether the movie fillers were good or terrible you could count on seeing a brief but fine presentation of the world news of the week. We understand that most movie house managers are given pretty much of a free hand in selecting the shorts for their own theatres and that it is up to the local manager just how much of which short films is seen. If this is the case, a lot of theatre managers are completely abandoning the traditional newsreel.

Strikes us this skipping of news film is a trend in the wrong direction. It may be that theatre operators have concluded that their audiences do not want to see the news, that the people would far rather look at one of those noisy orchestra fillers or fashion featurettes. Then again, it may be that some of us are hungry for news reels don't speak up and let the theatre managers know that we go for news in a big way.

Quick Enjoyment

It is true that in Canadian theatres audiences seldom burst into hearty applause at the sight of the King or the Prime Minister or the perfect swing of the golf champ. But this is no reason to say the people aren't enjoying it.

Not so many years ago, most of the news reels shown here were either from the U.K. or the U.S. Seldom were the shots of real interest to the Canadian theatre goer. The speech of an unknown American senator or the opening of the cricket season in England were never terribly important to Jack Canuck. But now that so much Canadian news reel film is produced by Canadians for our consumption, it seems a shame that this kind of film is not getting to our people. We think the people like it, and want it.

Cheese News Clues

The nightly national news roundup which follows CBC's national commentary stands out as a wide and responsive audience. Many listeners think this particular 15 minutes following the final news is the best bit of radio they hear, it is a pity that a similar news roundup is not presented at the theatre, along with the more significant highlights of international news.

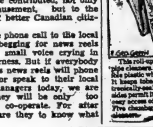
Not long ago, we saw a movie showing how the various community theatre managers were in their own communities, how the theatre was the centre of entertainment today and how much the theatre contributed, not only to the amusement, but to the making of better Canadian citizens.

Our one phone call to the local manager begging for news reels will be a small voice crying in the wilderness. But if everybody who wants news reels will phone or write or speak to their local theatre managers today, we are willing to say we'll be only happy to co-operate. For after all, how are they to know what we want if we don't ask for it.

Prepared for Death?

Hiring over Niagara Falls in a barrel may come as a tremendous thrill to the male members of the Hill family. But the person with whom our thoughts have been is the stricken mother. Not so long ago, she was the stricken wife, in many ways she is the real victim of the men who are possessed with the idea of this useless suicidal plunge.

The knowledge that her other son, a private in the Canadian Army, has been persuaded to cancel his plan to follow his brother and father over the Falls shortly, must surely have come as the buffer to the last blow this poor woman could stand.



Perhaps Mrs. Hill and little sons people think of those who will be left behind and how cruel the problems they leave for weaker shoulders to bear. So theatre goer, the speech of the one sentence of the press report of the tragedy—the sentence which told that some of Hill's wrecked barrel are being sold to help with the funeral expenses.

Uncle Frontenac says that seems a hard enough way for a man was an economic necessity. Aunt Theala tells him that with the high wages of factory-girls, a wife comes much, much cheaper these days than ever before.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

He's Lost His Job—Is He Still Interested?
He's Stopped Coming Around

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 19, and have been going steady with a young man of 21 for the past three years. That is, we were going steady until a couple of months ago when he lost his job.

Naturally, since then he has had to be very careful of his money and hasn't been able to take me out the way he used to, so he gradually began to see less and less of me until lately he hasn't been coming around at all. I go to the movies and other places by myself, and so does he. When he does see me, he tries to act as though he hadn't seen me at all.

We were planning to get married soon, and after he left his job, I told him money didn't matter and I could help out by keeping on working awhile. I said I loved him enough to stay home evenings, or just go for a walk and do other things that didn't cost money. Recently, I heard that he had another job working at night, but he hasn't come to see me yet. What do you think about this situation?

S. T. W.

Dear S. T. W.:

It is usually hard for girls to understand why men are so sensitive about being financially unable to do all the things they'd like to do for their girls. That feeling, however, is very deep in men and can be responsible for much trouble in married life.

If this is the case with you, however, for the way your young man is acting, everything should soon straighten out now that he has another job. Perhaps he wants to get a little ahead before coming back to you so that when he does, everything will be just as it always was.

On the other hand, you will have to realize, of course, that there is a possibility of his feeling having changed and that he hasn't the courage to tell you, so is taking the easy way of just disappearing from the scene.

I'm afraid all you can do is to wait and let future events make it clear which of these two possibilities is actually the case.

How to Make Friends Though Shy

Dear Miss Fairfax:

What is the best way to ask a girl to go out on a date?

Being a little shy, and not able to carry on a good conversation, I don't really know any girl too well, and I feel very backward about asking one out. Also, when I am with a girl I don't know what to talk about. Maybe you can give me a little help.

P. M.

Dear P. M.:

One thing that helps to overcome your type of difficulty is to be interested in different things so you can talk about them intelligently and enthusiastically. Also, be as expert as possible in at least one of the things—whether a sport or a game or other skill—other boys and girls are interested in, so that they will have respect for your ability.

Another thing is to ask questions of the girl you're with in order to find out what she's interested in and encourage her to talk about it. Almost everyone likes to have an opportunity to talk about his own interests and hobbies to a sympathetic listener, and many a person who just listens is often surprised to find himself considered a "good talker." Try these suggestions out and see if they don't help.

As for asking a girl out on a date, if you're too self-conscious to give your invitation straight out in person, write her a little note. That should get over that particular hurdle nicely. But of course it's a good idea to get up the courage to talk directly, since doing anything is the best way to get used to it!

Rouge Can Flatter, But Only If You Know How to Use It!

The blush of beauty should be applied with care. Blend in rouge natural coloring.

By HELEN FOLLETT

Synthetic blushes come in three forms—compacts, liquids and creams. As the use of the compact is simplest and easiest, it is the popular choice. But it is well worth the time and the trouble to experiment with the other two, both of which stick to one longer than the cake rouge. They require no "touch-ups." You put them on and they stay as is.

If you have tried the liquid and found that you were not pleased with the results it may be because you didn't follow the right technique. The stain should be moistened with a skin tonic before you start laying on the highlights. Put a small bit of the liquid on a piece of cotton that has been dipped in water, wring almost dry. Apply lightly, soften the edges, put on more if necessary. It is particularly congenial to an oily skin.

Cream Comes First

For the dry skin, cream rouge is a honey. A cleansing cream should be used first, wiped away with tissues. Apply the rouge in tiny dots. Then massage the flesh lightly, spreading the coloring until it forms a becoming pat-tern. It can be used atop a foundation cosmetic, if one wishes.

When resorting to the compact apply powder first. Put on the rosy glow and powder again, forming a cosmetic sandwich. One should have a special pad for the last application.

Wide Color Range

At almost any cosmetic counter, the shopper will find a rouge chart. The color range is wide from faint pinks and corals to orange-reds down to the wine or raspberry tones. Stand before the counter mirror, pinch your cheeks until they glow. That little trick will direct you. At the same time treat yourself to a new lipstick because your rouge will harmonize with the pigment you are to use on your cheeks. It need not be of the same depth or lightness of tone, but it must be of the same color family.

The purpose of make-up is to glorify. If the effect is lithographic, the project is a failure. The trend now is distinctly toward naturalness of appearance.

Fashion Flashes

AND NOW we give you the rabbit for at-home use, by which we mean that Dagmar appears in one of two leisure-wear collections. An outstanding example is a lounge jacket of navy-dyed lapin, made like a man's shirt and worn with red wool jersey slacks.

When a Girl Goes Walking

Tell me, pretty maiden, have you ankles as slender as those of a deer? And are you proud of them? No doubt. Then take care of them; do not abuse them. If extremely high heels are your pet frenzy; if you wear them from the time you get out of bed until you crawl in again, you may pay a penalty.

You may not be conscious of any difficulty at first. There may be no definite pain or discomfort. You just don't want to skate in the winter time; you hate to walk more than a block or two; dancing is not quite the thrilling joy it once was. Your ankles are weak.

Because of the tiny bases of spiked heels, your footing is uncertain. The slightest misstep turns the ankle. Also it may sway from side to side, a movement that is not natural.

When the heel if lifted beyond a certain point, the foot is pushed forward into the toe of the shoe and the muscles of the ankle and leg become strained and lose resiliency. The thing to do is to relieve that strain by wearing lower heels part of the time. This change must be made gradually. To discard high heels by doing this flat ones is too much of a comedown for bones and ligaments that have assumed an unnatural pose.

Weak ankles require medical attention. Special supports may bring relief. Or, one can wear bandages, like a three-inch heavy bandage fabric, winding it on fairly tightly, before doing this, bathe feet and ankles in hot water and rinse them in cold water; friction with the brakby with a coarse towel. The purpose of this part of the treatment is to hasten the circulatory streams.

No girl should be conscious of her feet. Her shoes alone won't be if they are in perfect condition. They were wonderfully designed to carry the weight of the body; they will fulfill this mission unless they are mistreated. The body may be fatigued after a long walk, but strong feet will show no evidence of weariness, especially is they are encase din well-fitted shoes that have flexible leather soles and afford proper support for the waist of the foot.

Exercises will strengthen relaxed ankle muscles, but they should be done in addition at first. Remove shoes and stockings. Lift slowly on the toes; come down slowly. Let the body rock forward and backward. No quick jerky movements. Do this for two minutes the first few days, then for five minutes. Walk on tip-toes, coming up with a spring. You'll feel the muscle pull from your toes to your knees.

A GREAT deal of thought has gone into the foundation garments to be shown this fall. Such shades as orchid and mimosa yellow with touches of ecru or black appear in new lines, with matching bras. Much elasticized lace is used, and there are fanciful lace overlays. Bras are of lace over net.

Announcing Engagement When Fiance is in Service Overseas

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

"My fiancé is in the army, and before he was sent overseas, we became engaged, telling no one except our families. Now Bill is writing me constantly urging me to announce our engagement publicly. My parents are devoted to Bill, whom we've all known for several years, and entirely approves of our engagement. But they wonder if it wouldn't be out-of-order for them to announce the engagement before Bill returns. Would it be proper?

Sallie M.

Yes, quite proper since you and "your Bill" wish to make the engagement announcement public, and your parents approve of doing this. As a matter of fact, it's very often done in these "times of separations." And Bill's parents, if they live out-of-town, will wish to publish in "their local paper the announcement as made by your parents. However, do remember that before any public announcement is made, you should tell by word of mouth or by note, those most closely concerned with the news, your relatives, your close friends. When possible Bill should write to his relatives and close friends . . . or when he writes the news to his family they may tell relatives and friends. In all cases the date of the public announcement is given and "please keep it a secret until then" requested.

Today's Salad Bowl Procedure

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

When in a restaurant I order a salad as a main course (very often a chef's salad, or a vegetable salad or fruit salad) and it is served in an individual salad bowl, should I eat it out of the bowl or should I serve small portions to my plate?

Mildred

If the dressing is served separate from the salad, mix the salad and dressing in the bowl . . . and then it's best not to "confine" the salad to the bowl, but to serve portions of it to your plate. Large or small portions, as you like.

Fiancee and Fiance Should Consult With Minister About Church Regulations

Dear Mrs. Beechman,

My sister was married last year; formal church wedding. Now I am to be married in about three months, and my father says he will give me the same kind of wedding he gave my sister—if this would be correct in my case. I have never been married before, but my fiance has been. He was divorced several years before I met him, the divorce was granted to him, everyone tells me he was entirely in the right, and his relatives and friends all tell me that they are delighted that he is marrying again. In these circumstances could we have a formal church wedding, as my sister had, her wedding being the first for each? If not, what would be the main difference in our plans.

R. Y.

I assume you know definitely that your church will permit the remarriage of a divorced person, particularly under the circumstances you have given. If you and your fiance consult with the minister of the church about this, and he gives permission, you may have a formal church wedding, no different from your sister's wedding.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. HEVER, Sports Editor

WHAT, NO UNSTOPPABLE PUCK?

This may be bad news for hockey stick manufacturers and sports goods stores, but the shillalagh is wholesale and retail bat spearers, managers and treasurers will hail it with delight.

Frank Patrick, one of the famous Patrick brothers of Vancouver has come up with an unbreakable hockey stick, according to a story in the current Hockey News.

The Patrick stick which recently passed factory and actual playing tests in Vancouver is constructed of laminated wood pressed together and shaped in a mould. From two to nine varieties have been used in one stick.

Features of the stick which patrick claims have never been developed before, are horizontal laminations and a handle and blade in one piece.

Appalled at costly wastage in premiersorty broken sticks, Patrick feels if his new stick proves itself, it will save both pro and amateur hockey teams hundreds of thousands of dollars. He points out that each major league player uses from 70 to 80 sticks a season. This, he says, represents more than $700 per season per player or something like $4,000 per club in prevailing stick prices.

A lengthy search for an unbreakable hockey stick has failed to bring out anything to live up to expectations. Nearly every kind of wood has been used at one time or another. Lately aluminum and plastics have been tried out.

The new laminated stick is made by laying strips of different kinds of wood one on top of the other and gluing all together. The laminations are of a thickness of 1/8th inch, of the proper length desired. After being firmly glued the eight-foot strip is placed in a mould for shaping and pressing. The glued strips are subjected to terrific pressure, then covered in the standard hockey stick width. A blade piece is fitted to the bottom of each blade to prevent fraying of the laminations.

Well, now they have an unbreakable stick, how about an unbreakable negrin for hockey players? Every season we recall back into the limelight, not forgetting unbreakable ribs and an unripplable hide. The new stick is going to be tough on softballing egos of the ice-lanes, not to mention the boys with the greatie shooters. Unbreakable sticks have even sent many a noble shillalagh to a pee wee's workshop for repairs, or to the nearest wood pile.

Ice-lane brawls of the future which as a rule ended when a tough should shatter a stick, or it was broken while massaging enemy ribs, may now develop into something of a bayonet practice session. Trainers may have to include quarter-staff instruction in the team syllabus. Looks like a fully old time for all concerned except stick manufacturers and sports shop dispensers.

A GRAND CITIZEN!

You just can't beat some guys when they take it in their hands and hearts to not only start something but see it through to the finish.

Take this genial Scotsman Don McNevin, boss-man of the Glen Roy Creamerios and president of the Glen Roy Athletic Club. Seems long ago a hey sports guru started to spread in Mr. McNevin's mind and it has been growing ever since. This year it burst into bloom and flowered into an intermediate "A" softball squad that won the right to represent he city in the OBA playdowns.

Any ordinary sponsor would figure that, with the forthcoming playdowns was plenty. But not this friendly little chap who dons a uniform and hops out there along the third base line and coaches his team to victory or defeat, with a smile on his face.

For some time the McNevin eyes have been gazing somewhat speculatively at the dormant poles and lights that encircle the city-owned Alemite playing field. The only use they have been to baseball and softball since the field was turned over gratis to the city by Mr. Art. Young of Stewart Warner Alemite, is a kitchen yard for a farmer's team, for one happened along or targets for moppets' sling-shots and stone-throwing arms, while loose, rattling reflectors provided weather-vanes for those interested in wind direction.

Then McNevin got an idea. We don't know whether he has ever seen the Alemite Field kleigs in illuminative action, but he decided to see what made them tick, and if they were workable. So what happened?

He pipes the Glen Roy gang, with Marky Halloran as straw-boss (he had to work too), and they give the dusty old glimmers a house-cleaning and a face-lift.

What's more, Maister Don? digs deeply into the purse and purchases lights for the overgrown candlesticks. Now along comes another sports-minded gentleman who has always had city athletics at heart and has done some mighty generous things in the past. Meet Art. Young again. Arthur, seeing what's going on, immediately offered to supply 24 reflectors. Talk about team co-operation, just to mention a face-tingling, coy it should be, milestone in the lives of the fervent city fathers.

The sum and substance of the whole thing is that tonight the lights will be turned on at Alemite field, thanks to the generous spirit of two civic-minded citizens.

And to celebrate the occasion, the Glen Roys and Cleaner Combines teams of the Commercial Softball League will play an exhibition game, the first softball tilt under lights ever since way back when. Game gets under way a little after eight o'clock.

The columnar chapeau and those of a large number of sportsmen of the city, especially softball fandom, is doffed to a grand sportsman, Don McNevin. Tremendously enthusiastic over athletics, he is not only deriving a great deal of personal enjoyment for his activities, in sport which, we have on definite authority will extend into other realms this winter, but providing wholesome recreation, in co-operation with other teams of the softball league, for city fandom.

As was said before, you can't beat some fellows. You can't even tie those of the McNevin type.

CALLED OFF

The Redmen-House of David baseball game scheduled for the Fair Grounds next Monday night has been cancelled, Redmen secretary Drury Denyes informed this department last night. It appears, according to a telegram received by Denyes, that Uncle Sam has called for the services of several of the bewhiskered baseball buckaroos, who strangely enough are press-agented as the original team and yet are young enough for military service Besides, the wire added, the team had no other engagements in this part of the world. So the boys are disbanding the team today, and calling the season's tour off.

White Sox Sting Injuns Twice; Feller Fails In Quest for 20; Bombers Nip Phils; 'Bums' Split

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Hold on folks. The American League wheel is spinning toward another coin-tossing finish.

With Cleveland and New York in a first-place tie, let's take a look at the schedule for the final six weeks of the season.

The edge, if any, tips slightly in favor of the Yankees who play 22 of their last 40 in Yankee stadium, Cleveland divides its final 40 on a 20-20 basis and Boston, four games back, faces an uphill pull with only 16 at home and 24 away.

Nine big games between Boston and New York may give Cleveland the breathing space it needs. While the Red Sox and Yanks knock off one another in late September, the Tribe could slide home free.

Cleveland plays only 16 games with the other first-division clubs while New York has 19 and Boston 17. Chicago, nine games off the pace, still has seven dates with the Indians, their victims Saturday.

Red Sox Trim Senators

Stubby Overmire won his first game for New York by going the route against the Red Sox in eight-hitter. Boston hung in close by scoring three in the 12th to top Washington 7-4. Detroit shaded St. Louis, 5-4.

New York Giants threw a little more life into their National League hopes by thumping the Phils 6-3 to move within a five-hitter against Feller with the help of homers by Al Zarilla and Ray Coleman. Jim Hughes homered in the second, won by reliefer Luh Alonso.

Hitless Breaks Tie

Billy Goodman's double and Clyde Vollmer's single off Connie Marrero broke a 6-4 tie in the 12th inning as Washington, Boston rookie Fred Hatfield followed with a three-run homer to nail down Ellis Kinder's eighth victory.

Ted Gray survived a ninth-inning St. Louis uprising to win his fourth game for Detroit as Bob Dobbek in the sixth drove in the decisive run.

In the National Gil Hodges blasted his 34th homer to help Erskine win the opener. Despite four Boston errors and 11 Brooklyn hits, the Braves skinned home in the second for an even break.

Al Dark and Wes Westrum each had four hits for the Giants to give reliefer George Spencer his eighth triumph. Ken Heintzelman was the loser despite the work of Bill Nichols who drove in four of the five Phil runs with a homer and triple.

Queen was in trouble frequently walking seven and fanning nine in whiz Paul Minner. Musial's homer was the whole story of the Cards' success.

Singles Finals End Bowls Meet

Toronto, Aug. 18. (CP)— The Ontario Provincial Lawn Bowling Tournament winds up here today with the final rounds of their singles events—the Rice, Roden and R. T. McLean trophies.

The Parker pen trophy went to Stewart Tuck and Jim Howell of Detroit, Mich., and the Birks-Ellis-Ryrie trophy was won by another United States entry, Gordon Callon and Joseph Rennie of Buffalo, N.Y.

Seventeen-year-old Gordon MacMillan and his 71-year-old partner Charles Peacock, both of Oshawa, Ont., took the Rennie trophy when they squeezed out Allan Schofield and Raymond Sayer of Providence, R.I., 17-16.

Hall of Fame Favored to Win Rich Derby Stake

Chicago, Aug. 18 (AP) —Hall of Fame, the easterner bidding for this year's top two-year-old honors, is favored to take today's $80,735 American Derby from nine of the best youngsters in the midwest.

The Greentree Stable ace has won four consecutive stakes events, including the rich Arlington classic. If he cops Mary Jeanture at Washington Park he'll win $62,400 and boost his earnings beyond $125,000. That would put him ahead of all other three-year-olds in money earned.

Chief competition in the mile-and-a-quarter event is expected to be provided by Frances A. Genter's Rough 'N Tumble and Brownell Combs' Bernwood.

Also in the overnight field are Mrs. Emil Denemark's Rube, Sam E. Wilson's Bugledrums, Edward Potter Jr.'s Longlest, Mrs. J. F. Keeck's Abbe Sting, Aarons and Ricklick's Andy Jr. Walnut Farm's Adams Off Ox, and And Landy and Kalensky's Spur On.

Picton Victors Over Pt. Anne In 'C' Playdowns

Point Anne Cementmen were swept into the OASA discard last night in Picton when they were defeated by the local Gunners by a score of 7-5.

The tilt was the second in a row for the Cementmen in their best of three series and thus eliminated them from further competition along the playoff trail.

Paddy Maracle hurled all the way for the victors and although he allowed only four scattered hits, he passed eight men and received poor backing in the clutch. He struck out 13.

Gunners broke the ice in the bottom of the first frame plating a runner on four straight bases on hits by Maracle and Richard finding the plate. Maracle struck out three however to handle all of the side. They added two each in the third and fourth, the first two coming on errors.

Others Tap Bowes

The Cementmen struck back with one in the second when Tom Buchanan singled sharply to right centre field and the ball got away from the fielder allowing Buchanan to tally all the way around. They garnered a single in fourth, two in the fifth and one in the seventh on Bob Strahan's home run to tie the count at five each.

That's the end for nought, however, as the Gunners plated two more in the bottom of the seventh. Maracle opened on a walk but was forced at second by Neddow; Davis grounded to third but Bowes threw the fielder, attempting to cut off the runner at second, the throw pulled into centre field, both runners came in to score up the contest.

Maracle started on the slab for the homesters and passed two men while whiffing eight. He was relieved by Guy in the seventh who went on to become the winning hurler when the Cementmen tied the game in the seventh. Guy struck out and walked one each.

Pete Green led the batters getting three singles in four trips to the plate. Tom Buchanan had a single and triple while Bob Strahan hit a home run and a double. Cementmen put Pat Maracle each hit once safely.

Binkley, Davis, Thibideau and Scott garnered the hits for the winners with the latter's being a double to right field.

Picton Gunners — Binkley c; Davis 1f; Thibideau rf; Guy cf-p; Neddow p, cf; Davis ss; Walton 1b; Lobban 3b; Scott 2b.

Dutchies Wallop Waterloo Tigers, Win Playoff Spot

(By The Canadian Press)

The best of pitchers have their off-nights, but veteran Bobby Schnurr couldn't have picked a worse occasion to lose his stuff.

Starting for Waterloo Tigers, defending champions of the intercounty senior baseball league, Schnurr was tagged with the loss in the Tigers' 7-4 drubbing at the hands of Kitchener Legion before a big crowd last night.

And since the occasion was a sudden-death game between the two clubs for the fourth and last playoff spot in the league, Schnurr's disappointment was shared by his teammates and a doleful collection of hometown supporters.

Bobby only allowed two hits in his brief tenure on the hill. He also gave up two walks. But what really hurt was that he while pitched three runs across the plate.

By the time they got Schnurr out of there, the Tigers were trailing the Legion 4-0. They responded gamely, getting two hits and a pair of walks off Kitchener starter Hal Johnson in their half of the opening frame, but the Legion cautiously yanked their pitcher after two runs had scored.

This UNION LABEL appears in every TIP TOP garment

The score reached 6-4 by the end of three innings, but Kitchener's Rolly Larouche and Waterloo's Joe Yosurak waged a tight pitching duel the rest of the way, with Larouche getting credit for the victory.

At Timmins, righthander Leo Beauchamp pitched six innings of shutout ball and young Lyn Mc-Laren finished capably when a line drive hit Beauchamp's finger as Rollinger's last-place Sombrero whipped Porcupine Combines 5-1 in the last game of the Timiskaming Baseball League.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

(By The Associated Press)

Batting—Stan Musial, Cards, belted home run in ninth inning to give St. Louis a 2-1 victory over Cincinnati.

Pitching — Carl Erskine, Dodgers, turned in seventh straight and 14th victory of the season as he pitched Brooklyn to a 3-1 decision over Boston in opener of two-night doubleheader.

Henning-Atkins Duo Defeated By Sharp Bros. In Team Match, Fandom's 1950 Roar Approval

By GEO. R. CALDER
(Sports Editor)

Justice triumphed; the machinations of deep-dark villainy met its just deserts; right rode rampant over unscrupulous skullduggery plus edeo-buffonery, and 1600 of the faithful went home satisfied that crime doesn't pay.

Ah, 'twas a glorious victory, Michael and Benjamin Sharp, golden boys out of Hamilton, hurled their lithe forms in the cause of "truth" righteousness at the hairy brows and gribbacing scowling countenances of Doc Henning, known in the circuits as the "Leer", and Fred Atkins, the "Arrogant Aussie from down under" in Memorial Arena last night.

True the scales of justice balanced precariously on several occasions, when the handsome mugs of the Sharps were bang-butted, biffed and basked; their jugulars entwined round a pile of cord and their eyes doing small left to right as in effort to dodge gouging fingers.

But, everything turned out okay, kiddies. The Sharp boys, Mike and Ben, showed superiority, a doubt that clean living, avoidance of pool-rooms, blondes and binges and a nine o'clock curfew pays off. They hurled the bewildered villains to the mat in two scuttlings, after losing the first fall to the then current world's championship trophy for team wrestling remained intact in its case in the Sharp boudoir.

Bunny Rides Again!

An added attraction to the rasslin' rodeo was "Wild" Bunny Dunlop. "Bunny came in the ring at a catch-weight, tipping the six-shooters but fully determined that these villainous varlets egad, would play nothing but hob elsewhere. He emphasized this point quite emphatically on two occasions, when he put the snatch on the hair upholstery atop the Atkins-Henning noggins. Although in fairness it must be said he had to take a powder a stride at the Henning noodle before he could get sufficient hair to let the Leer know who was sitting on.

He went through a serious if brief period of deflation at one time when Le Henning used the purely Dunlopian ability of the buffer between Ben Sharp's noggin and a ring-post. Bunny hoffed and he puffed and nearly blew, the house down. He wobbled exasperatingly on the post for a seeming wisp of "Moonlight Over Shannonville", perfume wafted from a bottle on the fourth row, back revived him, and he swept into the fray again.

He was effective in the pinches and punches. He counted like a handmaiden conducting the six-eight tempo and whirled like a dervish. He didn't escape in effort to keep two eyes in four places at once.

Used All the Tricks

Henning and Atkins used all their tricks. They pounded first one Sharp then another but went flat when tried to impress with a tattoo on two Sharps. First Ben then Mike turned into fighting furies and swept into the ring of anything that resembled the foe. They threw him out in the ring, then in again.

Mike was the victim in the first fall, but came back strongly in the second after taking ringside punishes by Atkins. He leaped clear over the ropes, carried the battle to the mat and spread-eagled him for the fall while the roof shuddered with the roar of the fandom.

The third fall looked like a repetition of the previous go'n. Then the four lads tangled in the ring, playing tag and slinging elbows and fists. The Sharps had a clear edge in the free-for-all in fact Atkins and Henning collided — heads-on and one knocked each other out, in a haze Henning took a poke at Atkins then realized his error and sought the exit outside of the ring. Ben took over and flattened the Aussie for the fall and victory.

The boys had a post-bout fistcuff melee with the Sharps getting far the better of the exchanges.

The Bay of Quinte loop has three games on the list for next week. Op Tuesday evening 8 RD and Shannonville go to Belleville's ground whilst Trenton Merchants are at home to the leaguelead Cobourg Gunners. Thursday evening sees Belleville Army and Navy Vets travelling to 8 RD for a match.

On Wednesday evening, Batawa dropped a pair of Eastern Ontario League points when they defeated the Belleville entry by three goals to one. The match was played on Bain Memorial Park in Trenton and goals were scored by Gill, Mueller and Hawrylyow. This afternoon Belleville goes to the road for the trip to Brockville whilst O'Halloran's play host to Vimy Signals in Peterborough in the only other Eastern Ontario loop game scheduled. Kingston, which is not going to open date, are trying to arrange an exhibition game with Picton Gunners of the Bay of Quinte League which should show how the two army camps compare against strange opposition.

Peterborough United take on Oshawa C.C.I. in the Dominion F. A. Cup quarter-final round at Peterborough and should be a good soccer battle.

If circumstances permit, it is hoped to play an exhibition game at Beaver Park on Thursday evening between two junior teams one from East Hill and the other from West Hill. The date has not been definitely fixed as the match is still in the possible stage. The Bay of Quinte junior committee is arranging to get the teams together to try them out before organizing the projected cup competition.

92,000 Witness Browns Shellack All-Stars 33-0

Chicago, Aug. 18 (AP) —Word was out that old age was seeping into the marrow of the Cleveland Browns and the 1951 National Football League season would see them knocked from the pinnacle.

All that has been resolved today.

With the gusto and vigor of college kids, the amazing Browns mangled and conquered collegian All-Stars 33-0 last night to open the U.S. football season officially before 92,180 fans in Soldier Field. An estimated 50 million more saw the game on television.

The Browns scored a ridiculously-easy triumph over an inept bunch of graduated campus stars who were never within 45 yards of the goal line.

Such "old man" as Otto Graham, Marion Motley, Dub Jones and Dub Cole tied a 43-year mark in three plays.

Bob Jones scampered 105 yards in the carries, scoring on six—and three-yard stabs. Graham touchdown drives of 56 and 62 yards.

The 1950 campus heroes didn't even penetrate the home 40 until late in the fourth quarter.

Tennis Notes

The junior tennis tournament, the semi-finals and finals of which were held at the Quinte Tennis Club, was a huge success. The youngsters produced a good brand of tennis and the outlook for the future of tennis in this district is bright.

All of the winners will be going to Toronto for the 18 Ontario junior, championships starting on Monday, August 20th. Terry Joyce of Holloway Street will try his luck in the under 18 singles and will pair with Barry Mackenzie of Picton in the 18 doubles. Bobbie Burns of Trenton will try his luck in the under 18 singles, while Gene Lane and McNally of Quinte will represent the district in the under 15 singles and will pair with Maureen Bowler in the doubles.

Bob Burns, Terry Joyce and Mary J. McNally have also been entered in the Ontario junior championships which start at Ottawa next Monday. Let's wish the youngsters well in their ventures as they are the first representatives this district has had in the Ontario and Dominion championships.

Tomorrow the Bay of Quinte Tennis League is sponsoring an open senior tournament. Men's and mixed doubles will be played on Bain Memorial Park in Trenton and goals were scored by Gill, Mueller and Hawrylyow. This afternoon Belleville goes to the road for the trip to Brockville whilst O'Halloran's play host to Vimy Signals in Peterborough in the only other Eastern Ontario loop game scheduled. No Rush to Name Baseball Boss

Phoenix, Ariz., Aug. 11 (AP)—There isn't any haste in naming a new baseball commissioner, Del Webb, co-owner of the New York Yankees, said today as he departed for the meeting of major league club owners at New York Tuesday.

"I don't know whether or not we'll name one Tuesday," Webb said, "but I won't let them hurry into it and get the wrong man."

Webb was chairman of a committee that screened candidates for the successor to A.B. (Happy) Chandler who recently resigned the post after failing to obtain a vote of confidence. The Phoenix construction company president said he expected the meeting of major league club owners at New York Tuesday.

Increase Purse At Woodbine Meet

Toronto, Aug. 18 (CP) —Some $208,750 in prize money will be distributed by the Ontario Jockey Club at Woodbine race track during the 14-day autumn meeting to start Sept. 1. This is an increase of more than $30,000 in prize money over that offered during the 1950 fall season.

Among the races to be decided are the Coronation Stakes at one mile for Canadian-foaled two-year-old fillies for a $10,000 purse. Jockey Club Handicap has been increased to $7,500 from $6,000, weight.

Projectile Wins Maple Leaf Cup At Thorncliffe

Toronto, Aug. 18 (CP) — The favored Projectile, from the Montreal barn of Plouffe and Hudon, won the $3,000 Maple Leaf Cup at Thorncliffe Raceway Friday although he lost the first heat to the almost completely ignored M. C. Rose.

The first dash—at one mile M. C. Rose showed that he deserved more public support than he received. He raced the distance in the scintillating time of 2.06 3-5, beating the track record for trotters by three-fifths of a second. Driven by the veteran Vic Rowntree, he paid a whopping $29.25 for a $2 ticket in a six horse field.

In the second heat, Phillipe Dussault made no mistake with Projectile which went away from the rail position. Projectile moved to the front immediately while M. C. Rose was away slowly and broke stride immediately after the start, finishing fifth. Projectile wasn't impressive as he finished the longer distance in 2.14 3-5, more than a second off the track record.

Next to Golf It's Baseball For Marlene

(By The Canadian Press)

Marlene Stewart likes baseball "next to golf".

The 17-year-old mighty mite from the London Ladies' Golf Club, Fonthill, Ont., scored another triumph Friday night as the first woman guest welcomed in the press box at Maple Leaf Stadium.

Last week the little lady with the big swing won the Canadian Ladies' open golf title. A few days before she set the sports world on its heels by taking the Canadian Ladies' Close title.

Friday night it was baseball, between Toronto Maple Leafs and Syracuse Chiefs, for her first view of an International Baseball League game.

The 108-pound shot-master, who stands exactly five feet tall, wears a size 13 shoe and size four shoes, marched jauntily onto the field before game time and hit three golf balls into centrefield, posed for pictures and then watched the game from the press box.

Sports Roundup

BY GAYLE TALBOT

New York, Aug. 18 (AP)—A decided coolness has arisen between manager Chuck Dressen of Brooklyn Dodgers and Cal Abrams who record the daily operations of the National League circuit.

The spat was churned up recently when the Brook pilot chose to sleep he had made a crack about one of his young pitchers, Erv Palica, which the reporters say did not amount to much, but twice.

Dressen was reported to have snarled that Palica, who had been belted around in a game, was lacking in fighting spirit and that he didn't belong in the big leagues. It was such a harsh and unusual statement that a reporter asked about one of his men, the reporters say, and Dressen is said to have repelled to tell their readers about it.

There was no immediate denial of the statement from Dressen, even though the report that he had made such a caustic public language about one of his men created considerable comment among fans and players.

Double Talk?

But two weeks later, the Brooklyn Press Corps was shaken to its wedgies to hear that a radio broadcaster had informed his listeners that there was nothing to the report, that Dressen hadn't said any such thing.

They swarmed on Chuck, and he said nothing. Any one who certainly didn't recall having stated Palica to the extent he had been reported. That what he still says, and about the most memorable thing he has said in saying about the guy these days is that maybe he actually had, M. C. Rose was away slowly and broke stride immediately after the start, finishing fifth. Projectile wasn't impressive as he finished the longer distance in 2.14 3-5, more than a second off the track record.

WALCOTT WORKS OUT

Marshalltown, Ia., Aug. 18 (AP)— Jersey Joe Walcott last night made his first exhibition appearance since becoming world's heavyweight champion in a four round bout with Jack Burk, Pittsburgh light-heavyweight.

The sportscaster who stirred up the ruckus declares, for his part, that Dressen told a report that Dressen had told him the story was without foundation. He says he has also said he did not question the story, himself.

Too Many Fish

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solunar Tables)

The lives of the members of conservation departments, both federal and state, are not the tranquil affairs that one might suppose them to be. Consider, for instance, the hatchery men. You'd think that raising and stocking fish would be an uneventful existence—but such is not the case. With the steady increase in public interest in fresh-water angling, new and vexing problems are presenting themselves all too regularly.

Hatcheries workers in the northern states are realizing that one of their most serious problems is over-population of lakes with panfish. Bodies of water which heretofore offered good fishing for all of the usual species now are so crowded with panfish that their fishing has become a hardly worth the effort.

When a lake is "in balance" it holds a proportionate number of food fish, panfish and larger predatory fish, such as bass, walleyed pike, muskies, pickerel, great northern, or what have you. Then there is a pressure of forage on the disproportionate number of the larger species is caught out.

Balance Is Best

It is easier to catch 10 percent of the large fish than it is to catch 10 percent of the panfish. Thus, when the large predators are removed, the control of the panfish population goes with them and the members of the panfish family increase by leaps and bounds.

All those little fish must eat in order to live. Also, in order to grow they must eat well, much more than enough simply to keep them alive. However, there is a fairly static food supply in most lakes. When that supply must be divided among so many, naturally the growth rate of individual is retarded.

It has been estimated that if lakes about 10 pounds of natural food to build one pound of game fish. Conversely, it takes about one pound of natural food to feed and keep healthy one pound of game fish for a year. That one pound does not provide extra nutrition for growth. It merely keeps that one pound of game fish alive.

Stunted Fish

When the static food supply is divided among too many fish, the fishes stay alive and happy but they don't grow. The result is that lake holds an abundance of stunted fish, not worth carrying home for table fare.

Massachusetts has been faced with the problem of having too many panfish. Not only that but there are doing something about it. Cedar Meadow Pond, near Worcester, has known an overpopulation of white perch for years. The Conservation Department has decided to take steps.

From its 265 acres of water the hatchery men seined 2 tons of white perch. The average size of these was four inches. Even with this quantity removed, the lake still held too many white perch.

Seines Alive

The following year the same crew seined out 3 tons of white perch. This batch averaged five inches. Again the removal of the 2-1-3 tons the year before did have some effect on growth, but not enough. Remainder. Not only that, but the bass fishing improved.

Population studies show that the lake still holds 8 1-2 tons of white perch. That's a lot of white, perch, probably too many. However, the fish-management men think that they now know the answer and they can proceed accordingly.

In the south, where the growing season is longer and where the food is abundant, one year the over-population is not so serious. Game fish predators can control the smaller species. But in the north, the over-crowding of formerly good waters often is critical.

Some fish usually don't overpopulate a lake. They hold down excess numbers through the ample expedient of eating the surplus relatives. However, unwise amateur management often can undo nature's provisions.

Overstocked Lake Ruined

There is a sportsmen's club on Long Island which created for itself a critical and serious situation in one of their lakes. This lake was at one time a good bass lake. Some of the members decided to make it a better bass lake so they stocked it heavily with small bass.

Of course the inevitable happened. There simply was not enough food to go around and the newly-stocked bass did not grow. In addition, the bass fry which the lake normally produced did not grow either. In short, production of adult, normal bass in that lake was brought to a standstill.

I fished this lake while it was in its worst condition. The small bass of course, were ravenous. It would be like a sour pickle to fill a boat with them during an afternoon's fishing. They would take anything that seemed even remotely edible. We caught them for a while on bits of bass, fish with large heads and shrunken bodies.

I had a talk with one of the directors of this club and we discussed ways and means. The following week-end fishermen seined out small bass by the carload. They kept on seining until the crew of 10 men had filled the nets. Then the lake was closed to fishing and old Mother Nature was given free rein.

Comity Lacking

This, of course, was a costly lesson, but at least the lake is in balance and the fishing is restored to its former state of excellence. To be sure, the members don't catch as many bass as they used to, but the bass they do catch are large, fat and sassy.

Think back a few years and recall the days of old in game preserves such as snapping turtles, osprey, etc. Right now there is a movement afoot to completely out of balance that these same predators would be more than welcome.

Most of us are all too ready to find fault with our Conservation Departments. If you feel this way, before you condemn them once too heartily, have a talk with one of them and listen to the side of their story.

As I say, the fish culturist does not lead the ideal happy life, ever free from worries. He has troubles, same as everybody else.

Red Wings Extend Win Streak to 11; Chiefs Dump Leafs

(By The Associated Press)

Rochester Red Wings today began the long-running second half of the International League season—111 straight games.

The second-place Wings hung up their 11th consecutive triumph last night as they edged Springfield Cubs 7-6 in 11 innings. The previous high for the season was 10 straight by Syracuse Chiefs.

The victory was the Wings' third straight in relief time innings. Rookie Danny Lunch singled home Run Derry from second base with the game-winner.

Recruit Fred Hahn, who came on in the top of 11th and fanned the only batter he faced, was the winner. It was Hahn's second conquest in as many nights.

Otten Moulder, recently acquired from Columbus of the American Association, entered at 6-2 lead going into the ninth when the Cubs rallied for four runs to tie the score. Dan Swarts was the loser.

Buffalo Bisons trounced Baltimore Orioles 9-3, wrapping the game up with a five-run outburst in the fifth inning. Minnerik and Tom Simpson divided the Buffalo pitching with Minnerik gaining credit for his 15th victory.

Syracuse turned back Toronto Maple Leafs 6-4. Gene Markland poked a three-run homer in the fifth to shoot the Chiefs into the lead for keeps.

Montreal and Ottawa were idle.

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The goofy game of Logey Len is getting worse and worse. He learns the rules you like and then applies them in reverse.

When south opened with a bid of one heart, it happened that west held this hand:

♠ A J 10
♥ K J 9 8 5
♦ 9 8 2
♣ 4 5 2

West passed and north bid one no-trump, a response to the opening bid by his partner. East passed and south bid spade. The second bid by south was two hearts. West doubled.

North passed the west double of two hearts and east stepped in with a bid of three clubs. After the storm, east did not know what struck him. He could not understand what all the shooting was about.

When told that he should have passed the double east tried to prove they were all wrong. If a partner has not bid, he said, and that bid is less than four in a suit, a double is for takeout.

He had the words right. But he did not carry them far enough. A piece of a clause belongs with it. With that rule belongs the words: If the double is made at the first opportunity.

In other words, if a player intends to double for takeout he does so the first chance he has to double and bid. If he does not double the first chance he has, any later double is for penalty.

Thus, if west wanted east to takeout his double, west would have doubled the one heart bid. When he did not do so, it was a signal to east that any double thereafter must be for penalty.

Some experts agree among themselves to use a later double for takeout instead of penalty. But their method is not the true rule for a takeout double; it is a special convention.

I have no quarrel with experts who use it in the non-rule manner. But until you are capable of emulating all their ways, hold to rule.

Everything in its proper place.

Hardwood Log Breaks Arm Of Truck Driver

Bancroft—Struck by a hardwood log that crashed down from a load of logs, Simeon Sleeper of Birds Creek, a truck driver for a local lumber company, had his left arm broken above the elbow. While bending over to pull a logging chain to one side the load suddenly gave way. At the time he was unloading in the yard of Martin Lumber Company at Hughes Siding. Upon the advice of Dr. O. W. Anderson he was rushed to the Peterborough medical clinic for specialized treatment. This afternoon Dr. Robert Young sated that he would be hospitalized for the next ten days.

12 DOGS POISONED

Bowmanville, Aug. 18 (CP)—At least 13 dogs from farms within two-blocks of each other have died during the last week and a half from poisoning. Police believe strychnine was used.

C. Howard Carden, who lost a purebred cocker spaniel Friday, believes two bones he found near his dog were covered with the poison.

Police Chief Sidney Venton said it would be difficult to track down the poisoner as "any person" could buy strychnine.

Industrial City Of Hull Shows Large Gain

Ottawa, Aug. 18—(CP)— The industrial city of Hull, Que., across the Ottawa River from the capital showed the biggest population jump in the first report of Canada's 1951 census, the bureau of statistics reported Friday.

The initial report of the June census covered 256 cities, towns and incorporated villages— none of them large but representing every province. A full report is expected next December.

In the 10-year period covered by the census the gold-mining centre of Timmins, declined to 27,383 from 28,790.

On the whole, the bureau said, the army census takers have found a "distinct and widespread rise in Canada's urban population."

Some of the larger centres listed with populations for 1941 in brackets:

Sault Ste. Marie, 29,851 (25,794); St. Thomas, 17,942 (17,132).

Other large centres included: Napanee 3,563 (3,405); Parry Sound 5,095 (3,785); Port Colborne 8,122 (6,965); Strathroy 3,679 (3,016); Timmins 27,383 (28,790).

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 18 (AP) — John Lund bounced right out of the drawing rooms and onto a Brahma bull.

The story is this: While at Paramount, Lund did a lot drawing-room roles. In his next film he does a complete reversal; he's a rodeo star in the modern west.

The picture is called "Bronco Buster" and Lund is riding daily "to get over my fear of horses." But, contemplating a forthcoming tussle with a Brahma bull, Lund confessed he is "thinking rather wistfully of the drawing rooms."

He got out of his Paramount pact to escape such roles.

"When an actor is winding up a contract, as I was, he can find himself in seven pictures in a year," he explained. "The studio wants to make the most of him."

That's not too tough for a highly-versatile player. But, says Lund:

"I'm a limited kind of actor; there are only a few roles I can do."

New Project

Anthony Quinn, the Latin actor, has come up with a brave new project. He was handed with camaraderie James Howe, writer Malvin Wald and actor Akim Tamiroff to make a series of three films with a connecting story line. What's so different about this? Nothing, except that they plan to release them for both theatres and television.

They have already sold the TV rights. Then they plan to put the three stories together as a feature for film houses.

"Why not?" Quinn argues. "There are 5,000,000 TV sets in the country. That leaves a lot of people in a lot of areas that TV doesn't reach."

Worst idea of the week: the announcement that "Goodby, Mr. Chips" will be made into a musical . . . some day I'd like to see a double feature of "Hatrd, Fast and Beautiful" and "Rich, Young and Pretty." That would be the adjective attraction of the year.

FISH BAIT

The angler fish found in Atlantic waters gets its name from the belief that it attracts prey by feelers on its head.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Sunday, August 19

March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—Fine Mars rays for aggressive matters, military achievement, plans, necessary tasks. Good, too, for financing affairs to aid churches, charity, hospitals. Pray for peace.

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—Friendly influences for your personal interests, happy marital relations. Do attend your church; pray for our military and government leaders, for lasting peace. Enjoy healthful recreation.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—We living in free lands should thank God daily for our blessings, should be alert, willing to fight to maintain our freedom. Same time, it is our duty to aid others to freedom and to be humble.

June 22 to July 23—(Cancer)—Friendly day generally for wholesome interests, especially encouraging to matters pertaining to our armed forces and their achievement. Prayer, faith in God, good deeds are ever dependable aids.

July 24 to August 22—(Leo)—You eager, loyal, at times impetuous folks may have to stop to think before acting in many instances. A day for rightful aggressiveness, action, but fact, too. Pray for guidance, peace. Relax.

August 23 to September 23—(Virgo)—One of those solid, generous periods wherein we are inspired (should be) to aid the farm, loyalty, our disabled fighting forces. Without injuring health you can do your share. Rest well.

September 24 to October 23—(Libra)—Venus and Mars smile on all worthy activities. Fine Sunday for thought plus action. Church services come first. Will be time for necessary duties, good fun. Try to improve a hobby, talent.

October 24 to November 22—(Scorpio)—Beneficial day for practicality, worthy interests, activities to aid next week's work. May feel extra ambitious, energetic. This is good for right lines. Start with prayer. Fun okayed.

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius)—You have some encouraging indications as Scorpio. You and they could do well managing affairs to aid charity, church today. Personal interests also sponsored.

December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn) — Saturn's position advises against unnecessary laborious work, physical strain. However, day favors all essential duties, armed military, air, naval successes. Pray for our armed forces.

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius)— Don't change well-working method, plan, management unless for improvement. Avoid unhealthy restlessness, but be sensibly alert to make important moves to aid family, government, church.

February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)—Sea travel, boating, vital shipping among today's top favored. Confidential matters well handled should bring gratifying returns. Remember your soul's needs. Enjoy some recreation.

YOU BORN TODAY: Pleasing personality, can be very interesting, engaging in conversation. Develop this and your other talents. Make wonderful salespeople, soldiers, military leaders, actors. But may have to restrain self to avoid conceit, impatience. Our truly great men and women have humility no matter how brilliant and capable. Pray for these necessary attributes, humility, steadiness of effort. You can succeed in religious life, at profession or trade, if you faithfully study and apply yourself.

Bank at St. David's where hold-up occurred

Ontario police have launched widespread hunt for two armed bandits in their early 30's who held up Imperial bank at St. David's, near Niagara Falls, Ont., and escaped by car with $6,301. Police praised quick action by teller Anne Neufeld, top, who slammed self-locking teller cage's door in gunmen's faces, thus preventing gunmen from getting additional $33,000 in the cage. When the quick-thinking girl pressed secret siren alarm, men raced out of bank over bodies of bank staff they had ordered to lie on floor. Robert Izzit, 18, bank ledgerkeeper, who had never used a gun before, fired three shots after bandits' getaway car but bullets missed the target. (CP Canadian.)

MURDER, INTRIGUE REVEALED BY U.S.

Figures in the bizarre cloak-and-dagger story released by the U.S. defence department are Marina Duelil, left, Major Wm. V. Holohan, centre, and Vincenzo Moscatelli, right. Major Holohan, the story says, was killed by a fellow officer of the U.S. army who parachuted along with him behind the lines of battle in Italy in 1944 to aid guerillas fighting with Germans. Marina Duelil, whose evidence is said to have helped reveal the murder, was a courier between the major and non-communist partisans. Moscatelli, now an Italian communist senator, was leader of communist partisans at the time and received large shipments of arms from the alleged murderers of Holohan. (CP. Canadian.)

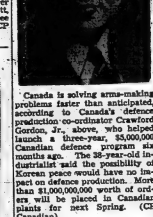
Gigantic Paper Mill Expansion Says Duplessis

Quebec, Aug. 15—(CP)—Premier Duplessis announced yesterday projected expenditure of $21,000,000 by Howard Smith Paper Mills Limited on expansion of its wood products plants at Windsor Mills, Que., and Cap-de-la Madeleine, Que.

The premier said the company will spend $7,000,000 on a five-year-plan of enlarging its pulp mills at Windsor Mills, in the eastern townships, and another $14,000,000 in two years to extend its paper products at Crabtree Mills, in Joliette county.



During his weekly press conference the premier announced a public inquiry into collapse of the $3,000,000 Duplessis bridge will open at Three Rivers Aug. 27. It will be conducted by Magistrate Rene Lippe of Montreal at the Three Rivers courthouse.

In connection with appearance of butter substitutes on the market in Quebec, the premier said protection of the dairy industry comes before approval of any butter substitute. He indicated these products will be considered in the light of their effects on the dairy industry. Sale of Margarine has been banned in Quebec since 1949.

The premier revealed provincial police seizure in June of Russian-language communist school books in northwestern Quebec mining areas.

He displayed at the press conference three of the books seized by police under the padlock law. In them appear pictures of Lenin and Stalin and a red army soldier "ready for defence".

Tigers May Replace Hal Newhouser

St. Louis, Aug. 15—(AP)—Hal Newhouser of Detroit Tigers may go on the disabled list.

Manager Red Rolfe said today after his ace lefthander found his arm still paining him in a practice warmup.

Rolfe said he would confer with general manager Charley Gehringer on the possibility of reliving Newhouser on "disabled" so that the Tigers could bring up a replacement.

Newhouser hasn't pitched since July 15 when he failed to last two innings against Washington. His last of six victories was over the Chicago White Sox July 4, 6-3. He has six defeats.

The Tigers are paying Newhouser a reported $42,000 a year.

THIS MR. ICARUS

By Harry Meldrum Moore

"I don't mind swearing a little," Patty Mc-Kay, the jeweler's daughter, said. "As long as he doesn't swear at me."

"I think I'd buy that drink a little now and then," Patty Mc-Kay, a stenographer, said.

Then someone shouted: "Say-girls, here's what we'll do. We'll vote, to see who gets him for the evening," and with that the girls swept to a corner of the room and put their heads together.

"Lucky dog," Ded grinned, turning to a red-faced Lance Bradley.

"Aw, for gosh-sake, Dad, skip it."

Pretty soon there was a shriek from the winner and she pushed to Lance's side, promptly and prominently flopped herself between him and Ded Roberts. The girl was tall, dark, and pretty without question. As she settled herself, she draped her black skirt over her knees with a brush of her hand, and returned Ded Robert's knowing wink.

"Well," she laughed, "here I am." Then, turning to Lance Bradley, "In case you've forgotten Mr. Bradley, my name is Doris Parker."

"Would you be related to Mr. Johnston Parker, the lawyer?" Lance asked.

"Yes," she said. "I am. Yes, I'm his only daughter—his only child, in fact."

Lance Bradley took a better look at her, her pert features, her raven black hair. But he sensed a sadness in her eyes, despite her smile.

"I know you don't very well," Lance said. "Strange that in all our conversations, he never mentioned that he had such a—a charming daughter. Now, why did he do that to me?"

"Perhaps he thought it better that you should find it out by yourself," she laughed. "I've heard him speak often of you, Mr. Bradley."

"I hope he didn't give me a hard name," he said.

"On the contrary, Mr. Bradley—"

"Just call me Brad," he said. "Sounds less formal."

"All right, Brad, and don't forget to call me Doris. Well, as I was about to say, Dad thinks you're a little bit of all right. If, you get what he means."

"Yes, I reckon I do, Doris. That was an expression that was quite common among the boys overseas. Y'know, Doris, I think quite a lot of your dad—"

"Sounds to me as if some one around here belongs to a mutual admiration society," Ded Roberts broke in with a grin. "How are the people using you these days, Dor?"

"Oh, pretty good, Dad. I had many rules from the boss at Wilcox's the other day, did you hear?"

"No," he chuckled. "That's one item of personal news that I did not get. Must be slipping. I guess that Man Wilcox has learned that to keep his help, he must pay them decent wages. They 'em well and they won't be jumping around on you,' that's what I always say."

"I like to work for him, though."

Doris said. "I think he's an old dear."

"By the way, Doris," Dad grinned. "How are you getting on with your boy friend, Sandy? Have you pinned him down yet?"

"Who—Jimmy?" she blushed. "Oh, he's the same old impossible dictable Jimmy, life's greatest puzzle. Always nice, y'know, but so unromantic as ever."

Just then the other girls barged in on them.

"I think it most unfair, Doris Parker, that you should have him all to yourself," one tawny blonde Alice Price, the school teacher, declared. "After all—"

"But Alice dear, I won him fairly, didn't I?" Doris asked. "And having won him fairly, what would you expect me to do? It's not often, y'know, that a girl gets a chance to talk to such a charming young man—"

"Aw, shut it, Doris," Lance said blushing.

But that merely added fuel to the fire, didn't prevent them returning to their game of questions and answers with Lance struggling to keep up with them. Finally Mother Roberts unwittingly came to his assistance, when she came into the room to announce luncheon was now ready in the dining room.

Of course Lance sat beside Doris at the table, and they talked of unimportant things. Then when it came time for the party to break up, Mother Roberts told him it was his duty to see Doris home, providing of course, she would accept him as her escort.

Now taking a girl home, or her father, taking a girl anywhere, was something that Lance Bradley had never done, but he learned there was nothing difficult about it. Doris led the conversation, he added his two cents' worth, and pretty soon they were in front of a large brick residence flanked by shrubs and banks of flowers.

"Well, Brad," she said, 'this is where I turn in. Hope to see you again—" Then, as an afterthought —"some good shows are coming to the Grand Theatre now."

"I don't care much for shows," Lance said. "My days are busy days now, and I'm always glad when quitting time comes. Y'know I'm now a full-fledged member of The Ensign staff."

"So I hear," she said. "Dad Roberts told me. He tells me everything."

"Everything?"

"Well, maybe not everything. In the broad sense of the term—but—but the important things. I think he's proud of you, don't you?"

"Yes, he's a little bit of all right, as your dad says." Then, "Well, Doris, I guess I better push along. I hope you'll have better luck with your friend Jimmy as the days go by." He knew that he shouldn't have said that, but she didn't seem to mind.

"Night, Brad," she waved a hand at him.

He saw her go in, and thus having performed his obligation to see her home safely, he turned away, deep in thought. Doris had said that Dad Roberts told her everything of importance, but since Dad didn't know yet how wealthy he was, Doris would not know anything about that. Unless she were to get it from her father. Would Johnston Parker spill the beans in confidence to his daughter? Then Lance thought of the lawyer's calm assurance that anything between them was strictly confidential. And that was that.

At the breakfast table next morning, Mother Roberts asked: "Enjoy yourself last night, son?"

"Yes, Mother." he said, "it was not hard to take."

"Don't you think Doris Parker a charming girl?"

"Well," he hesitated, "yes, I believe I do—but they were all charming girls, mother."

"Spoken like a true diplomat," Dad Roberts chuckled. "What did you think of the little blonde?"

"Miss Price," Mother Roberts added. "She's a school teacher—"

"Well, oh—well, come to think of it," Lance stammered, "as the boys in the army used to say, 'she ain't bad'."

CHAPTER XI

The Russell Builders, an organization of veterans for whom Lawyer Parker had drawn up the necessary papers, rushed the work for the Salvation Army clubdel renovation, the captain's residence; made some changes in the G.W.V.A. hall, looked after the grand stand and diamond for the baseball club, laid the cement base in the park for the cenotaph. Lawyer Parker went to the city to place an order for a slab of white marble shaft. The bronze plate bearing the names of all town and area boys who had given their lives in the Great War would be placed on the front of the shaft, and he secured prohibe of delivery in time for the unveiling ceremony on November 11, one year after the war ended. And when that eventful day came, Lance Bradley, donned his uniform and marched with his fellow veterans from the hall to the park where he heard "the man who was responsible for this fitting tribute to our honored dead" eulogized by mayor, army officers, and clergymen. There was band music, the singing of hymns by a massed choir, there was the placing of wreaths, the sounding of Reveille and Last Post, the three volleys of the firing party.

Meanwhile Emerton business men were asking for increased space in The Ensign to catch the late fall and early winter trade, a demand for space that was taxing the efforts of Dad Roberts and his staff, since more advertising meant more pages and more pages meant extra work.

No longer the indifferently dressed man of many parts around The Ensign office, Lance Bradley was now the neatly attired business man who favored red ties. In his opinion, personal appearance went a long way in drumming up business.

Dad Roberts and his help worked long hours now. And there was no let-up until after the edition of The Ensign was mailed rin along. I hope you'll have better luck with your friend Jimmy as the days go by." He knew that he shouldn't have said that, but she didn't seem to mind.

"Night, Brad," she waved a hand at him.

He saw her go in, and thus having performed his obligation to see her home safely, he turned away, deep in thought. Doris had said that Dad Roberts told her everything of importance, but since Dad didn't know yet how wealthy he was, Doris would not know anything about that. Unless she were to get it from her father. Would Johnston Parker spill the beans in confidence to his daughter? Then Lance thought of the lawyer's calm assurance that anything between them was strictly confidential. And that was that.

At the breakfast table next morning, Mother Roberts asked:

The Stratford, Ont.-born Gee played with Sudbury, Ont., Port Colborne and Buffalo before he entered professional hockey with Kansas City of the old American Hockey Association 10 years ago. POLICE CAPTURE MAD GUNMAN WITH TEAR GAS

Surrendered Without Firing Shot From Gun

Dalrymple, Ont., Aug. 20 (CP) — A wild-eyed farmer, besieged throughout the night by policemen firing tear gas shells, surrendered from the basement of his barricaded home today and surrendered without firing the shotgun he carried.

The surrender at 8 a. m. of Lyle Thompson, 41, ended an all-night siege of the rundown farmhouse where the farmer, said by the attacking officers to be mentally deranged, had barricaded himself last night. He was whisked away unharmed.

The farmhouse was filled with tear gas before Thompson surrendered. He emerged from an opening in the cellar and called to the dozen officers surrounding the farmhouse: "Put your weapons down."

Lower Weapons

The officers lowered their weapons but kept them at the ready as Thompson called: "I want to meet the officer in charge."

He was led by Staff Sgt. Douglas W. Wilson of the provincial police detachment at Beaverton. As they shook hands, Thompson remarked: "A very fine demonstration." Wilson was talking to Cpl. Wilson, Thompson's gun was taken from him and constables seized him. Thompson resisted and it was some time before he was handcuffed and led away.

When police reinforcements took up positions last night in the farmhouse area surrounding the house, Thompson warned them he was prepared to shoot it out.

Cpl. Doug Wilson, in charge of the police posse, told his men: "Stop anyone from getting out, but shooting will definitely be a last resort."

Residents of the district 16 miles east of Orillia said Thompson, who had lived in the area at Brantford early in the Second World war, came home from the war with a Netherland girl's promise to marry him and with ambitions to turn the family homestead on Lake Dalrymple into a model farm. He paid his father $5,000 for the 100 acres and began pling for the latest in agricultural machinery.

Visit With Royal Family Highlight Of British Tour for Canadian Cadets

Edinburgh, Aug. 20 (CP) — The thrill of a lifetime came yesterday to 25 Canadian Air Cadets on a three-week tour of Britain when they were received by the King and Queen and other members of the Royal Family in historic Edinburgh Castle.

The cadets, representing every province, visited the royal estate at nearby Balmoral where King Queen, Princess Elizabeth, the Duke of Edinburgh and Princess Margaret chatted and shook hands with them.

Also present were the accompanying officials, Donald R. MacLaren, of Vancouver, representing the Air Cadet League of Canada, Sqdn. Ldr. R. F. Milne, Winnipeg, Sqdn. Ldr. H. S. Greene, Montreal, and Flt Lt. Al Marshall, RCAF public relations representative from Rockcliffe, Ont.

Royal Welcome

The cadets, who earlier had breakfasted with the Royal family in Crathie, were greeted at the castle by the King, summoned from his Scottish holiday and wearing the kilt of the Balmoral clan. The Queen and Princess Elizabeth added.

"After the reception the Canadians left for Edinburgh to attend the opening performance of Edinburgh's festival. It is said they never let up on the topic of the Balmoral visit.

"It was a wonderful and informal," said Sgt. Bruce Montgomery of Vancouver. "It was just like being one of the family."

W. O. James Rutherford, of Brandon, Man., summed up for the rest of the group. "Now I know why the King and the Queen and his family are the most admired in the world."

told Flt. Sgt. John Schlohr of Kitchener, Ont. "It's a lovely city where we had the only experience of rain during our Canadian visit."

Then turning to the group generally she said:

"We are delighted to see you in Britain and sincerely hope you are enjoying your stay. The King and I enjoyed very much our visit to the Dominion before the war and we hope we shall be able to visit Canada again before long."

Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh questioned several of the cadets about the geography and the climate of the country they will visit early in August.

"We are looking forward with a great deal of anticipation to our forthcoming visit to Canada and I only wish we could stay longer," Prince Philip said.

"Yes, and it is so nice to know that the RCAF will be flying us across the Atlantic," Princess Elizabeth added.

Wilfred Ferguson, 36, Hillcrest Burned to Death in Home, Was Overcome While Sleeping

Apparently overcome while sleeping on the chesterfield in the living room of his home, Wilfred Ferguson, 36, of Hillcrest, was burned to death late Saturday as neighbor strove frantically to gain access to the house. The small home was burned to the ground despite efforts of firemen to overcome the blaze.

A former resident of the Lindsay district, Ferguson had come to Belleville four or five years ago and for the past year and a half had been employed by the Wilson Concrete Products Co., near the north station.

He was married but separated from his wife. Police are endeavoring to ascertain the whereabouts of Mrs. Kathleen Ferguson and their five-year-old daughter Mary. The dead man's mother is believed to still live in the Lindsay or Fenelon Falls district.

The fire which razed the small Hillcrest residence was noticed shortly before 11 o'clock by a neighbor, Ray Fitzsimmons, on the next street, but already the home was an inferno. When told that Ferguson was still in the house Keller grabbed an ax and chopped his way into the bedroom only to find the room empty.

Found on Chesterfield

Later firemen found the charred body of the dead man resting on the chesterfield in the living room. His pet spaniel was burned to death beneath the couch.

Cause of the blaze was undetermined but provincial police believe it may have been caused from a cigaret butt.

Ferguson's housekeeper Gladys Milson, told police that she had gone to visit neighbors and when she returned she found the house ablaze. She said Ferguson had been asleep in the bedroom when she left.

Police believe that the dead man must have awakened and went to the living room only to again fall asleep on the chesterfield.

Impossible to Save House

Firemen answered the alarm with three trucks but could do nothing to save the structure which was quickly burned to the ground.

Provincial Police Constables J. McBride and Harry Barker are still endeavoring to learn the whereabouts of Ferguson's wife from whom he had been separated for months. They say that she was believed to be living either in Toronto or in Ajax.

Coroner Dr. J. Ernest Scott, ordered an inquest looking into the death. The preliminary hearing was heard this morning.

Fire Destroys Major Portions Black Warehouse, Dundas St. Loss Estimated at $75,000

Fire damage amounting to between $75,000 and $100,000 resulted here early Sunday morning when a major portion of the Black Transport warehouse on Dundas Street, West, was gutted by flames. Three alarms which brought out every available machine and man on the fire department.

Suffering most of the damage was the Leclithin Products, Limited, and the Welding Gases and Supply Co., which firms occupied parts of the Black building. The part of the building used by Black Transport suffered little fire damage.

It was the second fire for the Belleville Fire Department in little more than a month and just before midnight they were called to Millcreek where a dwelling was razed, burning a man to death.

All Equipment Called Out

The alarm for the Black Warehouse fire was turned in shortly after midnight and every available piece of fire fighting equipment in the city department was called to the scene by Fire Chief Gerald Vance. Some of the equipment was still at the Millcreek fire.

Already on arrival of the department flames were beginning to shoot through the roof of the building as oxygen cylinders stored by the Welding Gas and Supply Company added fuel to the flames. Two loud explosions heard during the blaze shook the debris high into the air. Fortunately no firemen were injured.

As heat of the flames melted lead around the cylinder valves, oxygen in the tanks was released and flames shot 40 or 50 feet into the air.

Move Trucks to Safety

Firemen stated it appeared the fire had started either in the rear of the Leclithin Products plant or in the Welding Gases and Supply Co. department.

Efforts of the flames spread Everett Black, owner of Black Transport, was able to move five trucks to safety from the building while four trucks owned by Welding Gases were also moved out of the building.

An outdoor platform situated only a few feet from the burning building, which held a large number of cylinders of propane gas and oxygen for some concerns and tanks were repeatedly sprayed with water.

The three-hour fire drew a large crowd of spectators who were kept back away from the danger zone by members of the city police department.

Parts of the building occupied by the Welding Gases and Leclithin Products were completely gutted by the fire with equipment ruined. Firemen were able to keep the flames from the section of the building used as a transport warehouse.

THOUSAND KOREAN VETS MAY BE HOME BY CHRISTMAS

Will Help Build Second Paratroop Formation

Ottawa, Aug. 20—(CP)—Canada wants 800 battle-tried Korean veterans to come home to help build up a second paratroop formation also expected to come into being for Canadian defence "within a few months.

"The army already has called for volunteers from Korea but some word that commanding officers predict the total will be reached in 48 hours.

This movement homeward will be segregated to some "rotation" double-shuffle under which—starting next month—the first men will start to come back from Korea and be replaced by men from the first paratroop formation at home. First to come back are men of the 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricias Canadian Light Infantry.

Under the system, a man qualified for return home after 4 years abroad or less if his staying there involves more than one winter. The second Korean brigade now there will winter there.

The twin announcements were made in parliament Saturday that they will probably bring more than 1,000 men home by Christmas.

They mean the army will be dipping heavily into the 23rd airborne brigade, the home-defence paratroop formation the government declined to send to Korea last summer, to replace men coming back under the so-called "rotation policy."

The present size is eventually to replace the 2nd (25th Brigade) battalions of three regiments now in Korea with two Battalions (22nd Brigade) now at home and to reestablish the 2nd Battalions at home as paratroop units.

Rotation Policy Explained

With 44,000 men in army uniform and others enlisting at the rate of 2,000 a month, the government apparently feels it is possible now to turn the mobile striking force—one of the most highly trained in Arctic and airborne warfare for Canadian defence—into a conventional outfit to a two-formation outfit. They would be the 23rd Brigade and a replacement 25th Brigade.

The "rotation" policy briefly is this:

Canonization of Pope Pius X May Be Hastened and Set New Record

Vatican City, Aug. 20—(AP)—The humble man known during his lifetime as "Papa Santo"—"The Saint Pope"—may soon become that in fact and canonized second in the history of the Roman Catholic Church.

Giuseppe Sarto, Pope Pius X, saddened by the outbreak of the First World War, died Aug. 20, 1914, during the bloody struggle occupied Brussels.

Only 37 years later, on June 3, this year, he was beatified in one of the most solemn and splendid ceremonies in the history of St. Peter's before hundreds of thousands of Catholics. It was the first step to sainthood. Just 4 popes had been beatified.

Now, not more than two months later, reports of new miracles attributed to the intercession of Pius X are reaching the Vatican and indicate that the cause for his canonization will be hastened.

Two miracles, performed after beatification, authenticated and accepted, are necessary for canonization or sainthood, the highest honor in which the Catholic Church can elevate one of its members.

Through the Vatican's "Congregation of Rites," the responsible servitors Romano," the representative handling details for the pope's canonization has taken reports of miracles attributed to Giuseppe Sarto be sent to Rome.

Msgr. Salvatore Natucci, member of the beatification and canonization section of the congregation of rites, said investigation and approval of miracles may be completed within a few months and that the canonization itself may follow in the next year.

The last pontiff canonized was Pius V. He died in 1572 and was beatified in 1673. He was canonized in 1712.

During investigation of miracles, the congregation of rites does not reveals the names of persons involved.

But one of its members said that among the miracles attributed to the intercession of Pius X is one of a German woman whose throat was injured during a wartime bombing. She could scarcely swallow liquids. Doctors feared she would starve or develop cancer.

On June 3, the instant that Pope Pius XII pronounced the beatification of his predecessor, the woman prayed to Giuseppe Sarto. She was instantaneously cured, she reported.

Storm Lashes Over Yucatan Peninsula And Heads for Gulf

Miami, Fla., Aug. 20 (AP) — The rampant tropical hurricane packed across the Caribbean peninsula today and entered the Gulf of Mexico near the north coast of Yucatan.

Its 180-mile journey over land during the night took much of the kick out of the giant storm which killed at least 190 persons and destroyed property valued at some $56,000,000 on the island of Jamaica.

It will regenerate and retain its full strength now that it is over water again," warned Grady Norton, chief storm forecaster at the Miami Weather Bureau.

On its northward course, which the storm has followed for more than 1,000 miles, it is pointed in the general direction of the mouth of the Rio Grande River between Mexico and Texas.

Merida, capital of Yucatan and centre of an ancient Mayan civilization, reported winds of only 50 miles an hour from the storm. The center passed north of Merida.

At 8 a.m. EDT today, the centre of the storm was about 100 miles south of Merida. Winds of about 100 miles an hour raged over a small area near the centre and winds of hurricane force covered a radius of 80 miles. It extended outward, also to the north, for about 200 miles.

The extent of the damage to the Yucatan peninsula was not immediately known. Radio stations there went down as the disturbance drew near, and other means of communicating with the stricken area were not available.

Grows in Size

The storm had grown considerably in size and ferocity since it was first reported in the Caribbean and since it swept across the island of Jamaica, leaving a trail of destruction in terms of property damage and death.

It was moving in a west northwesterly path at about 14 miles an hour, and tabbed "large and dangerous."

STICKEN AFTER ACT

Oshawa, Aug. 20 (CP) —Ten minutes after playing a game of musical chairs with 3-year-old Nublen Ilona, Prince Et Ki-Gordo collapsed and was taken to hospital in an ambulance Saturday night. Had he been stricken during the act in which he was only his hands to control the animals, he might have been abandoned to the startled animals, attendants said. His attack was said to be due to a tropical disease.

Kingston, Jamaica, Aug. 20 — (CP)—The toll of known dead from the weekend's savage hurricane rose to 109 today and is expected to go even higher as reports trickle in from rural areas.

Workers toiled under a blazing sun to restore communications, electric power and transport, knocked out by the 130-mile-an-hour blow which struck Friday night and Saturday morning.

The storm, worst in the island's history, caused at least $20,000,000 damage. The wind blew down crops in the field and torrents of rain destroyed sugar-bagged and reeded to market.

The storm has escaped from the Kingston jail during the storm, but there was no report of criminal activity on the island. Various scenes of looting were reported but this was apparently indulged in by a broad cross-section of the population.

Linda Darnell, on location for a movie in western Jamaica, was reported safe.

A United States navy plane reported damage appeared light.

The storm left the south coast and not so serious in the northern and western parts of the island.

Sir Hugh Foot, governor of the island, opened a fund to help victims. Prime Minister Attlee, local Red Cross, began relief work for the hungry and homeless.

The banana crop was reported 90 per cent destroyed. Staggering damage was done to the island's sugar and coconuts.

Local shipping, docks and building supplies appear satisfactory, at least for the present, but the picture meeting the eye is one of ruin and havoc.

Bradley Expects Truce in Korea

Washington, Aug. 20 (AP) — Gen. Omar N. Bradley said Sunday night he is anticipating a truce in Korea. But he warned that any lowering of American defence effort might be "handing our enemies a license for freedom to those who would enslave us."

In a CBS radio talk, the United States Chief of Staff merely noted "we interfereans are anticipating a truce" and did not elaborate. Word from Korea was that truce negotiations stagnated back toward a pattern of deadlock.

Even with a truce, he cautioned, "it may be some time before our troops are withdrawn."
